BENGAL POLICE.

NOTICE.

A FEW appointments of Inspectors in the Bengal Police will be made in December next for employment as prosecuting officers in Courts. Applications of candidates desirous of nomination should reach the Superintendent of Police of their native district (Calcutta for this purpose being regarded as part of the 24-Parganas district) not later than the 15th September next.

The following qualifications are necessary :—

(a) Candidates must be of good social standing and respectable parentage and must ordinarily be natives of this Presidency.
(b) They must be of good moral character.
(c) They must be under 25 years of age on the 31st December 1919.
(d) They must have taken the B. L. degree.
(e) They must be free from disease, constitutional affection or bodily infirmity unfitting them or likely to unfit them for police duties.
(f) They must be not less than 5 feet 3 inches in height and 30 inches round the chest and must have been vaccinated.

(NOTE.—Stuttering or stammering is a defect which renders an applicant ineligible.)

Candidates should submit their applications, verification rolls and medical certificates in the prescribed forms, which are obtainable from the offices of Superintendents of Police. They must also submit along with their applications the original certificates relating te the B. L. degree and Matriculation Examination as well as a certificate of good moral character and conduct from the Principals of the institutions at which they last studied for not less than a year, or from some responsible officer of Government.

The selected candidates will be appointed on probation for three years. For the first six months they will be required to undergo a course of training at the Police Training College, Sardah, where they will receive an allowance of Rs. 75 a month and free accommodation. On passing out of the college they will be posted to districts for practical training for two and a half years, during which period they will receive an allowance of Rs. 100 a month, but will have to provide their own quarters.

At the end of the three years' probation, if favourably reported on, they will be confirmed and posted to a Court office as prosecuting officer and be given the full pay of the lowest grade of Inspectors, viz., Rs. 150 a month. If, however, they are found unsuitable while on probation they will be discharged.

APPENDIX No. 1A.

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR EXPORT OF LIST C GOODS.

An Open General Licence has been issued allowing goods on Section C of the Prohibited List, including those shown in Appendix No. 1, but not including any goods contained in Section D, to be exported freely by freight from this country to Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland, on the following terms :—

Sweden.—Individual guarantees in respect of exports are not longer required, but the goods must be consigned either (1) to the appropriate Import Associations or (2) to the Inter-Allied Trade Committee at Stockholm, who will endorse the Bills of Lading (without any financial liability) on receipt of satisfactory guarantees from the consignee. In order that the method of consignment may be checked, an arrangement has been made whereby shippers are to forward the Customs Shipping Bills or Specifications (whichever are required under Customs regulations) to the Export Licence Department, 4, Central Buildings, Westminster, S.W. 1 (in envelopes marked "Shipping Section") for approval. Should the exporter actually have received a guarantee against re-export in respect of the transaction, it should be forwarded with the Shipping Bill or Specification, and if the guarantee has previously been sent to this Department, the reference number of the relative papers should be furnished. The Shipping Bills or Specifications will be amended, if necessary, and returned to the shippers stamped "approved". Upon the production of approved Shipping Bills or Specifications, shipment will be allowed by H. M. Customs without any form of guarantee, subject to the usual Customs formalities. This procedure will not apply to any individual licences which have already been issued, or which may hereafter be issued in special cases.

Should exporters prefer, they may forward to this Department a duplicate of the usual advice sent to their shipping agents in lieu of a Shipping Bill or Specification. The advice will then be stamped and returned to them (or to their shipping agents if requested) for production to the Customs with the usual Shipping Bill or Specification. Documents addressed to the Shipping Branch of the Export Licence Department will be dealt with at once and will be despatched to exporters by return post.

Denmark.—The usual certificates from the Danish Associations must be produced to the Customs at the time of shipment, and in such cases the goods may be consigned direct to the consignee. Where goods covered by one certificate are to be shipped in instalments, special arrangements should be made with the Customs on shipment of the first instalment. Where the exporter is in a position to declare that the Association will not issue a certificate, the goods may be consigned to the Inter-Allied Trade Committee at Copenhagen, for account of the actual consignee. The certificates need not be produced to the Customs in any case where individual licences have been or may be issued by the Export Licence Department in special cases.

Holland.—All goods may be consigned to the Netherlands Oversea Trust for account of the sub-consignee without the prior production of an N.O.T. certificate, though exporters who actually hold certificates should hand them to the Customs at the time of shipment. The same procedure will apply to outstanding licences.

Switzerland.—All consignable goods (except foodstuffs), a list of which is issued as a special supplement to the "List of Export Prohibited Goods," should be consigned to the Société Suisse de Surveillance, but the prior production of an S.S.S. certificate to the Customs will not be necessary, even in respect of licences already issued which may stipulate for the production of S.S.S. certificates. Any S.S.S. certificates actually in the possession of exporters should, however, be handed to the Customs when the goods to which they relate are shipped. It is, however, still necessary for the actual consignee in Switzerland to obtain an S.S.S. certificate before the goods can be handed over by the Swiss Customs. It is important, therefore, that exporters should, immediately on receipt of an order from Switzerland, advise the Swiss purchaser to take the necessary steps to obtain the certificate from the S.S.S.

In cases where the S.S.S. have refused generally or specifically to accept consignment for any customer, an application for specific licence should be made to this Department. The fact that the S.S.S. have refused to accept consignment should be clearly mentioned on the application form.

Goods not consignable to the S.S.S. may be despatched direct to the purchaser.

Applications for licences for the above countries should continue to be made to the Export Licence Department (4, Central Buildings, Westminster, S.W. 1) for all goods on Section A, B or D of the Prohibited List. Applications should also be made for the following goods on Section C :—

(i) goods to be despatched by parcel post ;

(ii) goods intended for the personal use of the recipient ;

Applications to export goods in reasonable quantities to private consignees in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, and Finland will be considered without consignment to the usual Importing Associations or production of guarantees against re-export.

It must be understood that no goods can be despatched under this scheme except such as are for the personal use of the consignee and of his family.

(iii) isolated trade transactions not exceeding £5 in value.

Exports by parcel post to neutral countries in Europe are allowed without consignment to the usual Importing Associations, or, in the case of Denmark, guarantees against re-export, provided the value of the parcel does not exceed £5. It should, however, be distinctly understood that this procedure is intended to apply to isolated transactions only, and that exporters cannot be allowed to despatch large numbers of parcels to the same consignee without consignment to the appropriate Import Association ; it will not, however, be necessary for certificates from those Associations to be produced.

In each case [except as regards (ii) and (iii) above, for which guarantees are usually waived] exporters should state whether the appropriate Importing Association is willing to accept consignment of the goods ; and if the Association has refused to accept consignment, generally or specifically, that fact should be stated.

Norway.—An open general license has been issued for all goods not on List A or B, whether exported by freight or parcel post, without restriction as to method of consignment.

APPENDIX No. 1B.

Consignment to Importing Associations, &c. (or, in the case of Denmark, Guarantees against Re-Export) are not required for the following Export Prohibited Goods :—

Drugs, &c., the following :—
- Betanaphthol.
- Opium and its alkaloids and preparations.

Steel scrap.

FOODSTUFFS.

Foodstuffs (including raw materials for the manufacture of foodstuffs) may now be exported to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland without the intervention of official consignees. Licences for foodstuffs on Lists A and B will, therefore, where home supplies permit, be issued providing for consignment direct to the purchaser.

Foodstuffs on List C may be exported direct to the purchaser under the authority of an open general licence without application to the Export Licence Department.

The term "foodstuffs" should be regarded as including spices and beverages.

APPENDIX No. 2.

APPENDIX No. 3.

SAMPLES.

An Open General Licence has been issued which permits the free export of all bonâ fide samples of prohibited goods to all non-enemy destinations, and to enemy territory with which trade is now permitted. Samples exported under this licence may be used only for genuine sample purposes, i.e., for obtaining orders from foreign buyers, and may not be sold except with the written consent of the Export Licence Department, but such consent may be dispensed with when it is desired to sell the articles in the country of destination after they have fulfilled their purpose as samples. Exporters will be required to satisfy the Customs Authorities that the goods presented for export under this licence are bonâ-fide samples, and to make a declaration to that effect on the relative shipping documents.

APPENDIX No. 4.

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR EXPORT OF CARTRIDGES, CHARGES, ETC., DOUBLE-BARRELLED GUNS, AND SPORTING RIFLES, TO CERTAIN DESTINATIONS.

An Open General Licence has been issued for the export of cartridges, charges, etc., industrial explosives, double-barrelled guns and sporting rifles, to the destinations given below, to which, therefore, exports may be made, subject to the usual Customs formalities, without applications for specific licences to the Export Licence Department :—

British Possessions and Protectorates.
French Possessions and Protectorates.
United States of America.
South America.
Africa.
Japan and Korea.
Asiatic Russia.
France, Belgium, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Italy, Serbia.

The issue of this licence does not relieve exporters from the necessity of obtaining import permits from the country of destination in cases where local regulations render such a course necessary.

Salzburg.		Vorarlberg.

The principality of Liechtenstein, lying between Vorarlberg and Switzerland, is also included. The remaining Austrian provinces, south of those mentioned above, and portions of territory in the south and east of Hungary, are in the occupation of the Armies of the Associated Governments.

To the provinces of German-Austria as defined above, and to the occupied territories in both Austria and Hungary, goods on prohibited List C (except such as may be on List D) and free goods may be exported without licence ; goods on Lists A and B require export licences.

URGENT ORDERS.

The Board of Trade, Export Licence Department, announces that, in collaboration with the Department of Overseas Trade, an arrangement has been made whereby firms receiving orders which require immediate acceptance may telegraph details of any such order to the Department of Overseas Trade in order to ascertain whether a licence will be granted for the export of the goods if the order is accepted.

In the event of an applicant being promised a licence he will be enabled to deal with the order straightaway with the knowledge that upon application being made in the proper form to the Export Licence Department the licence will be granted.

The telegrams should be addressed to "Orders, c/o Advantage, Stock, London." They should give in each case in addition to the name and postal or telegraphic address of the applicant the quantity and description of the goods comprised in the order and the name and address of the ultimate consignee, if the goods are destined for a neutral country. In the case of orders from Allied or British Territory or from territory in the occupation of troops of the Associated Governments, the consignee need not be stated; and it will be sufficient merely to give the country of destination. A reply of 24 words (1s. 3 l.) must be prepaid.

Applicants are requested in their own interest to confine their enquiries to orders needing a very urgent decision, since the fewer the enquiries the more promptly can answers be given.

Any subsequent correspondence that is necessary in connection with the telegraphic enquiries should be addressed to the Comptroller General, Department of Overseas Trade (Export Facilities Section), 73, Basinghall Street, E. C. 3.

No. 5333.—The following extract from the Board of Trade Journal, dated the 12th June 1919, is published for general information :—

APPENDIX No. 1A.

Denmark.—All restrictions on exports of List "C" goods to Denmark, whether by freight or by parcel post, have been removed.

Application for licences to export goods on List "A" or "B" should continue to be made to the Export Licence Department, but no certificates from the Danish Associations need be produced.

Exporters should satisfy themselves in all cases that the goods are not subject to any Danish import prohibition.

EXPORT OF FOODSTUFFS.

An Open General Licence has been issued permitting the export of all foodstuffs except those included in Section "A" or "B" of the List of Export Prohibited Goods to the following destinations :—

Unoccupied Germany, Finland, Esthonia, Poland, Lettland (Latvia), and Lithunia.

Import licences from the Inter-Allied Trade Committee at Helsingfors need no longer be obtained in respect of foodstuffs exported to Finland. Goods exported to Poland must be consigned to the Relief Commission at Dantzig for account of the ultimate consignee. Trading with Lettland and Lithunia is at present limited to foodstuffs and goods on the "free" list.

Foodstuffs other than those on List "A" or "B" can now, therefore, be exported without application to the Export Licence Department to all destinations except Bolshevist Russia and unoccupied Hungary, without any other formalities than those required by the ordinary regulations of H. M. Customs and Excise.

No. 5578.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 3 of the Import and Export of Goods Act, 1916 (XI of 1916), the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that the following notifications in this department shall be cancelled :—

Sheriff's Postponed Sale Proclamation.

TO be peremptorily sold pursuant to an order of the High Court of Calcutta in its Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction, dated the 31st day of August 1917, made in the Execution Case No. 18 of 1917 (wherein the Corporation of Calcutta is the plaintiff and Shaik Makram Hossein and another are the defendants) by the Sheriff of Calcutta in his sale-room in the Court-house on Thursday, the 28th day of August 1919, at 12 o'clock the following property belonging to the estate of Hafiz Abdullah, deceased.

All that piece or parcel of land together with the building standing thereon containing by estimation one katha, be the same a little more or less, situate, lying at and being premises No. 88, Collin Street, in holding No. 54, block No. 15, in the south division of the town of Calcutta and bounded on the north by No. 86, Collin Street, on south by No. 87, Collin Street, on the east by municipal land and on the west by the tenanted house of Shaik Makram Hossein and Shaik Jaffer Hossein. The annual Government revenue payable in respect of the entire holding is Re. 1-0-7.

The amount for the recovery of which the above property is to be sold is Rs. 861-11-9, being the amount of the claim and costs under the decree, but not including subsequent costs incurred in this Honourable Court.

The above property has also been attached in Execution Case No. 19 of 1917. The amount payable in the said Execution Case No. 19 of 1917 is Rs. 885-10-6 besides the costs of execution.

From the searches made in the office of the Registrar of Assurances, it appears that the above property is mortgaged for the sum of Rs 4,000 in favour of Bistopodo Bose under mortgage, dated 10th September 1913, and also Rs. 300 in favour of Anthony Michael David under mortgage, dated the 1st day of April 1915.

The condition of sale may be seen at the office of the Sheriff of Calcutta or at the Municipal Office, Law Department, at No. 5, Corporation Street, on any day before the sale and will be placed at the sale.

BENGAL ACT No. VI OF 1919.

THE BENGAL FOOD ADULTERATION ACT, 1919.

An Act to make provision for the prevention of adulteration of food in Bengal.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for the prevention of adulteration of food in Bengal ;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title and local extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal Food Adulteration Act, 1919.

(2) This section shall extend to the whole of Bengal, except Calcutta as defined in clause (7) of section 3 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1899 ; and the Local Government may, after previous publication, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, extend all or any of the other sections of this Act to any local area outside Calcutta in Bengal. Ben. Act III of 1899.

(3) The Local Government in extending all or any of the sections of this Act, as provided in sub-section (2), may extend the same in respect of all articles of food or may limit the operation of the section or sections extended to any specified article of food.

Definitions

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) an article of food shall be deemed to be "adulterated" if it has been mixed or packed with any other substance, or if any part of it has been abstracted so as in either case to affect injuriously its quality, substance or nature ;

(2) "food" includes every article used for food or drink by man, other than drugs or water, and any article which ordinarily enters into or is used in the composition or preparation of human food ; and also includes flavouring matters and condiments ;

(3) "local area" means any area, urban or rural, declared by the Local Government by notification in the Calcutta Gazette to be a local area for the purposes of this Act ;

(4) "local authority" means—

(i) in the case of any Municipality, the Municipal Commissioners ;

(ii) in the case of a Cantonment, the Cantonment Authority ; and

(iii) in the case of any other local area, such authority or officer as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf ;

(Chapter I.—Preliminary.—Chapter II.—General Provisions.—Sections 3—5.)

(5) "public analyst" means any person appointed by the Local Government, or by a local authority with the approval of the Local Government, to perform the duties and to exercise the powers of a public analyst prescribed by this Act.

Power of Local Government or local authority to appoint public analyst.

3. The Local Government, or a local authority with the approval of the Local Government, may appoint a person to be the public analyst for any area under their control, and such appointment shall be notified in the Calcutta Gazette.

Power of Local Government to declare normal constituents of any article of food

4. The Local Government may declare the normal constituents of any article of food and may determine, by rules in this behalf, what deficiency in any of these constituents, or what addition of extraneous matter or proportion of water in a sample of any article of food, shall, for the purposes of this Act, raise a presumption until the contrary is proved that the article of food is not genuine or is injurious to health; and a public analyst shall have regard to such rules in certifying the result of an analysis under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Sale of food.

Prohibition of sale, etc., of food not of the proper nature, substance or quality

5. (1) No person shall, directly or indirectly, himself or by any other person on his behalf, sell to the prejudice of the purchaser any article of food which is not of the nature, substance or quality of the article demanded by such purchaser; and no person shall, directly or indirectly, himself or by any other person on his behalf, manufacture for sale any article of food which is not of the nature, substance or quality which it purports or is represented to be :

Provided that an offence shall not be deemed to be committed under this section in the following cases, that is to say :—

(a) where any matter or ingredient not injurious to health has been added to any article of food because the same is required for the production or preparation thereof as an article of commerce, in a state fit for carriage or consumption, and not fraudulently to increase the bulk, weight or measure of the article or to conceal the inferior quality thereof ; or

(b) where any article of food is unavoidably mixed with some extraneous matter in the process of collection or preparation ; or

(c) where a patent has been granted under any law for the time being in force in respect of any article of food, and the article is sold in the state required by the specification of the patent.

(Chapter II.—General Provisions.—Section 6.)

(2) In any prosecution under this section it shall be no defence to allege that the vendor or manufacturer was ignorant of the nature, substance or quality of the article sold, exposed for sale or manufactured for sale, by him.

(3) In any prosecution under this section the Court shall, unless and until the contrary is proved, presume that any article of food found in the possession of a person who is in the habit of manufacturing like articles for sale has been manufactured for sale by such person.

Prohibition of sale, etc., of articles of food which are not of the prescribed standard of purity.

6. (1) No person shall, directly or indirectly, himself or by any other person on his behalf, sell, expose for sale, or manufacture or store for sale, any of the following articles, namely :—

(a) milk (other than condensed, sterilized or desiccated milk in hermetically closed receptacles),

(b) butter,

(c) ghee,

(d) wheat flour,

(e) mustard oil, and

(f) any other article of food which may be notified by the Local Government in this behalf, unless the following conditions are fulfilled, namely :—

(i) in the case of milk (other than condensed, sterilized or desiccated milk in hermetically closed receptacles), the animal from which the milk is derived shall be definitely stated in such manner as the local authority may, by general or special order, require, and the article sold, exposed for sale or stored for sale, as the case may be, shall be the natural secretion from the udder of such animal, from which no ingredient has been extracted and to which no water or other substance (including any preservative) has been added, and shall not contain a less proportion of non-fatty solids and of fat than such as the Local Government may prescribe;

(ii) in the case of butter, it shall be exclusively derived from milk or cream (other than condensed, sterilized or desiccated milk, or cream), or both, with or without salt or other preservative, and with or without the addition of colouring matter, such preservative or colouring matter being of such a nature and in such quantity as not to render the article injurious to health, and shall not contain a greater proportion of water than may be prescribed by the Local Government in this behalf;

(iii) in the case of ghee, it shall contain only substances, other than curds, which are derived exclusively from the milk of cows or of buffaloes, and shall fulfil such conditions as may be prescribed by the Local Government;

(Chapter II.—General Provisions.—Sections 7—9.)

(iv) in the case of wheat flour, it shall not contain any substance which is not derived exclusively from wheat;

(v) in the case of mustard oil, it shall be derived exclusively from mustard seed; and

(vi) in the case of any food notified by the Local Government under clause (f), it shall fulfil such conditions as may be prescribed by the Local Government in regard to such food.

(2) No person shall, directly or indirectly, himself or by any other person on his behalf, sell, expose for sale, or manufacture or store for sale anything which is similar to any of the articles specified in clauses (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) of sub-section (1) or to any article notified by the Local Government under clause (f) of that sub-section, under a name which in any way resembles the name of such article.

(3) In any prosecution under this section it shall be no defence to allege that the vendor, manufacturer or storer was ignorant of the nature, substance or quality of the article sold, exposed for sale, or manufactured or stored for sale, by him.

(4) In any prosecution under this section the Court shall unless and until the contrary is proved, presume that any of the articles specified in clauses (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) of sub-section (1) or any article notified by the Local Government under clause (f) of that sub-section found in the possession of a person who is in the habit of manufacturing or storing like articles for sale, has been manufactured or stored for sale by such person.

Prohibition of adulterants in places where ghee, wheat flour, etc, are manufactured

7. (1) No person shall keep or permit to be kept in any manufactory, shop or place, in which butter, ghee, wheat flour, mustard oil or any article notified by the Local Government under clause (f) of sub-section (1) of section 6 is manufactured, any substance intended to be used for the adulteration of such butter, ghee, wheat flour, mustard oil or other article.

(2) If any article capable of being so used is found in such manufactory, shop or place, the Court shall, unless and until the contrary is proved, presume in any prosecution under this section that it is intended to be used for the purposes of adulteration.

Receptacles for separated or skimmed condensed milk to be marked

8. No person shall sell or expose for sale any tin or other receptacle containing condensed milk which has been separated or skimmed, unless such tin or receptacle bears a label on which and on its wrapper (if any) it is clearly indicated, both in English and in Bengali, that the milk has been skimmed and is not suitable for feeding infants under one year of age.

Analysis of food.

Power of purchaser to have article of food analysed

9. Any purchaser of an article of food shall be entitled, on payment of such fee as the Local Government may prescribe, to have such article analysed by the public analyst appointed for the area within which such article is purchased and to receive from him a certificate, in the form prescribed in the Schedule to this Act, of the result of his analysis.

(Chapter II.—General Provisions.—Sections 10, 11.)

Compulsory sale of food, etc., for purpose of analysis.

10. (1) Any person duly authorised by the Local Government or by any local authority empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, may require, on tendering the price for it, the sale to him during the process of manufacture, for the purpose of analysis, of such quantity of—

(i) any food, or

(ii) any ingredients used in the manufacture of food,

as is reasonably requisite for division and disposal under section 11; and any person in possession of the said food or ingredients shall be bound to sell such quantity.

(2) Any person duly authorised by the Local Government or by any local authority empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, may also require the surrender to himself, for the purpose of analysis, of such quantity as is reasonably requisite for division and disposal under section 11, of any food which for the purpose of sale is—

(a) in course of transit in any local area, or

(b) stored in any place in the said local area;

and any person in possession of the said food shall be bound to surrender such quantity:

Provided that in every such case the price of the food so surrendered shall be payable from such fund as the Local Government may prescribe to the owner of the food, if claimed by such owner within one month from the date of the said surrender.

(3) Any person duly authorised by the Local Government or by any local authority empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, may also require, by tender of the price, the sale to him, for the purpose of analysis, of such quantity of any food exposed or intended for sale, as is reasonably requisite for division or disposal under section 11; and any person in possession of or exposing the same for sale shall be bound to sell such quantity.

Procedure for analysis of food.

11. (1) Any purchaser who wishes to have an article of food analysed under section 9, and any person who purchases, for the purpose of analysis, a sample of food under section 10, sub-section (1) or sub-section (3), shall, after the purchase has been completed, forthwith notify to the seller, or his agent selling the article, his intention to have the same analysed, and shall divide the article into three parts, to be then and there separated, and each part to be marked and sealed or fastened up in any manner which its nature will permit.

(2) The person purchasing the article or sample shall deliver one of the said parts to the seller or his agent, and shall retain another part for future comparison, and shall send the remaining part to the public analyst appointed for the area where the article is sold.

(Chapter II.—General Provisions.—Sections 12, 13.)

(3) When any food is surrendered under section 10, sub-section (2), the person to whom it is surrendered shall forthwith notify to the person in charge of the said food his intention to have the same analysed, and shall thereupon deal with the food so surrendered in the manner provided in sub-sections (1) and (2).

Inspection and seizure of food.

Power to seize food which is believed to be adulterated.

12. (1) Any person duly authorised in this behalf by rule made under this Act may, at any time by day or by night, inspect and examine any food which is being manufactured for sale, or is in course of transit or stored for sale, or is hawked about or exposed for sale, and any utensil or vessel used for preparing, manufacturing or containing any such food; and no person shall offer resistance to, or obstruct, any such inspection or examination.

(2) If the person so authorised has reason to believe any such food to be adulterated, he may seize and remove such food, utensil or vessel in order that the same may be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of section 13; and no person shall offer resistance to, or obstruct, any such seizure or removal.

(3) The person authorised as aforesaid may, instead of carrying away any food, utensil or vessel seized under sub-section (2), leave the same in such safe custody as he thinks fit in order that the same may be dealt with as provided in section 13; and no person shall remove such food, utensil or vessel from such custody or interfere or tamper with the same in any way while so detained.

(4) When any food is seized under sub-section (2), the person seizing it shall separate therefrom such quantity as is reasonably requisite for division and disposal for the purposes of this sub-section, and shall thereupon divide and dispose of such quantity in the manner provided in section 11, sub-sections (1) and (2).

Food, etc., seized under section 12 to be taken before Magistrate.

13. (1) Any food, utensil or vessel seized under section 12, sub-section (2), shall, subject to the provisions of sub-sections (3) and (4) of that section, be taken as soon as may be after such seizure, before a Magistrate.

(2) If it appears to the Magistrate that any such food is adulterated, or that any such utensil or vessel is used for preparing, manufacturing or containing the same, he shall cause the food, utensil or vessel to be forfeited to the local authority for the area in which the seizure has taken place, in order that it may be destroyed or otherwise disposed of by that authority, at the cost of the person in whose possession it was at the time of its seizure, and such cost shall be realized as if it were a fine imposed under this Act.

(3) If it appears to the Magistrate that any such food is not adulterated, or that any such utensil or vessel is not used for preparing, manufacturing or containing the same, the person from whose shop or place the food, utensil or vessel was taken shall be entitled to have it restored to him, and it shall be in the discretion of the Magistrate to award to such person from such fund as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, such compensation, not exceeding the actual loss which he has sustained, as the Magistrate may think proper.

Miscellaneous.

Duty of public analyst to supply certificate of analysis.

14. (1) Every public analyst to whom any article of food has been submitted for analysis under this Act, shall deliver to the person so submitting it a certificate in the form prescribed in the Schedule to this Act, specifying the result of his analysis, and shall send a copy of the same to the local authority concerned.

(2) Any document purporting to be such certificate signed by a public analyst shall be sufficient evidence in any inquiry, trial or proceeding under this Act of the result of such analysis:

Provided that any Court before which a case may be pending under this Act, whether exercising original, appellate or revisional jurisdiction, may, of its own motion, or at the request either of the accused or the complainant, cause any article of food to be sent for analysis to the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal, or any other officer whom the Local Government may appoint in this behalf, who shall thereupon analyse the same and report the result of such analysis to the said Court, and the said report shall be admissible in evidence in such Court. The expense of such analysis shall be paid by the accused or the complainant as the Court may, by order, direct.

Cognizance of offences.

15. No prosecution for any offence under this Act shall be instituted without the order or consent in writing of the local authority within whose jurisdiction the offence is committed.

Jurisdiction.

16. No Magistrate whose powers are less than those of a Magistrate of the second class shall try any offence under this Act.

Limitation for prosecutions.

17. No summons shall issue for the attendance of any person accused of an offence under this Act unless the same is applied for within thirty days from the date upon which the order or consent referred to in section 15 shall have been made or given.

Fines, etc., how to be credited.

18. All fines realised under this Act in any local area to which all or any of the sections of this Act have been extended, and all other sums, if any, which the Local Government may direct to be utilized for the purposes of this Act, shall be credited—

(i) to the municipal fund, if the local area be within the limits of any Municipality;

(ii) to the cantonment fund, if the local area be within the limits of any Cantonment;

(iii) to the district fund, if the local area be within the jurisdiction of any District Board; or (iv) to such fund as the Local Government may direct, in the case of any other local area.

(Chapter II.—General Provisions—Chapter III.—Penalties.—Sections 19—21.)

Certain persons to be deemed public servants.

19. Every person authorised under section 12 shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code. Act XLV of 1860.

Power of Local Government to make rules.

20. (1) The Local Government may, subject to the condition of previous publication, make rules to carry out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, the Local Government may make rules—

(a) determining what deficiencies in or additions to any article of food, the normal constituents of which have been declared under section 4, shall raise the presumption that such article is not genuine or is injurious to health;

(b) prescribing the proportion of non-fatty solids and of fat which must be contained in milk sold, exposed for sale or stored for sale;

(c) prescribing the maximum proportion of water which may be contained in butter sold, exposed for sale or stored for sale;

(d) prescribing the conditions to be fulfilled by any food notified by the Local Government under clause (f) of sub-section (1) of section 6;

(e) providing for the appointment by the Local Government, or by any local authority empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, of persons to perform the duties and to exercise the powers mentioned in section 10, or section 12;

(f) prescribing the fees to be charged by a public analyst for analysing articles of food under this Act; and

(g) prescribing the funds to which fines and other sums shall be credited under clause (iv) of section 18.

CHAPTER III.

PENALTIES.

Penalties

21. Whoever contravenes any of the provisions of this Act mentioned in the first column of the following table shall be punished, for a first offence, with fine to the extent mentioned in that behalf in the third column of the said table, and, for a second or subsequent offence, with fine or imprisonment, or with both, to the extent mentioned in the fourth column thereof.

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE.

The Hon'ble Mr. Lang, the Hon'ble Mr. Graham, the Hon'ble Mr. Goode and the Hon'ble Mr. Dunn made an oath of their allegiance to the Crown.

The following questions which had been starred were put and answered :—

STARRED QUESTIONS.

By the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur:—

I.

Drinking water reserve tank in Diamond Harbour.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state what officer is in charge of the drinking water reserve tank in Diamond Harbour known as Talpukur?

(b) Has any notice been taken of the deterioration of the tank and its embankment?

(c) Are the Government aware that it is full of weeds and rank vegetation?

(d) Is it the only reserve tank to supply good drinking water in the Hajipur area?

(e) Will the Government be pleased to state whether they are taking any steps to preserve the tank in good condition and to improve it?

" (a) The Sub-divisional Officer of Diamond Harbour.

(b) and (c) It is reported that the tank has not deteriorated. There are some red lotuses in the middle of the tank and a fringe of weeds round it. The vegetation will be cleared as usual after the rains, when the annual repairs to the embankments will also be carried out.

(d) Yes.

(e) All necessary steps to keep the tank in good condition are taken every year."

II.

Silting up of the Diamond Harbour creek.

(a) Are the Government aware that the Diamond Harbour creek beyond the cross dam has silted up, and that the area has become marshy and wild vegetation is growing on the silted up channel rendering the place unhealthy?

(b) Is there any proposal to reclaim the area?

(c) If so, are the Government considering the desirability of taking steps for such reclamation before the rains set in?

(d) Are the Government aware that the only communication between Hajipur and Diamond Harbour is a circuitous road over the cross dam?

(e) Are the Government considering the desirability of making an easy and direct road between the two banks of the creek connecting Hajipur with Diamond Harbour?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

" (a) Yes.

(b) and (c) The ground within the creek is not yet fit for reclamation as tidal water still overflows it. A town planning scheme for Diamond Harbour is however under contemplation and the ground will be reclaimed when this scheme is carried out.

(d) Yes.

(e) A cross dam near the river bank is part of the town improvement scheme."

By the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur:—

III.

Insufficiency of reserve tanks at Hajipur.

(a) Are the Government aware of the opinion expressed that one reserve tank at Hajipur is not sufficient for that extensive and populous area?

(b) Are the Government also aware that there is a large boat traffic in Diamond Harbour and that another reserve tank is greatly needed in Hajipur?

(c) Are the Government considering the desirability of providing such a tank in the silted up area caused by the old Diamond Harbour creek on the south side of the cross dam?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

" (a) The reply is in the negative.

(b) Government are aware that there is a large boat traffic in Diamond Harbour.

(c) This matter will be considered in connection with the improvement scheme referred to in the reply to question No. *II."

IV.

New sub-division at Vishnupur in the 24-Parganas.

Will the Government be pleased to state when the creation of a new sub division at Vishnupur in the district of the 24-Parganas will be taken in hand, and when the Munsif at Baruipur is to be removed to Alipur as foreshadowed in the Government memorandum No. 3721 P., dated the 12th April, 1918?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr:—

" The formation of new sub-divisions in the 24-Parganas and other districts has been kept in abeyance for financial reasons and it is not possible at present to say when they will be carried out "

By the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur:—

V.

Alleged grievances of the public travelling on the southern section of the Eastern Bengal Railway.

(a) Are the Government aware that in the southern section of the Eastern Bengal Railway first and second class passengers are not provided in the trains with a lavatory, and that there is no drinking water available at the stations in the hot weather?

(b) Are the Government also aware that the third class and inter-class carriages in this section are generally in a dirty and untidy condition and are not usually provided with lavatory arrangements, and that the trains are very much overcrowded?

(c) If so, are the Government considering the desirability of taking such steps as may be necessary to redress the above grievances?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

" (a) The management of the Eastern Bengal Railway reports that the 1st and 2nd class carriages which run on the southern section are not provided with lavatories. The distances between Calcutta and the several termini on this section are 37, 28 and 17 miles respectively and the longest time taken on any of the journeys is a little over two hours. Lavatories for the use of 1st and 2nd class passengers are provided at all the terminal stations and at Ballygunge, Sonarpur, Baruipur and Magrahat. In view of the conveniences provided it is not considered necessary to provide lavatory accommodation in carriages for short-run journeys.

Drinking water is procurable at the terminal stations and at Ballygunge, Sonarpur, Baruipur, Magrahat, Ghutiyari Sharif, Champahati, Kalighat and Majherhat.

(b) It has been ascertained from the management of the Railway that the 3rd and inter-class carriages on this section have become dirtier and more neglected in appearance during recent years owing to circumstances arising out of the war, which have precluded renovation and renewal of coaching stock to the extent that is desirable. Lavatories are not provided in these classes of carriages for the reasons stated in the reply to question (a) above. A recent census shows that there have been a few instances of overcrowding due chiefly to fluctuations of traffic from day to day and only occasionally to variations in the capacity of the trains.

(c) Endeavours are being made to improve the train service, but the management is still labouring under the difficulties created by the war. As new stock is constructed, an improvement may be expected. In regard to overcrowding, two of the train compositions have recently been strengthened."

By the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur:—

VI.

With reference to the resolution regarding the organization of the cloth weaving industry which was accepted at a meeting of the Council on the 3rd July, 1918, will the Government be pleased to state what steps (if any) have been taken in pursuance thereof, and with what results?

Organization of the cloth weaving industry.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

" The Hon'ble Member is referred to the statement made by the Hon'ble the Revenue Member in charge in connection with the said resolution. This was accepted on the understanding that the agencies for any advance should be, first, the Co-operative movement, secondly, the Weaving Institute, and thirdly, agricultural improvements. On these lines Government were already taking action. As an interesting advance has been made by the Department of Co-operative Credit, a copy of a note on the subject written by the Registrar, Co-operative Societies, is laid on the library table. The Hon'ble Member is also referred to the answers given to his questions Nos. VII and VIII."

By the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur:—

VII.

With reference to the reply to my unstarred question No. XL of the 3rd July, 1918, will the Government be pleased to lay on the table the result of the inquiry regarding the possibility of reviving the indigenous charkas for the spinning of yarns?

Revivification of the indigenous charkas for the spinning of yarns.

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"Copies of—

(1) the Press Communiqué of the 28th October, 1918, and

(2) Mr. N. N. Pillai's report are laid on the library table."

VIII.

Improvement of cotton cultivation.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state what steps (if any) have been taken in pursuance of the resolution regarding the improvement of cotton cultivation, which was carried at a meeting of the Council held on the 19th August, 1918?

(b) What are the results of the inquiry undertaken by Mr. N. N. Pillai in this connection?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"(a) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the Press Communiqué of the 28th October, 1918, of which a copy has been laid on the library table. In paragraph 9 of that Communiqué a reference was made to a recommendation that seed for home-spinning purposes should be imported and distributed in small quantities to those prepared to use the produce for home-spinning. Last January Government accordingly sanctioned a grant for the purchase of 1,100 maunds, which had been ascertained to be the requirements for this purpose of the Dharwar American variety for distribution free for the spring sowings. Experiments at Dacca and elsewhere in the province had demonstrated the superiority of this variety. Meanwhile the Agricultural Department are continuing their investigations. The latest recommendation regarding the improvement of cotton cultivation in Bengal will be found in Chapter X of the Report of the Indian Cotton Committee, 1919.

(b) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the report which has been laid on the library table."

IX.

Cultivation of rabi food crops.

With reference to the answer to my unstarred question No. XLIII of the 3rd July, 1918, will the Government be pleased to state—

(a) what measures (if any) have been adopted for bringing about a more extensive cultivation of rabi food crops, and

(b) what conclusions were arrived at by the Provincial Agricultural Association in regard to this question last year, and how far they have been put into practice?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"(a) Rabi seeds to sow 11,700 acres were distributed under the Agriculturists Loans Act in the flooded areas of Rajshahi and Bogra districts last October. This year arrangements have already been made to supply cash orders for about Rs. 20,000 worth of rabi seeds in the districts of Rajshahi, Bogra, Pabna and Dinajpur.

(b) A copy of the conclusions of the Bengal Provincial Agricultural Association in regard to this question is laid on the table.

The answer to the second part of the question is given in (a) above."

Questions and Answers.

Resolutions of the Bengal Provincial Agricultural Association at their meeting held in Calcutta on the 4th July, 1918, referred to in the reply to question No. IX (Starred).

Measures for increasing the cultivation of rabi food-crops in Bengal with the object of relieving railway traffic.

I. (1) The Association note that the following causes operate to discourage the more extensive cultivation of rabi food-crops in Bengal :—

(i) Before the crops can be harvested it is time to prepare the land for jute and other bhadoi crops.

(ii) Some kinds of rabi pulse crops following bhadoi crops are believed in some districts to impoverish the land and diminish the yield of the next bhadoi crops.

(iii) Low-lying land does not dry up early enough to admit of sowing a rabi crop in November.

(iv) Bengal rabi food-crops are generally of inferior quality and cannot compete with produce from other parts imported by railway.

(v) Cultivators are averse to the hard work involved in producing a good rabi crop.

(vi) The necessary practice of letting cattle loose to graze in the rice-stubble after the harvest of winter rice causes much damage to rabi crops.

(vii) Red laterite soil and very low land are unsuitable for rabi crops, and the area which is suitable and not already used for rabi crops is strictly limited.

(viii) On certain soils rabi crops require irrigation for which facilities are not always available.

(x) The plough cattle in Bengal are generally in poor condition after the rains.

(2) The Association deprecate any attempt to grow rabi crops as a substitute for a crop which has been found by experience to pay better.

(3) The Association note the opinions that in certain districts the extension of the cultivation of rabi crops is practicable to a limited degree without the curtailment of the area under other crops, and support the proposal for issuing loans under the Land Improvement Loans Act in Birbhum and Bankura for schemes for irrigation of rabi crops, and as regards seed recommend loans under the Agriculturists' Loans Act where such are required, and the supply of imported seed by the Agricultural Department at cost price and on cash payment to individuals and rural associations through the departmental seed stores. As an alternative method they recommend that Government should advance money for the purchase of seed to Agricultural Associations, or District Boards, and that the Associations or Boards should be authorized to advance money or seed on credit to cultivators without charging interest, but should be responsible for recovering the advances after the harvest and repaying Government in full, themselves bearing any loss due to short recoveries.

By the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur:—

Increase in the pay of public servants.

(a) With reference to the discussion on the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq at the Council meeting on the 19th August, 1918, suggesting an increase in the pay of public servants, will the Government be pleased to state whether the question is at present under their consideration?

(b) Have the Government received any representations from any branch of the public service in the matter? If so, will the Government be pleased to indicate the purport of each such representation and the orders passed thereon?

Questions and Answers.

(c) Are the Government considering the desirability of making the necessary inquiries as to what steps (if any) have been taken for relieving the distress of public servants in the various offices and departments under the Government of India. and in the offices under the different Provincial Governments?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne:—

"(a) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the communiqué issued on the 12th June, 1919, by this Government, a copy of which is laid upon the table.

(b) Representations have been received from many branches of the public service The purport of all the representations has been the same, viz., that the prevailing high prices warrant some improvement in the pay of posts fixed when prices were generally lower. In some of the petitions increase of work and responsibility have also been urged.

In some cases a reorganisation of a particular cadre has been the result. Other cases have been considered to be met by the issue of the orders on which the communiqué is based. In other cases Government have been unable at present to do anything owing to financial reasons.

(c) The Government of Bengal are primarily concerned with conditions in this Presidency, although they are to some extent aware of the action taken by the Government of India, and other Provincial Governments in the matter. The need of further inquiry in this direction is doubted."

Improvement of the Educational Service.

(a) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the reply to the questions of the Hon'ble Maharaja Sir Manindra Chandra Nandi in the Imperial Legislative Council regarding the improvement of the Educational Service (vide question No. 29 published in the Gazette of India of the 8th March last), in which the Hon'ble Sir C. Sankaran Nair stated that as regards the higher services, whose case was considered by the University Commission, in view of the delay likely to be entailed by its investigations and the framing of conclusions, personal allowances were granted in 1913 to certain members of the Provincial Educational Service whose special attainments or whose unsatisfactory position as regards emoluments appeared to justify such treatment and subsequently some allowances were given to the members of the Indian Educational Service whose interests were prejudiced by this inevitable delay?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing—

(i) the names of those officers in this Province to whom these special allowances were granted, and

(ii) the special circumstances in each case for granting these allowances and the principle which guided the grant of such allowances?

(c) Are the Government aware of the discontent that has been created among the members of the Provincial Educational Service educated in India owing to the grant of these allowances on what is believed to be the basis of education in England only, apart from the intrinsic merit or academic qualifications of the recipients?

(d) If so, what steps (if any) are being or have been taken to allay such discontent?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

" (a) The Hon'ble Member presumably means the Public Services Commission and not the University Commission. The reply is in the affirmative.

(b) (i) The names of the officers are as follows :—

Provincial Educational Service.

Sir P. C. Roy.
Dr D. N. Mullick.
Mr. S. C. Mahalanobis.
Rai Bahadur P. Chatterji.
Mr. J. N. Das Gupta.

Indian Educational Service.

Mr. B Heaton.
Mr. H. R. James.
Mr F. C. Turner.
Mr T H. Richardson.
Mr J. R. Barrow.

(ii) The principles on which these allowances are granted were laid down by the Government of India. In the case of the Provincial Educational Service, officers were selected for allowances who possessed European qualifications and who by their academic attainments and the value of the work done by them in Government service seemed to deserve special treatment in anticipation of general measures for the amelioration of the service In the case of the Indian Educational Service also allowances have House allowance of Rai Kumudnikanta Banerji Bahadur.

(a) Is it a fact that Rai Kumudinikanta Banerji Bahadur is in receipt of a house allowance of Rs. 60 only since 1910?

(b) Is it a fact that he is given this allowance on condition that he should live in a house close to the college and its attached hostels?

(c) Is it a fact that he had to build a house at a considerable outlay as no suitable house was available?

(d) Is it also a fact that when he applied for a house building advance Government declined to sanction it?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a), (b), (c) and (d) In 1907 Rai K. K. Banerji Bahadur applied for a house-allowance, but the Director of Public Instruction was unable to grant it unless the Rai Bahadur took up his residence nearer the college hostels, so as to exercise closer supervision over them. There was no suitable house available and the Rai Bahadur asked for a building advance with the intention of building on a plot of land which he owned near the hostels. This application was refused, as there was at the time a scheme for the construction by Government of quarters for the Principal of the college. This scheme did not materialize and the Rai Bahadur constructed a house of his own accord on the land referred to. He was then granted a house-rent allowance of Rs. 60 a month with effect from 1st March, 1910."

Status of the Rajshahi College under the principalship of Rai Kumudinikanta Banerji Bahadur.

(a) Is it a fact that when Rai Kumudinikanta Banerji Bahadur took over charge of the Rajshahi College in 1897, it was in a moribund condition?

(b) Is it a fact that only 3 B. A.'s in pass course were turned out in the four years immediately preceding his appointment, and that since his appointment the college has been growing steadily and it is now one of the biggest colleges in Bengal?

Questions and Answers

(c) Is it a fact that the fee receipt in 1896 was about Rs. 4,000 and that it is now nearly Rs. 60,000?

(d) Is it a fact that his predecessor was an Indian Educational Service officer?

(e) Is it a fact that the numerical strength of the college is practically equivalent to that of the Krishnagar, Hooghly and Chittagong colleges put together?

(f) Is it also a fact that over one hundred graduates (B. A.'s and B. Sc.'s), many with high Honours, and about one hundred and fifty I. A.'s and I. Sc.'s are turned out annually by the college, and that these numbers are much greater than the numbers of graduates and under-graduates turned out annually by the Krishnagar, Hooghly and Chittagong colleges put together?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) and (b) During the 4 years preceding the appointment of the Rai Bahadur the college turned out 4 graduates in the pass course When the Rai Bahadur assumed charge in 1897 the number of pupils on the rolls was 116, while the college is now one of the biggest institutions of its kind in Bengal. All credit is due to the Rai Bahadur for his admirable work as Principal, and in spite of the fact that his term of office has coincided with a remarkable expansion in the demand for collegiate education, no one can doubt that the development of the college is due mainly to his administrative ability and his zeal for the welfare of the institution.

(c) The figures are approximately correct.

(d) The reply is in the affirmative.

(e) It was almost so in 1917-18, but in 1918-19 the numerical strength of the three colleges exceeded that of the Rajshahi College by 123.

(f) During the last three years the average number of graduates and under-graduates from Rajshahi College have been roughly 100 and 125, respectively, as against averages of 70 and 132 for the other three colleges referred to."

Supervision of Rai Kumudinikanta Banerji Bahadur.

(a) Is it a fact that European officers such as Messrs. Billing and Shaw who were in the Provincial Educational Service and who were the Principals of the Krishnagar and Hooghly Colleges, respectively, have been promoted to the Indian Educational Service?

(b) Is it a fact that Rai Kumudinikanta Banerji Bahadur is seeking appointment elsewhere in consequence of supersession by his juniors?

(c) Is it also a fact that many senior professors are to be transferred during the ensuing session?

(d) Are the Government aware that the Rajshahi College is practically in its infancy and of the necessity of taking special care in the appointment of its Principal?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) There were special circumstances in Mr. Billing's case. His promotion to the Indian Educational Service was decided on when the services were reorganised in 1896 and he was promoted to the Indian Educational Service in 1898, having already officiated in the old graded service for 8 years. This Government have no information about Mr Shaw, who was in Class I of the Provincial Educational Service when the province of Bihar and Orissa was formed.

(b) It is a fact that Rai Kumudinikanta Banerji Bahadur has accepted temporarily a post under the Calcutta University as Inspector of colleges on Rs. 800 a month—a higher salary than he is now drawing in Government employ.

(c) Two professors have been transferred with the consent of the Governing Board. It is not proposed to transfer any other senior professor from the college.

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state whether the rules in force for controlling the sale of kerosine oil are the same in the various districts of Bengal?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne:—

"(a) and (b) Government have not brought the sale of kerosine oil under control as contemplated in the Defence of India (Consolidation) Rules, 1915 Government, however, with the agreement of the Oil Companies, issued executive instructions to all district officers, pointing out that the sub-agents of the Oil Companies were under agreement to sell at certain wholesale rates, and instructing district officers to arrange with the sub-agents to appoint dealers who would agree to sell kerosine oil retail at prices fixed by the district officer with reference to the authorised sub-agents' prices.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state the amounts that have been spent on inquiries in regard to stegomyia, year after year, and the result of such inquiries?

(b) Will the Government be also pleased to make a similar statement in regard to the investigations in connection with diabetes?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) and (b) A statement showing the expenditure incurred by Government in regard to inquiries into stegomyia and diabetes is laid on the table.

Stegomyia Survey.—In 1912 a stegomiya survey was made of the port by Major MacGilchrist, I.M.S., As a result of his inquiry it was arranged to undertake an investigation in typical areas in Calcutta, and in 1914 effect was given to this by the deputation of an Assistant Surgeon, Dr. C. K Nandi, to work for one year under the Health Officer of the Corporation Dr. Nandi carried out a survey in two selected areas in the city. Subsequently, a further inquiry was made in 1915 by Major Christopher, who was deputed for the purpose by the Government of India at the request of this Government, and as a result of his report the Corporation recommended that a campaign against stegomiya on the lines suggested by him should be conducted first in the port under a specially qualified officer It was, however, found that there would be considerable difficulty in doing this owing to the port area being under the separate jurisdiction of several local bodies and the insufficiency of the powers of these bodies for the purpose in view. The first thing necessary was to establish a homogeneous sanitary control over the whole area The matter was, therefore, referred to a conference representing the different bodies concerned, which submitted a report and a draft Bill to give effect to their suggestions. A Bill known as the Calcutta Port Sanitation Bill, is now under the consideration of Government

"(a) Yes.

(b) The terms on which the lease, if it is eventually granted, will be given are at present under consideration.

(c) It is a fact that objections have been raised by the Chittagong Association. The main objections are that the forest reserve in question provides bamboos for the local needs of Chittagong and the Chittagong Hill-tracts; and that there will be a dislocation of the supply and a rise in local prices. Date-gur and sugarcane investigations at Dacca Farm.

What progress has been made in Mr. Annet's investigations regarding date-gur, and what results have been obtained from the examination of Bengal varieties of sugarcane in regard to the sucrose contents of their juices, at the Dacca Farm?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"The investigation into date-sugar has been in abeyance since the departure of Mr Annett from this province. This is partly due to the urgent necessity of proceeding with the soil survey of the province; but chiefly because the work on cane-sugar is considered more important.

The work on sugar-cane has made considerable progress, as regards both the testing of exotic varieties and the classification of local races. Distribution of a superior cane has been proceeding for the past two years and careful arrangements are being made to make the distribution scheme as efficient as possible It is hoped that the work on cane-sugar will yield sufficiently definite results, in the course of the next two years, to allow of the resumption of the date-sugar investigation"

Management of Chittagong port.

(a) Is there any proposal for handing over the management of the port of Chittagong to the Assam-Bengal Railway?

(b) If so, will the Government be pleased to lay all the papers in connection therewith on the table?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(a) The Government of India have proposed that the management of the port of Chittagong be transferred to the Assam-Bengal Railway; and the Government of Bengal, after consulting the local authorities, have agreed, as it appeared, after detailed examination of various alternatives and of the finances of the port, that there was no other possible alternative for financing the improvements recommended on the report of Sir George Buchanan.

(b) It is not possible to lay on the table the correspondence with the Imperial Government without the permission of that Government. The Government of India are being addressed in the matter."

(a) With reference to unstarred question No.1 of the 3rd April, 1919, will the Government be pleased to publish the report of the Committee on the future organization of Hindu girls' education? Hindu girls' education

(b) When was the said report submitted by the said Committee, and what action has since been taken thereon?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) A copy of the report of the Hindu Female Education Committee is laid on the library table.

(b) The report of the Committee was submitted to Government on the 31st March, 1916. The terms of reference to the Committee were—

(i) to consider and report on the existing facilities for the education of Hindu girls and the extent to which the various sections of Hindu society avail themselves of the several agencies which are now employed;

(ii) to consider and report in detail on the extent to which the existing facilities are adequate and satisfactory;

(iii) to make detailed suggestions, with approximate estimates of cost, for remedying any defects which the Committee finds to exist.

With regard to the first and second some of the facts and figures in the Committee's report were found on examination to be incorrect and Government was consequently unable to accept altogether the findings of the Committee.

In respect of the third, the suggestions of the Committee centred round three main proposals, viz.:—

(a) revision of the curricula on lines formulated by it with a view to their adoption in girls' schools;

(b) Establishment of a thoroughly equipped model secondary school under Government management (not following the ordinary high school course) at Calcutta;

(c) constitution of a thoroughly representative standing Committee with full executive functions and exercising absolute control over Hindu female education with a staff of Hindu and Brahmo Inspectresses

Government are unable to accept the first and the last of these proposals, but as regards the second, the Director of Public Instruction was called on to submit a scheme which, however, could not be considered on account of the financial stringency consequent on the war A scheme has, however, been recently submitted and is now under the consideration of Government."

(a) Are the Government aware of the hardships of the steamer and railway passengers at Goalundo for want of waiting rooms at the station or any similar accommodation in flats on the river? Waiting accommodation at Goalundo Ghât.

(b) If so, are the Government considering the desirability of taking steps for the removal of this grievance?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(a) and (b) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer given in the Council on the 3rd September, 1918, to starred question No. 7 asked by the Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri."

Development of industries.

With reference to the provision of Rs. 2,50,000 in the Budget for 1919-20. for the development of industries, will the Government be pleased to state what particular industries have been receiving the attention of the Government and what scheme (if any) has been made in this connection?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne:—

"Of the Rs 2,50,000, Rs. 2,00,000 have been provided for the organisation of the Industries Department according to the recommendations of the Indian Industrial Commission, if the sanction of the Secretary of State is received this year.

From the remaining Rs. 50,000 will be met the cost of—

(1) Additional equipment of the Research tannery.

(2) An investigation now being made into the tan-stuffs of Bengal

(3) Experiments in weaving."

"Home School" for girls.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state how the scheme of 'Home Schools" for girls has worked in Eastern Bengal?

(b) Are the Government considering the desirability of their early extension to other parts of the province?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) The scheme is reported to have worked satisfactorily in Eastern Bengal on the whole.

(b) The extension of the scheme to other parts of the province is not at present under contemplation. The Education Department consider that it is more necessary to extend the Panchayati Union Schools Scheme, which seeks to provide each Union with a model girls' school."

By the Hon'ble Babu Brojendra Kishor Ray Chaudhuri:—

Drainage Commissioners and Amta drainage scheme.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether the qualifications for the appointment of Drainage Commissioners under the Bengal Drainage Act, 1880, and those under the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895, are the same?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state what progress has been made in the Amta drainage scheme?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) The Hon'ble Member is referred to section 4 of Bengal Act VI of 1880 and sections 3 (1) (c) and 5 of Bengal Act VIII of 1895.

(b) The detailed plans and estimates for works in connection with the Amta drainage project are now under preparation. It is not expected that actual work will commence before October next."

(a) Is it a fact that in the first week of June last, influenza broke out in a virulent form in the Dacca Central Jail and that a number of prisoners died? Influenza in Dacca Central Jail.

(b) Have the Government made an inquiry into the circumstances of this sudden outbreak of the disease in the said jail?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr:—

"Influenza broke out in an epidemic form in the Dacca Central Jail on the 19th May. Up to the 30th June, there were 244 cases among the prisoners, of which 18 proved fatal. An assistant jailor also died. An inquiry has been held by the medical officer into the causes of the outbreak. The available evidence suggests that the infection was introduced into the jail by the head tailor, a paid employé, whose family were suffering from the disease. The first cases occurred among the prisoners employed on tailoring work and not among persons newly admitted to the jail. After the outbreak of the epidemic, jail manufactures were stopped, the prisoners were segregated as far as possible, and all precautions were taken to prevent the disease from spreading. The epidemic is now subsiding, and no fresh cases have occurred since the 25th June."

(a) With reference to the reply given to starred question No. 21 asked at the meeting of the Council held on the 4th September, 1917, will the Government be pleased to state from what source the information wanted was gathered? Zamindars of Amta drainage basin.

(b) Is it a fact that Babu Kashiswar Mukherjee of Uttarpara referred to in the said statement sold his zamindary right of the land in respect of the Amta drainage scheme, bearing tauzi, No. 38, under the Collector of Hooghly, by a registered deed on the 7th August, 1914, to the late Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur?

(c) Is it a fact that the late Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur paid land-revenue and cesses to the Collector of Hooghly in his own name after the purchase by him of the said estate from Babu Kashiswar Mukherjee and that since the death of Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur, land-revenue and cesses on account of the above estate have been paid by his son, Babu Fateh Lal Singh Nahar Bahadur, to the Collector of Hooghly?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) The information was procured from the Collector of Hooghly.

(b) and (c) Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur's name was registered in tauzi No. 38, under the Collector of Hooghly, in place of Babu Kashiswar Mukherjee of Uttarpara in 1914-15 after purchase of the estate and Babu Fateh Singh Nahar, son of Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur, had his name recorded in place of his father by virtue of a deed of gift in 1918-19. Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur paid revenue and cess in his name in respect of his share of tauzi, No. 38 up to September kist, 1918, since when his son, Babu Fateh Singh Nahar, has been paying revenue and cess."

Indian Police officers and keeping of revolvers.

(a) Is it a fact that Indian police-officers up to the rank of Deputy Superintendent are not allowed to keep revolvers in their possession without a license?

(b) If so, is it in accordance with the law on the matter or on account of any executive order of the Government?

(c) If such prohibition is due to any executive order, was the order made by the Provincial or the Imperial Government?

(d) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a copy of any such circular or regulation as may be in existence relating to this matter?

(e) Are the Government considering the desirability of exempting Indian police-officers from the necessity of taking out licenses for keeping revolvers in their possession?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr:—

"(a), (b), (c) and (d) No specific orders have been passed requiring Indian police-officers to take out licenses for revolvers kept for their personal use. Their obligation to do so arises from the fact that no orders have been issued exempting them from the provisions of the Arms Act in respect of revolvers. Revolvers are supplied by Government to officers who require such weapons for the performance of their duties, and in those cases no license is necessary.

(e) No. The Government of India in their Resolution No. 2125 C., dated the 21st March, 1919, have intimated their intention of revising the Indian Arms Rules in a manner which will make it obligatory, after the 1st January, 1920, for all police officers, whether Indian or European, to take out licenses for firearms of any description, other than those supplied by Government."

High prices and relief measures.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether any recent survey has been taken of the condition of the population at different centres as a result of the distress caused by the unprecedented high prices of food-stuffs?

(b) If so, what relief measures (if any) have been taken beyond what has been done at Bankura and Brahmanbaria?

(c) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the action of the Bihar and Orissa Government in granting from October 1st, 1918, an increased rate of grain compensation allowance to all Government servants drawing not more than Rs 16 a month?

(d) Have the Government in contemplation any scheme of an increased rate of grain compensation allowance for all Government employés?

(e) What is the position as regards the proposal made to the Government of India for the grant of a war bonus?

(f) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing, district by district, the amount of agricultural loans and gratuitous relief sanctioned and distributed since January last?

(g) How far have the existing relief operations benefited the poorer middle classes

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"(a) Government have not made any special survey of the nature suggested; for the condition of the population in the province is practically always under survey. It is reviewed in certain fortnightly reports which are furnished to Government, in special local reports which Government have received and in the weekly and monthly weather and crop reports which are published in the Calcutta Gazette. A periodical review is also made of the food-stuffs position and prices obtaining in the different districts.

(b) Agricultural loans have been given, where necessary, to relieve the agriculturists who require such advances.

(c) Yes

(d) All Government employés are not eligible for grain compensation allowance. Government are at present considering whether any extension of the present scheme of grain compensation allowance is necessary or advisable.

(e) A war allowance has recently been sanctioned to all employés of Government drawing more than Rs. 12 and not more than Rs. 50 per month. As has been previously explained in Council, the pay of menials has been already improved.

(f) A statement is laid on the table so far as information is available.

(g) Relief is being afforded to some of the better class poor in the Bankura district and the Brahmanbaria sub-division of the Tippera district."

Is it a fact—

Arbitrary assessment upon the members of certain rural societies.

(a) that the Sub-divisional Officer of Madaripur was appointed liquidator of certain societies and that he deputed his peshkar to make assessment upon the members of Sirkhara, Birangal and Sajandawal Rural Societies; and (b) that the assessment was made arbitrarily and that the liquidator refused to entertain complaints against the assessment?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"(a) The Sub-divisional Officer of Madaripur was appointed liquidator of the Co-operative Societies of Sirkhara, Birangal and Sajandawal. In order to assess the amount to be paid by each member as contribution to the assets of the society according to his ability to pay, it was necessary to have confidential inquiries made about the property of the members. These inquiries were first conducted confidentially by the liquidation clerk, who is also the Sub-divisional Officer's peshkar, and were then tested on the spot personally either by the Sub-divisional Officer, or a Sub-Deputy Collector, or an Inspector of Co-operative Societies.

(b) From the above it will appear that the assessment was not made arbitrarily. It is not a fact that the liquidator refused to entertain complaints against the assessment. In one case he revised his original order of assessment when he found that an improvement could be made. In the case of Sajandawal there was an apppeal to the District Judge which was dismissed.

It may be noted for the information of the Council that the complaint made by the objectors was against their assessment at more than their individual debts to the society. But, as the societies were concerns with unlimited liability, this was irrelevant."

Will the Government be pleased to make a statement regarding the recent outbreak of small-pox at Dacca, showing—

(a) the number of seizures and deaths therefrom; and

(b) the special measures taken to prevent the spread of infection and to combat the disease?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) As all cases are not reported and many concealed, the number of seizures cannot be accurately stated, but up to the end of the second week of June, 443 deaths from small-pox were reported.

(b) A copy of the report of Dr. Sufi, Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, on the outbreak at Dacca, is laid on the table."

Questions and Answers.

Report of Dr. Sufi referred to in the answer by the HON'BLE MR. GOODE to question No. 25 (Unstarred) asked by the HON'BLE MAULVI A. K. FAZL-UL-HAQ at the Council meeting of the 3rd July, 1919.

The following is a brief history of the small-pox epidemic in the Dacca town :—

The first case was reported on the 30th December, 1918, from the mehtars' depôt at Meranjulla. Attempts either to vaccinate the contacts or to segregate the patients failed entirely. The next case with fatal results occurred at Bangshall and was registered on the 1st January, 1919. Six contacts were operated upon but only a few of the neighbours, about 23 in number, could be vaccinated. Some cases were reported on the 12th January, 1919, from the railway staff quarters ; 17 contacts were vaccinated and 158 operations were performed amongst the staff. A few cases occurred shortly after in the neighbouring quarters and 12 vaccinations were performed in the Agasadak Bazar. Altogether 4 deaths were recorded during this month, while 530 primary and 570 re-vaccinations were performed by the 4 permanent vaccinators. A warning notice was circulated by the Health Officer at this stage explaining to the public the necessity of taking vaccination.

By the second week of February the disease had become epidemic and scattered throughout the town. One additional vaccinator was appointed on the 20th February. Free vaccination by house-to-house visitation was notified on the same date. Two thousand six hundred and eighty-four operations (787 primary and 1,897 re-vaccinations) were performed in this month and 53 deaths were recorded.

On the 18th March, 1919, the Health Officer issued a circular letter to the schools requesting the authorities "not to allow any student to attend school in whose residence a patient has been suffering from small-pox until the house is declared by the Health Department to be free from infection". On the same date the Health Officer issued another circular letter recommending re-vaccination of students and closure of schools and colleges as early as possible if there be no serious objection. The vaccination staff was also strengthened by the addition of 4 male and 1 female vaccinators, thus bringing up the total strength to 10 operators. A systematic survey which was made on the 14th March under the direct supervision of the Health Officer proved the existence of 325 cases on that date, but after making allowances for the concealed cases, the number may be fairly assumed to be about 400 or at the highest 500.

Disinfection of the houses and of the patients' bedding and clothing was also performed while the main streets and the lanes of the infected areas were watered twice a day. Hackney-carriages used by patients were also directed to be disinfected. For information, the Health Officer depended upon the vaccinators, the municipal out-door officers and medical practitioners who were supplied with printed post cards for this purpose. Patients were treated at the Mitford Hospital where arrangements were very satisfactory.

Such was the state of affairs when I arrived at Dacca on the 23rd March, 1919. I very soon discovered that there was a panic in the town, that the staff of vaccinators was quite inadequate to cope with the emergent conditions, that even Government officials had to wait for even 3 or 4 days before they could secure the services of a vaccinator, and finally that the Health Officer had no organized means at his disposal of getting information as to the number of fresh attacks. Somehow or other those in charge had failed to grasp the situation at the very commencement and now the disease having spread to every quarter of the town it was impossible to restrict the area of its invasion.

Questions and Answers.

At my suggestion the Commissioners at their meeting held on the 25th March, 1919, sanctioned the raising of the strength of the staff to 25 male and 3 female vaccinators, placing 15 vaccinators to work under the 15 Municipal Commissioners and the remaining 10 male and 3 female vaccinators under the direct orders of the Health Officer. Trained hands being unavailable probationers were engaged and trained. The number of the men on disinfection duty was also increased; they were divided into three batches, and each batch was placed under a Sanitary Inspector. Better arrangements were made at the instance of the Health Officer for flushing pucca drains and clearing kutcha drains and for watering more roads than previously. The Chairman also promised me to award As. 4 to every informer of a small-pox case after verification, but I am afraid it was not found possible for some reason or other to translate the promise into action as shown by the fact that the column for fresh attacks in the weekly small-pox statement was always left blank.

Judging from the weekly reports received it appears that the epidemic is gradually getting down and that the number of weekly operations performed is satisfactory, considering the atmospheric conditions.

(a) Is it a fact that there is a considerable block in promotion both in the upper and lower grade of clerkships in the Bengal Secretariat, especially in the lower grade?

(b) If so, will the Government please state what steps are being taken to remove the block?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state how many extensions in the two grades have been given during 1912 19 (March)?

(d) Is it a fact that there is proportionately a larger number of clerks in the lower grade in the Financial and Public Works Departments than in other departments?

(e) If so, will the Government be pleased to state the reason for this?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne:—

"(a) There is no block in the upper grade. There is alleged to be a block in the lower grade.

(b) Government are examining the question and are considering the possibility of replacing the present graded scale by a time scale.

(c) Six extensions in the lower grade and fifteen in the upper grade have been given during the period.

(d) Yes.

(e) The relative strengths in the upper and lower grades in a department are decided on the amount of work in it suitable for the employment of upper and lower grade assistants respectively."

Accommodation in certain steamers for inter-class female passengers.

(a) Are the Government aware that the inter-class female compartments in the steamers of the India General Navigation and Railway Company and Rivers Steam Navigation Company plying between Goalundo, Chandpore and Narayanganj are very unsuitable?

(b) Are the Government also aware that in these steamers—

(i) there is no cabin provided, but that a portion of the space which was originally used as a hospital is partitioned from the rest of the deck only by a purdah;

(ii) a portion of the compartment is used as a hospital and also as an office for the transhipment staff;

(iii) the female compartment and the said office are not partitioned off properly and the female passengers are exposed to the view of the staff;

(iv) there is no bath-room attached to the compartment, and the female passengers have to walk through crowds of third-class male passengers along the deck to the lower deck where they have to use the bath-room provided for the third-class male passengers;

(v) the accommodation of this bath-room is inadequate in consideration of the usual number of passengers;

(vi) there is no wire-netting by the side of the compartments, there being only a canvas protection, the bottom of which is in places usually worn out, rendering the compartment unsafe for children; and (vii) no seats of any description are provided in these compartments?

(c) Is it a fact that the inter-class fare in these steamers is double that of the third class?

(d) Are the Government considering the desirability of taking such steps as they think fit for the removal of the grievances referred to in the fore-going questions?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(a) Government are aware that complaints have been made regarding the accommodation provided for inter-class female passengers.

(b) (i) and (ii) No cabin is provided for inter-class female passengers. The space set aside for the purpose has not been proved to be unsuitable.

(iii) The compartment is partitioned off from the office portion by a wooden or canvas partition to a height of about 5 feet and wire-netting from above this to the roof. A purdah is also supplied to cover the wire-netting so that there may be absolute privacy on either side.

(b) (iv) and (v) The Steamer Companies do not consider it desirable or feasible to arrange latrine accommodation for inter-class females in the space allotted to them on the upper deck. Steps are being taken to improve the latrine accommodation existing on the main deck.

(vi) On some of the vessels wire-netting is provided, on canvas-fitted steamers steps are being taken to fit wire-netting so as to ensure safety.

(vii) No seats are provided; experience shows that the passengers ordinarily prefer to sit or lie on their own mats or rugs.

(c) Yes.

(d) The attention of the Steamer Companies will be invited to the complaints which have been made."

By the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta:—

30.

(a) Are the Government aware that in the steamers of the India General Navigation and Railway Company and the Rivers Steam Navigation Company plying between Goalundo, Chandpore and Narayanganj— Accommodation in certain steamers for third class female passengers and second-class passengers.

(i) the accommodation for third-class female passengers has been provided in a place very near the funnel and that this space remains hot all the time the steamers run, and even the deck is uncomfortably hot;

(ii) there is no provision for seats of any description; and

(iii) there is no bath-room attached to the third-class female compartments?

(b) Are the Government also aware that—

(i) the accommodation for second-class passengers in the above mentioned steamers is inadequate and poor;

(ii) there is no provision for proper ventilation in the cabins;

(iii) there is no other furniture in the compartment except a bedstead;

(iv) there is no deck for the second-class passengers, and they are not allowed to use the deck provided for the first-class passengers; and

(v) the second-class fare is considerably more than half of the first class and more than double that of the inter-class?

(c) Are the Government aware of the feeling that exists that the difference of fare between the first and the second class is out of all proportion to the comforts provided for the two classes?

(d) Are the Government aware that the sweetmeat stalls in the said steamers are let out to the highest bidder, who again sublets them to others at exorbitant rents, and that the latter sell bad sweetmeats at a high price?

(e) Are the Government also aware that the sub-contractor is compelled to purchase articles from such shops as are selected by the contractors and that this results in the sale of bad articles at higher prices than the usual market price?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(a) (i) Separate accommodation for third-class female passengers has been recently provided in some 40 vessels. The position of the accommodation has not been found unsuitable, but all enclosed spaces are warmer than the open deck (ii) Seating accommodation is not provided for third-class passengers.

(iii) It is not possible to arrange latrine accommodation for third-class female passengers in the space allotted to them on the upper deck.

(b) (i) to (iv) The second-class accommodation is somewhat inadequate, and in view of the increasing number of passengers travelling by these vessels in that class, the question has been duly considered in the designs for the proposed new steamers for the Padma service. Inquiries are being made as to what improvements, if any, can possibly be carried out in respect of the provision of additional furniture and ventilation in the cabins of the existing vessels.

(b) (v) The second-class fare is double the inter-class fare.

(c) Government have no information on the subject.

(d) and (e) The Steamer Companies' Messing Department have recently taken into their own hands the management of the sweetmeat stalls on some of the steamers of the Barisal service; should this prove to be the success which is anticipated, the arrangement will be extended to the Padma services, with results which, it is hoped, will prove satisfactory to the travelling public."

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether any inquiry was initiated by the Government to ascertain if the military transgressed the law and exceeded the limits of their power during the recent disturbances in Calcutta?

(b) If so, will the Government be pleased to state the nature and the mode of inquiry and to lay the report on the table?

(c) Are the Government aware that there is an impression that the soldiers used greater force than was warranted by the situation and by the law?

(d) Have the Government ascertained whether there is any foundation for such an impression?

(e) Are the Government considering the desirability of appointing a mixed committee of officials and non-officials to inquire whether the action of the military was justifiable during those disturbances?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr:—

"Government have received full reports on the disturbances and are satisfied that the police and the troops behaved with forbearance, and that there is no ground for the suggestion that they used greater force than was warranted by the situation or by the law. Government do not propose to lay any papers on the table or to institute further inquiries."

(b) Have the Government issued any resolution upon the said report? If so, will they be pleased to lay the resolution on the table?

(c) What action (if any) has been taken by the Government to give effect to the recommendation of the said Committee?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) and (c) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the reply given to unstarred question No. 15 asked by the Hon'ble Babu Brojendra Kishor Ray Chaudhuri. Detailed proposals for a Calcutta Purdah School have been received from the Director of Public Instruction and are now under consideration.

(b) Government did not record any resolution on the report."

(a) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing— Manufacture of salt in Chittagong.

(i) the entire preventive staff which was required of Mr. P. C. Das of Cox's Bazar who applied for permission for the manufacture of salt; and (ii) the special staff which has been employed by Mr. Glen George for the purpose of supervising the manufacture of salt in the district of Midnapore together with the date of their employment and their pay?

(b) Has Mr. Glen George executed any deed of agreement as to the conditions upon which sanction has been accorded to him to manufacture salt? If so, what is the date of the deed?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table all papers and orders in connection with the prayers of Mr. Glen George, Mr. P. C. Das Babu Surendra Chandra Ghosh, Babu Mohendra Chandra Ghoshal and others in the district of Chittagong for permission to manufacture salt?

(d) Will the Government be pleased to describe fully the conditions upon which permission has been given to Mr Glen George?

(e) Is he employed in any other capacity under the Government anywhere else?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne:—

"(a) (i) Mr. P. C. Das prayed that the rules regarding the entertainment of extra preventive staff might in his case be dispensed with, as he considers that the staff ordinarily employed in the Cox's Bazar sub-division was sufficient during the initial stage of his scheme. Government were unable to accept this view, but the question of what preventive staff was necessary in connection with his scheme did not therefore arise.

(ii) It has been decided by Government to employ the following establishment in this connection and to realise from the firm such portion of the cost thereof as exceeds 5 per cent. of the duty levied:—

		Rs.
1 inspector on	100	per mensem.
2 sub-inspectors on	50	each per mensem.
1 petty officer on	12	per mensem.
1 peon on	12	" "
3 peons on	11	each per mensem.
6 peons on	10	" "

This staff will be employed as soon as the manufacture of salt commences.

(b) No deed of agreement was executed, but a license, dated the 2nd October, 1918, has been granted to Mr. Glen George containing the conditions under which he, or his assignee, may manufacture salt.

(c) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer given to question No. XXXVI (d) on the 19th February, 1918. Copies of the original applications of Mr. P. C. Das and Mr. Glen George are laid upon the table. Copies of Government order No. 2945-S.R., dated 22nd December, 1917, dealing with the applications from Chittagong, of Government order No. 1136, dated 19th April, 1918, dealing with the application of Mr. Das, and of Government order No. 137-T.—S.R., dated 2nd October, 1918, dealing with the application of Mr. Glen George, are laid upon the table. Government are not prepared to lay other papers upon the table.

(d) A copy of the license granted to Mr. Glen George is laid upon the table.

(e) He is not employed under Government in any capacity."

Copy of original application of Mr. P. C. Das for the manufacture of salt at Cox's Bazar.

Dated, Cox's Bazar, the 2nd February 1918.

From—P. C. DAS, ESQ., Retired Sub-Deputy Collector, Cox's Bazar,
To—The Collector of Chittagong.

(Through the Inspector of Excise and Salt, Cox's Bazar).

I HAVE the honour to solicit your favour of granting me a permit to manufacture salt locally for sale to the people of Cox's Bazar subdivision for local consumption on payment of the usual duty.

2. I am ready to open a godown where the manufactured salt will be stored and duty levied according to the rules.

3. As the attempt is quite a new and experimental one, the rules about the entertainment of extra preventive staff may be dispensed with, till such time as the project does not appear sufficiently useful and matured. The present staff of the preventive officers may be considered sufficient for the purpose at present.

4. If you are pleased to grant me the permit on the above condition, I may be informed of the order, so that I may be able to start with the preliminaries at once.

PROPOSAL FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF SALT IN THE CONTAI SUBDIVISION OF THE MIDNAPORE DISTRICT.

Dated Calcutta, the 22nd April 1918.

From—GLEN GEORGE, ESQ., Chief Mining Engineer to Messrs. Andrew Yule & Co.,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Dept.

I BEG to address you on the subject of the manufacture of salt in Bengal You are, of course, aware of the relative difficulty in obtaining supplies of imported salt compared with those available in pre-war times, and also of the causes which have led to the strong preference of the population of Bengal for the white imported salt as against the brown Madras salt. In view of the existing shortage of freight which is certain to continue for five or more years after the declaration of peace, there will evidently be a great market for a salt which, manufactured in India, will be equal in quality to the white imported salt.

The ordinary methods of manufacture obtaining in Madras are not likely to be successful at the head of the Bay of Bengal owing to the humidity and the length of the monsoon season. I propose, therefore, a method of which the final step will be evaporation in multiple effect evaporators. As this is the final stage in the manufacture of Liverpool salt, whatever may be the financial results, a salt equal in quality to Liverpool salt will certainly be produced.

The earlier stages in the proposed method are of a technical nature, but their effect is to overcome the difficulty in regard to the humidity and the shortness of the season.

I have recently personally investigated the salinity of the sea at a site near Contai and found the salinity sufficient: in fact, it is that of ordinary sea-water at this season. During the five monsoon months the salinity may be low, but storage of concentrated brine will enable the factory to work continuously.

Questions and Answers.

You will doubtless recollect an application made by me to the Madras Government for a site and salt license in the Ganjam district. The methods proposed there are merely improved Madras methods requiring no coal. The syndicate I represent is strongly of opinion that in addition there is room for a factory near Calcutta on new lines which can make salt identical to Liverpool salt.

The syndicate which I represent is prepared to put up a salt factory at Contai on my proposed lines and to find the capital necessary, which will be five to six lakhs.

We ask for no financial assistance or special terms, but merely a lease of the site, which I have ascertained to be on Government khas land, and the sympathy of your Government with the proposal. I beg, therefore, to enquire whether the Government of Bengal will be prepared to grant me a license to manufacture salt from sea-water on a site, particulars of which will be sent in to the Board of Revenue near Contai.

Copy of Government order dealing with applications from Chittagong for the manufacture of salt.

No. 2945-S.R., dated Calcutta, the 22nd December, 1917.

From—The HON'BLE MR. J. DONALD, M.A., C.I.E., I.C.S., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Department,

To—The Commissioner of the Chittagong Division.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letters noted in the margin, forwarding applications from certain salt merchants in Chittagong for permission to manufacture salt locally. In view of the high prices of salt prevailing in Chittagong, at present you recommend that the proposal for the local manufacture of salt may be sanctioned at an early date.

(1) No. 3041-R.—XV—19-39, dated the 3rd December 1917.
(2) No. , dated the 8th December 1917.

2. In reply, I am to enclose a copy of a note recorded by the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, stating the result of inquiries made by him during his recent visit to Chittagong, and to say that before taking steps towards the removal of the prohibition on salt manufacture in Chittagong which now subsists, the Governor in Council desires to have detailed proposals giving information on the points raised in the note together with a draft of the rules necessary to regulate manufacture. The Collector of Chittagong should correspond direct in this matter with the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, who will submit proposals for the orders of Government. But the matter should be dealt with promptly, and an early decision arrived at, whether anything is practicable or not in the direction of local manufacture.

3. With regard to the last paragraph of the Excise Commissioner's note, I am to invite your attention to the recent Press Communiqué (copies enclosed) issued by Government on the subject of the supplies of salt, and to request that the information given therein may be communicated to the dealers in Chittagong with a view to arrangements being made for the import of salt from Madras by brigs.

Copy of Government order dealing with Mr. P. C. Das's application for the manufacture of salt.

Dated Calcutta, the 19th April 1918.

From—The HON'BLE MR. J. DONALD, M.A., C.I.E., I.C.S., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Dept.,

To—The Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 243 E., dated 10th April 1918, with which you submit copies of two petitions from

Questions and Answers.

Mr. P. C. Das, retired Sub-Deputy Collector, Cox's Bazar, asking for permission to manufacture salt, experimentally from salt earth and sand and saline ashes for a period of six months on payment of duty, and in reply to say that, in the circumstances stated in your letter Government are unable to grant the permission asked for by the petitioner. I am to request that, the petitioner may be informed that Government are unable to agree to proposals which do not provide for adequate supervision over the processes of manufacture and that this can only be effected by the employment of special staff.

Copy of Government order dealing with the application of Mr. Glen George for the manufacture of salt.

No. 137 T.—S. R., dated Darjeeling, the 2nd October 1918.

From—H. P. V. TOWNEND, ESQ., I.C.S., Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Department,

To—GLEN GEORGE, ESQ., Chief Mining Engineer to Messrs. Andrew Yule & Co.

WITH reference to the correspondance ending with your letter, dated the 25th July 1918, I am directed to say that the Governor in Council is pleased to accept the scheme for the establishment of a factory for the manufacture of salt within the Contai subdivison of the district of Midnapore, and to authorize you to manufacture the said commodity in the factory subject to the terms and conditions specified in the license enclosed herewith. You are also authorized to assign the license, now granted to you, to the company to be formed and called the Chemical Industries, Limited, on condition that the assignees agree to the terms and conditions of the license.

2. With reference to condition (2) of the license, I am to explain that Government have no wish to hamper your enterprize by impossible conditions, but that they must retain the right to safeguard Government revenue accruing from salt manufactured in the factory if any of the conditions prove to be defective.

Copy of license granted to Mr. Glen George.

No. 138 T.—S. R., dated the 2nd October 1918.

Copy, with a copy of the license. forwarded to the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, for information and necessary action.

License for the manufacture of salt.

Mr. Glen George of Disergarh in the district of Burdwan is hereby authorized by the Government of Bengal to manufacture salt within the Contai subdivision of the district of Midnapore on the following conditions :—

Conditions of license.

(1) The licensee, his agents and servants, shall be bound by the provisions of the Indian Salt Act, 1882 (XII of 1882), and by all rules relating to the manufacture of salt and for the issue of salt from licensed premises which may, from time to time, be prescribed under the said Act by the Government of India.

(2) This license shall remain in force for one year from the date on which it is granted :

Provided that during a period of nineteen years next thereafter the licensee, if he has duly observed the conditions of his license in force, shall have the option to have the license renewed for one year at the end of each successive year subject to such modifications of the conditions of his license in force as may be prescribed by the Government of Bengal at the time of each renewal after considering any suggestions or objections made with regard thereto by the licensee.

Questions and Answers.

(3) The licensee shall make a deposit of Rs. 1,000 in advance as security for the due observance of the conditions of this license and shall execute a bond pledging the premises and all apparatus and utensils employed in the manufacture of salt, for the due discharge of all payments which may become due to Government. In lieu of executing such a bond, the licensee may deposit Government promissory notes of such value as the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, may direct.

(4) The licensee shall, before commencing the manufacture of salt, submit, for the approval of the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, a plan and description in writing signed by himself of all structures, buildings and rooms within the boiling and drying house compound, specifying the purpose for which each is to be used. No alteration of, or addition to, the boiling and drying house compound or any building or room intended for the manufacture, drying, storage, handling or weighment of salt therein shall be made without the written permission of the officer in charge, provided that the latter in important matters may require the permission of the Assistant Commissioner to be obtained through him.

(5) The boiling and drying house compound shall be surrounded by a wall to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, with only one passage, and it shall be properly secured against the issue of salt, except by the passage so provided.

(6) The place intended for the storage of salt before weighment shall be within the boiling and drying house compound. It shall be securely fenced to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, and in the fence there shall be a single gate.

(7) The structures, buildings and rooms in the boiling and drying house compound and the surrounding wall shall be kept in good repair to the satisfaction of the Assistant Commissioner.

(8) The licensee shall construct and maintain at his own expense suitable quarters to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, and shall let them out at such rents as the Public Works Department may consider reasonable for the accommodation of the officer in charge and other establishment required for supervision. He shall also provide a suitable office-room within the boiling and drying house compound for the officer in charge with such furniture as may be required for use therein.

(9) The licensee shall have, on the outside of the door of every building or room in the boiling and drying house compound, a name painted legibly in oilpaint indicating the purpose for which such building or room is intended to be used.

(10) The licensee shall give at least fifteen days' notice in writing to the Assistant Commissioner of the date on which he proposes to commence manufacturing salt and at least one month's notice before he ceases to manufacture any salt.

(11) In case the licensee shall cease manufacturing or issuing salt for a period exceeding one month, the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, may withdraw the establishment stationed at the factory and many prohibit all further manufacture and issue of salt until the licensee has given him fifteen days' notice in writing of the date on which he proposes to recommence operations.

(12) The licensee shall pay into the Bank of Bengal in advance such sum as will be sufficient to pay the duty on any salt that may be manufactured at any time, and the licensee shall not manufacture any salt unless the duty payable in respect of it has been paid by him in advance.

(13) The manufacture of salt shall be carried on only in the place or building specified for the purpose by the terms of clause (4) of these conditions.

(14) The licensee shall not cause any salt to be formed in any place outside the boiling and drying house compound, and he shall destroy such salt if accidentally formed.

(15) The salt manufactured shall contain not less than 91 per cent. sodium chloride and not more than 3 per cent. of magnesium salt. Any salt which does not conform to these requirements shall be destroyed by the licensee.

(16) The licensee shall, at all times, allow samples of salt not exceeding one seer in weight each to be taken by the officer in charge for submission to the Chemical Examiner for Customs and Excise for analysis.

(17) All salt manufactured shall be removed from the boiling and drying house either direct to the place of weighment or to the place of storage and thence to the place of weighment in such manner as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal.

(18) All salt weighed on any day shall, after such weighment and check weighment (if any), be removed from the boiling and drying house compound on that day in such manner as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal.

(19) No salt shall be presented for weighment after 5 P.M., unless the licensee desires the weighment to go on after that hour and makes proper arrangements to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, for lighting the boiling and drying house compound and the entrance thereto.

(20) The weighment of salt shall be carried on under the supervision of the officers of the Excise and Salt Department with the scales provided by Government for the purpose, in such manner, and at such times, as the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, may from time to time direct.

Questions and Answers.

(21) Save under a pass granted by a salt revenue officer of or above the rank of a Sub-Inspector of Excise and Salt, the licensee shall not remove any salt from the boiling and drying house compound, nor shall the officer in charge grant a pass for the removal of any salt which has not been duly weighed.

(22) The licensee shall provide, at his own expense, sufficient establishment (other than the establishment referred to in clause 28) for the weighment and issue of salt and all work connected therewith.

(23) No operation connected with the storage, weighment or issue of salt shall ordinarily take place on Sundays and on holidays prescribed by the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal.

(24) When the manufacture of salt is carried on at night and at all times when a Government officer is not present in the boiling and drying house compound, the gates shall remain locked, provided that on Sundays and on prescribed holidays the registered servants of the licensee may be allowed ingress and egress between sunrise and sunset.

(25) The licensee shall so arrange his operations on working days that no excise officer need be on duty for more than eight hours per diem.

(26) If an excise officer has to work more than eight hours on any ordinary working day or on Sundays or prescribed holidays, the licensee shall pay such overtime fees as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal.

(27) The licensee shall keep accurate accounts which shall be written up daily showing such particulars as may, from time to time, be prescribed by the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, and shall produce the same for inspection whenever required by the officer in charge or any other officer of the Excise and Salt Department not below the rank of a Sub-Inspector.

(28) Subject to the directions of Government, the Excise Commissioner may employ at the factory and place of storage such establishment for the purpose of guarding the salt and realizing the revenue thereon as he considers necessary, and the licensee shall pay each month so much of the expenditure incurred by Government on the establishment so employed as may exceed 5 per cent. of the duty levied on the salt manufactured in the factory and issued therefrom for consumption during the preceding month.

(29) The licensee shall not have any pecuniary transaction of any kind whatever with any of the officers of the Excise and Salt Department.

(30) The licensee shall allow the officers of the Excise and Salt Department free access to all parts of the factory and shall afford all reasonable facilities for any investigation that they may desire to make.

(31) Except with the permission of the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, the officer in charge or a superior officer of the Excise and Salt Department, no one except superior officers of other Government departments, the licensee, his agents or his employees authorized for the purpose shall be allowed to enter the boiling and drying house compound. A register shall be kept of the names of all persons employed by the licensee, and all authorized employees shall be supplied with passes for ingress and egress.

(32) The officer in charge of the factory may eject or exclude from the premises any person who, in his opinion, has committed, or is about to commit, any breach of these conditions or of the provisions of the Indian Salt Act, 1882, or any rules made thereunder, or who shall be intoxicated, riotous or disorderly.

(33) If it comes to the knowledge of the licensee that any person employed by him in the manufacture, storage or issue of salt has committed any breach of the provisions of the Indian Salt Act, 1882, or any rules made thereunder, or of the engagements entered into by him, he shall forthwith report the matter to the officer in charge and comply with the directions of that officer respecting the continued employment of such person.

(34) In case of any breach or attempted breach of the conditions of this license by the licensee or any person in his employment, the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, may impose on the licensee a fine not exceeding the sum of Rs. 50 for every breach or attempted breach of such conditions or, at the option of the said Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, may declare the money, if any deposited by the licensee, forfeited and may cancel the license.

(35) It shall be lawful for the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, to deduct the amount of fines imposed under the last preceding condition from the amount deposited by the licensee as security for the due performance of the conditions of this license, and for this purpose the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, may sell all or any of the Government promissory notes or stock notes deposited or of the property hypothecated.

(36) The licensee shall, within fifteen days from the date of receipt of a notice from the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, informing him of any deduction made from his security deposit for the due performance of his engagement, replace the amount so deducted from the said deposit.

(37) The imposition of a fine or forfeiture of deposit or the cancellation of the license under condition (34) shall not be held to preclude the prosecution of any person for any offence which he may have committed, or attempted to commit, against the provisions of the Indian Salt Act, 1882, or any other law for the time being in force relating to salt revenue.

Questions and Answers.

(38) (a) All sums due by the licensee to Government may be recovered from the amount of deposit made by him or by sale of the factory premises, machinery and other things pledged under the bond mentioned in clause (3).

(b) On the expiry of the license either on account of expiry of the term or on account of cancellation or suspension, the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, may take over, or permit the successor of the licensee to take over, the balance of salt in the boiling and drying house compound at cost price or may require the licensee forthwith to remove such salt on payment of full duty.

(c) If the licensee shall fail so to remove all salt within ten days of the receipt of written notice from the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, the cost of any establishment which it may be necessary to employ at the factory may be recovered from the licensee, and if he shall fail to do so, within one month, the salt shall be liable to forfeiture at the discretion of the said Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal.

(39) The licensee may, with the approval of the Government of Bengal, assign his license to any company or firm on condition that the assignee agrees to the terms and conditions of this license.

High prices and increment of pay of ministerial officers of executive and judicial offices.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that Government have received representations from ministerial officers of several executive and judicial offices of the Province praying for increment of pay on the ground of the high prices of all the necessaries of life?

(b) Is it a fact that the present scale of pay of ministerial officers was fixed in West Bengal districts in 1906 and in East Bengal districts in 1911, upon the recommendation of the different committees appointed to submit schemes, among other matters, for revision of the rates of pay of ministerial officers, and that the committees recommended the present scale of pay on the basis of the costs of living prevailing at about the time of the revision?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state whether after the last revision, any increment of pay was granted to ministerial officers owing to the abnormal rise in the price of the necessaries of life? If so, what increment was granted and for what periods?

(d) Is it a fact that increments have been granted to officers in the Post and Telegraph Departments of the Government of India and some State Railways on the ground of high prices?

(e) Will the Government be pleased to state to what extent the cost of living has increased in 1919, as compared with the years 1906-1911, and what action the Government are taking to raise the pay of the ministerial officers to ease the situation?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne:—

(a) Yes.

(b) Yes, but the current cost of living on these dates was presumably only one of other factors considered.

(c) There has been no general revision; recently certain special concessions have been allowed

(d) Government understand that this is so.

Questions and Answers.

(e) It is not possible to calculate this except separately for different classes of people. Furthermore prices of essential commodities have not uniformly risen They have fluctuated. The following figures for retail prices are given by the Department of Statistics (the prices are in rupees) :—

		1906.	1911.	1918.	1919.
Bengal ...	Rice, per maund ...	4.739	3.719	4.175	6.154

Zamindars of Amta drainage basin.

(a) With reference to the statement laid on the table in reply to starred question No. 21 on the 4th September, 1917, will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that Babu Kashiswar Mukherjee of Uttarpara referred to in the said statement sold his zamindary right of the land bearing tauzi No. 38 under the Collector of Hooghly under a registered Deed bearing No 2693 for 1914 registered on the 7th August, 1914, in the Calcutta Registration office, for Rs. 1,99,000 to the late Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur?

(b) Is it a fact that the late Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur paid land revenue to the Collector of Hooghly in his own name after the purchase of the estate from Babu Kashiswar Mukherjee in 1914?

(c) Is it a fact that since the death of Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur land revenue and cesses on account of the above estate have been paid to the Collector of Hooghly by his son, Babu Fateh Singh Nahar, of No. 44, Indian Mirror Street, Calcutta?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a), (b) and (c) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer given to question No. 21 (unstarred) asked by the Hon'ble Babu Brojendra Kishor Ray Chaudhuri."

Amta drainage basin.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether any apportionment of the cost to be incurred in connection with the Amta drainage basin in the district of Howrah is to be realised by the Government from the patnidar direct, or from the zamindar, as usual?

(b) Are the Government considering the advisability of appointing Babu Fateh Singh Nahar as one of the Drainage Commissioners in connection with the Amta drainage scheme in the district of Howrah, in accordance with the terms contained in order No 710 L.S.-G., dated the 3rd March, published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 5th March, 1919?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) The Hon'ble Member is referred to section 22 of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895, which lays down how the cost is to be realised. As patnidars ordinarily pay road-cess through the zamindars and not direct to Government, the drainage cess will be realised from zamindars unless there is a stipulation in the patni lease that they will pay cess direct to Government.

(b) No."

Obstructed drainage in pargana Moyna in Tamluk.

(a) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the condition of the obstructed drainage in pargana Moyna, subdivision Tamluk, in the district of Midnapore, owing to the silting up of the Cossye river?

(b) Are the Government in possession of any memorial submitted to His Excellency the Governor in Council by the people of the affected locality in the middle of June, 1919?

(c) If so, will the Government be pleased to state what steps (if any) they are taking in regard thereto?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

" (a) An investigation of the congested drainage conditions of pargana Moyna, subdivision Tamluk, in the district of Midnapore, was carried out in the year 1910. The survey showed that the tract requiring drainage was an extremely low one and that any scheme drawn up under ordinary methods would not be entirely effective except at a prohibitive cost. Two remedial measures were, however, put forward by the Chief Engineer for acceptance by the people interested. These were :—

(i) To throw open two square miles of land at a time to tidal spill so that a deposit of silt on the low area would raise it in the course of time, and the flow back of clear water would scour out the drainage channels and make them effective for draining the remaining area.

(ii) In the alternative, a drainage cut with its outfall at the junction of the Kaliaghye and Cossye rivers.

The Commissioner, to whom the proposals were referred, reported that neither of the schemes found favour with the people interested.

(b) and (c) The memorial in question was not received till the 27th June, 1919; it is at present under consideration."

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state why the balances of the current demand of the Gobardanga Wards' Estate in the district of the 24-Parganas were on the increase in the years 1916-17 and 1917-18? Gobardanga Wards' Estate.

(b) Is it a fact that the percentages of collection of the current and arrear demands of the said estate were not satisfactory during the last three years up to 1324 (B. S.)?

(c) Did the collection improve during 1918-19, i.e., 1325 B.S.?

(d) Referring to the figures in column (7), Appendix III of the printed Report of the Ward's Estate for the years 1916-17 and 1917-18, will the Government be pleased to state what was the nature of the inquiry held and by whom, and whether the Deputy Collector in charge of the Wards' Estate or the Collector of the district satisfied himself as to the accuracy of the amounts in question which could not be realised by the responsible officers of the Gobardanga Wards' Estate?

(e) Will the Government be pleased to state what steps they are taking for the better administration of the above estate?

Answer by Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

" (a) The increase in the balances of current demand of the Gobardanga Estate in 1916-17 and 1917-18 was due to exceptional economic conditions caused by the war. The balances have subsequently been reduced.

(b) No.

(c) Yes.

(d) No special inquiry was held. The Collector and Wards' Deputy Collector examine the monthly collection statements submitted by the Manager and satisfy themselves regarding the accuracy of the figures.

(e) Steps are being taken to partition the joint property."

Public Works Department division for Damodar basin.

Will the Government be pleased to state—

(a) what steps, if any, have been taken to give effect to the creation of the special Public Works Department division for the Damodar basin;

(b) what final arrangements have been made to communicate flood-warnings to the people on receipt of telegrams from the gauge officers at Raniganj and Barakar; and

(c) what progress, if any, has been made in the excavation of the Uchi Nala?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(a) A redistribution of the area included within the existing Circular and Eastern Canals and Northern Drainage and Embankment Division is under consideration.

This redistribution is proposed to be effected—

(i) by the creation of a new division with headquarters at Khulna for which provision has been made in the current year's budget;

(ii) by alterations in the areas now comprised within the Circular and Eastern Canals Division and the Northern Drainage and Embankment Division so as to give effect to the Resolution moved by the Hon'ble Member in this Council at the meeting held on Tuesday, the 19th February, 1919, in the terms finally accepted by the Legislative Council. The sanction of the Government of India to the creation of the new division is required, and will be asked for at an early date. At the present time there is no officer available to fill the post of Executive Engineer of the proposed new division, but it is hoped that the new division will be created in November next.

(b) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer given in this Council to his starred question No. 10 at the meeting of the 19th August, 1918. No gauge officer is stationed at Barakar, nor is this necessary. The arrangements for the issue of flood-warnings are as given in detail below:—

The gauge reader stationed at Raniganj sends telegrams to the Government officers concerned and also to the Sub-Overseer stationed at Jamalpur. The latter officer communicates the warning to the people interested in the undermentioned manner. One peon proceeds to Berugram, another to Srikristopore and two in turn as directed by the Sub-Overseer down the right embankment, crossing the Damodar at Mohanpur. The Sub-Overseer stationed at Baikantapur on the right bank on receiving instruction from the peons warns the villagers on the right bank. He has also instructions to inform people in important villages and certain specially selected persons. The Raniganj gauge readings are made known to everyone so that in the course of time the people will learn by experience what condition of flood to expect against a level recorded at Raniganj.

(c) Three quarters of the excavation work of the Uchi Nala has been completed. It was not possible to complete the whole work before the present monsoon. The outlet from the Sankari Bil to the existing nala was fully completed last March and has been helpful in draining the spill area."

Will the Government be pleased to make a detailed statement regarding the recurring and non-recurring grants made by the Government of India for education since 1912, showing briefly— Recurring and non-recurring grants by the Government of India for education.

(i) the purposes, terms and conditions of each such grant;

(ii) the amounts credited to provincial funds, year by year, under each such head;

(iii) the expenditure from each such grant, year by year; and

(iv) the balance of each grant now in hand, and the reasons for its non-utilization in each case?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(i), (ii), (iii) and (iv) Two statements, one for recurring Imperial grants and the other for non-recurring Imperial grants sanctioned since 1912-13, are laid on the library table"

Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing— Export and import of rice.

(a) the date on which the Director of Civil Supplies assumed control over export of rice from Bengal;

(b) the quantities of rice which have since been exported from Bengal—

(i) to foreign countries, and

(ii) to other provinces in India,

month by month, as compared with the corresponding figures for the six months immediately preceding his taking over charge;

(c) the names of firms and individuals that have been granted priority certificates during each of these months, permitting export of rice, and the quantities which were sought to be exported, as compared with those actually permitted to be exported, by each under such certificates;

(d) the names of firms and individuals that have been refused priority certificates for exporting rice;

(e) the principles or considerations that govern the granting of priority certificates for export of rice to foreign countries, and the determination of the quantities of rice in respect of which such certificates are granted;

(f) the quantities of rice that have been imported into Bengal from Burma during each month since the date on which control was assumed by the Director of Civil Supplies over the export of rice, as compared with the corresponding figures for the six months immediately preceding;

(g) the quantities of the said Burma rice imported into Bengal since the said date of control, that have been absorbed in—

(i) Calcutta, and

(ii) the other districts of Bengal, and how much has been exported to the other provinces; and (h) the date from which the wholesale price of Burma rice has been regulated in Calcutta, and how the same has varied, if at all?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

" A statement as below is laid on the table.

(a) The Director of Civil Supplies, Bengal, does not control the export of rice from this province, exports being controlled by the Food-stuffs Commissioner for India.

(b) The quantities of rice exported from Bengal—

Resolution on Local Self-Government

With reference to unstarred question No. LXII of the 19th August, 1918, and the reply thereto, will the Government be pleased to state whether they have arrived at any decision in regard to the Government of India Resolution on Local Self-Government which was stated in the said reply to be under consideration?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"The resolution of the Government of India has been carefully considered by Government and definite conclusions have been arrived at. Action is being taken with regard to such of the recommendations as can be conveniently given effect to immediately. There are, however, others which cannot be given effect to without recourse to legislation and which, therefore, must wait until it is possible to take up the amendment of the Bengal Municipal Act and Local Self-Government Act."

Bequest of Mr. B. Pal Chaudhuri.

In regard to the circumstances referred to in the reply to unstarred question No. [illegible] the 3rd April, 1919, regarding the bequest of Mr. B. Pal Chaudhuri, will the Government be pleased to state what action (if any) they are taking in the matter?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"Government do not propose to take any action. The bequest was made to the District Board of Nadia and it is understood that that body is dealing with the matter."

By the Hon'ble Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray:—

52.

Supply of Bengali copies of Village Self-Government Act in rural areas.

Are the Government considering the desirability of circulating a Bengali translation of the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919 (Bengal Act V of 1919), in the rural areas?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"Arrangements are being made to translate the Act into Bengali When the translation is ready, it will be available for supply to members of Union Committees and other persons in rural areas"

What steps have been taken in pursuance of Government resolution No. 1478-Medical, dated the 31st August, 1917, and Government letter No. 2752-Medical, dated the 18th September, 1917, regarding the desirability of bringing district board dispensaries within easy reach of villages? District board dispensaries.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne:—

"The questioner is referred to the answer given to a similar question (unstarred question No. 72) asked by the Hon'ble Babu Siv Narayan Mukharji."

By the Hon'ble Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray:—

54.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state the names of persons who have been released from internment "unconditionally," together with the dates of internment and release in each case? Unconditional release of certain internees.

(b) What are the considerations that generally determine such "unconditional" release?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr:—

"(a) and (b) Government are not prepared to give the names asked for. The second part of the question does not permit of a general answer; the form of order passed depends upon the merits of the individual case."

By the Hon'ble Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray:—

55.

Will the Government be pleased to state the number of visits paid since their appointment by the non-official visitors to each political prisoner and the interval between different visits to each? Non-official visitors to political prisoners.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr:—

"Non-official visits to State prisoners are usually paid monthly, and appear to have numbered 77 to date, though this number is of visits to the jail, which may contain more than one prisoner. In the case of détenus the information could not be compiled without undue labour which it is thought unnecessary to undertake."

Revision of the terms of existing risk notes.

(a) Is it a fact that the terms of the risk notes at present in force were drawn up nearly thirty years ago when conditions prevailing in the country were quite different to what they are at the present day?

(b) Are the Government considering the desirability of recommending to the Government of India that the Railway Board be instructed to inquire into the matter with a view to the revision of the said terms?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(a) No. The form and terms of risk notes for use by railway administrations working railways to which the Indian Railways Act. 1890 (IX of 1890), applies, are subject to the approval of the Governor General in Council under section 72, sub-section (2), clause (b) of that Act. The forms at present in use are lettered A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H and X, Y. Of these, Forms A, B, C, D, E, F. H and X were revised and the revised forms adopted with effect from the 1st July, 1898. Forms Y and G as an alternative to forms X and D were adopted with effect from the 1st July, 1900, and the 1st February, 1903, respectively. Forms B and H were again subsequently revised and the revised forms brought into use with effect from the 1st April, 1907. Forms D and G were also again revised and the revised forms brought into use with effect from the 1st April, 1909. There has been no further revision of any of the forms since the last date named.

(b) No."

Expenditure of the Imperial Educational Grant

(a) With reference to my unstarred question No. XLIX asked at the meeting of Council on the 26th November, 1918, and the reply thereto, will the Government be pleased to state whether they are at present in a position to give the information asked for in the question?

(b) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the remarks by the Hon'ble Sir Sankaran Nair in the Imperial Legislative Council in the last budget debate of that Council in regard to the expenditure of the Imperial Educational grant of nine lakhs and, if so, what steps (if any) have they taken to expedite the expenditure of this grant?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) The Government of India made a recurring grant of Rs. 9 lakhs in 1917-18 for the improvement of primary and secondary education in Bengal. Proposals for its disbursement are still under discussion with the Government of India and final orders have not yet been received.

(b) The grant of 9 lakhs referred to in Sir Sankaran Nair's speech in the budget debate of March last was for the whole of India. This province received (persumably as its share) a grant of 5½ lakhs in 1918-19 for primary education. the whole of which has been distributed."

59.

Certain statistics re the Educational Budget Grant, etc., for the last five years.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing separately the figures for the last five years of the Education Department as to—

(i) the surpluses both in recurring and non-recurring grants, under different heads; and (ii) the items of expenditure, and the heads of allotments of the Imperial grants to this province?

(b) Is it a fact that surpluses have been accumulating in the Educational Budget year after year?

(c) Are the Government considering the desirability of expediting the expenditure of these surpluses and, if so, are the Government in a position to say when these surpluses are likely to be fully spent?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) (i) and (ii) and (b) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the reply to unstarred question No. 45 asked by the Hon'ble Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray.

(c) No expenditure out of these surpluses can be incurred without the sanction of the Government of India and Government are not in a position to say at present how soon these surpluses can be spent."

Grant of hill allowance to the teachers of the Rangamati High English School.

(a) In regard to my question No. 19 (unstarred) asked at the meeting of Council on the 3rd April last regarding the grant of hill allowance to the teachers of the Rangamati High English School, are the Government considering the desirability of increasing the allowance in question up to 33 per cent. of the pay of the teachers so that the deduction of house-rent at the rate of 10 per cent. on their salary will leave intact the 20 per cent. allowance on their pay which was formerly granted to compensate them for the other inconveniences of the place?

(b) With reference to the reply given to the second part of the question referred to in clause (a), are the Government considering the desirability of reconsidering the matter of granting the increase in the hill allowance at least from the date on which such increase was granted to the ministerial officers of Rangamati?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) and (b) The matter is still under the consideration of the Director of Public Instruction, but he is being asked to expedite the submission of his proposals."

Regulation of traffic in the northern part of Calcutta.

With reference to the answer to my unstarred question No. XLIX of the 3rd July, 1918, will the Government be pleased to state whether any progress has been made in the scheme of the Commissioner of Police, in the matter of regulating the traffic in the northern part of Calcutta with the help of the traffic-police, especially in the Burra Bazar, Jorabagan and Kumartooly areas?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr:—

"In October, 1918, Government sanctioned the increase of the traffic police by 22 head constables and 270 constables. Of this number 22 head constables and 187 constables have been recruited from other branches of the Calcutta Police, and partially trained. Thirty-seven new traffic posts have already been put down and manned in the town of Calcutta north of Harrison Road Before October last, the sanctioned strength of the traffic-police was 12 head constables and 126 constables, so under the recent increase the force will practically be trebled."

Municipalities outside Calcutta having 1st and 2nd Class Health Officers and Sanitary Inspectors

(a) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the Municipalities (outside Calcutta) which have at present in their employ 1st and 2nd class Health Officers and 1st and 2nd class Sanitary Inspectors, respectively?

(b) What arrangements are there for the training of candidates for employment as Sanitary Inspectors?

(c) How many persons have so far availed themselves of these opportunities of training?

(d) How many of them have been successful at the Sanitary Inspectorship Examination?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:—

"(a) A statement is laid on the table.

(b) The Sanitary Commissioner conducts a special class for the training of 2nd class Sanitary Inspectors. The course lasts for 8 months.

(c) 237 candidates have been admitted into the class including the current session.

(d) Up to November, 1918, when the last examination was held, 117 men were successful in securing certificates."

Progress in vernacular medical education.

Has any progress been made in regard to the question of vernacular medical education? If not, what are the reasons for the delay in giving effect to the proposal?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne:—

"The questioner is referred to the reply given by the Hon'ble Mr. Donald to a question on the same subject asked by the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray on the 5th March, 1919 It was then stated that Government did not contemplate the establishment of schools or the opening of special classes for imparting medical education in the vernacular. This decision was arrived at upon full consideration and after a reference to the Government of India The existing facilities for imparting medical education in English are still behind the demand for such a training, and it is to the provision of further facilities upon existing lines that it is the wish of the local Government to give preference."

Non-official efforts for sanitary improvement in certain malarial acres.

Are the Government aware of non-official efforts for effecting sanitary improvements in certain malarial areas on co-operative principles? If so, what steps (if any) are the Government taking for furthering these and other similar efforts?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode:--

" Government are aware of the interesting movement which has recently sprung into existence in the direction of the formation of anti-malarial societies on co-operative lines. There are now three such societies in operation, viz., in Panihati, Sukchar and Sodepore, in the 24-Parganas district. Their aims are to provide for free medical attendance and treatment to the members of the society and to carry out local sanitary improvements. The Co-operative Society at Naogaon has also decided to open three dispensaries and to employ three doctors. Quite recently Rai Bahadur, Dr. G. C. Chatterji, who has been a pioneer in this movement, and a number of other gentlemen interested in co-operation and sanitation, approached the Registrar with a view to the registration of a provincial society at Calcutta for the encouragement of anti-malarial societies in the mufassal. The Registrar has given them every assistance in drafting by-laws and in making preliminary arrangements.

The Registrar is giving every encouragement in his power to these societies. The Bengal Co-operative Organisation Society, which receives a subsidy from Government towards its publication, has also given wide publication in its journals to the formation of these societies and to other anti-malarial propaganda."

With reference to unstarred question No. LXXVI of the 3rd July, 1918, will the Government be pleased to state— Development of resources of the country.

(a) what steps (if any) have been taken for the development of the resources of the country since the last war conferences at Delhi and at Calcutta;

(b) in what directions such steps have been taken, and with what result; and

(c) to what extent Indian capital and talents have been utilised thereby?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne:—

" (a) and (b) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer given to questions VI (e) and (f) on the 18th February last. A copy of the new edition of the Indian Munitions Board's handbook is laid upon the library table and attention is invited to articles 2, 3 (a), 8, 17, 29, 30 and 36.

The Hon'ble Member is also referred to the speech of the Hon'ble Revenue Member in reply to the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter on the 27th March, 1919, in which some of the steps taken to develop the resources by Forest and Cinchona Departments were summarised.

Government have at present under consideration two applications for the extraction of wood or bamboo from forests in the Chittagong Hill-tracts Forests Division for commercial purposes.

The investigation of the tannin resources of the Sunderbans is being conducted by an expert to the Government of India.

With regard to agriculture, the Hon'ble Member is referred to the Government Resolution No. 631-T.R., dated the 7th June, 1919, of which a copy is laid on the library table.

Questions and Answers.

With regard to the weaving industry, the Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer to starred question No. VI.

(c) It is difficult to answer this question precisely. During 18 months the Indian Munitions Board placed net orders to the value of 34 crores of rupees An analysis of bills amounting to 8¼ crores shewed that 47 per cent. was paid to purely Indian firms.

It is understood that Indians have not stood aloof from the Industrial section of the share market, while a few of the Industrial Companies are believed to have been subscribed to almost entirely by Indians.

An Indian superintendent and an Indian chemist have been appointed to the new Government Research Tannery."

Expenditure on, and result of, silkworm investigations.

(a) What amount has so far been expended in connection with Miss Cleghorn's investigations regarding silk-worms, and to what practical application have the results of these investigations been put?

(b) Has any expert opinion been obtained with regard to the value of these investigations?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"(a) Rupees seventy-one thousand three hundred and four have been expended so far in five years in connection with Miss Cleghorn's investigation into silk.

The work involves a complete and detailed study of silk-worms, of which the production of hybrids is one branch. An observation made by Miss Cleghorn has been made the basis of a valuable method of selection, whereby the eggs of moths preserving the greatest vitality are used in the production of seed cocoons for distribution to rearers.

The races will have to be tested for several years before it can be deemed safe to distribute them to rearers.

(b) Mr. Maxwell-Lefroy, Professor of Entomology at the Imperial College of Science, London, and lately Silk Specialist to the Government of India, spoke highly of Miss Cleghorn's work, and his remarks have been endorsed by the Bengal Silk Committee."

(b) their present pay, and the date when it was fixed; and

(c) whether there are any proposals under consideration for revising the present scale of pay with a view to attract a better class of men?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(a) and (b) The following table exhibits the average revenue passing through the hands of the Toll Collectors on canals in Bengal, the average pay drawn, and the year in which the scale of pay was fixed :—

CANAL GROUP.	Number of Toll Collectors.	Average pay.	Date when pay was fixed.	Average revenue passing through each Toll Collector's hands.	REMARKS

Survey of the Rohra khal

Will the Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the survey of the Rohra khal, as referred to in the reply to unstarred question No 25, asked at a meeting of the Council held on the 18th February last, has since been completed;

(b) the nature and extent of the work proposed to be undertaken, together with the names of the villages through which the khal will pass and other particulars of the scheme; and

(c) whether it is proposed to execute the scheme during the current financial year?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(a) and (b) The preliminary survey in connection with the proposed improvement of the Rohra khal has been received and the project is now under examination. No particulars in regard to the scheme can be given until the examination of the project has been completed.

(c) There is a provision of Rs. 20,000 in the current year's budget for works in connection with this scheme and it is hoped that the work, if found suitable, will be taken up in the course of the current financial year."

Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing— Statement as to progress, expenditure, etc., of certain public works.

(i) the detailed progress that has been made in the improvement of the lower reaches of the Damodar with a view to drain away the spill of that river;

(ii) the nature and extent of the investigations carried on during the last financial year by Mr. Glass, the Special Officer, in connection with the Reservoir Inquiry Survey at the upper reaches in the Barakar and Damodar valleys;

(iii) the nature and extent of the survey operations now in progress between Kumirkhola and the Begua khal with a view to mitigate the ravages of the flood; and

(iv) the actual amount spent up to the close of the last financial year on the anti-flood measures, together with the details of the work on which the amount was so spent?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(i) (a) The Ghesapatty khal has been excavated for a length of nearly 3 miles to a bed width of 100 feet and depth of 12 feet.

(b) The Buxi khal embankment has been retired about half a mile inland over a length of about one mile.

(c) The Hoorhoora khal has been excavated by hand labour, for a length of 3 miles in the district of Howrah, to a width of 50 feet and a depth of 12 feet. This portion of the khal will be finally improved by dredging.

(ii) (a) Study of Natural Phenomena.—

Available statistics of rainfall and flood gaugings have been analysed and from these have been established the nature and frequency of floods in the Damodar river. The maximum possible flood to be provided for in the design of the flood-regulating dams has been calculated.

(b) River Surveys.—

(i) From cross sections and flood levels the maximum rate of discharge of the record flood of 1913 for various sites has been calculated.

(ii) Levels have been taken along the right bank of the river where the flood water spills to estimate the extent of the spill.

(iii) Cross sections of the Lower Damodar have been taken to ascertain the actual carrying capacity of the river between banks.

Questions and Answers.

(c) River Gauging.—

During the monsoon special gaugings have been carried out at several selected sites, velocity observations made and experiments to ascertain the proportion of silt carried in the water.

(d) Reconnaisances for Dam sites :—

The valleys of the Barakar and Upper Damodar rivers and of some of their main tributaries have been examined and the possibility of the construction of reservoir dams investigated

(e) Survey and investigation of selected sites for Dams.—

(i) Basins of proposed reservoirs have been contoured, and information obtained of the area likely to be submerged.

(ii) Detailed plans for each site have been prepared

(iii) The nature of the soil, sub-soil and rock available at each site has been thoroughly investigated.

(iv) Information in regard to materials of construction available has been collected

(f) Design of Dams and Reservoirs.—

The general principles and outlines of designs have been worked out, while the detailed proposals are well in hand; a definite project for control of the floods by reservoirs is under preparation.

(iii) Surveys are being made to trace (if possible) the changes in the features of the country during the last 60 years both as regards the levels of the country and the changes in the Begua and other spill khals. The surveys extend to the extreme limits of the 1913 flood: and, when completed, will afford valuable indications as to the extent of relief possible for the prevention of water-logging after a flood.

(a) With reference to the answer to unstarred question No. XI of 3rd July, 1917, regarding the removal of the headquarters station of the Noakhali district, are the Government aware that the erosion of the river Meghna has proceeded with alarming rapidity during the last two years and that the zilla school, the Madrassa, the Mission House, the Hindu and Muhammadan Boarding buildings and some residential buildings have already been washed away? Removal of headquarters of the Noakhali district.

(b) Are the Government also aware that the erosion of the Meghna has been a matter of grave anxiety and great concern to the people of Noakhali?

(c) Are the Government considering the necessity of making any arrangement for the removal of the headquarters station at once?

(d) If so, will the Government be pleased to state what site, if any, has been selected for this purpose and whether this removal will be temporary or permanent?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr:—

"It is unfortunately the case that the erosion by the Meghna at Noakhali is proceeding at a rather more rapid rate this year than in former years, and that the buildings mentioned in the question which lay between the river and the town have been washed away. Government have no doubt that the situation is causing grave anxiety to the people of Noakhali. At the same time, the town itself is in no immediate danger, and there is still the possibility that the erosion may cease before the river reaches the town. In these circumstances, Government propose to adhere to the policy which they have already declared in this Council and elsewhere They have no intention of abandoning the present station unless the erosion of the Meghna should render this course necessary, and have come to no decision as to the site which should in that event be selected as the headquarters. Meanwhile temporary quarters are being built at Sonapur, and will shortly be ready, for those officials whose houses are in most imminent danger, and arrangements have been made for the temporary accommodation of the zilla school and madrassa."

Rise in the price of rice and other food-stuffs in Bengal.

(a) Are the Government aware that the rise in the price of rice and other food-stuffs in the Presidency has been very rapid and abnormal since the beginning of this year?

(b) Are the Government also aware that this rise has been causing great anxiety to the whole population of the Presidency and that the poorer people are already suffering a great deal on this account?

(c) Have the Government taken any steps to ascertain the causes of this rise? If so, will the Government be pleased to state what these causes are?

(d) What steps (if any) are the Government taking with a view to mitigating the sufferings of the poor of this Presidency on account of the rise of prices?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

" (a), (b), (c) and (d) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the statement which will be made in connection with the resolutions on the same subject which will be moved at the present Council meeting and to the following Press communiqué of the 14th June, 1919 :—

' The question of the retail price of rice in the Bengal Presidency has been continuously under examination by the Local Government for many months past; and, in particular, the pronounced rise which began last April has been the subject of careful and minute examination It is within the knowledge of the public that the control of rice is under the direction of the Government of India. The general principle which is being adopted is that supplies of rice are being directed from the provinces in which stocks are still available to those provinces in which but for outside help actual shortage of food is feared. But on the representation of the Bengal Government regarding the abnormally high prices now prevailing in the Presidency, the Imperial Government have re-examined the whole question of outside demands on Bengal and in its interests have adopted the following measures.

2 The monthly allotment made by the Foodstuffs Commissioner for exports of rice by rail to other provinces has been materially decreased; and overseas export to Madras has been substantially reduced A moderate allotment of Burma rice has been made for Bengal via Calcutta, which, it is anticipated, will be continued monthly; whilst arrangements have been made for the import of rice from Akyab to Chittagong for the use of Assam and of the Eastern districts of Bengal The Government of India have also under consideration measures for the prevention of the creation of competitive prices by purchasers from other provinces bidding against one another. Further, the freight of rice from Rangoon to Calcutta has been decreased.

3 The Government of Bengal have at present no reason to anticipate any actual shortage of rice; but by the census of stocks of rice in the province, orders for which have recently issued, it is proposed to ascertain more clearly the position in each district and in the Presidency as a whole, and, in particular, whether there is any improper holding up of stocks.' High prices of cloth in Bengal

(a) Are the Government aware that high prices of cloth are still prevailing throughout the Presidency, and that there is also an upward tendency of these prices?

Questions and Answers.

(b) Are the Government also aware that great distress prevails throughout the Presidency owing to these high prices?

(c) Have the Government caused any inquiry to be made into the causes of these high prices of cloth? If so, what are the causes?

(d) Is there any reason to think that there is a likelihood of these prices falling soon?

(e) Will the Government be pleased to state what steps (if any) they are taking to control the prices of cloth?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne:—

"(a) The price of cloth throughout the Presidency is still considerably above the pre-war normal, but retail prices have varied very little during the last six months and are now very much the same as they were in the latter part of January.

(b) Yes.

(c) An inquiry was made by a Committee appointed by Government in July, 1918. The same causes of high prices which were then found to exist are still at work. These were explained in the course of the debate on the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur on the 19th February, 1919.

(d) There are signs of future improvement in imports of cloth, but it is difficult to forecast future prices.

(e) Government are carefully watching the trend of prices of cloth, but do not at present contemplate taking any special action."

LEGISLATIVE BUSINESS.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 3.

THE CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL BILL, 1917.

The Hon'ble Sir Bijay Chand Mahtab, Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan; moved that the Calcutta Municipal Bill, 1917, be withdrawn.

He said :—

"My Lord, in moving this motion I feel that on behalf of Government I must explain at some length the reasons that have weighed with the Government to decide upon the course which I have now proposed. It may be within the recollection of members of this Council that Sir S. P. Sinha (now Lord Sinha) when introducing the Calcutta Municipal Bill on the 27th of November, 1917, pointed out that doubts and difficulties had from time to time arisen with regard to the construction and practical operation of the Calcutta Municipal Act of 1899 and there had been also a growing volume of public opinion that the constitution of the Corporation should be further liberalized. Lord Sinha then sketched the genesis of the present Bill and, among other things, he pointed out that 'in the address which the Chairman and the Commissioners of the Calcutta Corporation presented on behalf of the citizens of Calcutta, to His Excellency Lord Carmichael, on his arrival in Calcutta, to take up the Government of the Presidency, they expressed the opinion that their administration would not be effective without some radical alterations in the law and in the constitution of the Corporation, and they invited consideration of the suggestions of the Royal Commission on Decentralization regarding the Corporation'. I may mention here that the Royal Commission upon Decentralization, after going into the question of municipal administration generally, were strongly impressed with the necessity of relieving the Chairman from having to preside at all meetings of the Corporation and the General Committee and at practically all special and sub-committees. They accordingly recommended in their Report the adoption of the system in force in Bombay under which all executive authority vests in a Municipal Commissioner appointed by Government, who is not a member of the Corporation. Lord Sinha then went on to say—'several representations were subsequently submitted to Government from private individuals, as well as from representative Associations, and various proposals were suggested for the consideration of Government with a view to the amendment of the Calcutta Municipal Act. 1899. The Government of Lord Carmichael realized that there was a widespread feeling in favour of amending the Act, and in particular of an alteration in the constitution of the Corporation. The various proposals and suggestions which had been put forward were considered and examined, and a Resolution was published in 1913, inviting the views of the Calcutta Corporation and the general public on the main alterations suggested in the law, which related principally to the constitution of the Corporation and the administrative machinery employed.' After consideration of the views expressed the Bill now under discussion was prepared by Lord Carmichael's Government and eventually introduced as I have already mentioned in March 1917.

The Calcutta Municipal Bill, 1917.

The Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan.

The main features of this Bill are—

(i) the increase of the number of Commissioners;
(ii) the election of Muhammadan representatives by separate District Electorates of their own, precluding them at the same time from taking part in the General or Ward elections;
(iii) the abolition of plural voting;
(iv) the appointment of a Commissioner by the Government as the head of the executive and the election of a Chairman by the Corporation to preside at its meetings and the abolition of the General Committee and the creation of a General Appeals Committee and a Buildings Appeals Committee.

These changes were primarily proposed to meet popular demands and at the same time to give the Corporation a more liberal constitution than under the present law of 1899. To take the case of Muhammadan representation, public opinion was invited on the subject and as stated by Lord Sinha 'in spite of the unanimous opposition of the Hindu associations the consensus of opinion, including that of the Corporation, was in favour of securing adequate representation to this important community by a separate communal electorate'. The proposal for the abolition of plural voting was designed to make the constitution of the Corporation more democratic whilst in introducing the Bombay system of vesting all executive authority in a Municipal Commissioner appointed by Government, we were following the recommendations of the Royal Commission upon Decentralization. As regards the fifth of the important constitutional changes proposed there was a strong body of opinion, including that of the Corporation itself, in favour of the abolition of the General Committee and the transfer of its powers partly to the Corporation and partly to the Municipal Commissioner.

When Your Excellency's Government came into office in 1917, they succeeded to this Bill as a legacy from Lord Carmichael's Government, and it was decided to introduce it, though it was recognized that it would be introduced at a time when the general principles of the development in India of Local Self-Government were about to be further examined and that new and more liberal principles might be enunciated and that there might be a change in the public attitude towards the provisions contained in the Bill. The Government of Bengal realized then, as they do now, the necessity for carrying public opinion with them in a measure of this kind and were fully alive to the fact that their policy would have to be determined by the reception it met. The Bill was accordingly introduced as a medium of ascertaining what form of City Government the public of Bengal in general and the Corporation of Calcutta in particular wished to have. It was on this account that in addressing the Council on 4th April, 1918, Your Excellency remarked that when the views of the Corporation and other public bodies on the Bill had been submitted they would receive careful and earnest attention from Government, and Your Excellency at the same time gave voice to the hope that the expression of their views would not be unduly delayed though there was no desire on the part of Government to curtail the time necessary for a full considered opinion.

The Calcutta Municipal Bill, 1917.

The Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan.

Well, the Corporation have had ample time to consider the provisions of the Bill, although I am much afraid that some of its members would probably have liked to have had more time for the purpose, but which the Government did not feel justified in granting as already two full years had elapsed since the introduction of the measure by Lord Sinha in 1917. However, in March last they submitted their opinion on the provisions relating to the constitution and government of the City, and from their views one thing is certain, viz., that they do not want the organization embodied in the Bill. The Corporation, of course, like other people are free to change their minds and in the present instance they have certainly done so effectually. In fact, in certain aspects there has been an entire transformation of their ideas, for they now protest against some of the changes they themselves formerly asked for, largely it seems because of the conflict between certain features of the Bill and some of the principles laid down in the Resolution on Local Self-Government issued by the Government of India in May, 1918. nearly six months after the Bill was introduced.

The Corporation have now made a number of propcsals which are in entire opposition to the system incorporated in the Bill. To give an instance, the Bill provides for nominations of Commissioners by various public bodies, whereas the Corporation recommend that this method of representation by special electorates should be entirely done away with. Their recommendation is certainly consonant with the view put forward in the Report of the Viceroy and the Secretary of State on Indian constitutional reforms that the number of special electorates should be as restricted as possible, and that minority interests should. wherever necessary, be represented not by class or interest electorates, but by nomination. The Corporation then again in another direction are so far democratic that they wish to lower the qualifications for franchise and to introduce female suffrage, thus going beyond the scope of the Bill ; on the other hand, however, they are opposed to the democratic innovation which we introduce in the Bill, viz., the abolition of plural voting. Again, they are of opinion that no separate Muhammadan electorate is necessary. In this matter, of course. their views are, in accordance with those expressed in the Resolution of the Government of India in May, 1918, on Local Self-Government which states that special representation of minorities, where necessary, should preferably be effected by the system of nomination rather than by introducing some system of communal electorates. Lastly. the Corporation have proposed that they should have power to appoint and remove the Municipal Commissioner and Deputy Commissioner subject to the approval of Government. Here, again, they follow the view of the Government of India who have laid down in their Resolution that the executive head may be nominated by the Municipal Board but his appointment should be approved by Government and he should not be removed without the sanction of Government unless by the vote of a substantial majority of the Board.

Turning to the other views that have been expressed by different public bodies, some of which are more or less of an adverse character, we find, for instance, the Indian Association object to many of the provisions of the Bill relating to constitution. They urge—

(1) that the Corporation should be the sole supreme authority delegating its powers to the Municipal Commissioner and to different committees ;

(2) the Municipal Commissioner should be elected by the Corporation subject to the veto of Government, and the Corporation should have the sole power of appointing the Deputy Commissioner ;

(3) the elected element on the Corporation should be increased ;

(4) that there should be no separate Muhammadan electorate ; and

(5) the provisions for franchise are old and out of date and the franchise should be broadened.

The Anglo-Indian Association would like—

(1) that the Corporation should be recognized as the supreme authority with power to appoint committees, there being no co-ordinate authorities ;

(2) that the control of Government should be external ; and

(3) that there should be female suffrage.

Coming to Muhammadan sentiment, we find the Bengal Presidency Moslem League regard the Bill as unsatisfactory and retrograde, because according to them the Corporation should have the supreme controlling authority and also they do not consider that the Muhammadans have been given sufficient representation. The Central National Muhammadan Association, whilst also asking for more Muhammadan representation, wish the qualifications for franchise to be lowered. The Calcutta Trades' Association seem to think that the Bill is abortive in consequence of impending constitutional changes. They understand, they say, that it is now likely, owing to the change in the political atmosphere of India, that much more extensive proposals will be forthcoming for the liberalizing of the constitution ; and while, therefore, they evidently do not favour our proceeding with the proposed new Bill, they have suggested dividing the Bill into two parts, and going ahead at the earliest possible opportunity with such sections that deal with practical City Government after necessary revision. It is curious, though at the same time not uninteresting, to find two of the most prominent European Associations in Calcutta advocating our not proceeding with the Bill in view of the pending reforms. I have already quoted what the Calcutta Trades' Association have said and as it might interest the members of this Council, I may point out that so far back as May 1918, the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, in their reply to the Government, advocated the same thing. My Lord, I have already, I am afraid, trespassed on the time of this Council and I shall, therefore, now briefly state why it is that the Government propose to withdraw the Bill. It must be evident to members of this Council from the view received by the Government from the different bodies, particularly the Calcutta Corporation itself, that the Bill introduced in 1917, instead of having received a warm welcome, has had, in certain respects, at any rate, a somewhat chilly and hostile reception. Government are more anxious now than ever of popularizing Local Self-Government in the country and in view, therefore, of the coming reforms as well as, of course, of the fact that Government have no desire to force on an unwilling Corporation a constitution which it does not consider popular, they have consequently decided to move for the withdrawal of the Bill. Although, however, Government propose to withdraw this Bill, they hope to be able to introduce before very long fresh legislation for certain practical administrative reforms of which the necessity had long been felt. The Bill as introduced, as I have already pointed out, provided for enlarging the constitution of the Corporation and for a more equitable representation of all sections of the community. It was also intended at the same time to overcome practical difficulties which have been experienced as the result of the working of the Act since 1899. The Corporation have submitted a representation that there are certain urgent and non-controversial matters of an administrative character in regard to which immediate legislation is necessary, such as the improvement of the milk-supply, the licensing of theatres and the revision of the existing law regarding food adulteration.

The Calcutta Municipal Bill, 1917.

Rai D. C. Ghose Bahadur ; Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

Government, therefore, whilst deciding to withdraw the present Bill, agree that grave inconvenience will be caused if legislation for administrative reforms of this character is deferred, and it is, therefore, proposed to introduce as soon as possible an amending Bill dealing solely with administrative reforms which lie outside the field of political controversy.

My Lord, I now beg to move that the Calcutta Municipal Bill, 1917, be withdrawn."

The Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur said :—

" My Lord, permit me to congratulate the Government on its decision to withdraw the Calcutta Municipal Bill. The Bill has been introduced in 1917, some years after the breaking up of the war. The Bill might have studied the temper of the people and the atmosphere of 1912-13, but from the time when instructions to draft the Bill were issued, the political atmosphere (as the Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur has said) has changed. It has rapidly changed and the Bill as it was introduced was an anachronism, and, it would be an advantage for the Government, having now received the opinions of the several bodies interested in the efficient working of the Municipality, that they should withdraw the Bill and frame a new Bill on the lines of public opinion of the present time, and the views which the Government of the present day might entertain on it, because I am sure the opinion of Government also changes with the change of time and that what they considered wise and good some 5 years ago may not be so now. Then, my Lord, something has been said about the changing attitude of the Corporation of Calcutta. I plead guilty to that, my Lord. We are bound to change our attitude with the progress of time and it is no credit to a person or to a public body if they cannot change—change which may be due to the change in the political atmosphere or as a result of public criticism. If something be found better, there is no reason why we should not change our present view and adopt a new one. For instance, the question of female suffrage which has been referred to by the Hon'ble Member. It will be found that certain provinces in British India have gone ahead of us, and have given votes to female owners and occupiers of property. Bombay has been satisfied with such a thing since the year 1888. By Bombay I do not mean the city of Bombay alone but also the mufassal districts where they have given votes to females. There are female electors without causing any inconvenience. This is also the case in the United Provinces where, I believe, female suffrage was given some 10 or 15 years ago. There is something of this kind in the Punjab also, so that female suffrage, as suggested by the Calcutta Corporation for introduction, is not an experiment and is not a thing which ought not to have been put forward by such a sedate body as the Calcutta Corporation. As I said, my Lord, I am glad that the measure is being withdrawn and that the materials now before the Council will form the foundation of a new and better measure."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, when I entered the Council Chamber I had no idea of speaking on this motion ; and I did not anticipate such a lucid speech from the Hon'ble Member in charge. But I am glad that he has dealt with the whole history of the Calcutta Municipality. I think, my Lord, I may say that I do not agree with my hon'ble friend to the left (Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur) that the Bill should not have been introduced at all in the year 1917. I am glad that it was introduced and that the public had an opportunity of seeing what the Government proposed to do in connection with the Calcutta Municipality and what reforms and changes the Government proposed to introduce. I am glad that this introduction afforded an opportunity not only to the Corporation but also to the public generally to express their views on the subject.

The Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan has dwelt on the delay on the part of the Corporation in submitting their opinion on this Bill. Well, my Lord, it is the old old cry that the Corporation is an arsenal of delays. May I not retort and ask, how many years the Government of Bengal took in incubating this measure? If I go back to the history of this measure, I may say that in 1913 the main proposals relating to the constitution were formulated and a special officer was deputed to draft the Bill. If with all the resources at their disposal Government took no less than four years to deal with a measure of such magnitude, I think the Corporation and the public bodies have not taken an unduly long time over this measure which is a big volume containing nearly 600 sections with a number of schedules.

Then, my Lord, the first instalment of the opinion of the Corporation was submitted some time in March last. This related to the constitution, and the subject naturally took a great deal of time. The Corporation is a heterogenous body, consisting of Europeans and Indians, Hindus and Muhammadans, Parsis and Jews, and we had to harmonize the views of the different sections of the community. I think that the Corporation, instead of being accused of delay, ought to be congratulated on being able to submit their views on the constitutional portions, which are endorsed by all sections of the community, European and Indian.

My Lord, the Corporation have been charged—and I take the charge in a light-hearted way—with changing their views. The main point is whether the Corporation should be the supreme authority, as was the case long before the Indian Constitutional Reforms were even dreamed of by Mr. Montagu; I believe he was then in his cradle. In 1863, the Government of Sir Cecil Beadon created the Corporation, and made it the supreme authority. There were no co-ordinate authorities, nor was the executive free from the control of the Corporation. Then, in 1876, the elective system was partially introduced in Sir Richard Temple's time, and in Sir Stuart Bayley's time in 1888 the suburbs were amalgamated with Calcutta. Ten years later, unluckily for us at an evil moment—I think in a fit of anger—everything was smashed, and in 1899 an Act was passed, pulling the Corporation down from the position it had occupied since 1863. I think it is clear from the proceedings of the Corporation that we—the representatives of rate-payers—wanted at least the restoration of the constitution which Calcutta had enjoyed since 1863. Fortunately or unfortunately, I am glad that the Bill revealed to the general public what Government intended to do. The Bill proposed to keep the Corporation as an ornamental body with some increase in the number of members and we were to be content with some additional chairs in the Corporation Council Chamber. That, my Lord, was a position which we were not prepared to accept, especially in view of the fact that high hopes were engendered in our minds after the publication of the celebrated Report on Constitutional Reforms by His Excellency the Viceroy and the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India.

My Lord, the first Calcutta Municipal Act creating the Corporation was passed in 1863 and after a lapse of 12 or 13 years it was amended in 1876; it was again amended in 1888 and finally in 1899 a retrograde measure was passed, doing away with the Corporation as a supreme authority in Municipal affairs. In 1917 we were pressed with this disappointing Bill, although we had always been promised in very sweet and comforting expressions by successive Viceroys and Governors that the Act would be amended and that there would be something like real local self-government as you have in your own country. We came to the Throne Room of Government House and presented addresses; and we had hopes held out but nothing tangible has yet been done to fulfil those hopes. I may also submit that not only the Corporation but generally all the public bodies, including the Anglo-Indian Association, the Calcutta Trades' Association, the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, the Muhammadan Association and other Indian Associations and even the non-official European Commissioners think that the time has changed and that the constitution of the Corporation should be liberalized. That shows, my Lord, the volume of public opinion and the depth of public feeling in the country, and I hope that now that the Bill is to be withdrawn effect will be given to the popular wishes in this matter. If in this small matter of City Government we are not to have genuine self-government, what is the use of giving us hopes of enlarged powers in the Provincial Councils or in the Government of India? If we are not to be trusted after 150 years of British rule to manage our own local affairs, and we are to be always in the leading strings of the executive head of the Corporation, far better that there should be no reform than a reform in which we shall be rewarded only with some additional chairs in the Corporation Council Chamber.

The Bengal Food Adulteration Bill, 1919.

The Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan.

As regards the change of views of the Corporation, I may say a word or two before I sit down. I do not think that there has been any material change, but having regard to the publication of the report on the Indian constitutional reforms, the Corporation thought that as regards European representation, it should be secured through earmarking a certain number of seats for Europeans in some Wards instead of through election by close association. As regards Moslem representation it took a little time to harmonize the views of Hindus and Muhammadans on the subject and the opinion arrived at is the considered view of the Corporation. As regards female suffrage for which my gallant friend the Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur fought hard in the Corporation, we accepted it by a majority. These are some of the details. There has been no change of opinion or attitude in regard to the main thing, viz., that the Corporation should be the supreme authority in Municipal affairs, and we implore the Government that in the matter of Municipal administration the Corporation should be the supreme authority."

The motion was put and agreed to.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 5.

THE BENGAL FOOD ADULTERATION BILL, 1919.

AMENDMENT No. 1 (APPENDIX TO THE LIST OF BUSINESS).

Preamble.

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved that the following be substituted for the title and preamble, namely :—

to make provision for the sale of food in Bengal in a pure and genuine condition.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for the sale of food in Bengal in a pure and genuine condition and for the prevention of adulteration thereof ; "

He said :—

" My Lord, in making this amendment I beg to submit that the amendment suggested is based on the idea that the object of the Bill is to make provision for the sale of food in Bengal in a pure and genuine condition. The preamble ought to include such a language as referred to just now. The perusal of the several clauses of the Bill may justify me to make this suggestion. Reading 38 and 39 Vic. C. 63 upon which the Bill has been drafted, I am fortified to make this amendment as to the title and preamble. The title of the English Act runs thus :—' An Act to repeal the adulteration of food and drugs and to make better provision for the sale of food and drugs in a pure state whereas it is desirable that the Acts now in force relating to the adulteration of food should be repealed and that the law regarding the sale of food, etc.. in a pure and genuine condition is to be amended '. I notice that the preamble in the Bill simply states for the prevention of adulteration of food in Bengal. The title and the preamble of the Act ought to be clear and exhaustive."

The Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan said :—

"My Lord, I am sorry I am unable to accept this amendment. In opposing this amendment I am aware that the more recent English Act designed to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs bears the title of Sale of Food and Drugs Act. But the Sanitary Commissioner's note upon this point which is contained in the collection of opinions had some force in regard to the original title circulated to the Hon'ble Members and adopted by Government in this Bill, namely, the Prevention of Adulteration Bill. As the matter does not deal with adulteration generally but merely with the adulteration of food, while adulteration is actually practised in many other commodities, the Select Committee realized that some change in the title was necessary and the Bill now bears the title of the Bengal Food Adulteration Bill. This title is in my opinion adequate and it covers measures to secure both the sale and manufacture of pure food. I do not think that the amendment of the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur would be an improvement. As both the title and preamble seem to me to be suitable and sufficiently expressive, I would request the Council to reject the proposed amendment."

The Bengal Food Adultera'ion Bill, 1919.

Rai M. C. Mitra Bahadur ; The President.

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, it is not necessary for me to add anything more. I have sufficiently explained my views to the Council."

The motion was then put and lost.

AMENDMENT No. 2.

Clause 1.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur was to have moved that for the words "Bengal Food Adulteration Act" in lines 1 and 2 of sub-clause (1) of clause 1, the words "Bengal Pure Food Act" be substituted.

The President said :—

"The amendment standing in the name of the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur is consequential on the first amendment and therefore falls."

The amendment was then deemed to be withdrawn.

AMENDMENT No. 3.

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved that in sub-clause (2) of clause 1, the following be omitted, namely :—

"(1) in lines 2 and 3, the words, brackets and figures 'except Calcutta as defined in clause (7) of section 3 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1899,' and

(2) in line 7, the words 'outside Calcutta'."

He said :—

"My Lord, the proposed amendment suggests to the Council that the Act should be extended to Calcutta. Whoever has carefully read the clauses of the Bill cannot express his debt of gratitude to the hon'ble mover of the Bill and the Select Committee. The provisions of the English Acts from 1875 to 1907, specially the sale of Food and Drugs Acts of 1875, 1879, of 1899, the Butter and Margarine Act of 1907, have been made applicable to Bengal as far as they may be possible. The Bill is not exhaustive and is capable of further amendments and improvements. The intricacies of the English law have been carefully avoided and the clauses exhibit care and attention paid to bring home at present cases so far as Bengal is concerned. Clauses 5, 6 and 8 are elastic. The warranty sections, so familiar to English lawyers, may be made applicable to these clauses. My Lord, I regret to note that this Bill has been declared not to be applicable to Calcutta, notwithstanding the valuable opinion of the Marwari Association, Calcutta, to the effect that various articles of food of common consumption, such as ghee, oil, atta, etc., are imported into the interior of the Presidency of Bengal from Calcutta. Having regard to some of the provisions of the Bill the Association are of opinion that the clause should be so altered as to make the law applicable to Calcutta also in order to check, as far as possible, the sale in the mufassal of adulterated articles imported from Calcutta. It is submitted that the field of the operation of the Bill should not be in the mufassal only, but in Calcutta also, the centre of trade and commerce. If the provisions of the Bill are administered with care in Calcutta, there may be a salutary check on the sale of adulterated food in the Province. Sections 495 and 496 of the Calcutta Municipal Act (Ben. Act III of 1899) now in force, in Chapter XXXV, are, in my opinion, not exhaustive and therefore powerless to prevent adulteration. In the new Bill which has been withdrawn the improvements suggested in Chapter XXIX will therefore be of no practical utility to the public.

The Bengal Food Adulteration Bill. 1919.

The Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan ; Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

Only the Ghee Act has been passed by Your Excellency's Council for Calcutta, but I regret to note that nothing has been done as yet for the prevention of the sale of milk, mustard oil, etc., in adulterated condition by a very large number of vendors in markets of Calcutta excepting in a few markets belonging to the Calcutta Corporation. Had the sections of the Calcutta Municipal Act now in force been powerful enough to enforce the sale of milk, mustard oil, etc., in a pure and genuine condition only, the vendors in Calcutta markets referred to above would not have ventured to sell them in an adulterated condition and could not exhibit signboards and placards to the effect that they sell adulterated articles."

The Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan said :—

"My Lord, it was a little bit surprising to me when I moved for the withdrawal of the Calcutta Municipal Bill that the two gallant gentlemen who defended the opinion of the Corporation did not at all welcome my proposal except by their silence to take up urgent legislation in connection with better milk supply and of further and more adequate control against the adulteration of food. Therefore, it is perhaps in one sense very pleasant to hear the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur suggesting that this Act should apply to Calcutta as well as to the mufassal. My Lord, I quite agree that some measure to prevent the sale and manufacture of adulterated food in Calcutta is even more urgently required than in the mufassal, and if Government were proposing to leave Calcutta alone, the hon'ble mover of this amendent would be justified in complaining against the distinction which the legislature would be setting up by excluding Calcutta in this manner. But if the Hon'ble Member who has moved this amendment heard me correctly, I am sure he must have realized that it is proposed at a very early date to lay before this Council a short amending Bill which would provide for certain urgent amendments for Calcutta. A draft of that Bill, as I have already said, is now under preparation and I may inform the Hon'ble Member that it contains adequate provisions for the prevention of food adulteration in Calcutta. As I have pointed out it is more convenient to have the Municipal law contained within the four corners of one Act, and a further reason for not accepting the Hon'ble Member's amendment is that the Corporation has not been consulted on this Bill. In view of this, I trust that the Hon'ble Mover will see his way to withdraw it. I regret that I am unable to accept it."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, although this matter was not referred to the Corporation it was discussed in one of our committees and the Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan is quite right in saying that the Calcutta Municipal Bill contained certain provisions—I may say additional provisions—which would adequately check this evil in Calcutta. They therefore felt no necessity for pressing for an extension of this Act to Calcutta. I believe everyone is anxious that there should be adequate check over the sale of adulterated foodstuffs in Calcutta as well, and I am sure that when the Act is amended and when the emergency legislation foreshadowed in the speech of the Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur and requested by the Corporation is passed, there will be no difficulty in coping with the evil in Calcutta.

With reference to the Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur's observation that the two gallant gentlemen (meaning my honourable colleague Rai Bahadur Debender Chunder Ghose and myself) did not thank Government for acceding to the request of the Corporation to take up an emergency legislation for the better control of food and drugs in Calcutta and in connection with certain other matters I did not know that Government were in need of compliments. We were talking about the constitution of the Corporation, and the question of emergency legislation did not arise. However, I shall bear it in mind and will never let an opportunity pass of paying a compliment to Government for any little act of kindness and justice or for doing their duty, at least so long as the Hon'ble Member occupies an honoured place in the counsels of Government."

The Bengal Food Adulteration Bill, 1919.

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I have already submitted my views in connection with the amendment. To my mind it appears that the Act as it is ought to be exhaustive and applicable to the whole Province inclusive of Calcutta. When the Ghee Act was passed there was a saving clause that notification may be made with regard to its operation in the mufassal. But, my Lord, that Act is applicable, as far as I understand and as far as my information goes, only to Calcutta. If there be one Act applicable to the mufassal and another to Calcutta there may be some difficulty. I always thought it necessary that in cases like this, where adulterated food is the subject matter of consideration, there ought to be one Act applicable to the whole Province. Why do I say that? Because, in the mufassal where food is adulterated, the practice may be checked if the whole thing is brought under the control of one and the same authority. That is the view, my lord, which persuaded me to come to the Council and ask for the consideration of your Excellency's Council whether this Bill ought to have its operation in Calcutta or not. The Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan has told me that there will be an emergency Bill, but it is not known as yet what the Bill will contain, but if all the difficulties which I have submitted to the Council are obviated under the provisions of the emergency Bill I have nothing more to say and I find that the representative of the Calcutta Corporation also agrees with the views of the Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan. I think I had better withdraw this amendment and leave the matter as it now stands."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

AMENDMENT No. 4.

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri moved that the words "after previous publication", in line 4 of sub-clause (2) of clause 1, be omitted.

He said :—

"My Lord, I think I should not press for this amendment. On reconsideration I see that 'after previous publication' has been rightly introduced in the Bill. I, therefore, beg leave to withdraw the motion."

The motion was then by leave of the President withdrawn.

AMENDMENT No. 5.

Clause 2.

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri moved that after sub-clause (4) of clause 2, the following be inserted, namely :—

"(4a) 'offence' means anything made punishable by this Act."

He said :—

"My Lord, I think 'offence' should be defined. I have not consulted the Bengal General Clauses Act very carefully and I do not know whether that Act would cover this. In the case of the Village Self-Government Act 'offence' had to be defined. So I think it should be defined in this Act too."

The Bengal Food Adulteration Bill, 1919.

The Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan; Babu K. M. Chaudhuri; Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur; Mr. Goode.

The Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan said :—

"My Lord, the Hon'ble Member's intention is to make the section stronger and more free from any possible legal flaw and I would have welcomed his proposal if it had appeared necessary from this point of view. Government are, however, advised that there is no necessity to define the word 'offence', as the definition in section 3 (30) of the General Clauses Act, to which some reference has been made by the Hon'ble Member, will apply. The amendment is unnecessary, and I hope the Hon'ble Member will not press it."

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri said :—

"In view of the fact that it is covered by the General Clauses Act, I do not press it."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

AMENDMENT No. 6.

Clause 5.

The Hon'ble Rái Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that the words "to the prejudice of the purchaser", in lines 2 and 3 of sub-clause (1) of clause 5, be omitted.

He said :—

"My Lord, the words 'to the prejudice of the purchaser' will, I think, hamper prosecutions. It is rather difficult to prove and this is the view not only of myself but also of the Collector of Rangpur and some other gentlemen, who have given their opinions on the clause. I do not know whether the attention of the Select Committee was drawn to it, but the report does not show on what ground the suggestion was not accepted. After full consideration I would suggest the deletion of the words 'to the prejudice of the purchaser'."

The Hon'ble Mr. Goode said :—

"My Lord, I quite agree with the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur that it will be necessarily difficult to prove prejudice in the case of a prosecution and that Government will be very well advised to accept the amendment which the Hon'ble Mover has now placed before the Council if such proof is necessary. But as a matter of fact there are several very clear rulings in the English Courts which show that actual prejudice or damage need not be proved in establishing an offence under the section of the English Act which resembles the drafting of the clause which is now before the House. These words also occur in the United Provinces Act of 1912, and Government are advised that it runs no risk in retaining these words within the Bill. I appreciate the desire of the Hon'ble Member to make this Act as effective and free from flaw as possible and we would very gladly accept his amendment if it appeared to be necessary. The Hon'ble Rai Bahadur may admit that there is some force in the precedent that I have urged but at the same time I apprehend he may ask me why, if there is any doubt in the matter, when the English Courts have taken several years to arrive at a clear decision on the meaning of the words in the Act, we should run any risk of similar doubts in the Courts of Bengal. I think, my Lord, that argument would be very well taken, but for one fact, and that is this : that various absurdities will arise if we delete these words from the clause as it now stands. The English Courts have expressly ruled on several occasions that these words were inserted in the English Act purely with the intention of protecting a tradesman who sells, for example, a superior article to that which is asked for by the purchaser. It certainly will be an absurdity if the tradesman who sells a superior article is liable on a very technical interpretation of the clause to prosecution. The English Courts, therefore, held that the words were expressly inserted in the English Acts to prevent this anomaly arising. In view of these circumstances, my Lord, I hope that the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur will withdraw this amendment. We must be guided in such matters by our law officers and I think I can confidently assure him that the difficulty which he apprehends will never arise."

The Bengal Food Adulteration Bill, 1919.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur; Babu K. M. Chaudhuri; The President.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"I thank the Hon'ble Mr. Goode for his lucid explanation of this point. I quite appreciate that this matter has received careful consideration at the hands of Government.

I may say without hesitation that we are deeply grateful to Government for introducing this measure which is a very benificial piece of legislation. It is free from political controversy as it is not a measure in which we are scrambling for power, but it is a measure which is designed in the interests of public health. Our suggestions are, however, made merely with the object of helping the Government as far as it lies within our power to improve the Bill. In view, however, of the explanation that has been given by the Hon'ble Mr. Goode, I beg to withdraw this motion."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

AMENDMENT No. 7.

The following amendment being analogous to Amendment No. 6 was deemed to have been withdrawn :—

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri to move that for the words "the prejudice of the", in line 3 of sub-clause (1) of clause 5, the word "any" be substituted.

AMENDMENT No. 8.

New clause 9 A.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur was to have moved that after clause 9 (now clause 8) the following be inserted, namely :—

"9A. (1) No person shall sell, expose for sale, or manufacture or store for sale any article of food which is diseased, unsound, unwholesome or unfit for human consumption or the nature, substance or quality of which has deteriorated through exposure, age, atmospheric action or damage from fire or water, or through any other cause.

Sale of unwholesome food.

(2) In any prosecution under this section the Court shall, unless and until the contrary is proved, presume that any article of food found in the possession of a person who is in the habit of keeping articles of food for human consumption has been so manufactured or stored for sale by such person."

The President said :—

"This motion is beyond the scope of the Bill. It is also unnecessary; and if the Hon'ble Member will look up the Bengal Municipal Act, he will find that a similar section, namely, 250, exists in the Act; so that this proposal is in any case not necessary. Moreover, in view of the decision of the Council with regard to the preamble of the Bill, it will now be out of order as being beyond the scope of the measure."

The motion was then deemed to have been withdrawn.

AMENDMENT No. 9.

Clause 11.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that the following be added to clause 11 (now clause 10), namely :—

"(4) Any purchaser may also require, by tender of the price, the sale to him for the purpose of analysis of such quantity of any food exposed or intended for sale, as is reasonably requisite for analysis, and any person in possession of, or exposing the same for sale, shall be bound to sell such quantity."

He said :—

"My Lord, clause 11 (now clause 10) relates to the compulsory sale by any purchaser of goods for purposes of analysis. My proposition goes a little beyond what is contemplated in this clause. I move that the purchaser may also require, by tender of the price, the sale to him for the purpose of analysis of such quantity of any food exposed or intended for sale, as is reasonably requisite for analysis, and any person in possession of, or exposing the same for sale, shall be bound to sell such quantity.

My object is to enable any private person and not merely a person duly authorized by the local Government—to purchase articles of food for analysis and to make it clear that the shop-keeper is bound to sell the articles to him. I know that both clauses 10 (now clause 9) and 12 (now clause 11) give authority to any person duly authorized by the local Government or under rules made under this Act to purchase any article for the purpose of analysis, but it is not clearly specified whether a seller shall be bound to sell to a private person for the purpose of analysis, and I want it to be clearly stated in the Bill. This clause is suggested by the Anglo-Indian Association in their opinion on this Bill. I do not know the view of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill with respect to this clause, but I shall be glad to hear him on the subject."

The Hon'ble Mr. Goode said :—

"My Lord, the department thoroughly appreciates the intention of the Hon'ble Member to render the law as effective as possible ; and I think the reason why so few of the amendments which have been before the House appear necessary, is because the Select Committee went into this Bill with very special care and attention.

In regard to the amendment which is now before the House, I think that the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur will admit that it is somewhat superfluous and unnecessary. Clause 12 (now clause 11) of the Bill provides that any person who has purchased any article of food may inform the vendor that he will have an analysis made, and a certain procedure is laid down which he must adopt for that purpose. Now, the intention of the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur's amendment is that any private purchaser should be in a position to demand the compulsory sale of any article of food which he wishes to be analysed. In the first place, I think the amendment, if accepted, would really prove a dead letter. I cannot conceive that any one in Calcutta is going to make it his business to go round to markets and shops in order to expose himself to the odium of demanding samples to be sent to the Health Officer or to the authority who will administer this Act. As the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur knows, food inspection in the Corporation is very difficult to work and I think that no private person is likely to take upon himself the burden, and, I may say, to incur the odium which a Food Inspector must incur in the course of his duties. I think it is sufficient that he should have the powers which clause 12 of the Bill gives him ; and I have little doubt that the Rai Bahadur will on further reflection accept the assurance that his amendment is not really required. I am, therefore, compelled to oppose the amendment ; but I hope the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur will withdraw it."

The Bengal Food Adulteration Bill. 1919.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I have listened with great attention to the observations of Mr. Goode. I want to explain, my Lord, that clause 12 (now clause 11) gives the right to any private person or purchaser, when he wishes to have an article of food analysed, after the purchase, to declare it to the seller that he is going to have it analysed. He may take a sample and send it to such analyst as the Government may appoint. I am giving a concrete instance :— Suppose a public-spirited gentleman finds that a grocer systematically sells adulterated food-stuff to the public in spite of the Sanitary Inspector or the Food Inspector. He may take a sample. If the purchaser happens to live in the same quarter in which the shop is situated, he will have great trouble in getting it the next time, as the grocer may say I won't sell you because on the last occasion when I sold you you sent it to a public analyst and that person cannot compel him to sell the article. The efforts of the local authorities, under the present provision, will not be supplemented by public-spirited gentlemen who may otherwise be inclined to do so. Mr. Goo le says that private persons would not care to undertake the trouble, but times are changing, and we are now aspiring for reforms in all directions when we should be expected to look to these little things ourselves.

I think, my Lord, that the public will supplement the efforts of the local authorities. In spite, therefore, my Lord, of what has fallen from Mr. Goode. I respectfully press my motion for the consideration of this House.

The motion being put, a division was taken with the following result :—

AMENDMENTS Nos. 10, 11 and 12.

The President said :—

Items Nos. 10, 11 and 12 are consequential on item No. 8 and are, therefore, out of order.

The following amendments were then deemed to have been withdrawn.

Clause 13 (now clause 12).

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved that after the word "adulterated" in line 2 of sub-clause (2) of clause 13, the following be inserted, namely :—

"or deteriorated in regard to its quality, nature or substance, or diseased, unwholesome, unsound or unfit for human consumption."

Clause 14 (now clause 13).

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that after the word "adulterated", in line 2 of sub-clause (2) of clause 14, the following be inserted, namely :—

"or deteriorated in regard to its quality, nature or substance, or diseased, unwholesome, unsound or unfit for human consumption."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to move that after the word "adulterated", in line 2 of sub-clause (3) of clause 14, the following be inserted, namely :—

"or deteriorated in regard to its quality, nature or substance, or diseased, unwholesome, unsound or unfit for human consumption."

AMENDMENT No. 13.

Clause 15 (now clause 14).

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved that in line 10 of the proviso to clause 15 (now clause 14) after the words "the said Court", the following be inserted, namely :—

"and the said report shall be admissible in evidence in such Court".

The Bengal Food Adulteration Bill, 1919.

The Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan; Rai M. C. Mitra Bahadur.

He said :—

"My Lord, this amendment is a very small one, and I think that it is necessary to add the words as suggested because a question may hereafter arise as to the advisability of such a measure."

The Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan said :—

"My Lord, the main principle underlying the whole of this Bill is to give better food to the people of Bengal, and to make their food more madhu, that is, sweet and wholesome. I am glad that this last amendment should be madhurena samapayet. I would like to accept the amendment with some slight modification. What I would like to point out is that it would be better to add the words 'in such courts' as it now appears in the paper provided that the word 'and' which occurs before 'the expense of such analysis' in line 10 of the proviso is deleted, and if the Hon'ble Member who has moved this amendment is willing to the deletion of the word 'and' before the words 'the expense of such analysis' in line 10 of the proviso, then I have no objection to accepting his amendment."

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I have no objection to the suggestions which have been made."

The motion was then put in the following amended form and agreed to :—

That after the words "the said Court," the following be inserted, namely :—

"and the said report shall be admissible in evidence in such Court"; and that the word 'and' before the words 'the expense' be omitted.

AMENDMENT No. 14.

Clause 21.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur was to have moved that after the fifth item in the table in clause 21, the following be inserted, namely :—

Section 9A.	...	Sale, etc., of unwholesome food.	One hundred rupees ...	Five hundred rupees.

The President said :—

"This motion is consequential on amendment No. 8, and is, therefore, out of order as being beyond the scope of the Bill."

The amendment was then deemed to have been withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM Nos. 6 AND 7.

The Hon'ble Sir Bijay Chand Mahtab, Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan, moved that the Secretary be directed to re-number the clauses and sub-clauses of the Bill in consecutive order and to make corresponding alterations in all cross-references thereto.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Bill, 1919.

The Hon'ble Sir Bijay Chand Mahtab, Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan, also moved that the Bill, as settled in Council, be passed.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM Nos. 8 AND 9.

THE CALCUTTA AND SUBURBAN POLICE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1919.

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler moved for leave to introduce a Bill further to amend the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, and the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866.

He said :—

"My Lord, the Bill which is already in the hands of Hon'ble Members and which I now ask permission to introduce, is a short Bill, and I trust that my remarks in explaining its provisions may be brief. It will be observed that the Bill, in its two material clauses, deals with the amendment of two sections of the Calcutta and the Suburban Police Acts ; but as these two sections in their respective Acts are drafted on analogous lines, I will quote in detail only that which is in the Calcutta Police Act.

In clause 2 of the Bill, we propose to amend section 9 of the Calcutta Police Act. Section 9 runs as follows :—

'The Police force shall be under the exclusive direction and control of the Commissioner of Police, who may from time to time, subject to the approbation of the said Lieutenant Governor, frame such orders and regulations as he shall deem expedient relating to the general government of the force, the places of residence, the classification, rank, distribution and particular service of the several members thereof, their inspection, the description of arms, accoutrements and other necessaries to be furnished to them, and all such other orders and regulations relative to the said Police-force as the said Commissioner shall from time to time deem expedient for preventing neglect or abuse and for rendering such force efficient in the discharge of all its duties.'

There are two points in the section to which I would invite special attention. The first is its wide nature, covering, in effect, the whole ordinary administration of the force and the details connected therewith. The second is the use of the somewhat unusual word in modern legislation—'approbation', and this particular amendment in the Bill relates to that word 'approbation'. It is a somewhat unusual word, as I have said, and I have been unable to trace any detailed discussion of it in connection with the Act of 1866 ; it seems to have been a legacy from the original Police Act of 1856, and has, therefore, stood in the section for a long time. But in more modern Acts. as the Council is aware, the distinction in the matter of outside control is usually made between two methods : first, certain things may be permissible subject to previous sanction—it may be of the local Government or of the Government of India—which means that action cannot be taken without the prior sanction of superior authority. Or again, certain things may be permissible subject to the control of the local Government or of the Government of India, as the case may be, which means that the superior authority has a statutory right of supervision and interference, if necessary, with the act of the subordinate authority, but that the latter need not refer for sanction before taking action. These are the two ordinary expressions employed in Acts now-a-days, and the question is, what exactly does approbation mean? Does it mean subject to the prior sanction, or merely subject to control? Now, as a matter of fact, it has always, for practical purposes, been interpreted hitherto, as subject to the control of the local Government, and in that view the Commissioner of Police, in the vast majority of cases, passes orders under this section relative to the government of the force and the other details mentioned without any prior reference to the local Government. And I submit to the Council that it is necessary that he should do so. He has done so in the past and no evil effects have resulted therefrom. It is essential that he should have this power in order to ensure the maintenance of discipline in a large and populous city like Calcutta, where the force consists of numerous bodies of men congregated together, and where any deterioration of the authority of the Commissioner of Police is likely to have serious and unfortunate consequences. Such deterioration of authority might easily result, were it open to question whether an order of the Commissioner of Police had or had not received the prior sanction of the local Government. In many cases, indeed, it might be difficult, if not impossible, for the Commissioner to obtain the prior sanction of the local Government, for instance, if orders had to be passed in an emergency. For these reasons the proposal of the Bill is to substitute the word 'control' for the word 'approbation', thus regulating what is, in effect, the existing practice.

The Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Bill, 1919.

Sir Henry Wheeler.

The second amendment relates to section 10 of the Calcutta Act, which gives power to the Commissioner to suspend or dismiss any member of the force. The difficulty which has arisen in that connection relates to a case which has also brought to the fore the desirability of the amendment of section 9, which I have already explained. It is a case which has recently occupied the attention of the Police Court and the High Court in Calcutta. The facts are briefly these: a charge was laid in one of the police stations by a private complainant against a certain person, and in connection with that charge a head constable misconducted himself and was ordered to be prosecuted, as I understand, for extortion. It is usual when charges of a serious nature are brought against a member of the police force to suspend him, and so this man was suspended. In accordance with standing orders and long-standing practice in the Calcutta Police, a man under suspension is directed to be detained in barracks at the police head-quarters at Lal Bazar pending the disposal of his case, and in this instance such an order was actually passed by the Deputy Commissioner, and the man was accordingly sent to Lal Bazar. He was then put on his trial on the charge of extortion preferred against him, and the Magistrate passed an order releasing him on bail; but under the disciplinary measures of the Commissioner of Police he was again sent back to Lal Bazar to remain there pending the final disposal of the case. He then complained against the Deputy Commissioner for wrongful confinement. The complaint was dismissed by the Presidency Magistrate. A motion was made to the High Court against that order, when two grounds were urged. The first was that this standing order of the Commissioner of Police was not a legal order, in so far as it had not received the prior approbation of the local Government. That is taking us back to clause 9, with which I have just been dealing, and it emphasises the defect which we now seek to make good. The second point taken was that, even had it been a legal order in this respect, the Commissioner of Police could not have passed it in respect of a man who was under suspension and over whom his disciplinary powers had ceased. In the High Court the Advocate General stated that he was not prepared to maintain that these technical defects were non-existent, and the case was then sent back for retrial, that is, the complaint against the Deputy Commissioner was sent back for retrial. This naturally drew our attention to the question how it happens, contrary to the procedure under the general Police Act (V of 1861), that the police authorities have no disciplinary powers over a man under suspension. That used to be the case in respect of the district police, but attention was drawn to the defect about the year 1895 by two rulings of two different High Courts which maintained that view. It was then considered that it was most undesirable that the position should be as ruled by the Courts, and, as a result, the general Police Act was amended in 1895. I will read the remarks of Sir Anthony MacDonnell on this point, which explain the reasons of the change which was then effected. He said :—

The Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Bill, 1919.

Sir Henry Wheeler.

'Another provision connected with the internal discipline of the force is meant to affirm the legal responsibilities of a police-officer while under suspension. Doubts have been entertained whether, by the law as it at present stands, a police-officer, if placed under suspension, is not ipso facto, and so long as his suspension lasts, freed from his duty of obedience to his superiors There can, I think, be no doubt as to its being desirable that a policeman, although under suspension, should remain subject to the obligations of duty and discipline till discharged from the service. A policeman while under suspension cannot well be turned out of barracks, while discipline in barracks must be maintained and insubordination or misconduct punished. It is therefore obviously desirable to make it clear that until a police-officer is discharged from the service he shall be subject to all the duties and responsibilities attaching to his position.'

These were the reasons given by Sir Anthony MacDonnell in 1895, and they were accepted by those consulted as eminently reasonable. There was practically no comment regarding them, and the general Police Act was amended on those lines. Apparently by an oversight—it must be remembered that the general Police Act is an Act of the Imperial Council while our Acts are Acts of the local Council—the Calcutta Act was not amended in a similar way. but all these years disciplinary measures have been taken against men under suspension and nobody has ever objected or drawn attention to the point. Now that attention has been drawn to it, however, in the manner which I have indicated, we seek to rectify the defect by inserting in our Calcutta Acts an amendment precisely similar to that which obtains in section 8 of the general Act.

That, Sir, is the Bill. It desires to make two changes which are merely in accordance with long-standing practice, which have worked without harm to anybody and without objection hitherto, but to the underlying defects of which attention has been drawn by a recent ruling of the Calcutta High Court. There is nothing new in the proposal, in so far as it is an embodiment of existing procedure, and, in respect of section 10 of the Calcutta Act. an embodiment of the precedent which has existed in the general Police Act since 1895."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler also moved that the said Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr, the Hon'ble Mr. French, the Hon'ble Mr. Graham, the Hon'ble Mr. Mansell, the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, the Hon'ble Dr. Abdulla-al-Mamun Suhrawardy and the mover, with instructions to submit their report in time for its consideration at the August meeting of the Council in Dacca.

He said :—

"My Lord, as regards this motion I would merely add one explanatory remark as to why I am proposing to take up this Bill at Dacca. The reason is that in certain aspects the defects that have been revealed by the recent decision of the High Court are rather serious, and advantage might be taken of them seriously to interfere with the authority of the Commissioner of Police and the discipline of the force. I have indicated in my previous remarks that, in the circumstance of a large city like Calcutta, that is a position which we could not face with equanimity, and in so far as the Bill itself is a very short one, and in so far as it merely seeks to make legal what has actually been done for many years. we have thought it justifiable to propose that the further consideration of the Bill should be taken up at the next meeting of Council."

The Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Bill, 1919.

Rai M. C. Mitra Bahadur.

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said :—" My Lord, one portion of the Bill proposes to substitute the word 'control' for the word 'approbation' in section 9 of Ben. Act IV of 1866 (The Calcutta Police Act) and section 3 of Ben. Act II of 1866 (The Calcutta Suburban Police Act). From the Statement of Objects and Reasons I notice that the author of the Bill states : 'That the meaning of the term approbation has never been judicially determined, but it might be held to require each individual order relating to the discipline of the Police force to be submitted to Government for approval before issue by the Commissioner of Police' and it is suggested that this would be impracticable, neither is it necessary ; and that the term 'control' is the expression ordinarily used in similar circumstances in modern legislation. I venture to submit that the legislation proposed is hardly necessary for various reasons. Since the year 1856, the Indian Legislature thought fit to express its idea on the subject by using the word approbation. In section 8 of Act XIII of 1856 (an Act for regulating the Police of the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay), I notice that the word approbation finds a place. This section lays down that 'the Police force shall be under the exclusive direction and control of the Commissioner of Police, who may, from time to time, subject to the approbation of the Local Government, frame such order and regulations as he shall deem expedient, relative to the general government of the force, the places of residence, the classification, rank, distribution and particular service of the several members thereof ; their inspection, the description of arms, accoutrements and other necessaries to be furnished to them ; and all such other orders and regulations relative to the said police force as the said Commissioner shall from time to time deem expedient for preventing neglect or abuse and for rendering such force efficient in the discharge of all its duties.' The repealing Act XII of 1873 repealed Act XIII of 1856. The new Calcutta Police Act, IV of 1866 (B.C.) retained the spirit and the language of the old Act and I notice that section 9 of the new Act is a reproduction of section 8 of the Act of 1856. The Bengal Legislature accepted the language of the Supreme Legislature. This Act is in force up to the present moment. The Suburban Police Act also retains the same spirit and language as I find in section 9 of the Calcutta Police Act (vide section 3 of Ben. Act II of 1866).

When we turn to Act V of 1861, known as Mufassal Police Act, the same spirit and language are noticed, vide section 12 of Act V of 1860. It is an Act of the Indian Legislature ; chronologically it is earlier than the Acts of 1866. The difference in the provisions of the Calcutta Police Act and the Suburban Police and those of Act V of 1861 is that the Inspector-General of Police exercises the powers given in the place of the Commissioner of Police. My submission is that since the last 50 years the Bengal and the Imperial Legislatures have thought fit to retain the spirit and the language on this particular point under discussion. Act VIII of 1895, which was an amendment of the Police Act of 1861, did not modify the provisions of section 8 of Act V of 1861 as suggested in the present Bill. These Acts were subjected to criticism by distinguished lawyers and administrators for obvious reasons. The Police have got large powers and it is for the interest of the people that the orders and rules or regulations should be subject to the approbation or approval or sanction of the Local Government. The interest of the public is thus safeguarded by the Local Government. The judgment of the Commissioner of Police cannot be of a superior kind to that of the Government and the Bill suggests to delete the word approbation and substitute the word 'control.' The Imperial Legislature, Act V of 1861, in dealing with such cognate powers and privileges has retained the word 'approval' in section 12 of the Act. The provisions of Act V of 1861 affect a larger portion of India, whereas the proposed Bill intends to apply its provisions to a smaller section of the community. I have discussed the principles of the Bill from various standpoints.

The Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Bill, 1919.

Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq.

My lord, the proposed alteration will not be appropriate. I notice that the Bill suggests that the police force being under the control of the Commissioner of Police he is to frame rules and orders subject to the control of the Local Government, that means without the previous approval of the Local Government. I think no orders or rules of the Commissioner of Police shall be given effect to without the approval of the Local Government.

Another principle to be considered is whether this alteration is necessary at all. General orders and rules are based upon generalizations. Each concrete case must fall within their purview.

The effect of the change will be that the Police Commissioner may frame rules without the knowledge of the Local Government and give effect to them though subject to the general control of the Local Government. Under the present law in force the orders and rules will not be legal unless they are scrutinized and approved of by Government. The present law makes it incumbent upon two persons to examine the legality, practicability and desirability of the rules before they are put in force. The Bill suggests merely that the Police Commissioner will have the sole power of enacting rules and the Local Government will have only power to control them. One will feel a difficulty to apprehend how the Local Government will control rules which have been with full authority enacted and already given effect to by the Commissioner of Police. Even if the procedure for approval of the orders and rules be a little dilatory, the Police Commissioner should, by the light of his experience, get them ready beforehand. before any individual occasion arises. To avoid little delay, the framing of effective rules cannot be given to one individual."

The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq said :—

" My Lord, I am extremely sorry that, as at present advised, I feel constrained to oppose this motion. I am in general agreement with what has fallen from the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur and I therefore propose to be very brief. It seems to me that although the amendments that have been proposed seem to be modest and unassuming enough, they involve changes having a far-reaching effect and it is therefore necessary that the motion which is now before the House should be subjected to some scrutiny.

My Lord, there are ordinarily four stages before any intended piece of legislation is moulded into statute law. There is first of all the stage when it is first introduced into Council and when Government explain generally the reasons why legislation on particular lines is being undertaken. The second stage is as laid down by rule 30 of the Business Rules, which lays down that when a Bill has been introduced it shall together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons be published in the Calcutta Gazette. The third stage is what I may call the committee stage, when the Bill is referred for close examination and scrutiny by a Select Committee of the House, and the fourth and the final stage is when the Bill is taken up with proposed amendments for discussion in Council and ultimately passes into law. I submit that of all these four stages the second is by far the most important and for the following reasons. When Government propose legislation of a certain character they explain their reasons when the Bill is introduced and they take the public into confidence by giving out the reasons which have prompted Government to undertake that particular piece of legislation. It may be that the public also are of opinion that legislation of a particular character ought to be undertaken, or it may be that the public are not. It is for this reason that when the Bill is published in the Calcutta Gazette, the public are thereby invited to offer criticisms on the principles of the Bill and also to consider whether legislation should be undertaken at all and, if undertaken, whether it should be on the lines proposed by Government. I therefore submit that it is the second stage which gives the public an opportunity of criticising the principles of the Bill and this privilege should not be taken away unless it be for very urgent and strong reasons. In this particular case it is all the more necessary because, as I have submitted, although there are only two small clauses to be added to the Act, they confer very large powers on the Commissioner of Police and, secondly, they also take away to a certain extent the right of a police officer who may, for a period, be under suspension from taking steps with a view to defending himself. Now it may be that after a Bill is published and sufficient cause is shown, legislation would not be undertaken and the proposed Bill might be withdrawn altogether. It is therefore that the second stage is the most important and should never be overlooked. In this particular case the course that is proposed is this: the Bill has been introduced formally only to-day and it is proposed to ignore rule 30 of the Business Rules and to refer the Bill at once to a Select Committee. So far as I have been able to gather from the speech of the Hon'ble Member in charge I have not been able to make out that any case exists for ignoring the provisions of rule 30 of the Business Rules. It has been pointed out by the Hon'ble Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur that these two amendments are proposing changes regarding certain expressions which have been in the Act for more than a century. The first proposal is to substitute the word 'control' for 'approbation.' This seems to be an innovation which I would submit is somewhat without precedence, except it be that it is proposed to confer on the Commissioner of Police much wider powers than he enjoys at present. As has been pointed out the word 'approbation' existed in the earlier Act, XIII of 1856, which was the predecessor of the Calcutta Police Act. Section 8 of that Act spoke of approbation of the rules by the Local Government. As has been pointed out also, these very words occurred in the general Police Act of 1861 and it was not thought necessary to amend that Act. There is another matter which I would submit for the consideration of the Council and which has not been touched upon, and it is this. The Bengal Act has been amended no less than eleven times and on no occasion was it considered necessary to undertake legislation on the line that is proposed to-day. Leaving aside the amendments that have been introduced by all-India legislation, we find that the Bengal Act has been amended by the following Acts of the Bengal Council—II of 1867, I of 1869, II of 1876, IV of 1879, II of 1886, I of 1890, II of 1895, III of 1897, VI of 1905, III of 1907 and III of 1910. How is it, if these amendments are so very necessary that it is proposed to ignore the Rules of Business, that they really escaped the attention of the administrators for over 53 years? How is it that on these eleven occasions it was not even suggested that legislation on these lines is necessary? I submit therefore that no case has been made out for rushing through the legislation in the manner proposed to-day. Then, my lord, the Hon'ble Member in charge has remarked that recent judicial proceedings have brought to light the defects in the Calcutta Police Act. I submit it is not a compliment to those who framed the Act nor to the administrators who have administered the Act for a long time. I need not detain the Council very long upon this point because my hon'ble friend has already pointed out that it would be a dangerous innovation to take away the provision that the rules framed by the Commissioner of Police should be subject to the control of the Local Government. As a justification it is said that this has created inconvenience. If serious practical difficulties have not occurred since 1866 when the Calcutta Acts were passed or 1861 when the India Act was passed, I may hope that nothing serious will happen if legislation is undertaken in the ordinary course. Before I sit down I may cite the opinions of two learned Judges of the Calcutta High Court as cited in 7 C. W. N., page 883, on this point, although I must say that the word 'approbation' has not received any judicial interpretation yet. Their lordships expressed the opinion that rules so framed ought to be published for general information. And I submit that so far as this power of the Commissioner of Police is concerned it affects the public very materially and does not merely affect the control of the police force. It is, therefore, necessary that when rules are framed under this power vested in the Commissioner of Police the said rules should be published or at any rate should be subject to the control of the Local Government.

The Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Bill, 1919.

Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq.

The Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Bill, 1919.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur; Sir Henry Wheeler.

My Lord, one word about the proposal of passing this measure in the Dacca session. I do not know what the feeling of other members on this point may be. But on my part I oppose this suggestion in spite of my advocacy of the claims of the eastern capital of Bengal. It is well known that most non-official members absent themselves from Dacca and Government will have an absolute majority there. Amendments might be proposed only to be defeated and it is certain Government will be able to carry this legislation through in any manner they like. But would it satisfy the public? Is it proper that legislation of such an important character should be undertaken at Dacca knowing, as Your Excellency's Government know very well, that attendance of the non-official members at Dacca has always been meagre. At any rate to satisfy public opinion I would suggest that the Bill should not be referred to a Select Committee now, that it should be published for criticism and that sufficient time may be given for the public to consider the legislation. It may be referred to a Select Committee afterwards and the Bill considered at one of the Calcutta sessions of the Council. I do not suggest that the Bill should not be introduced into the Council at all. But I suggest that all this hurry should be dropped because, I feel, that this hurry might be misinterpreted. With these observations I oppose the motion."

[The Council here adjourned for lunch.]

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I have only a few observations to make. I find that the motion of the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler for referring this Bill to a Select Committee and also intimating that it will be passed at the Dacca session has been opposed at the outset. There may perhaps be good reasons for amending the Act; but I think the public ought to be given an opportunity to have their say in the matter. I do not think that it will matter much if the passing of the Bill is deferred for a month. It is a fact that the meeting at Dacca is not so fully attended as at Calcutta and I can safely predict that it will not really affect the passing of the Bill whether it is put through its final stage at Dacca in August or at Calcutta in the beginning of September. I think therefore that, having regard to the strong public opinion on the subject that the Bill has not been published, the Government will do well to accede to the public request that it be published and be taken up in its final stage at the meeting of Council to be held in Calcutta in September next."

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler said :—

"My Lord, I admit that this Bill has to deal with the police, and therefore it is almost bound to excite suspicion in the minds of some Hon'ble Members; but I had hoped to show by my previous remarks that we were not, in effect, introducing any sweeping changes. The Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq himself is bound to admit that the changes were seemingly modest, but apparently he sees something lurking behind them, which he fears, may be far-reaching and detrimental to the public.

The Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Bill, 1919.

Sir Henry Wheeler,

I have endeavoured to make it clear to the Council that what we are trying to place upon a legal basis is no change at all. It is what we have been doing for many years, and that is the answer to the argument of the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur, which was supported by the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq, that because the word 'approbation' was in the Act of 1856, therefore, it is evident that there is now no reason to change it. I myself drew the attention of the Council to the fact that this word was in the Act of 1856, but I have tried to explain that we have never interpreted it in the sense in which we are now told that it should have been interpreted, namely, in the sense of requiring the prior sanction of Government to orders passed by the Commissioner of Police relative to the administration and organisation of the force. It is because the matter has only recently been brought to the fore, that it probably escaped the notice of the legislators, who, according to Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq, on some 9 or 10 previous occasions amended the Act. Nobody has ever objected to the procedure, which was in force; hence no proposal was made to change it. The position is analogous to the general amendment of the Police Act in 1895 in the matter of disciplinary action over suspended police officers; the power was being exercised until the High Court said that it was illegal. Thereupon, Sir Antony Macdonald explained in the Imperial Council the reasons for taking that power, and it was accepted as reasonable that it should be definitely given by the law, if there was any doubt in the matter. So, the argument that the word 'approbation' was in the Act of 1856 has really no relevancy to the contention which I have placed before the Council, because it is only during the last few weeks that we have been told that the procedure which the Bill embodies, and which in fact we have practically been following for many years, is a procedure which is not warranted by law; and, indeed, if the provisions of this section, as so construed, were actually carried into effect, it would be impossible to administer a police force of the magnitude of the Calcutta Police. In his judgment of yesterday's date, dealing with the charge of wrongful confinement against the Deputy Commissioner to which I have previously alluded, Mr. Swinhoe remarked :—

'Under the provisions of section 9 of the Calcutta Police Act, practically all orders, however trivial they may be, framed by the Commissioner of Police relating to the Police force must first be forwarded for approbation to the local Government before they are valid and binding on the Police force. This procedure must necessarily cause delay and handicap the Commissioner of Police in his actions. It would be simpler, in my opinion, if possible, to provide that all orders passed by the Commissioner of Police under section 9 of the Act shall be valid and binding on the force until they are declared invalid by the local Government.'

I say without hesitation that if that view of Mr. Swinhoe is correct, and if Mr. Clarke, sitting at Lalbazar, has got to get the countersignature of Mr. Kerr from Writers' Buildings before he can take action against a member of the Police force, the whole machinery of the Calcutta Police can be brought to a standstill in 24 hours. So much, Sir, for the historical argument regarding the wording of the ancient Act of 1856.

I would refer further to the statement that has been made that the proposals which we have put forward so seriously affect the public that it is essential that they should be carefully scrutinised. The proposals which have been embodied in this Bill primarily and directly affect the discipline of the Police force, and not the general public. In so far as they indirectly affect the latter, it is in the interest of the general public that a stringent control should be exercised. Under the second clause of the Bill when a police officer is suspended on a heinous charge, he will not be freed from all disciplinary measures; it is right that the public should have that protection, and it will facilitate the maintenance of discipline in the force, which it is to the interest of the public to see at a high level. It is somewhat curious that, differing from the criticisms which are usually levelled at Government in the matter of their relations towards the police, exception should be taken when we are attempting to introduce a measure which is designed for the protection of the public against possible misconduct on the part of the police.

The Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Bill, 1919.

Sir Henry Wheeler.

Another remark that has been incidentally made by the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq is that by placing a suspended police officer under disciplinary action we deprive him of the opportunity of taking legal advice and defending himself against any charges that may be brought against him. This is not so. What the man is made to do is to go and live at headquarters, just as in the mufassal a member of the general police force will be told to go and stay in the lines, and he is not allowed to leave headquarters without the permission of the officer-in-charge. I had a talk particularly on this point with Mr. Clarke, and he tells me that all reasonable facilities are afforded to a man for consulting his legal advisers.

Another objection which has been taken is that, should we enact these changes which are embodied in clause 2 of the Bill, it would be possible for the Commissioner of Police to pass orders affecting the organisation of the force without the knowledge of Government. With regard to this, may I point out that it is just what he has been doing for many years. Now that attention has been drawn to the point, and, if the Bill is passed into law, his orders will be subject to the control of the local Government, I have no doubt that we shall prescribe that copies of orders of a general character, or, laying down a general policy, shall be submitted to Government, and they will be scrutinised, whereas, now, under the current interpretation of the section, we never see these orders at all. Far, therefore, from diminishing the supervision now exercised, the Bill will enhance it.

For these reasons, briefly, taken in addition to the arguments which I have already advanced, I do not think that the Bill need give rise to the suspicion with which some Members have sought to surround it; and in the matter of procedure, to which the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq has taken exception, I would only remark that the course we have taken is one which is justified by our rules, and, in fact, it does not differ very materially from that which he would have us adopt. After this discussion, the Bill will be published, and its provisions will be made known; if any one wishes to criticise the Bill he will be at liberty to do so, even if there is no formal circulation; the main difference between the full procedure which is ordinarily taken and that which we are now following is that the interval between the introduction of the Bill in Council and its reference to Select Committee and its final consideration in Council is shortened. But, with reference to the shortness of that interval, may I point out that for practical purposes the Bill is one of two clauses and 21 lines, affecting not the public of Bengal but the public of Calcutta, or rather, indeed, not the public of Calcutta but the administration of the Police force. The reasons for our desiring to see this Bill passed into law as early as possible are those which I have already given.

The last point which has been alluded to by the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur and Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq is that it is improper that we should pass this legislation at Dacca. Now, as a general theory, that is not a view which, I think, the local Government can ever endorse. It has now been the settled practice for some time to hold a Council session at Dacca; and it is a practice which has been adopted, as our predecessors understood, and as we have always understood, in deference to the feelings of many people of Eastern Bengal, among whom may be numbered the constituents of the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq. But if we have a Council session at Dacca, it must be a full session, and we cannot accept the theory that it is to be a kind of a day in the country, a sort of a picnic, or call it what you like, at which Hon'ble Members will have the pleasure of a river trip to Dacca and seeing something different from the surroundings of the Calcutta maidan. It must be a session at which ordinary business can be done; and obviously it must rank as a full session. However, in this particular instance, having regard to the circumstances of the Bill—especially as it affects the Calcutta Police—and having regard to the fact that the interval between the meeting of the Council at Dacca and the September meeting of this Council here is only about a fortnight, I do not press the theoretical point, and if it will soothe the minds of some Hon'ble Members that we should allow a fortnight's extension and take up this Bill here at the meeting of September, as suggested by Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, I have no objection to that small modification. With your permission therefore, Sir, I would substitute the words 'September' for 'August' and 'Calcutta' for 'Dacca.'"

The Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Bill, 1919.

Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq; the President; Mr. Irwin.

The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq said :—

"My Lord, I would only wish to say one or two words as regards the Dacca session. I heartily endorse the remarks which Sir Henry Wheeler has made that it ought to be something of a reality and not a sort of a pleasure show. I wish, my lord, that Your Excellency could, under the rules, exercise a power which a mufassal guru exercises in pathsalas and compel members to attend. As a matter of fact there ought to be some rules that members failing to attend a certain number of sittings without sufficient cause shall show cause why they should not resign their seats in the Council. Since there is no such disciplinary power, the fact remains that members do not attend and we are at a great disadvantage when we wish to find out what the real trend of public mind is in regard to certain matters. I do not wish to take up the time of the Council by adding to what I have already said, but I adhere to my contention that the ordinary procedure should not be disregarded because it means a delay of a few weeks. I believe the Dacca meeting will take place on the 12th August and the Calcutta session will be towards the first week of September. Thus there will be a delay of only three weeks."

The President said :—

"The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler has offered to meet the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq and postpone the consideration of the report of the Select Committee until the meeting of the Council to be held in Calcutta in September next."

The Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq said :—

"I am sorry, my Lord, that I did not follow the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler's remarks."

The Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur said :—

"Apropos what the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq urged about attaching a penalty for non-attendance at meetings at Dacca, I would suggest that there should be a penalty attached for inattention also." (Laughter.)

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin said :—

"My Lord, I attended the Dacca meeting two years ago. I found the Dâk Bungalow quite full, and if it had not been for the hospitality of Mr. French, I would have to put up at the Maidan, as there was no accommodation for members. I think if a session is held at Dacca, we may look up to Government to provide some accommodation for members. I should be glad if Government would arrange for accommodation for non-official members.

The President said :—

"I should be glad to offer the Hon'ble Member hospitality at Dacca."

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin said :—

"Thank you, my Lord."

The motion was then put in the following form and agreed to :—

That the said Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr, the Hon'ble Mr. French, the Hon'ble Mr. Graham, the Hon'ble Mr. Mansell, the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, the Hon'ble Dr. Abdulla-al-Mamun Suhrawardy and the mover, with instructions to submit their report in time for its consideration at the September meeting of the Council in Calcutta.

RESOLUTION.

(Under the rules for the discussion of matters of general public interest.)

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEMS Nos. 10 AND 11.

The Hon'ble Sir Frank Carter moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a commission of inquiry be appointed to consider the whole problem of leprosy in the city of Calcutta, and the legislation required in connection therewith.

He said :—

"My Lord, I intended to have brought forward this resolution in April last, but was prevented from attending the Council meeting.

I find now that the Health Officer has already submitted a note to the Corporation urging the appointment of a commission of inquiry to consider the whole problem of leprosy and the legislation required in connection therewith. This, I may say, only adds considerable force to my resolution and shows the extreme urgency of the matter.

It is quite evident to all who have had anything to do with lepers that the present Government of India Act No. III of 1898, commonly called 'The Leper Act', is not an efficient piece of legislation, that is to say, it does not result in the segregation of those lepers who are a menace to the community and who ought to be compulsorily segregated in leper asylums. This fact is admitted by the medical authorities as well as by those who are more directly concerned in looking after lepers.

The first thing for Government to do therefore is to take such action as may be necessary to have the Leper Act so amended, by the Government of India, that it may be effective. It must then be applied to the particular province and a real effort made to bring it into force.

Resolutions.

Sir Frank Carter.

The following is the essential amentment of 'The Leper Act' which it is urged should be made :—

That the definition of a 'leper' section 2, sub-section (1), be made to include not only any person suffering from any variety of leprosy in which the process of ulceration has commenced, but any person in whom any tubercular form of the disease is present.

It may be thought that my resolution is till-timed seeing that particulars regarding the beggar nuisance in the Presidency have lately been asked for, but reading through these sheets I see very little mention of lepers ; the only report which deals with lepers at all in extenso is that of Mr. Sen.

Although it is estimated there are some 200,000 in India, there are probably not more than 1,000 in Calcutta, and it surely is the work of Government as well as the Corporation to see that they are properly cared for.

Leprosy in this city is admittedly on the increase as, according to the Census figures of 1911, there were only 300.

There are two main causes to which this increase can be attributed :—

First, lepers come down to Calcutta because they find themselves treated as outcastes in their own villages, and Calcutta is a safer and easier place for them to live in. They can earn their living by begging far more easily here than they can do it elsewhere.

Another factor which has contributed so largely to the increase of lepers is that they are imported into this city for the purpose of trade. There are Sirdar Lepers who, finding the display of leprous sores is calculated to move the pity of charitable people, bring them to Calcutta and make a living out of what they earn by begging.

Lepers can be divided into four classes :—

(1) There are indigenous lepers who develop the disease without any taint in their ancestors ;

(2) There are children born of leper parents ;

(3) There are lepers who come down to Calcutta because they find it an easier place in which to make a living than their own homes in the country ; and

(4) Lepers who, as I have explained, are actually brought down to Calcutta by Sirdars for the purposes of trade.

As I have said before, no leper can be detained in an asylum when his sores are healed, so that there is nothing to stop the spread of leprosy in this city, and Government have no power to confine lepers in an asylum with the result that many escape. Most of the monthly admissions to the asylums are admission of lepers who have been there before.

It is now generally admitted that leprosy is contagious in its nature and the recognition of this fact has led to the foundation of various segregation camps in all civilised nations of the world where leprosy is apparent.

The segregation of lepers is undoubtedly necessary. The only point which can raise any controversy is the degree of segregation.

Leprosy was rampant in nearly all the countries in Europe in the Middle Ages. Homes were at that time erected in all the large cities of Europe, and it is said there were some 20,000 of these homes. In England there were as many as 112 and in France 2,000. Segregation of the leper stopped the spread of the disease.

Resolutions.

Sir Frank Carter.

The leper problem in this city is a difficult one, but I am quite sure that it can be overcome and at not too great a cost if the Government, the Corporation and the citizens of calcutta would all assist. It is an urgent matter and must not be set aside for two or three years as the Government of India seem to think.

Now, what is provided for the lepers in Calcutta? A Leper Asylum at Gobra, which will hold at the outside about 150. It is situated outside Calcutta in Entally, and what does it consist of? A one-storied building for Europeans and Anglo-Indians; men on the ground floor and women on the first floor; a staircase in the middle goes up from one of the rooms. Communication between the ground floor and the first floor is easy and the room from which the staircase leads was used as a chapel by the Protestant and Roman Churches. This has been altered during the last two months. For this reason, there were constant disputes arising between the two Churches. The Roman Catholic Priest put up a picture of the Virgin and this offended the English Priest. The chapels should be entirely separate and there should be one for the Roman Catholics and one for the Protestants and not adjoining as at present, and the staircase should be outside. This would give two extra rooms. There is no accommodation for married couples and this is one of the chief reasons why the place is so unpopular.

There is no comfort in the building. The sun pours in in the hot weather, there were no chicks to keep it out. These have lately been provided. The beds are dirty, the sheets covered with stains, the mattresses stuffed with straw are little better, and the rooms are filthy. When I was there the other day the Eurasian female inmates bitterly complained of the mattresses, which were so old and uncomfortable, they could not get a decent rest on them; I examined them and one of the ladies said: 'These are not so bad, you should see mine, that takes the cake.' The attendance on the patients is most inadequate.

The quarters for the Indians are divided into several long and one-storied buildings, separate buildings for the Hindus and Muhammadans. There is a sort of enclosed yard with stalls attached like a place where cows are kept and here the lunatic lepers are housed. There is also a small building for the worst cases who are not expected to live long. This building is a disgrace to Calcutta.

When I was there the other day there were ten men in the very worst stages of leprosy in two small rooms. The beds all crowded together; there is no lavatory accommodation at all; no drainage, nothing.

There is no occupation provided for the lepers; they pass their days brooding over their misfortunes and their hopeless future, and yet they are not, by any means, a discontented lot. They are a wonderfully happy set considering all things.

There should be a Superintendent who would take some interest in the patient and attends to their wants; also a regular qualified doctor. I would suggest a European Superintendent who must be well paid; but he must be interested in the leper problem and above all he must be sympathetic. The only warder that I have seen is an Anglo-Indian who gets the princely sum of Rs. 5 per month.

So much for the asylum which will hold 150, but there are the rest of the lepers who live in the worst slums of the city—Radabazar, Machuabazar and Howrah. They are merely outcastes whom everyone loathes to touch; shunned by every person, they deteriorate step by step. They live on what little they earn, they huddle themselves together in small insanitary rooms and eke out their existence without any ray of hope. Their disease is visited on their unfortunate children who, with timely segregation, might lead useful lives both to themselves and the community.

Resolutions.

Sir Frank Carter.

Lately, as there was accommodation in the asylum for more patients, two inspectors, or whatever they like to call themselves, were appointed to seek out the worst cases in the city and take them to the asylum. This frightened the lepers so much that they dispersed to all quarters of the city.

What steps are to be taken to improve the condition of these people and to stamp out leprosy from the city?

In the first place, a large plot of land, say about 500 acres, should be acquired away from Calcutta, preferably in the Hills or, at any rate, where the heat is not so great as it is in Calcutta as the heat assists the disease. Land too, such as I indicate, would not be anything like as expensive as it is in and around Calcutta. Liberty of movement should be allowed to the lepers in this area and they should be well-housed, fed and properly cared for. Future marriages and intercourse between the sexes should be discouraged and, if possible, prevented and the children should be segregated from their parents. The lepers should be made happy and comfortable in every way so that there would be no reason for them to wish to leave the proscribed area; the whole place should be self-contained; shops and bazars started which could be managed by the lepers themselves. Leper labour should also be utilised in the growing of crops, the upkeep of cows and poultry, the weaving of cloth, etc., and every step should be taken to make them forget as far as possible that they are outcasted. But above all there must be proper superintendence and efficient medical supervision.

If this scheme was carried out then the present Leper Asylum could become an observation camp and a place where lepers could be collected before being sent to the leper settlement and medically treated.

This, even if Government do sanction the outlay, will take time, and meanwhile what is to be done to minimise the existing evil in Calcutta?

A strict census should be taken of all lepers in Calcutta whether pauper or not and their addresses should be registered. Tact must be used in doing this as lepers easily get frightened, and if they think they are going to be harassed they will, very likely, disperse into different parts of the city. Besides it should be the object of every one to treat those who are afflicted with this terrible disease with the utmost leniency and to show them every consideration for their feelings.

Lepers should be forced under penalty to live within certain specified areas in the city and strict guard should be kept to prevent their escape and mixing with the general public.

There should also be a Committee formed of, say, five members, one of whom should be a qualified medical man who would decide whether a man, woman or child was inflicted with leprosy, in which case a certificate should be granted which would force the leper to live within the specified area. This Committee should also listen to any complaints which may be made. A leper also should have the right of appeal to a Central Board against his detention.

As regards the influx of lepers into Calcutta steps must be taken to prevent this. The giving of alms should be discouraged but money should be provided by Government and the Corporation for their comforts. Precautions should also be taken to prevent lepers travelling by rail and steamer or cart without a special pass. Any leper arriving in Calcutta must be made to notify his arrival to the Committee who will arrange quarters for him. At the same time the Sirdars whose profession it is to import lepers should be dealt with by the law.

These, briefly, are the measures I would suggest to be adopted, and it is because the leper problem in Calcutta is such an urgent one that I ask Government to form a Committee of Inquiry."

Resolutions.

Rai M. C. Mitra Bahadur.

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved, by way of amendment, that in the Hon'ble Sir Frank Carter's resolution, after the words "city of Calcutta" the words "and other municipal towns in the mufassal" be inserted.

He said :—

"My object in making this amendment is to make the scope of the commission of inquiry comprehensive and not to limit it to Calcutta only but to extend it to the municipal towns in the mufassal. First, I shall deal with the necessity of an inquiry on the subject ; secondly, to legislate further, if necessary, on the recommendations of the inquiry to be made. I am informed that the number of lepers is increasing. It is difficult without a proper inquiry to supply the accurate figures. Proper care should be taken as regards the treatment and comfort of the lepers, who are obliged to wander in the streets in the mufassal, where there are a very few asylums. It is necessary in the interest of the public health that asylums for pauper lepers should be established under the supervision of Government and not to be left to private charity alone.

In the tropical climate, the number of lepers is very large. Even in Europe, leprosy prevails in Iceland, Norway and Sweden, parts of Russia, particularly about Dorpat, Riga and the Caucasus, and in certain provinces of Spain and Portugal. In British India, according to the Report of the Leprosy Commission in 1890-91, there are 100,000 lepers. This is surely a low estimate. In Great Britain the cases are all imported. Leprosy is chronic and infectious. It is caused by Bacilles leproe characterized by the presence of tubercular nodules in the skin and mucous membranes or by changes in the nerves. It will be interesting to narrate how the contagion spreads. Dr. Osler in his treatise on "The Principles and Practice of Medicine" in page 140 says :—' One of the most striking examples of the contagiousness of leprosy is the following : ." In 1860, a girl who had hitherto lived at Holstershop, where no leprosy existed, married and went to live at Tarwest with her mother-in-law, who was a leper. She remained healthy, but her three children became leprous, as also her younger sister, who came on a visit to Tarwest and slept with the children. The younger sister developed leprosy after returning to Holstershop. At the latter place a man fifty-two years old, who married one of the ' younger ' children, acquired leprosy ; also a relative, thirty-six years old, a tailor by occupation, who frequented the house, and his wife, who came from a place where no leprosy existed. The two men last-mentioned are at present (1897) inmates of the leper asylum at Dorpat." There is certain evidence to show that the disease may spread through infected clothing, and the high percentage of washermen among lepers is also suggestive.' It is hardly necessary to discuss as to the medical aspect of the question.

Bengal Act V of 1895 was passed by the Bengal Legislative Council in the year of 1895. This Act provided for the segregation of pauper lepers and the control of lepers exercising certain trades. In 1898 the Supreme Legislative Council provided a similar Act. This Act provided for the segregation and medical treatment of pauper lepers and the control of lepers following certain callings. By Municipal notification No. 228 T.M. of 18th May 1901 under section 19 of the Act, the Act was declared to be in force in Bengal and Bengal Act V of 1895 ceased to have effect. By notification No. 253 Medical of 1895, all first class Magistrates have powers to send a leper to any asylum which has been declared under section 3 of the Act. Section 3 of Act III of 1898 provides that the Local Government by notification in the official gazette may appoint any place to be leper asylum for the purpose of this Act and specify the local areas from which lepers may be sent to such asylum and may in like manner alter or cancel any such notification.

Resolutions.

Sir Henry Wheeler.

Although Act III of 1898 is in operation in Bengal, yet there are no regular leper asylums in all places. In the Burdwan Division there are asylums in the district of Bankura and in Raniganj. These asylums have been set up by the mission to India and to East. The average monthly attendance at Raniganj is 179. At Bankura the number is 154. Government formerly paid Re. 1-8 as capitation grant, but nowadays have increased it to Rs. 4 per head. My information regarding Midnapore, Howrah and Birbhum is not encouraging, although the number of lepers is not insignificant. At 'Bankura the asylum is known as Weslyan Mission Leper Asylum. By a notification No. 361-Municipal, dated 25th February 1915, the local area is confined to Bankura district under the provisions of section 3 of Act 3 of 1898. If I properly understand the sections of the Act, the operation of the Act depends upon the establishment of a requisite number of leper asylums for the proper accommodation and treatment of the lepers. My submission therefore is that Government should seriously consider as to the necessity of establishing such asylums in the mufassal for the segregation of pauper lepers.

The decine of leprosy in Europe is attributed mainly to improved hygienic habits and surroundings, and to increased material prosperity. and it may be hoped that the same causes will gradually bring about its disappearance from India.

My Lord, I am deeply interested in the problem for the relief of the lepers and in the interest of public health.

It is suggested that a commission of inquiry should be made. The pauper lepers must not be allowed to move freely from door to door for charity. Exposed under the sun and the rain, they become the objects of pity. Fixed places of their residence should be selected after proper inquiry. Various other suggestions may be made for the further amendment of the law empowering the public to compulsorily remove all lepers and segregate them in the mufassal leper asylums."

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler said :—

"My Lord, as the Hon'ble Sir Frank Carter said, this is a resolution that has stood over from last cold weather, and we all rejoice that the Hon'ble Mover is well once again after his serious illness, and still more, at the recognition, in the interval, of his many admirable works in the cause of the public of Bengal.

The resolution deals with a subject which necessarily excites the sympathy, and incidentally also the horror and repugnance of us all. Such is the terrible character of the disease of leprosy that we would all willingly do anything to alleviate the sufferings of those who are afflicted with it, and still more we would do anything in our power to save from contamination those—happily the vast majority—who are now unaffected by it. However that may be, my difficulty in accepting the course which the resolution proposes rests briefly on the fact that in this matter we, along with the rest of India, are only following a policy which has been very authoritatively laid down in the past. There may be grounds for saying that that policy requires reconsideration, and to this I shall refer again later, but, as matters stand, it is a policy laid down with as much authority as could have been hoped for, either at that time or any other, and until that policy is modified under equal authority it is very difficult for us to do anything of a sweeping character materially different from what we are at present doing. In order to substantiate that contention I shall refer as briefly as possible to the existing position.

Resolutions.

Sir Henry Wheeler.

We are governed, as has been mentioned, in this matter by an India Act (III of 1898), and when that Act was passed the Hon'ble Mr. Rivaz who was in charge of it said specifically—"The Bill which is before the Council does not contemplate any action being taken for the control or segregation of lepers generally in this country. It would be extremely difficult to give practical effect to any measures of such wide application nor, in the opinion of the Government of India, are they called for. The present Bill is of a far more moderate scope and restricted character."

Therefore the Bill was designedly drawn upon modest lines, and its two main provisions are those which are meant to prevent lepers engaging in trades or occupations which bring them undesirably into contact with the public, and secondly, to prevent the wanderings of pauper lepers by giving authority for their arrest and for their consignment to asylums under the orders of Magistrates. These are the two main characteristics of the Act, and the Act itself rests, as I have said, on authoritative enquiries which will be found amply described in a Government resolution of the 23rd March, 1895, which I shall be happy to lend to the Hon'ble Member to read. Briefly what happened was that this subject began to attract marked attention so far back as 1888, when it was held that absolute segregation was an impossibility and all that was practicable was to encourage asylums to which lepers voluntarily could go. Later on the idea was mooted of founding colonies to which lepers should go voluntarily, and a Bill was actually drafted in 1889. When it was circulated considerable difference of opinion was disclosed. About that time the whole subject of leprosy was very much before the public owing to the labours of Father Damien, and a large fund was started in London under the auspices of the Prince of Wales for the investigation of leprosy. That led to the Leprosy Commission of 1890-91. On that Commission there were three leading English Doctors and two members of the Indian Medical Service. They made enquiries in India, among other places, and they made pronouncements as to the contagious character of leprosy which are not quite in accordance with the view expressed by Sir Frank Carter today. I will not discuss in detail the medical side of the question, but briefly, they did not think that leprosy was of a contagious character, and basing their conclusions on that finding, they distinctly held that the nature of the disease did not justify compulsory segregation. They advocated the adoption of voluntary isolation, together with the subsidiary measures relating to occupations and pauper lepers which were embodied in the Bill. That was their finding: but there was another curious development which adds to the authority attaching to it. The views of the Commission were referred again to two influential committees in England, partly composed of professional men and partly of public men, and I may mention a few names in order to show to the Council the character of the opinion on which action was taken. We find the names of medical men like Sir Dyce Duckworth, Dr. Hutchinson, Sir Andrew Clark, Sir James Paget, and Sir Joseph Fayrer, and of prominent men like Lord Curzon, the Bishop of London and Baron Rothschild. On the administrative side certain of the lay members of these committees dissented to some extent from the recommendations of the Commission, desiring a more active policy in the matter of segregation and founding colonies, but the majority of the medical members stuck to the opinion of their professional confrères, and after reviewing the facts, the Government of India stated in their resolution that they could only be guided by the professional advice which was tendered to them. Therefore, Sir, as I have said, we are governed by very authoritative recommendations, and until we can put up something more weighty than a provincial committee it is very difficult for us to modify the existing policy. In fact, that has been tried and has been negatived. In 1908 there was a conference of Superintendents of leper asylums in Calcutta and they recommended the amendment of the legal definition of a leper in respect of the ulceration of sores to which Sir Franck Carter has referred. This was supported by the local Government and submitted to the Government of India, but the Government of India said that they were not prepared to go back on the findings of the Leprosy Commission of 1890-91.

Resolutions.

Sir Henry Wheeler.

That is the position in which we find ourselves, and within it we do what we can. The leper population of Bengal—it is important to remember—is only some 17,000, while the total population of the province is 45 millions. Fortunately, therefore, the proportion is small, and I do not think the evidence points to its growing rapidly, at any rate not in Bengal, although from the last census figures it might be argued that it is not on the decline in India as a whole. To deal with these 17,000 men we have an asylum in Calcutta at Gobrá, while there are two other asylums—one at Bankura and the other at Raniganj. In the three of them we treat some 800 patients on an average, in addition to those who find relief at the ordinary hospitals. The action taken by us is very similar to, and somewhat in advance in some ways of, that taken in other provinces. For instance, the Lepers Act is not in force in Madras, the Punjab or the North-West Frontier Province, and it is only in force in limited areas in Bombay, the United Provinces and the Central Provinces. But where asylums are established in these provinces and action is taken, it is somewhat on similar lines to ours, i.e., by assisting private effort. In response to an enquiry that we made after we got notice of this resolution as to whether it was thought that there was need for a radical departure from the existing policy, all these provinces, with the exception of Burma, have replied in the negative. That renders it more difficult for us to take action. But I am quite aware that there is professional opinion in certain quarters—amongst the exponents of which is Sir Leonard Rogers, to whose views much weight is to be attached—which does not accept the findings of the Leprosy Commission from a medical point of view as final. To that extent there may be a case for further enquiry, but I do not think it is any use advocating an enquiry of a purely provincial character. Obviously at the present moment, in particular, it is extremely difficult to find available medical men, and without any disrespect to provincial authorities, an enquiry, limited to Bengal, and made by gentlemen who might help us here, could not in itself carry weight sufficient to induce the Government of India to go against the authorities of 1890-91. If there is any revision of the policy of the Leprosy Act, it must be based on an all-India enquiry, probably supported by the best opinion available at home and by whatever can be ascertained of the advances and experiences of other countries.

Sir Frank Carter has mentioned certain matters in which he particularly would like to see action taken, namely, the alteration of the legal definition of a leper, which as I have said was advocated in 1908; the establishment of leper colonies; the segregation of lepers in defined areas, preventing the influx of lepers to Calcutta; notifying their arrivals when they come, and such like. All these things require an amendment of the law, and the amendment of in the law some of these directions is not likely to be entirely non-controversial. If we once raise issues like the compulsory restraining of a man merely because he is afflicted with a terrible d sease, and, it may be, the taking him away from his wife or children, we are apt to excite a considerable amount of difference of opinion, which renders it all the more important that, if anything is to be done, it should be backed by authoritative opinion. On these grounds I would deprecate the appointment of a provincial committee either for Calcutta, or as the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra would have it, for the whole of Bengal. But we are perfectly willing to bring this discussion to the notice of the Government of India with a view to their ascertaining more fully the views of other provinces and considering in the light of the information which is at their disposal, whether the time has not yet come to re-examine this important subject. It is possible that they may do so at a convenient opportunity, but for the moment the time is most inopportune. Recent events, apart from this discussion, have drawn attention to this question of leprosy, and it is quite possible that the Government of India may decide that further investigation is justifiable. Obviously medical opinion and knowledge have advanced greatly since 1891, but I think we must leave it to the Government of India, although we are prepared to bring the question to their notice on these lines."

The Hon'ble Sir Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari said :—

"My Lord, I quite appreciate the difficulties which are in the way of the acceptance of this motion, and I am sure they will be appreciated by the Hon'ble Sir Frank Carter. In the meantime we expect that the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler will do something to mitigate the evils and abuses of the existing system and that will go to a certain extent to prevent the dissemination of the disease, and to ameliorate the conditions of those who come within the purview of the law so far.

There is another matter in regard to which it may not be difficult to take action and that is preventing lepers to have anything to do with the vending of articles of food. This matter may immediately be attended to including those mentioned by Sir Frank Carter. And some assistance may be given to testing and having indigeous methods of treatment adopted."

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler said :—

"My Lord, I would like to mention one matter, as I forgot to do so. With regard to the Hon'ble Sir Frank Carter's references to the asylum at Gobra, I am perfectly willing to have further inquiry made. I paid a visit to the asylum with Sir Frank Carter at the end of last cold weather, and he drew my attention to some of the points to which he has referred today. My recollection is that we did sanction a grant in order to remedy some of the defects, and also that I took up the matter of the moribund ward in particular. However, I will look into the matter again, and see whether anything more can be done."

The Hon'ble Sir Frank Carter said :—

"My Lord, I beg to express my thanks to the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler for the assurance he has given to improve the condition of the Leper Asylum at Gobra. In view of the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler's sympathetic reply, I ask for Your Excellency's permission to withdraw this resolution."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 12.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the Government do take into consideration the amendment of the Calcutta Improvement Act, 1911, at an early date, with a view to provide, as recommended by the Calcutta Improvement Trust, for the payment of the 15 per cent. statutory allowance in all cases of acquisition of land required for the improvement schemes of the Trust.

He said :—

"My Lord, some of the members of Your Excellency's Council are familiar with the subject and I find in this Council some members of Government who enacted this measure. Amongst them I find the Hon'ble Sir Henry

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

Wheeler who was then a Secretary to the Government. This subject was very keenly discussed at the time when the Calcutta Improvement Bill was under consideration. The proposal to abolish the payment of 15 per cent. statutory allowance in cases of compulsory acquisition of land by the Trust was received with consternation and dismay throughout the city. It evoked the keenest opposition not only inside the Council but also outside it. What was then done is that the clause relating to the payment of a statutory allowance of 15 per cent. was not made applicable in connection with the acquisition by the Improvement Trust within Calcutta. Fifteen per cent. compensation would be payable if the Improvement Trust acquired land, however notoriously unhealthy that area may be, outside the jurisdiction of the Calcutta Corporation, that is, in the Manicktollah or Cossipore-Chitpore Municipalities, but in all improvement schemes carried out by the Trust in the city that 15 per cent. which the people had been enjoying for the last 50 years was withdrawn. This evoked the greatest possible opposition in this Council when the measure came up. On reading the reports of the proceedings I find that the Select Committee was equally divided :—of the 10 members in the Select Committee 5, including the Hon'ble Mr. Shorrock of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, were for the retention of the 15 per cent. allowance and 5 for the omission of that provision but, I believe, that by the casting vote of the President of the Select Committee the motion for the retention of the allowance was lost. Now, my Lord, I think it may be known to Your Excellency's Government that there is widespread discontent in the city on account of the omission of this clause. The Improvement Trust has been in operation for the last seven years, and during the last two years especially its activities have extended towards the northern part of the town and affect a large number of poor middle class people—tenants, occupiers and owners of holdings who are generally poor and live from hand to mouth, and the growing discontent in the city has awakened the sympathy of even the quondam member in charge of the Bill, Mr. Bompas. Mr. Bompas, the Hon'ble Mr. Payne, who voted before for the abolition of this 15 per cent. and other members of the Trust made a recommendation to the Government for the restoration of the 15 per cent. allowance in all cases of acquisition by the Trust. I have got here the report of the Improvement Trust which I have no doubt has reached Your Excellency's Government and I do not think it is necessary to read it at length. I may say this that the Trust have, in their report, very strongly recommended that this 15 per cent. statutory allowance should be granted in all cases of acquisition by the Trust, and this report is signed by Mr. Bompas, Mr. Payne, Raja Hrishikesh Laha and other members of the Trust. I may also mention that this question of 15 per cent. statutory allowance was considered by the Commission which was appointed by Government in 1887 and was presided over by Sir Charles Trevelyan to inquire into the sanitary and structural defects of Calcutta, and to suggest what steps should be taken for the improvement of the city. I find that the Commissioners said that they were strongly of opinion that the statutory allowance of 15 per cent. should not be withheld, that is to say,, it should be continued in cases of acquisition for the improvement of the city. Then, my Lord, as regards the acquisition by other sister bodies in Calcutta (I mean the Calcutta Corporation, the Calcutta Port Trust, or Government) 15 per cent. statutory allowance is granted ; it is not withheld as the ordinary Land Acquisition Act applies to such cases. Russa Road and other roads in the Bhowanipore area are being widened by the Trust. Lansdowne Road runs almost parallel to Russa Road and is being extented by the Corporation who are also carrying out other road improvements. The statutory allowance of 15 per cent. is allowed by the Corporation while the Trust grants nothing for lands acquired almost side by side under their scheme, and the schemes of the Trust and the Corporation are only half a mile or quarter of a mile from each other. Similarly there is the Russa Road and there are some branch roads such as Iswar Ganguly Lane

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

which are being widened by the Trust, without the payment of statutory allowance, but side by side is the Kalighat Improvement Scheme carried out by the Corporation where 15 per cent. is being allowed. This, as I have said, is an anomalous position and involves great injustice to the people of Calcutta.

There may be an impression that it would be putting money into the pockets of landlords. My Lord, it is our misfortune to be called landlords. If your Excellency will inquire into the character of the holdings which come within the operations of the Trust, I can with the utmost sense of responsibility and emphasis, assure your Excellency that you will be convinced that nearly 90 per cent. of the property owners are poor middle class people who have got their ancient holdings or residential houses. To an ordinary Englishman the idea is that the landlord is a rich man rolling in wealth, a millionaire who has made money during recent years, or some big zamindar. but here, my Lord, as I have said 90 per cent. of the people who come within the operations of the Improvement Trust are poor people, small traders, many of them clerks in mercantile or Government offices or poor bhadroloks. My friend Sir Rajendra Nath Mukherjee will, I am sure, corroborate my statement. These are the generality of people who come under the operations of the Trust, but those who own houses in the big commercial area do not care a farthing for the Improvement Trust because they are in an area where the Trust has no terror for them. I think, my Lord, having regard to the widespead discontent that is prevailing in the city this 15 per cent. statutory allowance should not be withheld. Suppose there is a dwelling-house valued at Rs. 10,000 ; if that house is acquired by the Trust, the owner of the house if he is fortunate to secure a suitable house—which is rarely the case—will have to pay 3 per cent. as stamp duty and Rs. 300 as lawyer's charges ; the cost for search, conveyance of title, etc., will bring the total to Rs. 600. Then he will have to seek temporary accommodation elsewhere, and for this he will have to pay no less than 50 or 60 rupees per month. It will be at least six months before he can expect to get another house, and in many cases it takes more than a year to do so ; many people do not get houses at all for a very long time. The amount of rent annually will amount to Rs. 60 × 12 = Rs. 720 and this in addition to other incidental expenses amount to a total of Rs. 1,320. But what after all will this 15 per cent. of Rs. 10,000 amount to—it would be only Rs. 1,500 ; if the cost of removal and repair and refitting of the house is taken into consideration practically more than this amount goes in meeting these different expenses, and moreover it is a compulsory acquisition. If I want to sell my house to a private person I will sit tight ; people will come and negotiate ; I will say unless you pay me the amount I ask, I will not part with my house, and even if you agree to pay what I want, I must get another house before I can sell it. That is not the case when the Trust acquires my house. A notice comes from the Collector that here is the valuation, take it, and quit the house, otherwise you will be chucked out by force. That is the position of the Indian residents in Calcutta who are British subjects, and I appeal to your Excellency to inquire into these details and give relief to the poor British Indian subjects who are placed under your care. Now that the Improvement Trust has recommended, and their recommendation is backed by the Chairman, I hope that this 15 per cent. allowance will not be withheld. I pray that legislation at an early date be introduced. I know that there are other matters in connection with the Improvement Trust in regard to which legislation will be taken up. My Lord, the Government wheels move very slowly, but if Government so minds it, they can modify this particular section and can give relief to thousands of people under your Excellency's care in the twinkling of an eye. Here we have no quarrel, we are not scrambling for power that will have to be referred to Parliament and where there will be great deliberation. This matter has been thoroughly discussed and considered by responsible officers and by the members of the Trust. Therefore, Sir, when such a recommendation has been made by such a responsible body, and having regard to the deep discontent which is prevailing in the city, I hope your Excellency will be pleased to do this act of grace, mercy and justice to the people of Calcutta. I do not know what reply I shall receive from the opposite side, but I await it with great trepidation."

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur ; Rai D. C. Ghose Bahadur.

The Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I do not propose to take up much of the time of this Council because the salient points as to the necessity for amending the Improvement Trust Act in the matter of the percentage on the market value which is a feature the General Acquisition Act of India, have been put forward by my friend Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur. But I wish to add my voice in support of his contention, because it is just possible that the Council might think, that as I have some personal experience in these matters and being older in age than Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, I should know something of the conditions which operate on the unfortunate owner of a property whose land is compulsorily acquired by the Act. It is said that all that the man whose property is taken is entitled to is the market value of the property and he ought not to complain if he gets a fair price for the property. Now, Sir, those who say this are persons who live a detached life, and living a detached life has its value and advantages. They are generally the members of the Indian Civil Service, and it is no derogation to say of that service that, they do not hold any immovable property in the city of Calcutta. Sir John Peter Grant, a former Lieutenant-Governor, as inheritor of his father's estate, held some property in Calcutta, but as a rule the members of the Civil Service do not possess such property here, that being so, they are not in a position to feel what the men whose property is taken away compulsorily do, when he is offered the market value of the property and is told that he ought to be satisfied with that. My Lord, land is being compulsorily acquired in India for a long time, I do not know what the conditions were under the Bengal Regulation of 1824, or the India Act VI of 1857. I have not worked under this Act, but I claim some acquaintance with the operation of the Act as it was passed in 1870 (Act X of 1870) in the Viceroy's Council in which an active part was taken by the then Home Member, Sir John Strachey, and Sir James Stephen, Law Member. It was considered by the Government that under the Act of 1857 the compensation given to the owners was much in excess of the price of these properties, and, therefore, they wanted to lay down certain principles which have been referred to by my friend Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur and laid down under sections 22 and 23 of the Land Acquisition Act. The Indian legislature of 1870 lay down that the owner will get the market value and they define market value in a particular way. They say that in consideration of the great agitation which has been raised at that time against the proposed repeal of that Act of 1857 and that as the agitation is due to a feeling that no justice would be done to the parties from whom the properties will be compulsorily acquired, we will not only pay the market value, but we will follow the example of the English courts. We will adopt the English practice of giving a solatium over and above the price of the property and that solatium in England has always been from a very long time 10 per cent. of the price of the property ; that was to console the man whose land was acquired against his will. My Lord, you will see that this provision for paying a 15 per cent. allowance over the market value was not in response to an appeal by those who had agitated against the passing of the Act of 1857. In order to satisfy that there would be no danger in the operation of the proposed Act and that justice would be done, justice which not only concerns in paying the owner the proper price but in soothing his feeling by paying for his inconvenience and trouble caused by the compulsion and this solatium was fixed at 15 per cent. of the market value. Sir John Strachey than whom few men who have come out to this country took a sounder view of the state of things economical or political, and Sir James FitzStephen, who had a European reputation as a jurist before he came out to this country and who after retirement from India became a Judge of one of the Divisions of the High Court in England, considered that the extra payment of 15 per cent. on the market value was a just and proper thing. It was also politically expedient. But it remained for the Bengal Government, of 1911 to accede to the suggestion that it would save much money in working out the Improvement Act if you paid people less than what they were entitled to. It comes to that because as my friend to my left (Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur) has pointed out it is not sufficient compensation to pay a man whose property may be valued at Rs. 10,000 is paid Rs. 10,000, and asked to walk out of the house. He has to find a suitable property to invest this sum of Rs. 10,000 and if he was living on the property which was taken away from him, he would find it difficult for him to adjust himself to the new environment and any amount which you pay him as the market value will not satisfy him ; he will remain discontented. I think, Sir, we ought not to legislate in a way which is politically inexpedient and gives rise to discontent. It is unwise to go on in this way. We have a consensus of opinion. Barring the Civil Service whose views are put forward by Government, all merchants, Indian and European, members of the Calcutta Corporation, lawyers and also some propertied men have protested against this taking away of the solatium of 15 per cent. and I think it is not mere conscience which compels them to make this protest. It is most suicidal to go on in this fashion and to create discontent. After all if you have to go by precedent you have here up to the year 1911 been paying this 15 per cent. on the market value of every property whether in the city or outside, and whether for an improvement or for any other public purpose. People think that Government ought to give this 15 per cent. if their property is taken away compulsorily. As regards the valuation business, I do not know the state of things for the last four or five years but I will refer to things which occurred about the year 1915. The Chairman thought that no Calcutta man should be appointed, and they imported a person from London to value Calcutta properties. He had as much knowledge of the value of Calcutta property as the man in the moon and the members of the Improvement Trust were not permitted to meddle with the work of the valuation and a brick-maker in a well-known firm in Calcutta was put in to assist the valuer. That is the way in which the people have been treated in Calcutta, and one thing is clear that the Valuation Department only knew that where a man was entitled to Rs. 30,000, they would give him Rs. 15,000 and if the man has courage to go up to the Improvement Tribunal....."

Resolutions.

Mr. Goode.

[At this stage the Hon'ble Member had to conclude his remarks, he having reached the time-limit.]

The Hon'ble Mr. Goode said :

" My Lord, I am glad to be in a position to meet the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur rather more than half way in the resolution which he has laid before the Council. The Rai Bahadur in the latter part of his speech laid stress on the urgent importanee of Government undertaking legislation at a very early date for the amendment of the Improvement Trust Act, and I am glad to assure him that steps will be taken very speedily in this direction. He has informed the Council that a report was presented some time ago to the Government of Bengal by the Board of Trustees in which they recommended that certain amendments of the Act should be made.

Resolutions.

Mr. Goode.

The matter was considered by the local Government and an officer was put on special duty to draft a rough Bill on the lines of the amendments which were forwarded to Government by the Improvement Trust. The other legislation which the Municipal Department had in hand during the last two years has prevented any Bill being laid before this house, but I can assure the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur that Government intend at a very early date to bring the rough draft Bill which has been prepared into a better shape so that it might be laid before the Council. In view of the fact that Government are prepared very soon to undertake legislation, I hope that the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur may be induced to think that it is somewhat inadvisable to urge this house to come to a decision on the insufficient grounds which this discussion has afforded upon matters of principle which must shortly be considered both by the public and by the Corporation of Calcutta and by the Board of Trustees. I hope that on the assurance which I am now authorised to give him that Government will undertake legislation at an early date that he will be induced to think that the immediate decision of principle at this stage is somewhat unnecessary. I am able to go even further. I am authorised to state that the Government of Bengal propose to meet the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur more than half way even upon the matter of principle and in the Bill which will later on be introduced in this Council, the local Government subject to a reservation to which I shall refer shortly, propose that this 15 per cent. additional compensation should be awarded in the case of all street schemes, although not in general improvement schemes. The Hon'ble Rai Bahadur is well aware what a considerable concession this involves. I do not know whether he will on the assurance that I have given be prepared to allow this resolution to be dropped, and I am therefore compelled though very briefly to deal with the actual principle which he has raised and to explain why Government are not prepared to undertake legislation with a view to giving 15 per cent: compensation in every case of acquisition which the Trust may make. In the course of this discussion some reference has been made to the precedent afforded by the Indian Land Acquisition Act, and also to the precedent which exists at home. I do not want to revive the old controversy which is fresh in the memories of many members of this Council, but I cannot refrain from reminding the Council that as was stated by Mr. Bompas in a previous debate the precedent on which the Calcutta Improvement Trust Act was based is a truer precedent than the one which Hon'ble Rai Bahadur has cited—I mean the Bombay Improvement Trust Act. There you had a recent case of legislation dealing precisely with the same problem which Calcutta presented and as Mr. Bompas in 1911 pointed out the legislature was justified in regarding that that as a real precedent and not the Indian Land Acquisition Act which was quoted by the opposition at that time. Nor do I admit a precedent which the Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur has drawn from English practice. I am well aware that it has been the practice in the English courts since the enactment of the Land Acquisition Act of 1845 to allow what came to be termed a solatium which, as the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur has pointed out, has crystallised into a 10 per cent. additional allowance. But there has been more recent legislation than 1885, namely, the Housing of the Working Classes Act of 1890 and the Town Planning Act of 1899. Both these Acts and several other Acts which I can cite recognise that in the case of certain public improvements it was unjust that the community should be saddled with this occasional burden although it might rightly be allowed in the case of certain other schemes. In the case of improving or sweeping away insanitary property it was expressly forbidden that the courts should award this solatium. But the English precedent did not stop there. I would bring to the notice of the Hon'ble Members a more recent decision which an English body of some authority has given us on this point. In 1917 an unofficial committee was appointed by the Home Government to consider the whole question of law and practice relating to the acquisition of land for public purposes. It was recognised by the Home Government that after-war problems must involve a certain work of reconstruction and that the elaborate methods of acquisition and the excessive prices which, in many cases, local authorities are compelled to pay must be revised and corrected, and this Committee in 1918—the Rai Bahadur will kindly note that my authority is a very recent one—came to the decision that any additional solatium to compensate for the compulsory nature of public acquisition was an unnecessary burden upon the community. I will quote the words of the committee. After having examined not merely expert witnesses but also representatives of the various local authorities in England and Scotland theysaid :—

Resolutions.

Mr. Goode.

"Nearly all the witnesses who have given evidence before us are in favour of abolishing the customary allowance for compulsory purchase, and we think that there is a growing consensus of opinion that it is an unwarranted addition to the cost of public undertakings..... ..... We think, therefore, that no allowance for the compulsory acquisition of land should be added to the market value."

Now, my Lord, as I have suggested already it is unnecessary for me to attempt to defend the entire principle enunciated in the report from which I have just quoted because the Local Government have already decided to make a considerable step towards meeting the position taken up by the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur. But it was necessary in explaining the reason for our not accepting the resolution in full to refer to this pronouncement which I submit must carry great weight. It may be that I shall be met by the 'fur-coat' argument that English analogies have no reference to Indian conditions, but I submit that so recent a pronouncement given by a body comprising so many leading home experts must carry great weight even in India and as applied to Indian conditions. As it happens the present law and practice in Calcutta are actually in advance of the opinion which has prevailed in England during the last 50 years, and it does seem a somewhat retrograde step to ask this house after an hour's discussion to discard a principle which is now thoroughly endorsed by the best authorities, and I would therefore urge that this Council should decide that whatever the ultimate decision might be upon this important principle, it is inadvisable to pronounce a hasty judgment upon it now.

I need not refer seriatim to the arguments which have been adduced by the Hon'ble Members. It is urged that the invidious distinction between the acquisition of land by the Improvement Trust and by the Municipal Corporation in itself condemns these provisions, but I think that argument loses much of its force when we remember that the Trust was created for a special purpose and that all these arguments were laid before the Council and met as I think when the Bill was passed in 1911. A further argument is drawn from mufassal practice. It is urged that if the mufassalite is entitled to compensation why should the Calcuttite be mulcted of what he considers his right. I think I may here cite the distinction which is often drawn in the English courts between "onerous" and "beneficial" acquisition. In the case of land being acquired for the purpose of making a square the benefits immediately enjoyed by the surrounding residents are obvious, but in the case of land being acquired in the mufassal, for instance, to construct a Police Inspector's quarters the transaction might be said to be onerous because the benefit is spread over the whole thana or district and that particular neighbourhood does not obtain any immediate or manifest advantage from the action. However, as I have already stated. I do not wish at this stage to enter into the various arguments which have been cited at any great length. I would base my case mainly upon the fact that Government proposes at an early date to legislate and that it is inadvisable that the house should now come to a hasty decision upon an important principle which must thoroughly be discussed by this Council in the near future.

As regards the distinction which Government proposes to make between street schemes and improvement schemes, I may say a word. The Council are aware that a general improvement scheme is initiated to improve and abolish insanitary conditions, whereas street schemes although they may be initiated to remedy defective ventilation, etc., are more particularly intended to provide better means of communication. The Hon'ble Rai Bahadur may ask how Government can logically draw a distinction between the acquisition of lands for these different purposes. I may say that as a matter of fact the improvement schemes which the Calcutta Trust has up to the present undertaken are mainly street schemes. In fact the only general improvement scheme which the Trust has executed is scheme No. 1 known as the Surtibagan scheme. The Rai Bahadur then may probably feel that in accepting this half loaf he is standing on very safe ground, because as a matter of fact it has been found that the Corporation of Calcutta has shown no alacrity to represent insanitary conditions to the Trust and to press the Trust to undertake schemes of general improvement, so the actual position will possibly be very little affected by the fact that Government does not accept the whole motion. I spoke of a reservation in stating that the Government of Bengal was prepared to give the 15 per cent. additional compensation in the case of street schemes. The reservation is this: certain Members of this Council will probably remember Mr. Bompas' argument on this subject."

I have very little more to say. Some Members of this Council may remember that at the time when this Bill was discussed in 1911 Mr. Bompas stated that the Government of India who were financing the improvement of Calcutta to the extent of 50 lakhs had clearly stated that their contribution and their position would have to be revised if they understood that the Legislature proposed to give this 50 lakhs to the landlords as compensation. This Council will agree that the Local Government are not in a position immediately to undertake to promise that the payment of compensation in the case of street schemes should be inserted in the Bill. It will be necessary to consult the Government of India and obtain their views on the subject. But subject to their consent the Local Government intend, as I have already informed this Council, to introduce a Bill at an early date which will provide for the payment of an additional 15 per cent. compensation in the case of acquisition made for street schemes. In view of the action which Government propose to take, I would urge that the Council should decline to be forced into any decision now upon this important question of principle."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said:—

"My Lord, I have followed with very great attention the reply of the Hon'ble Mr. Goode. In the first place, when he began to speak he seemed to raise rather high hopes in my mind when he said that he was glad to be in a position to meet me more than half way, and gave me an assurance that legislation would be taken up at an early date. My Lord, in the first place as far as I have been able to understand him, it is an indefinite assurance. I do not quite follow what he meant by an early date—it may be this year, next year, or it may be three years hence, and in the meantime the present Act will go on. Then, my Lord, as far as I have been able to follow him, I understand that Government are prepared, subject to the approval of the Government of India, to restore the 15 per cent. statutory allowance in street schemes. Whatever the majority of Government may think in this matter—I am sure Mr. Goode is speaking as the mouthpiece of Government—there is some difference between street schemes and general improvement schemes in regard to procedure and scope. But so far as the acquisition of property is concerned, there is not very much difference. In a general or in a street scheme not only the land required for the carrying out of the improvement is acquired but also surplus land on both sides of the road extending to 100 or 200 feet in depth is taken and in such cases all the houses situated within the area come within the limit of acquisition. A chart has been prepared showing 1st and 2nd class houses by Dr. Crake, the Health Officer placed on special duty, although we find that the chart is not in all places quite correct. However, that is a separate matter. But what I understand is that in street schemes 15 per cent. would be allowed but in general improvement schemes the whole area is declared for acquisition but is not actually acquired, that is to say, the properties lying on the road line are acquired and the rest of the properties are reserved to form building sites and are either re-leased to the former owner or by agreement to the owner who holds a major portion at a certain value fixed by the Trust. That is also the procedure followed in street schemes. What is the difference then? Here you pay 15 per cent. and there you do not pay 15 per cent. The case of general improvement schemes and that of street schemes is almost the same because both are designed to improve the sanitary condition, and I think therefore that additional compensation should also be paid in the case of general improvement schemes. That is the recommendation of the Trust. Much has been said about the recent report of the Home Government regarding additional solatium. I have not seen it but this much I can say that the conditions of India and England are very different. It may be said that you wish to follow the western example. You do so when it suits your purpose, but when it does not, you do not cite the western precedent. I may say that the conditions in the west are quite different. In your country you can easily without any compunction remove one family from one quarter to another. But here in this country there is considerable weeping and beating of breasts and shedding of tears. There is a great feeling for clinging to ancestral homes and therefore there is great difference between the conditions in England and those prevailing here.

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

The British Government have reigned in India for more than 150 years and therefore they ought to know that these things have to be done very tenderly. I do not think that the example of Great Britain should be applied here. There the war conditions have put everything topsy turvy. The Hon'ble Mr. Goode has cited the Bombay Improvement; but why should we go so far as Bombay. I do not think that as the people there live in chauls, flats and tenements they have so much clinging to their ancestral homes. It seems anomalous that whereas 15 per cent. compensation will be paid for lands even in an insanitary condition outside the limits of the Calcutta Municipality, the same will not be paid for lands in Calcutta. For lands acquired by the Calcutta Municipality the solatium is paid; whereas, it is not paid when the lands are acquired by the Calcutta Improvement Trust.

Mr. Goode has also referred to the mufassal. What is mufassal to-day will be included in Calcutta tomorrow or within a few years. I believe that in the near future, the jurisdiction of the Calcutta Improvement Trust will be extended to Cossipore-Chitpur, Maniktola and Tollyganj. At present the people in those places get the 15 per cent. allowance for compulsory acquisition; but when the Act will be extended to those areas two years hence, they will be denied their compensation. These people are poor; and is it just to deny them their solatuim?

The Hon'ble Mr. Goode has stated that an early decision will be arrived at in this matter. I would like to have some assurance as to when it will be. I quite understand that the Bill will be fully discussed in Council, but before I decide to withdraw this resolution I must know when legislation is likely to be introduced."

Resolutions.

Mr. Goode; Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

The Hon'ble Mr. Goode said :—

"My Lord, it is proposed that the draft Bill will be brought in its final shape while Government are at Dacca, and steps will be taken to obtain the consent of the higher authorities to the introduction of the Bill. As I have said, the Bill will be introduced at an early date; but I am unable to give any fixed date."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Banadur said :—

"On second consideration I beg to withdraw this resolution."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—Item No. 13.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur also moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the Government do take into consideration the amendment of the Calcutta Improvement Act, 1911, with a view to provide that in cases of applications for exemption surplus land under section 78 of that Act, an appeal may be allowed to the Improvement Trust Tribunal or any other competent Court of law in the event of any dispute arising between the owner and the Board as regards the sum in consideration of which the acquisition may be abandoned.

He said :—

"My Lord, this is also a motion which perhaps I may explain briefly in a few words. Under section 78 of the Calcutta Improvement Act the surplus land which is taken on both sides of the road can be exempted on payment of a fee if not required for the execution of the scheme. My Lord, it stands thus: the Board assumes the present value of the property and also estimates its future value; then whatever the difference less 20 per cent., or in the case of dwelling houses 33 per cent., is demanded from the owner of the property as fee for exempting the premises from acquisition. If the party agrees to pay that sum then his property is exempted; if not, his property is acquired and he has to leave his holding. When this section was inserted it was inserted in a very benevolent mood. The Government of India thought that having regard to the feelings of the people of this country—their deep rooted attachment to their property—they should be allowed to retain their property on payment of a fee not exceeding half the future value of the property. That was the despatch of the Government of India on the subject. I read it last night and I have read it this morning, if I am incorrect I may be informed by the Hon'ble Member opposite. Now, my Lord, the position is this: the Trust practically acquires the property and sells this property to the owner and the purchase price and future value are both assessed by the Trust. There is no appeal against this valuation. The Trust is in a dominant position and is the master of the situation. The Trust has forcibly got possession of a man's property and, although Government very generously allowed the owner to retain the property, practically he is entirely in the hands of the Trust, which is in a dominating position, that is to say, the Trust may say either pay this or get away. Though the valuation may be excessive the owner has no power to test that valuation. It is therefore suggested that where there is a difference, i.e., where a party thinks that the present value has been underrated and the future value overstated, he may have an opportunity to go to a court of law, and as I have said here the Tribunal is the court. Mr. Bompas in his speech in the Council during the discussions in 1911 stated that the Tribunal would be an expert body of valuers and I think, therefore, Sir, that a third impartial party like the Tribunal ought to be allowed to arbitrate between the Trust and the party. That is the principle which was urged on that occasion most strenuously by the non-official members of this Council but unfortunately, as is always the case, that was not accepted. It cannot be said that the Trust is infallible. As a matter of fact the last Administration Report will show that out of 60 cases referred to the Tribunal from the Collector's award, in 48 cases the Tribunal have increased the valuation by nearly a lakh of rupees and that shows that no one is infallible. Here not the Collector but the Board's officers are practically the masters of the situation, whatever valuation they will fix will be final. They practically buy your land at Rs. 500 a cottah, they sell at Rs. 20,000 a cottah. Would you pay the difference in order to get back your land? The party says no, you have valued it at Rs. 500 I do not agree. The Trust will say if you are not prepared to accept our valuation go away, we will have it acquired by the Collector. Then the situation is this; the Trust know the people's passion for clinging to their ancestral dwellings—and it is no exaggeration to say that their hearts bleed when they are told to leave their holdings. The British administration is such that there is appeal in every case but here there is no appeal. Within the closed doors of the Trust the man is told, will you pay this or not; if not, leave your land and go away. That is a situation very distressing to the people and, therefore, I have suggested that where the party is not satisfied with the valuation of the Trust, he may be allowed an appeal to the Tribunal and this concession will be welcomed by every man. Then, my Lord, why not grant this remedy to the people. The Trust is not an infallible body as I have shown by quotation that in many instances the valuation of the Trust and the Collector was enhanced. Sir Rajendra Nath Mukherjee who is here will perhaps bear me out. We selected a big piece of land in Beadon Row for a re-housing scheme valued at Rs. 2,500 a cottah. Before it was declared for acquisition we were informed later that somebody had taken it at Rs. 4,000 a cottah. If it had been declared for acquisition the owner would have got only Rs. 2,500 a cottah, however much he might have talked and cried before the Collector; but fortunately for him before the acquisition notice was issued—he sold it at Rs. 4,000 a cottah. That shows the difference between the valuation of the Trust Officers and the market rate; that was a bona fide purchase in which P. C. Kumar, a well known name, is the purchaser. Then, my Lord, there is no expert valuer on the Trust. To give another illustration: in the Marcus Square extension scheme the value of the structure according to the Trust estimate was Rs. 40,000 the Collector's award was Rs. 80,000. That shows again the difference between the Trust valuation and the Collector's valuation. I do not at all mean to say that the Trust values deliberately at a low figure, but there is always the chance of injustice being done; in some cases it may be a little more and in some cases less. Here we are not secure even in our ancestral holdings under British rule and we can at any moment be held by the neck and turned out. If a property owner has a right of appeal he has some consolation and that is the reason why I have moved this resolution. I hope it will be accepted. If there is an appeal there is a safeguard against the executive authority fixing an arbitrary fee; it will be a wholesome check upon the Executive if they know that the man may go and file an appeal. I respectfully commend this to Your Excellency's attention, and I am sure that these are the feelings of the people of Calcutta —people who are law-abiding and whose grievances have been expressed in public and in the press. My Lord, there is deep discontent in the city and I feel it my duty to bring it to the notice of Your Excellency."

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

Resolutions.

Rai D. C. Ghose Bahadur; Mr. Goode.

"My Lord, when I came to this Council and intimated that I intended to say a few words on this resolution, I was of the feeling that an appeal from the order of a public body to a higher tribunal, whatever may be its advantage, has also its disadvantages and that I might not see eye to eye with my friend Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur. But having heard my friend's reference to the cases where the so-called expert valuers of the Improvement Trust have tried to do injustice to owners of properties, I think on a balance of convenience the experiment might be tried of having the matter reviewed by a tribunal which is constituted under the Improvement Trust Act and supported with the money of the Improvement Trust. If any appeal has to be preferred to any authority, I think the Improvement Trust tribunal will be the fit authority. I myself do not share with my friend to my right (Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur) in the idea that as our people are accustomed to go from one court to another, therefore, that there should be an appeal in a matter like this. I think in a matter like this the first authority should be a strong one, an authority with full knowledge and a sense of doing justice to house-owners. Some reference has been made to the Land Acquisition Deputy Collector. But where there have been Civil Service men they are generally liberal and inclined to be just. It is not a feeling which I express with reference to reports but from personal knowledge extending over a considerable number of years. In the beginning, if he has no experience he is apt to make mistakes, but as he acquires knowledge of the valuation of property he tries to be just and he has always the courage of his conviction and is not afraid lest the authority behind his back frowns at him, but a Deputy Collector unfortunately labours under a disadvantage. I know that if the latter officer were not dependent entirely on the good books of his superior for his promotion he would offer a higher price and be more just to the house-owners.

"Well, Sir, I will refer to a matter which I know. It is a compliment to the Indian Civil Service Land Acquisition Collector, but the reverse of it to the expert valuer of the Improvement Trust. When they began their operations they acted as one without the necessary knowledge of the subject. As regards a tenanted house, the best way of assessing it is to pay a certain number of years' rent, and in that case, there will be no dispute, but they thought that they could reduce the price and they accordingly proposed something for the land and something for the structures and of course they put a very low value on the land and a very low value on the structures. In a certain case the expert valuer of the Trust estimaed the building property to be 70 years old which was actually not even 30 years old and so he valued it low on that basis. The Land Acquisition Collector, Mr. Peterson thought that the property was undervalued and he made a reference to the Improvement Trust recommending an increase as he was satisfied that the property was not so old. When the case went before the Trust Tribunal the expert valuer gave his evidence to the effect that the building was 70 years old, but the court disbelieved him and the court believed the story of the owner. The Improvement Trust has not taken any notice of the conduct of their staff, and I doubt very much whether a proceeding of that kind would not be a premium on carelessness. I therefore think that the staff which values the property should be improved and there should be a more efficient staff imbued with the spirit not to do any injustice by lowering the estimate where it ought to be estimated high."

The Hon'ble Mr. Goode said :—

"My Lord, in listening to the speeches of the Hon'ble Mover and the Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur I have looked in vain for any recognition of the fact that the whole essence of this question lies in the Resolutions.

Mr. Goode.

difficulty of determining the future value of any property. The exemption fee-system is briefly this: the Improvement Trust in making a street finds that a certain piece of land is not actually required for the execution of the scheme, although it proposes nevertheless to acquire that land with the idea of recovering some of the improved value which the improvement scheme has produced. Instead however of the Trust at once acquiring that land the owner is in a position under the Act to ask the Trust to fix a fee on payment of which the Trust will abandon the acquisition. This in fact is a short cut towards the acquisition of the land and its subsequent resale on the pre-emption principle to the original owner of the land. Instead of the Trust acquiring the land and subsequently reselling it, it confers with the original owner and accepts a fee representing the improved value or some part of the enhancement of the value which the improvement has caused. Now the whole difficulty is to ascertain what the future value of that property will be, and I think that point has been somewhat neglected by the Hon'ble Mover in his speech. Obviously the ascertainment of the future value bears no relation or very little relation to the ascertaining of the present value. One is a matter of scientific computation helped by experience but the ascertainment of the future value is based largely on a guess or a prophecy. Now I would ask the Hon'ble Mover—how can you ask for a judicial determination in the matter of a guess or prophecy? It may be that one expert may be able to give a more accurate guess than another expert. The expert who has had more experience may be able after discounting the factors of special circumstances to approximate more nearly in his guess to the future value of a property; but nevertheless in the last resort his estimate remains a guess and he might be hard put to it to give reasons for the faith that is within him in making that estimate. Generally speaking, I would say that the respect which we attach to any estimate of any future value is based mainly on our respect for the expert and not on his arguments. In view of this fact—a very vital one in this discussion—I cannot conceive how the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur can ask this Council to assent to the principle that there should be an appeal to a court of law from the guess of an expert. He has suggested that the Tribunal is itself an expert body. It may be that the promoters of the Improvement Trust Act did originally intend that the Tribunal should be an expert body, but it cannot be said that the present Tribunal is composed of experts and it seems to me that it will be absurd to ask such a body to sit in judgment upon the guess—not upon the well-founded judgment—of an expert as to the future value of properties. That is why it has been so often suggested that the whole exemption fee-system resolves itself into bargaining or negotiation. The Rai Bahadur may suggest that the unfortunate owner of the property is at present given Hobson's choice. The Trust says if you will not accept the valuation which our expert has made then we shall acquire your property. I hope, however, that the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur will not adopt so cynical an attitude towards this body. I think it is inevitable that a body such as the Trust can never attempt in this indirect way to frustrate the obvious intention of the law and I feel therefore that the Rai Bahadur will not contend that any person coming before the Improvement Trust receives anything but fair and impartial consideration of his case. I was suggesting that it was a matter of negotiation between the two parties. The owner of the land assessed finds that it is worth to him so much to retain this property. The Trust has already decided that if they acquire the land for resale they will make so much profit. Between the two factors, viz., the profit which the Trust assumes it will make and the future value of the property as computed by its original owner between these some compromise has to be reached. This system of negotiation for a compromise is not a matter for judicial determination and I contend most strongly that it is quite out of place to lay these uncertain factors before a court of law. The Rai Bahadur suggests that the Improvement Trust is not infallible, that it may make mistakes and that it is therefore advisable to have another authority to check its errors. I do not suggest for a moment that its mistakes may not be numerous but I do contend that its mistakes are any rate made in good faith, and I do not admit the dismay, consternation and the discontent which the Rai Bahadur will have us believe prevail in Calcutta at present in regard to the present method of assessment. I have sat in many committees of the Corporation on which the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur was himself present. I have watched and seen the considerate and reasonable manner in which the Corporation has discussed with owners of properties what fee may fairly be fixed in order that they might secure redemption from acquisition, and I see no reason for thinking that the same fair treatment does not prevail in the Improvement Trust Exemption Committee. But there is a further safeguard to the owner of the property. If he decides not to pay the fee which the Trust may fix he has still not yet lost his property. The land may be put up to auction and the original owner may then enjoy the right of pre-emption. He is then in a better position to determine whether the future value estimated by the Trust is fair or not. Again if he considers that the offer of the Trust is not a good enough one, and if he thinks that he will lose on the transaction he can refuse to pay the fee and the land may be acquired and put up to auction. I think the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur will on reflection admit that the Trust, as a statutory body, will exercise its power in a reasonable way and will not impose exorbitant fees with the hope and intention that the party may refuse to pay them, the property remaining in the hands of the Trust. In view of these facts I think that this House will refuse to accept the principle which the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur has urged upon them. But I will also invite the attention of the House to the fact that this Bill will shortly be amended and that the whole question of recoupment is likely to receive treatment on broad lines and it is quite possible that the Government of Bengal may decide on some other method of recoupment whether betterment or frontage rate which will be more equitable and more easily worked than the present system. I would, therefore, urge even more strongly than when speaking on the previous motion that it is premature to discuss the question of principle at this stage."

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord; I have listened with very great attention to the Hon'ble Mr. Goode's reply. As far as I have been able to follow him he has admitted what I mentioned to the Council that the fee is based on the differnce between the assumed present value and future value. It is a very short cut—this acquisition and the subsequent sale to the owner—acquiring at the Trust's own valuation and selling at their own estimate of future value. I say, my Lord, that it is not fair that the party should not be given an opportunity to go to a third party but be compelled to accept the terms of the Trust who are interested in the matter. I do not say that they are interested in the way that they are bent upon doing an injustice to the owner. But all the same the Trust is interested, and I think there should be an appeal to the Tribunal. Owing to the benevolence of the Legislature, the Board have to offer their surplus land to the party of course at their own valuation. The Government of India in their despatch to the Secretary of State recognised the love and attachment of the people of India to their holdings. And why should they be deprived of their holdings by an interested party however well intentioned that party may be. That is my point. Then Mr. Goode has said that the difficulty lies as regards future valuation. He asks how can the Tribunal ascertain future valuation, the members of the Board are human and the Tribunal also are human. I may quote from Mr. Bompas who said in this connection that experts in land valuation were procurable and it was desirable to appoint a Tribunal for the trial of such cases which should be an expert body—it was intended to be a court of experts. That was in reference to the opposition of the Council at the time to the creation of a Tribunal. Mr. Bompas fought hard for the Tribunal. He said it would be an expert body and that the people would be benefited and that the Tribunal would command greater confidence than a High Court Judge who might today be a Barrister and tomorrow a Civilian. He asked why should the Trust or anybody be afraid of going to experts who would consider all the facts. In England, I find from Mr. Bompas' as well as from Mr. Basu's speech, you have got an arbitrator appointed by the Local Government Board. Then why should you not leave matters to be decided by arbitrators? Let them judge whether the present valuation is fair and future valuation reasonable. Nothing is lost thereby and the party is pleased. In the debate on the Improvement Bill Mr. Bompas had to admit that the party had a right to say that somebody else must decide between the Trust and the claimant when they differed. Therefore, I think, that there is some reason and some ground for the demand that I now make on behalf of the people of Calcutta. Then Mr. Goode has referred to pre-emption. Mr. Goode knows very well all about it. He has been a very very sympathetic Chairman of the Corporation, I do not say this in flattery. But I ask is it fair to talk about pre-emption when you take away the right of redeeming the property? My Lord, I would explain what pre-emption is. The holding is acquired outright, the road is made or the improvement is completed, three or four years elapse and before the property not taken up for the roadway is put into auction the owner is asked, do you want this now? His house was there and if he had been granted exemption, he would have continued to live in his holding. and would have been allowed a rebate of not less than 20 per cent.; he could have made the fee a charge on the property instead of paying it in a lump sum. All these advantages count for nothing at the time of pre-emption when he has to pay down the whole amount in cash without any rebate, not to speak of the distress caused by the compulsory removal in the interval. Is that fair, my Lord? This point was debated in this Council and the justice of the case was fully pressed at the time by the Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha. Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu, Mr. Apcar and others, and I find from the proceedings that the Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan voted on the popular side. But, my Lord, everything was washed away as there was a solid official phalanx that day even as there is today. I do not want to take up more time, but I would make a fervent appeal that this matter should be taken into the careful consideration of Government as there is a great feeling of discontent in the city over it."

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

The motion was then put and lost.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 14.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur also moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a committee, consisting of representatives of the Corporation of Calcutta. the Calcutta Port Commissioners and the Calcutta Improvement Trust, and representatives of other interests concerned, be appointed to report on the present condition of the Port Commissioners' lands in Calcutta lying north of Howrah Bridge, and to suggest the most suitable and effective methods for improving the sanitary condition of such lands and for developing them to the best advantage by structural or other alterations.

He said :—

" My Lord, in moving this resolution I should like to give a brief history of the Port Trust lands north of the Howrah Bridge. Originally the formation of the Strand Bank was partly the result of alluvial deposit and was assisted largely by the municipality depositing for many years the sweepings of the town. When Strand Road was constructed some of the prominent landholders of Calcutta parted with their right over a considerable portion of the riverside land for purposes of public utility, and the Government of Lord Dalhousie stated that it was proposed 'to keep the land between Strand Road and the river in such a condition as to be both ornamental and helpful to the town and useful at once for the purposes of commerce and recreation. The design of the most noble the Governor of Bengal is that the land in question should be used permanently and exclusively for purposes of public utility connected with the trade, traffic, health and the convenience of the community in furtherance of which design, roads, ghats, wharfs and the like might be made, but no elevated buildings were in contemplation.'

In 1862 when the Calcutta Port Trust were made Trustees for the first time in connection with the property, then it was proposed that the land should be utilized for the reduction of port dues. Sir Ashley Eden (then Mr. Eden) spoke as follows :—

'As to the proposition of making over the river bank for the relief of the port dues, he considered it a most selfish one . . . . . He confirmed what had fallen from an Hon'ble Member regarding the interest of the original pottadars and added :—It was certain that neither Lord Dalhousie nor the pottadars in compromising all disputes ever intended the bank to be devoted to the reduction of the port dues. If the bank belonged to the public, it belonged to the whole of the public and should be applied for their benefit.' The representative of the Chamber of Commerce agreed with the contention that the river bank belongs to the entire community.

For about 47 years, this property has been in the hands of the Port Trust, and what is its condition ? If your Excellency would pay a surprise visit you would be astonished to see that it is in an abominable condition and is a permanent menace to the health of the city. It is a conglomeration of huts, godowns, etc., in insanitary and undrained condition, cattle are tethered in innumerable numbers on public roads and passes, and the whole area is kept in such a way that it is a source of perpetual nuisance to the city. The present Health Officer (Dr. Crake) District Health Officer in charge of the northern part of the city, reported that the state of affairs existing here was really scandalous. The Corporation for the last 15 or 20 years have been asking the Port Commissioners, as if on their knees—they are such a powerful body—to effect improvements ; but every time a request is made, they meet practically with a rebuff. However, in 1909 a Conference was held between the representatives of the Corporation and those of the Port Commissioners regarding the widening of Strand Bank which is just on the riverside and the Strand Road which starts from the corner of Harrison Road. The Conference was attended by Mr. Payne ; I was one of the members, and Sir Frederick Dumayne prepared a plan showing that the whole area would be admirably improved by providing a 70-feet roadway with 40 feet side-roads and with a river bank road of 40 feet; in width this would have admirably opened out the area. I have got the extract from the note of Sir Frederick Dumayne ; it is this : a 75-feet road in the middle, 40 feet on the western side, and 40 feet on the eastern side. Then many of the existing buildings and huts would be removed ; new buildings and even warehouses would be constructed and there would be ample space for ventilation and the whole area would be put in a tidy condition. We were enamoured of it and we thought that Sir Frederick Dumayne's proposal would materialize. I was expecting it to materalize every day, but I do not know what has happend to it. I fear that when Sir Frederick Dumayne left this country it was sent in the same boat with him and was dropped into the English Channel; it has not since seen the light of day. If your Excellency would drive

Resolutions.

Mr. Cumming

over the area you will find that between the Ferry Ghat and Jagannath Ghat a huge four storied warehouse has been built not only projecting over the 60 feet roadway, but covering nearly the whole roadway, and affording only a subterranean passage, thus light and air are absolutely shut out. That passage is obstructed by rows of bullock carts—a teeming number of them—which are loading and unloading. On the north side there is a range of warehouses and on the east side there is a platform and there are warehouses on the first and third floor and a sloping staircase. The carts stand there loading and unloading at all hours of the day and therefore that road, which is always blocked up, is in an abominably filthy condition. People have any how to crawl through that passage in order to get to Howrah Bridge. A body of businessmen is keeping this area in this abominable condition. If the Port Commissioners dared to do this in the southern part of the town they would have been wiped off the face of the earth, but they are doing this with impunity in the northern part. The Corporation asked them to provide proper accommodation for carts and cattle and to pave all the passages over which there is heavy traffic. The Port Commissioners said : 'you had better build the stable or let the Government contribute, we cannot pay anything.' The other day they wanted to give a piece of land to the Corporation at the extreme north of Baghbazar on which it was proposed that the Corporation should construct a cattle-shed at a cost of about 3 lakhs, but the Port Commissioners would not pay a single pice. That is their justice ; they are a powerful body, I do not know whether they are under the ægis of Government, but that is how they treat the Corporation. A few weeks ago the General Committee decided that it was not the business of the Corporation to provide stables for carts and cattle serving in the Port Trust area. If the Port Commissioners mean to let the carters continue the nuisance it will be a source of danger to the health of the residents of the northern part of the town. Everything continues in its pristine glory, my Lord. Some time ago I solicited your Excellency's predecessor, Lord Carmichael, to pay a visit to the northern quarter. He expressed his willingness, if he could find time, to arrange a visit to that quarter. If your Excellency will pay a surprise visit, for if previous intimation is given of your Excellency's visit, the officers will cover up the whole area with a red carpet—I am sure I will be able to show that not a word of mine is exaggerated as regards the condition of affairs there. The question of a river promenade was raised by Sir Francis Stewart and Mr. Bompas, but what to speak of a river promenade ! The whole area is full of all sorts of refuse and the smell of dung is unbearable there. Such being the condition of things, I respectfully move that a committee be appointed consisting of representatives of the Port Commissioners, the Calcutta Corporation, and the Improvement Trust and of other local bodies and such other persons as the Government may think fit to report on the present condition of the Strand Bank Press and to suggest what suitable methods for effecting sanitary and structural improvement should be adopted."

The Hon'ble Mr. Cumming said :—

"My Lord, the object which the Hon'ble Member has in view is, as he has stated in his resolution, the improvement of the sanitary condition of these lands and their development to the best advantage. The Port Commissioners and the Government are quite at one with him in this desire. He has portrayed the Port Commissioners as a powerful body absolutely impervious to any suggestion for improvement. This I do not consider to be a true picture. He has given an account of the lands which I might amplify ; but I shall not take up the time of this Council beyond saying that these lands were the result of agreements between Government and the Port Commissioners at various times between 1874 and 1877. The Hon'ble Member no doubt is correct in quoting the original idea with which such lands were transferred : they were for the purpose of public utility connected with the trade, traffic, health and convenience of the community. I do not think that the Port Commissioners at the present moment would be prepared to say that they have had a very definite policy in the past regarding such lands, but it is only right to realize the difficulties which beset their path.

In 1908 a scheme was prepared for the development of such lands, but at the time of the Port Facilities Committee in 1913 some portions of the scheme had to be revised or abandoned. Then later on in 1913 some new factors had come into existence in which there are, to some extent, still uncertain quantities. There are two main facts regarding any general scheme for the improvement of areas to the north of the Howrah Bridge which must be considered. First of all, there is the very important proposal about an inland harbour in connection with the Grand Trunk Canal scheme ; and, secondly there is the question of a Delivery Depôt in connection with the King George's New Docks. These and other difficulties which I might enumerate have impressed the Port Commissioners and they realize that an entirely new scheme for the present moment would be difficult to prepare.

Now, the proposal made by the Hon'ble Mover has been anticipated to some extent. The Improvement Trust addressed the Government on the subject and suggested that it would be better to re-examine the whole question of this land, and if there were no scheme, to have one prepared ; and recently we saw in the press that the Calcutta Municipality had formed a somewhat similar opinion. On receipt of this communication the first action of Government was to find exactly the size and area of these lands and the terms under which they were held. Indeed I was prepared on behalf of Government to address the Commissioners on the subject just about the time the notice of the Hon'ble Member's resolution was received. The intention of Government is still the same ; and it is to address the Port Commissioners asking them to prepare a comprehensive scheme as far as they can to remedy the outstanding intrinsic defects ; and, before they finally submit their proposals to Government to consult the Calcutta Corporation and the Improvement Trust. That obviously will meet to a very great extent the object which the Hon'ble Member has in view in asking that a joint committee consisting of these three bodies proposed be formed. Moreover it may be in the recollection of members of this Council that in answer to a question this morning an intimation was made of the intention of Government to put on the statute book at an early date legislation regarding a Central Port Health Authority in Calcutta ; and obviously such an authority, if created, would have something to say regarding these various areas. These being the facts, my Lord, I submit that in view of the action which Government have already determined to take and are proposing to take the proposal in the Hon'ble Member's resolution is, if I may say so, premature, if not unnecessary. The Hon'ble Member will probably consider that the action which the Government will take will meet the object which he has in view more expeditiously. I would ask him to reconsider whether he would pursue the resolution or withdraw it."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I have listened to the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming's reply and if I have followed him aright, he said that the Government had already addressed the Port Commissioners on the subject."

The Hon'ble Mr. Cumming said :—

"I beg the Hon'ble Member's pardon. I did not say that ; I said that the Government were going to address the Port Commissioners."

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur (continuing) said :—

"I now understand, my Lord, that the Government are going to ask the Port Commissioners to submit their proposals for the improvement of this area in consultation with the Calcutta Corporation and the Improvement Trust. If I understand the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming correctly I think he said something about the Central Port Health authority. However, what I understand generally is that my motion will be met to some extent, in an indrect way; that is to say. that Government will ask the Port Commissioners to prepare their scheme in consultation with the Corporation and the Improvement. My motion is that Government should appoint a committee. Instead of doing that, as it would perhaps be rather like superseding the Port Commissioners, Government are doing it in an indirect way. The Port Commissioners are not like the Burdwan or Chinsura Municipalities which can be superseded. I am glad to hear that Government are going to take some action in the matter. However if the evils which I have brought to the notice of your Excellency are removed within a reasonable time I shall be quite content. My Lord, I would like to have some assurance that this will be done expeditiously. I want to know what time the Port Commissioners will take in submitting their scheme in consultation with the Improvement Trust and the Corporation, and I shall be glad if Government will give us a hint that this will be done within a reasonable time, otherwise the insanitary condition of the northern part of the town will continue to the great detriment of the residents there. With these observations, my Lord, I beg to withdraw my resolution."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

Adjournment.

RESOLUTIONS.

(Under the rules for the discussion of matters of general public interest.)

[The discussion of the resolutions left over from the previous day was resumed.]

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEMS Nos. 15 TO 18.

The President said :—

"Items 15, 16, 17 and 18 raise substantially the same question and there need not be four separate discussions on the same matter. The discussion therefore will all take place on the first of those four motions standing on the paper, namely No. 15. If it is desired after the discussion is concluded I shall be prepared to put each motion in turn from the chair."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that in view of the present rise in the prices of food-stuffs, a committee of officials and non-officials be appointed to consider the remedial measures already taken, or in contemplation by the Government, and to advise what further steps (if any) should be taken to alleviate the present distress.

He said :—

"Last February when we had a discussion about the high prices of cloth and food-stuffs on the motion of our indefatigable friend the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur, the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler was kind enough to explain to the Council the orders of the Government of India, and assured us that both the Local Government and the Food Commissioner were watching the circumstances as regards export trade. As regards import trade he admitted that the prices of wheat, grain and pulses were unfortunately very high, and attributed them to the failure of crops and the decrease in the purchasing power of money.

Subsequently matters became very acute, the price of rice in particular became alarmingly high, the coarsest rice selling at Rs. 8 per maund or so. Government have recently taken steps to reduce exports, and to permit the imports of Burma rice into Bengal. It would be interesting to know how far the exports of rice and other necessaries of life to foreign countries have been curtailed, and in case any quantities are still exported out of India, whether such exports cannot be stopped altogether. I feel bound to point out that there is a feeling in certain quarters that the curtailment of exports to foreign countries has not gone as far as it should go, having regard to our own needs, and the prior claims of the people. In this connection, my Lord, I desire to draw attention to certain articles published in the Bengalee by an enthusiastic student of Indian economics, Babu Kshitish Chandra Neogy. From these articles I find that rice was exported from the port of Calcutta, according to Mr. Neogy, to the extent of 15,23,000 maunds in 1918-19, 20,19,000 in 1917-18, and 1,79,100 in 1917-18. Mr. Neogy had also shown that the daily average consumption of rice in the Province was eight chittaks only. In nine months from April 1st, 1918, to December 1918, the export of rice was four and three-fourths crores of maunds. Bengal imported the smallest quantity and exported the largest quantity during the last six years. The result was that the net quantity available for consumption was only 177 million maunds as against 239 and 229 million maunds during the preceding two years. Even under ordinary conditions, the quantity available was barely sufficient. With a decrease of imports, increase of exports, and with a growing population replenished yearly by large numbers of immigrants, deficiency was more serious than was apparent through Census figures. These were facts which required looking into by a Committee.

I do not know whether these figures will be challenged, but they have been carefully compiled by a very capable student of economics. However that may be, the broad fact remains and cannot be gainsaid that prices of all kinds of foodstuffs are still extraordinarily high, and it is necessary to consider what other steps should be taken to alleviate the present distress which is undoubted and which is much more acute than people in favourable stations in life perhaps realise. It is no comfort to be told that the present high prices in India are part of a world wide economic movement. It may also be mentioned here that on a rough calculation based on Mr. Neogy's figures, we find that during last year, excluding export and including import, there was available only 8 chitaks of rice per head for the population. Eight chitaks of rice, my Lord, is hardly adequate even for one meal a day. Taking facts as they are, I submit it is incumbent upon Government to take all possible steps to ensure that people have enough to live upon at reasonable rates, having regard to their chronic poverty and the present purchasing power of the rupee. I refuse to believe that the problem is beyond the resources of Government, or that a satisfactory remedy cannot be found if Government and representatives of the people confer together. Various suggestions have been made by different people. The Corporation of Calcutta have suggested a substantial reduction in the extra-provincial or maritime exports, arrangements for concerted purchase for other Provinces, allotments of Burma rice for Bengal and reduction of freight on rice from Burma In this connection I may mention that I have just received a note from a big rice-merchant of the city, Babu Amulyadhone Addy. He says that on the 15th May last, Burma rice was selling at Rs. 7 in Calcutta, Rs. 6-6 in Cawnpore and Rs. 5-15 in Bombay. He asserts that the Director of Civil Supplies has failed in making a fair distribution of rice. The Government of India have declared that rice is only exported to foreign lands for the consumption of the Indian population abroad. But Mr. Addy points out that even this year rice has been exported to Sweden where there are no Indian settlers. Mr. Addy suggests as a remedial measure a prohibitive duty instead of the present system of control. Mr. K. L. Datta, a renowned officer of the Finance Department, now retired, stated that in the most favourable years, considering the want of the population, not more than 2 per cent. of the produce could safely be exported out of India and that in unfavourable years not a single grain could be sent out of India without detriment to the population. I am not an expert, my Lord, but I may say this that the present topic is agitating the different sections of the community—educated and uneducated, rich and poor. For my part I believe that Government have already taken action on certain lines, but it is possible that discussion in a small committee will bring out other suggestions. The problem is to render available a sufficient quantity of the main necessaries of life, regulate their distribution and arrange for their sale at cheap prices either through official or voluntary agencies. To be effective, remedies must be fairly comprehensive, and it will be necessary to ensure that relief actually reaches the people for whose benefit it is intended. The matter is one which affects the daily lives of the people and a thorough comprehension of their wants and difficulties is essential to organising successful relief measures. This is essentially a matter in which Government and the people should work together in mutual co-operation and trust. A mixed committee of officials and non-officials would be in an infinitely better position to advise Government and to engender confidence in the people in the beneficient intentions of Government. I may say that there is nothing new in this idea of having a committee to advise Government. In the discussion in the Corporation Mr. Rhodes suggested it to license recognised dealers. Last year when the price of cotton goods went up an advisory committee was appointed and did useful work. Although the scope of work of the committee for which I move would be much larger, Government may rest assured that it will prove at least as useful, and the need for such a committee is no less.

Resolutions.

Babu S. N. Ray.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray said :—

"My Lord, for the last few months the economic situation in the country has been most serious, causing the greatest suffering to the people. Since I had sent my resolution I find that representations have been sent to Government from various public bodies, for instance, from the Calcutta Corporation, from the Darjeeling Tea Planters Associations asking Government to take steps to reduce the price of rice. Government have not been unmindful of these representations. Some communiques have been issued by Government to ascertain the exact situation and also for the control of rice. It is generally believed by the people of this country that the present serious situation has been brought about by the seeming apathy on the part of Government and that efforts of Government have been, as stated by the Englishman, only spasmodic.

I think Sir Henry Wheeler may remember that I wanted to move a resolution asking Government to take action to reduce the high price of food-stuffs some time probably in December last and that I discussed the question with him. He was pleased to point out to me the inter-provincial character of the question and he informed me that he would place my resolution in the hands of the Commissioner of Food-stuffs who was expected to come to Calcutta within the next few days. I therefore did not move my resolution. I find however that in February last my hon'ble friend Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved a resolution about the high price of food-stuff and cloth. In reply to that resolution Sir Henry Wheeler on behalf of Government was pleased to reply as follows :—

'The Government of India made it clear at the outset that in respect of rice Bengal would not be allowed to close down export so as to keep all available stocks within its borders, and while shortly afterwards first in the case of the United Provinces and the Punjab and a little later in the case of all provinces, they allowed Local Governments to prohibit the export of food-grains, other than wheat and rice, from their jurisdictions except under certificate, they definitely said that they would not allow the powers thus conferred to be so exercised as to apply an absolute and uncontrolled embargo upon all exports of food-stuffs. We were then told that subsequent to the 25th January last the Government of India modified their policy in one material respect, and, while leaving wheat, rice and grain to be regulated by this special Commissioner, withdrew the powers of local Governments to impose restrictions on the movement of food-grains outside their provinces.'

Here we have got no doubt some of the obstacles which stood in the way of your Lordship's Government to interfere with the export of rice either inter-provincially or outside India. But the next passage which I am going to quote shows the attitude of the Local Government in the matter.

Sir Henry Wheeler was pleased to say, 'From 1911 prices rose steadily till 1913, and kept on a fairly high level through 1914 and 1915, rising even higher between September and December of the latter year. At the end of 1915 prices came down considerably and kept fairly steady till the end of 1916. They then fell again and steadied on approximately the same level until about October 1917.' Then we have a big drop nearly down to the level of 1911, and while recently prices have risen again, they are not yet up to the level of 1913 or 1915. In the face of that record of prices I submit that it will be impossible to go to the Government of India and say we want to close down the export of rice from Bengal. All that we can do, we are

Resolutions.

Babu S. N. Ray.

doing. We are watching the traffic in rice, seeing how much goes out of the province, and keeping the Food-stuffs Commissioner informed of the facts. He is also watching circumstances in Bengal and other provinces, but beyond that, for the moment, we cannot very well go. That is as regards our export trade.' We learn that your Lordship's Government did not like to go up to the Government of India in February last because the prices had not risen up to the level of 1913 or 1915. I think the price of ordinary rice went up in 1913 and in 1915 for a short time. It was about Rs. 6 per maund. The same rice is now being sold at more than Rs. 8 per maund. Export of rice from Bengal to foreign countries has been, however, going on pretty merrily—overseas, not for the purpose of human consumption, but mostly for starching yarn and weaving operations and for the purpose of distillation. Rice is being exported even to Egypt and to Sweden where there is no Indian population to eat rice for whose benefit God alone knows though the Government of India distinctly informed the public by a Press communique that rice was being exported for Indians living in foreign countries. It appears from the Trade Return of Calcutta for April 1918 to March 1919 published under the authority of the Governor General in Council that whereas in 1917, 17,92,055 maunds and in 1918, 20,19,392 maunds of rice were exported from Calcutta by sea, within the three months of January, February and March 1919, 53,70,526 maunds of rice were exported overseas, i.e., Bengal exported nearly double the quantity of rice in the first three months of this year of what it did in the first two previous years. The meaning of these figures I would ask your Lordship to consider. They mean that the staple food of the country has been exported most recklessly without the slightest regard for the food of the people. It is no wonder that the poor are on the very precipice of starvation. The Government cannot say that the Indian Press has been silent on the question. Nor can it say that the representatives of the people in your Lordship's Council have not brought to the notice of Government the grave situation in the country. But it does not seem that their representations have had much effect on Government. Sir Henry Wheeler was no doubt pleased to say in February last that the attitude of Government would be one of watching. But unfortunately this policy of simple watching and seeing has brought about an unheard-of state of things in the country.

It is our firm conviction that if your Lordship's Government had taken timely action in this matter, things would not have taken this serious turn.

Various suggestions have been made to bring down the price of rice in this province. The subject has been discussed threadbare in the Calcutta Corporation and the Chairman of that body has already addressed your Lordship's Government on the subject. I have already said that the Darjeeling Tea Planters' Association have also submitted a representation. They all submit that the export of rice from Bengal ought to be put a stop to at once on the principle that the people must have sufficient to feed them before any Government would allow exportation and that measures should be taken for the import of Burma rice to this country. The last communique by Government on the subject of high price of rice has been published in the daily papers of the 16th June. We find there 'that the pronounced rise which began last April has been the subject of careful and minute examination. It is within the knowledge of the public that the control of rice is under the direction of the Government of India.' The public, however, will not be satisfied with this statement. Why were not proper steps taken in the beginning of January or even in February last to put a stop to the large export of rice from Bengal? Why was the attitude of Government simply one of watchfulness? Was the Government of India approached in proper time to avert this present serious situation? Why were some of the sister

Resolutions.

Babu S. N. Ray.

provinces successful in their endeavours? In the Punjab the price of wheat came down in the course of a single day by notification in April last.

Various suggestions were made in the course of the debate on this question in the Calcutta Corporation. I would add a few of my own for the consideration of your Lordship's Government. They are :—

(1) All export of rice overseas to be absolutely stopped.

(2) Burma rice to be imported in sufficient quantities for Bengal.

(3) Freight from Rangoon to Calcutta to be reduced.

(4) Burma rice to be carried by railways and steamers at concession rates.

(5) Wholesale and retail price of Burma rice to be fixed.

(6) Cheap grain stores to be opened in towns and villages.

(7) Burma rice to be made available at fixed prices—if necessary at lower than cost price at stores to be opened at every thana and at the head-quarters of select rural co-operative societies and select union committees ; co-operation of municipalities, district and local boards to be secured for the purpose.

(8) That the Director of Civil Supplies be assisted by a committee of gentlemen who are in the rice trade and one or two officials, and one or two independent non-official gentlemen.

This high price of the staple food of the country is ascribed by some to failure of crop last year in Bengal, but it is well known that the failure was only partial and was not of such a character that the people would have been obliged to starve or would have been obliged to purchase at about Rs. 8 or Rs. 9 per maund. There have been larger failures to our knowledge, but prices have never risen so high. The general impression is that if Government had taken timely action there would not have been this dire distress in the land. In this country where a great deal depends upon the action of Government it is the general opinion that timely intervention on the part of your Lordship's Government would have averted this critical situation. The means which the Government intend to adopt to reduce the price of rice as appears from the communique of the 16th June will not, we are afraid, grapple the situation properly. I think it would serve no useful purpose if a limited quantity of Burma rice were only imported to Bengal. Burma rice should be freely imported to Bengal so that it may compete freely with the rice in stock in the hands of the dealers in rice in this country. This and the measures already proposed by me will, I have every reason to believe if carried out, tend to reduce the price of rice. In this connection I have consulted some of the influential rice merchants of Calcutta. Let me quote from one of the letters received by me on the subject :—

High prices of rice in Bengal.

Causes of this may be outlined as follows :—

(1) Shortage of crops all over India being the chief cause. Bengal, Bihar and Orissa yielded about 68 per cent. of the normal. Rise in prices is greatly due to this.

(2) Large quantity of boiled rice (this being the only food for Bengal) was drawn for different provinces from Bengal—

(a) Bombay drew something like 3 to 4 lakhs bags from Calcutta nearly all boiled rice without the sanction of Bombay or Calcutta Director of Civil Supplies. These consignments were under Military certificates, and the fact can be verified from railway books. Bombay does not consume any boiled rice, then why such large quantities were drawn.

doing. We are watching the traffic in rice, seeing how much goes out of the province, and keeping the Food-stuffs Commissioner informed of the facts. He is also watching circumstances in Bengal and other provinces, but beyond that, for the moment, we cannot very well go. That is as regards our export trade.' We learn that your Lordship's Government did not like to go up to the Government of India in February last because the prices had not risen up to the level of 1913 or 1915. I think the price of ordinary rice went up in 1913 and in 1915 for a short time. It was about Rs. 6 per maund. The same rice is now being sold at more than Rs. 8 per maund. Export of rice from Bengal to foreign countries has been, however, going on pretty merrily—overseas, not for the purpose of human consumption, but mostly for starching yarn and weaving operations and for the purpose of distillation. Rice is being exported even to Egypt and to Sweden where there is no Indian population to eat rice for whose benefit God alone knows though the Government of India distinctly informed the public by a Press communique that rice was being exported for Indians living in foreign countries. It appears from the Trade Return of Calcutta for April 1918 to March 1919 published under the authority of the Governor General in Council that whereas in 1917, 17,92,055 maunds and in 1918, 20,19,392 maunds of rice were exported from Calcutta by sea, within the three months of January, February and March 1919, 53,70,526 maunds of rice were exported overseas, i.e., Bengal exported nearly double the quantity of rice in the first three months of this year of what it did in the first two previous years. The meaning of these figures I would ask your Lordship to consider. They mean that the staple food of the country has been exported most recklessly without the slightest regard for the food of the people. It is no wonder that the poor are on the very precipice of starvation. The Government cannot say that the Indian Press has been silent on the question. Nor can it say that the representatives of the people in your Lordship's Council have not brought to the notice of Government the grave situation in the country. But it does not seem that their representations have had much effect on Government. Sir Henry Wheeler was no doubt pleased to say in February last that the attitude of Government would be one of watching. But unfortunately this policy of simple watching and seeing has brought about an unheard-of state of things in the country.

It is our firm conviction that if your Lordship's Government had taken timely action in this matter, things would not have taken this serious turn.

Various suggestions have been made to bring down the price of rice in this province. The subject has been discussed threadbare in the Calcutta Corporation and the Chairman of that body has already addressed your Lordship's Government on the subject. I have already said that the Darjeeling Tea Planters' Association have also submitted a representation. They all submit that the export of rice from Bengal ought to be put a stop to at once on the principle that the people must have sufficient to feed them before any Government would allow exportation and that measures should be taken for the import of Burma rice to this country. The last communique by Government on the subject of high price of rice has been published in the daily papers of the 16th June. We find there 'that the pronounced rise which began last April has been the subject of careful and minute examination. It is within the knowledge of the public that the control of rice is under the direction of the Government of India.' The public, however, will not be satisfied with this statement. Why were not proper steps taken in the beginning of January or even in February last to put a stop to the large export of rice from Bengal? Why was the attitude of Government simply one of watchfulness? Was the Government of India approached in proper time to avert this present serious situation? Why were some of the sister provinces successful in their endeavours? In the Punjab the price of wheat came down in the course of a single day by notification in April last.

Various suggestions were made in the course of the debate on this question in the Calcutta Corporation. I would add a few of my own for the consideration of your Lordship's Government. They are :—

(1) All export of rice overseas to be absolutely stopped.

(2) Burma rice to be imported in sufficient quantities for Bengal.

(3) Freight from Rangoon to Calcutta to be reduced.

(4) Burma rice to be carried by railways and steamers at concession rates.

(5) Wholesale and retail price of Burma rice to be fixed.

(6) Cheap grain stores to be opened in towns and villages.

(7) Burma rice to be made available at fixed prices—if necessary at lower than cost price at stores to be opened at every thana and at the head-quarters of select rural co-operative societies and select union committees ; co-operation of municipalities, district and local boards to be secured for the purpose.

(8) That the Director of Civil Supplies be assisted by a committee of gentlemen who are in the rice trade and one or two officials, and one or two independent non-official gentlemen.

This high price of the staple food of the country is ascribed by some to failure of crop last year in Bengal, but it is well known that the failure was only partial and was not of such a character that the people would have been obliged to starve or would have been obliged to purchase at about Rs. 8 or Rs. 9 per maund. Babu S. N. Ray.

(b) Berar also drew fairly large quantity of boiled rice from Calcutta while a fairly large quantity of Burma rice was being allotted to that province. This province also drew under Military certificates.

(c) Madras and Colombo drew largest quantity of boiled rice and are still drawing. These parts get large quantity of Burma rice and can be still increased rather than to draw from a depleted province like Bengal.

(d) Tea gardens and coal-fields should have arranged for their supplies through Director of Civil Supplies, Bengal, for Burma rice from Chittagong for tea gardens and from Calcutta for coal-fields.

This method would have relieved much pressure in the Bengal districts.

The Military priority certificates have been playing a very prominent part since the last 4 to 5 months in drawing boiled rice. These Military certificates, if properly investigated by a mixed commission of officials and non-officials, will reveal much. The Military Department never required boiled rice, and priority certificates were granted to persons who were never contractors to the Military Department. Places to which these goods were consigned never had any Military Depôt or a station. This traffic was carried on to benefit some body and made big inroads into the boiled rice stocks of Calcutta and the districts.

To bring down prices in Calcutta and districts.

(1) It is difficult to do much at this stage, yet an effort can be made in the following directions :—

(a) To stop totally all despatches of boiled rice to up-country, Madras and Colombo. Similar orders should be passed to all Bengal districts for up-country despatches. Paddy might be allowed to be imported to Calcutta to supply mills who produce boiled rice for town consumption.

(b) At present Director of Civil Supplies permits about 30,000 tons monthly of Burma rice to meet up-country demand. Out of this, say, 25 per cent. or 7,500 tons monthly of boiled Burma rice if it can be imported, it would affect the Calcutta market and lower the present prices. Boiled Burma rice should be imported at controlled prices and sold out here at different Calcutta centres at a small profit under municipal control. At present Rangoon raw rice is sold on this system, but it is not taken in much as town consumes generally boiled rice.

There are other articles of food of the people of Bengal besides rice which have also gone up in price, viz., pulses, mustard oil and wheat. I think these are governed by inter-provincial rules and I need hardly say that Government will be pleased to take such early steps as may be necessary to reduce their price. While not in favour of advocating the export of rice from Bengal to the other provinces of India I think it is not good policy to prevent the export of rice to those provinces upon which we have to depend upon for some of our own articles of food, such as wheat, pulses, etc. We are, however, opposed to the export of rice out of India.

Whenever the produce of a country exceeds the want of the people the supplies may be freely exported, that is to say, any food-stuff in excess of the requirements of the people can be exported into any foreign country that is in need of such food-stuff. This principle safeguards the inhabitants of the country where the special article of food is produced and any violation of this reasonable principle must produce discontent in the country from which the foodstuff of the people is allowed to be exported without any check.

Resolutions.

Maulvi Abul Kasem.

I shall now deal with the question of the high price of cloth. We know that a resolution was moved in this Council by my hon'ble friend, Maulvi Fazlul Haq, to appoint a committee for recommending to Government to take such steps as that Committee may suggest for the reduction of the acute distress prevailing in the country owing to the high prices of cloth. That was in July 1918. That resolution was accepted by your Lordship's Government. The Committee was constituted, the Committee sat and the Committee made certain recommendations. We have from the speech of the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler at that very time. The Government of India in their communique of the 24th August last announced their intention of attempting the manufacture of standardised cloth for the assistance of the very poor, that a Cotton Committee was appointed on the 1st October 1918 and that Committee issued some 1,700 licenses and that owing to this and other causes the market fell. We are told, however, that since that time the attitude of your Lordship's Government has been one of watching the course of trade and of getting the best information as regards the probabilities of the situation so as to be able to decide from time to time whether or not to take further action. There was no doubt a fall in the market but still the price of cloth remained more than double the original price. But within a short time the prices again rose though not to the price of September 1918 But as far as we see no attempt has been made to introduce standardised cloth in the market for the very poor, although the provinces of Bihar and Orissa, the Punjab and the United Provinces have all undertaken to supply the same.

The generality of the people of this province are as poor as the generality of the people of the other Province. Bengal is not a manufacturing country. The Bangalakshmi Mill cannot supply the cloth required by even one single sub-division of a district of this Province. Still nothing has been done. Is it out of deference to any vested interest? Reduction even by 4 annas for a piece of cloth to a poor man means a great deal to him. It means the cost of salt which is one of his necessaries for at least a month. People naturally become discontented when they see the other provinces enjoy a benefit and that on account of the action taken by their Government and your Lordship's Government have been merely watching the course of events. Whether by the introduction of standardised cloth or by any other possible means the price of ordinary cloth used by the masses of the people may be reduced it is for the Government to consider. We can simply lay our grievances and make suggestions.

My Lord, last year when there was an abnormal rise in the price of cloth there were hat-looting cases all over the province. The price of rice however was very moderate then—less than it had been for the last two or three years. People could therefore fight with the then state of things. But things have assumed a different aspect at the present moment. There has been abnormal rise in the price of rice and every other foodstuff, whereas the price of cloth retains almost the same abnormal high price. The pinch has been great. Never has there been in the history of the country such an abnormal rise in the prices of every necessary article of life. The people have become almost helpless. We have got rice in our own country, but we cannot get it. Trades' unfeeling train has been carrying away the same without let or hindrance. It is high time for Government intervention in an active way."

The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem said :—

"My Lord, I rise to speak on this motion. But at the outset I may say that I do not associate myself with the recommendation that a committee should be appointed to consider the remedial measures already taken or about to be taken. The object which made me give notice of this resolution was to draw the attention of your Excellency's Government to the state of affairs in the country caused by the scarcity of food grains and the rise in the price of other necessary commodities of life. I know, my Lord, that the situation is very grave all over the province, but I have confined my resolution to the Burdwan Division and I have done so advisedly because in the first place I can speak of the Burdwan Division with some amount of personal knowledge; and in the second place I wanted to bring to the notice of your Excellency's Government some peculiar circumstances. I may say unfortunate circumstances under which we, the people of Burdwan, suffer.

Your Excellency is aware of the fact that practically since the year 1913, large tracts of arable lands in the Burdwan Division have been flooded by the rivers Damoodar and Ajai and there have practically been no crops to speak of in that area. The area is sufficiently large; it is about 250 square miles on the southern portion and an equal area on the northern side. Since then, however, steps have been taken by the Department of Public Works to mitigate the effects of the floods; but these attempts have not been successful. Although we hope to get good crops from a portion of these areas in the near future yet our hopes have not yet been realised. I have been assured by the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming, speaking on the financial resolutions, that the provision made by Government for the prevention of the flood of the Ajai was such as to prevent any damage by anything less than super-excessive floods; and we earnestly hope and trust that such will be the case. My Lord, the present circumstances are that a large portion of the agricultural population have had no crops for nearly three or four years and the situation is therefore very grave and acute. Consequently I feel it my duty to bring to the notice of your Excellency's Council the fact that when the permanent settlement was made in the Burdwan Division almost all the portion of the arable lands in the Division were under cultivation; and naturally the assessment of revenue was very high; and the zamindars in spite of the permanent settlement have had no appreciable increment of their income or their rentals. However, in other places, where lands have since the days of the permanent settlement been brought under cultivation, the zamindars are now getting rents from their tenants for those lands for which no assessment were made at the time of the permanent settlement. For these reasons, the zamindars in the Burdwan Division are as poor as the cultivators; they are not even so well off as they have to pay a large amount of revenue and get very little profit out of their lands, and are not in a position to help their tenants. So, the only help we can expect at the present moment is from the Government; and I think, my Lord, that it will serve no purpose by detaining the Council by recapitulating all the various things that have been referred to by the previous speakers and the literature that has appeared in the Press and elsewhere on this question. What I would submit to your Excellency's Council is that some steps might be taken to relieve the agricultural population and the poor raiyats from the present distress. If a reference be made to the registration records, it will be found that a large number of holdings owned by agriculturists are being transferred often to money-lenders. These agriculturists find it impossible either to borrow money or to obtain food grains on credit and they are therefore obliged to alienate their cultivable land and in some cases even their homestead lands, in order to provide themselves and their families with food and other necessaries of life. This is a serious state of things, but it was more so some time ago. The best course in such circumstances to get the help of the co-operative societies. Whoever may be at fault, at any rate, the co-operative societies are not very popular in my part of the province. I do not blame anybody; but that is a fact; and even granting that they were popular, there is no time at the present moment to establish co-operative societies to relieve immediately the sufferings of the people in great distress. In those portions of the Burdwan Division, which had good crops in the previous years and which had not suffered from the floods, the agriculturists had some stock of rice and paddy; and this was due primarily to the fact that they could not sell their paddy owing to the difficulties in export and transport by railway. But all of a sudden towards the end of last year somehow or other the transit of goods was made more easy, and merchants from Calcutta went to the various centres of Burdwan and Hooghly and offered good prices for the rice; and the agriculturist, who required money badly to pay off their rents and purchase other necessaries of life, sold all their stock they had in their possession being afraid that the price of rice would go down. These agriculturists and jotedars, who generally have sufficient stock of rice not only for their own consumption for years but also for sale, are now practically without any victuals. Therefore it is necessary that some relief should be brought to their doors. Fortunately, for us, my Lord, at the present moment, we have in the district of Burdwan a very sympathetic and an exceptionally able and experienced administrator as District Officer; and if your Excellency's Government place sufficient funds at his disposal, he will be able to afford help to the people under his charge. Fortunately the same may be said of the other District Officers in my division; there are very able and experienced District Officers in almost all the districts of the Burdwan Division. I would therefore appeal to your Excellency's Government that sufficient means may be placed at their disposal to relieve the distress of the people and that the further transfer of agricultural holdings and homestead lands of agriculturists to money-lenders may be stopped, as that will materially affect the prosperity of the agricultural population. I do not know what measures are necessary and I cannot venture to make suggestions; but various suggestions have been made not only by the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur and my friend to my right, the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray but also by various public bodies and the press; and your Excellency's Government will be in a position to decide what measures should be adopted. With these words, I beg to support the resolution so far as it relates to the relief of distress of the poor but not to institute an inquiry into the matter."

Resolutions.

Babu S. N. Mukharji.

The Hon'ble Babu Siv Narayan Mukharji said :—

"My Lord, in the midst of the world-wide rejoicings and jubilation consequent on the long-looked-for descent upon this earth of the Angel of Peace after the most sanguinary conflict which the world has ever witnessed, and to which history can hardly furnish a parallel, it would, I fear, be out of place and painfully discordant were we to join the chorus of wail that rises at this hour from one end of this vast Indian continent to the other by reason of the extreme suffering and want created by the not merely abnormal, but unprecedented, rise in prices of food grains and cloths—the two indispensible and ultimate necessaries of human existence. But the times are such, and the exigencies of the situation are so stern and unrelenting that it is impossible for Government to assume a laissez-faire attitude, and for the public to accept the inevitable, and merely sit and brood over the chronic want and sufferings on all sides with the impassiveness of a Buddhist idol. India has had the misfortune to be rather a constant prey to scarcity and famine. The absence of a few bountiful showers of rain, all in good time, and, as its result, a failure, all round, of the winter paddy crop in Bengal or the spring crops of wheat, barley, etc., in Bihar, and we have the wolves of famine let loose upon the land. In dire emergencies, I would rather say, catastrophes of this kind, what Government generally do consists in making provision for work, supplying food for the labourers, and prohibiting the export of food-grains. It takes some months, sometimes more than a twelvemonth, for normal conditions to return. With the harvesting of the next paddy crops the prices of food-grains, which go up by leaps and bounds on these calamitous occasions, resume their normal figures; and improved facilities of railway communication and the promptness with which relief measures are undertaken have in recent years succeeded in considerably taking the sting out of the sufferings which such cataclysms bring in their train. Common though are dearths, scarcities and even famines in India thanks to the benevolent policy of Government, their kaleidoscopic appearance on, and disappearance from, its horizon, because meteoric, have ceased to have a lasting effect on its economic conditions. But the steady rise in the prices of foodstuffs and cloths during the last decade, culminating in their present fabulous figures, has, while enriching a fortunate class of adventurous capitalists, brought the general mass of population to the brink of starvation and raggedness, nay, even nudity. During the first half of the thirteen years from 1906 to 1919 the prices of commodities continued as follows :—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Rice	4	0	0	per maund
Dal	4	8	0	„
Flour	5	9	0	„
Ghee	40	0	0	„
Mustard oil	15	0	0	„
Coke	0	5	0	„
Kerosine oil	0	1	6	per bottle
Manchester cloth	1	8	0	per pair

But after a little more than the four most eventful years of the great War the prices of those very articles stand as follows to-day :—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Rice	9	0	0	per maund.
Dal or pulses	12	8	0	„
Flour	12	0	0	„
Salt	4	0	0	„
Ghee	90	0	0	„
Sugar	22	0	0	„
Milk	12	0	0	„
Mustard oil	40	0	0	„
Coke	0	10	0	„
Kerosine oil	0	3	6	per bottle.
Manchester cloth, coarse quality	5	0	0	per pair.

When we look upon this picture and on that what do we find? We find that the price of every common article of food and clothing has, during the last five or six years, steadily increased till it has assumed proportions out of all keeping with the average earnings of a member of the bhadralok class, not to say of the common artisan or the labouring classes generally. And even at those prices we are getting, in the language of the poet, chalk and alum and plaster for bread. One cannot have prevision enough to forecast the economic future of this country; neither can one be so far blinded by pessimism as to despair of finding a sovereign remedy capable of successfully coping with the situation. The tide in the market has been so steadily and so surely rising that fears are, not without some show of reason, entertained by people whose faith in kismat is proverbially strong, that there is no authority potent enough to be able to pass the word of command : 'Thus far shalt thou go, and no further.'

It is at this juncture, my Lord, that we naturally seek the aid of writers on political economy. According to the most rational view of the acutest thinker among them the most plausible case for artificially cheapening a commodity is that of food. The desirableness, he adds, of the object is in this case undeniable. Fortunately for the people, Governments in European countries have studied to reduce the occasional high price in times of emergency. They have done so, and have insisted upon the richer classes diminishing their own consumption, on the ground that if those classes buy and consume their usual quantity of food, and content themselves with giving money, they do no good. The country cannot be too grateful to Government for condescending to adopt such direct measures at the cost of the State as the importation of rice from Burma; but rice is not the only article of food of which the price has gone up beyond all reckoning. And the only remedy under the present most trying circumstances lies in opening depôts at District and Sub-divisional head-quarters and in large towns for the sale at moderate and controlled prices of the few articles of daily consumption. This course has, we understand, been adopted in Bihar, and we trust your Excellency's Government will pursue a similar course, and lead the van in the humanitarian work of averting a dire catastrophe which stares the whole country in the face. No one but a visionary would dream of a return of the good old days of Shaista Khan, when rice sold at eight maunds the rupee. We can nevertheless expect to see the passing of an ordinance prohibiting, for the nonce, the export of food grains and the production of artificial dearness by what is known as monopoly.

Resolutions.

Babu B. C. Ray.

In these circumstances and at this grave crisis the Province looks up to your Excellency's Government for such benevolent measures as may afford relief to the distressed millions committed to your charge. It is the world competition that has been their ruin—world-competition and all that it stands for. Few and simple are their wants—a handful of rice to appease their hunger and a strip of cloth to hide their nakedness.

In supporting the resolutions so opportunely moved by my friends, the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray, and three other Hon'ble members, I beg respectfully to commend them for final adoption to the sympathetic consideration of the Hon'ble members of this Council."

The Hon'ble Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray said :—

"My Lord, the distress prevailing in our country has already assumed such a widespread and acute character that prompt and bold action is urgently necessary on the part of the authorities. Since the first alarm was given by a scanty monsoon last year, we have witnessed a sorry spectacle of inaction in Bengal, except in certain areas where serious famine conditions prevail. The control of rice traffic is no doubt under the Government of India, yet it is difficult to say that the provincial Government have discharged their share of the responsibility with credit.

The first tangible sign of activity was the attempt to take a census of rice-stocks in Bengal in November last, which, though admitted to be disappointing and defective, appears to have been sufficient for the purpose of persuading the authorities that Bengal had surplus stocks of rice. As these census figures have not been published, we are not in a position to say how far this conclusion was justified. But it is perhaps this optimism of the local authorities that has led the Food-stuffs Commissioner to encourage export of rice in so large quantities from our province, with the result we all know. Even in February last, the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler ignored that our enormous exports contributed in any way to the distress. He said, 'Nothing that we can do will remedy the factors making for high prices, namely, the failure of the crops due to a deficient monsoon and the decrease in the purchasing power of money.' But the blunder of the authorities in ignoring the third and a potent factor, namely, large exports to foreign countries, which was wholly preventible, has at last been indirectly admitted by the recent decision to cut down export, after it is too late.

have done so, and have insisted upon the richer classes diminishing their own consumption, on the ground that if those classes buy and consume their usual quantity of food, and content themselves with giving money, they do no good. The country cannot be too grateful to Government for condescending to adopt such direct measures at the cost of the State as the importation of rice from Burma; but rice is not the only article of food of which the price has gone up beyond all reckoning. And the only remedy under the present most trying circumstances lies in opening depôts at District and Sub-divisional head-quarters and in large towns for the sale at moderate and controlled prices of the few articles of daily consumption. This course has, we understand, been adopted in Bihar, and we trust your Excellency's Government will pursue a similar course, and lead the van in the humanitarian work of averting a dire catastrophe which stares the whole country in the face. No one but a visionary would dream of a return of the good old days of Shaista Khan, when rice sold at eight maunds the rupee. We can nevertheless expect to see the passing of an ordinance prohibiting, for the nonce, the export of food grains and the production of artificial dearness by what is known as monopoly.

In these circumstances and at this grave crisis the Province looks up to your Excellency's Government for such benevolent measures as may afford relief to the distressed millions committed to your charge. It is the world competition that has been their ruin—world-competition and all that it stands for. Few and simple are their wants—a handful of rice to appease their hunger and a strip of cloth to hide their nakedness.

In supporting the resolutions so opportunely moved by my friends, the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray, and three other Hon'ble members, I beg respectfully to commend them for final adoption to the sympathetic consideration of the Hon'ble members of this Council."

The Hon'ble Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray said :—

"My Lord, the distress prevailing in our country has already assumed such a widespread and acute character that prompt and bold action is urgently necessary on the part of the authorities. Since the first alarm was given by a scanty monsoon last year, we have witnessed a sorry spectacle of inaction in Bengal, except in certain areas where serious famine conditions prevail. The control of rice traffic is no doubt under the Government of India, yet it is difficult to say that the provincial Government have discharged their share of the responsibility with credit.

The first tangible sign of activity was the attempt to take a census of rice-stocks in Bengal in November last, which, though admitted to be disappointing and defective, appears to have been sufficient for the purpose of persuading the authorities that Bengal had surplus stocks of rice. As those census figures have not been published, we are not in a position to say how far this conclusion was justified. But it is perhaps this optimism of the local authorities that has led the Food-stuffs Commissioner to encourage export of rice in so large quantities from our province, with the result we all know. Even in February last, the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler ignored that our enormous exports contributed in any way to the distress. He said, 'Nothing that we can do will remedy the factors making for high prices, namely, the failure of the crops due to a deficient monsoon and the decrease in the purchasing power of money.' But the blunder of the authorities in ignoring the third and a potent factor, namely, large exports to foreign countries, which was wholly preventible, has at last been indirectly admitted by the recent decision to cut down export, after it is too late.

of food-grains, which go up by leaps and bounds on these calamitous occasions, resume their normal figures; and improved facilities of railway communication and the promptness with which relief measures are undertaken have in recent years succeeded in considerably taking the sting out of the sufferings which such cataclysms bring in their train. Common though are dearths, scarcities and even famines in India thanks to the benevolent policy of Government, their kaleidoscopic appearance on, and disappearance from, its horizon, because meteoric, have ceased to have a lasting effect on its economic conditions. But the steady rise in the prices of foodstuffs and cloths during the last decade, culminating in their present fabulous figures, has, while enriching a fortunate class of adventurous capitalists, brought the general mass of population to the brink of starvation and raggedness, nay, even nudity. During the first half of the thirteen years from 1906 to 1919 the prices of commodities continued as follows:—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Rice	4	0	0	per maund
Dal	4	8	0	„
Flour	5	9	0	„
Ghee	40	0	0	„
Mustard oil	15	0	0	„
Coke	0	5	0	„
Kerosine oil	0	1	6	per bottle
Manchester cloth	1	8	0	per pair

But after a little more than the four most eventful years of the great War the prices of those very articles stand as follows to-day:—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Rice	9	0	0	per maund.
Dal or pulses	12	8	0	„
Flour	12	0	0	„
Salt	4	0	0	„
Ghee	90	0	0	„
Sugar	22	0	0	„
Milk	12	0	0	„
Mustard oil	40	0	0	„
Coke	0	10	0	„
Kerosine oil	0	3	6	per bottle.
Manchester cloth, coarse quality	5	0	0	per pair.

When we look upon this picture and on that what do we find? We find that the price of every common article of food and clothing has, during the last five or six years, steadily increased till it has assumed proportions out of all keeping with the average earnings of a member of the bhadralok class, not to say of the common artisan or the labouring classes generally. And even at those prices we are getting, in the language of the poet, chalk and alum and plaster for bread. One cannot have prevision enough to forecast the economic future of this country; neither can one be so far blinded by pessimism as to despair of finding a sovereign remedy capable of successfully coping with the situation. The tide in the market has been so steadily and so surely rising that fears are, not without some show of reason, entertained by people whose faith in kismat is proverbially strong, that there is no authority potent enough to be able to pass the word of command: 'Thus far shalt thou go, and no further.'

It is at this juncture, my Lord, that we naturally seek the aid of writers on political economy. According to the most rational view of the acutest thinker among them the most plausible case for artificially cheapening a commodity is that of food. The desirableness, he adds, of the object is in this case undeniable. Fortunately for the people, Governments in European countries have studied to reduce the occasional high price in times of emergency. They

Resolutions.

Mr. Irwin.

My Lord, the non-official Indian members of this Council made repeated attempts to make your Lordship's Government recognise the seriousness of the situation, and suggested for their consideration several measures of general relief which have been tried with success elsewhere. But the authorities put forward very many excuses for their policy of drift and treated those suggestions with the usual disregard. In reply to a question of mine, Government refused to suggest to the District Boards and Municipalities the desirability of opening cheap grain stores, a step which has been taken in some other provinces and several Native States to relieve the general tension. And when later, I moved a resolution in connection with the financial statement recommending that a certain sum should be placed at the disposal of the District Boards and Municipalities for enabling them to open cheap grain shops, I was told that it would lead to interference with trade, and further that the amount suggested would be insufficient for the purpose. But this latter difficulty does not seem to have been altogether insurmountable, because Government could easily increase the grant if so disposed.

My Lord, it is a pity that your Lordship's Government should have underestimated the gravity of the situation, and failed to appreciate the difficulties of the people committed to their care. In February last, a graph was exhibited in this Council showing the course of prices during the past few years, for the purpose of consoling us with the thought that the prices of rice had not at that time reached the level of 1913 or 1915. This procedure betrayed a lamentable want of acquaintance with the circumstances of the people which have been so seriously affected by the long prevalence of war prices all round. The authorities ought to have known better than to institute any comparison between the circumstances of the people in 1913 or even 1915, with those of 1918-19. The phenomenal rise in the price of cloth and other commodities has long exhausted the resources of the people, and the present scarcity of foodstuffs is indeed the proverbial last straw.

My Lord, we must tender our thanks to Government for their recent communique whatever in may lead to. But in order that any measures may be effective, they should be taken early, and in close co-operation with the people themselves. It is necessary that in such critical moments, the representatives of the people should have a potent voice in determining the course of action to be followed. I therefore support the proposal for the appointment of a committee to go into the whole question."

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin said :—

"My Lord, in connection with this resolution I should like to say that I have it on excellent authority that about two months ago there were no less than 225,000 maunds of rice consigned to Bihar and Orissa accumulated at three stations on the Darjeeling-Kishenganj Branch Line, and the General Manager of the Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway himself told me that the Eastern Bengal Railway could not take over more than 4,000 maunds per diem. Thus it would take from 50 to 60 days to move the whole amount. Meanwhile some of the rice was rotting and some actually growing out of the bags whilst we in Darjeeling were crying out for supplies.

On top of this it is reported that the Food Controller of Bihar and Orissa purchased another 1,300 maunds at Matigara, a large bazar in the Darjeeling district and actually situated behind the stations at which the first mentioned quantity was lying rotting for want of transport. My Lord, I will not waste the time of the Council with any comment upon this."

Resolutions.

Babu K. M. Chaudhuri.

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri said :—

"My Lord, I do not propose to say anything about the export or import from outside India, as I know that Government have been doing all that can possibly be done. That owing to the paucity of supply there has been great suffering amongst the people for want of foodstuff is admitted on all hands. It is a question of demand and supply. and if the supply can be added by outside import, i.e., importing rice from Rangoon, that can be done by all means, and Government will see of course how far the export from India can be controlled. But there are other difficulties within the province. I understand statistics are being collected as to what amount of supply there is in the country and how far we can depend upon it. We see from the newspaper reports that in every district of Bengal the supply is not sufficient. One precautionary measure should be taken in regard to the capitalists—the rice-dealers and the money-lenders. As in the case of jute, the jute-dealers gained much and as in the case of cloth the Marwaris made enormous profit, so in the case of rice the rice dealers and money-lenders are storing the paddy with a view to selling it at a high price in the market and thereby making considerable profit. In my district, Rajshahi, which is a paddy-growing district, this difficulty is felt there, and I telegraphed to Government to take immediate steps to control the supply and I also approached the District Magistrate on the subject. The Hon'ble Mr. Cumming was kind enough to pay a visit there recently and I also brought to his notice what could be done in that direction. In collecting the statistics great care should be taken to see how far the supply is available for general consumption and how far it is being stored by the capitalists—money-lenders. The cultivating class is entirely in the hands of the money-lenders during the rainy season. I know in my district paddy is being sold to the cultivators at Rs. 5 a maund and upon that interest is being charged by the money-lenders at 25 per cent. and that when paddy will be harvested in December and January the money-lenders will realize the whole thing, i.e., the money value and the cultivators will have to sell the paddy, when it will be harvested, at a very cheap rate, and the result will be that they will have to pay more than cent. per cent. for the help they are now getting from the money-lenders. In fact for taking a maund of paddy they will have to pay more than Rs. 6 and perhaps at the harvest season for one maund of paddy they will have to pay nearly 3 maunds of paddy. I suggested to the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming that co-operative credit stores might be started and that loans might be granted freely. It has perhaps been brought to your Excellency's notice that in Naogoan the Co-operative Credit system has been started under Government patronage, and the middlemen and brokers have been done away with. A store house has been built in every district, and ganja is being supplied direct therefrom and by this considerable profit has accrued to the ganja cultivators. We see almost all the necessaries of life are very dear, and it is certain that the purchasing value of money has decreased. How that can be increased it is for the Government to devise means. If the purchasing value can be increased it can be done only by Government, and all we can do by private agency is to advise the creation of co-operative credit societies and also the grant of agricultural and other loans. In the case of cloth and other things I think the arrangement that has been done at Naogaon for ganja can be easily done. Instead of supplying cloth to the market through the middlemen the mills can be encouraged to send supplies direct to every district store house and the people may buy from there. So jute can be stored under co-operative system and it can be exported or supplied at a high price so that the dealers may not suffer on account of the low price. On the one hand the supply of money may be increased and on another the supply of necessities may be increased. The rice dealers are now purchasing paddy and controlling the price. If side by side co-operative societies can purchase with the help of Government or they can raise money amongst themselves or can borrow from Government or from other Co-operative or Central Bank they can also purchase paddy and rice and can supply them at cost price. In my district when I first approached the Magistrate I was told that if there were any capitalist he could be helped in getting facilities for importing rice from outside, and fortunately I secured the services of a Marwari gentleman who offered to purchase ten thousand maunds of rice and to sell it at cost price in the market and then I approached Government to help him in securing paddy from outside but unfortunately nothing has yet been done. I think much can be done if the cultivators can be supplied with money under the co-operative credit system and I believe by this means they will be relieved to a great extent from the highhanded dealings of the money-lenders. I am grateful to Government for the State help in Rajshahi on account of the flood, but something should be done for at least three or four months till the aus paddy grows during which the cultivating classes will be obliged to borrow money at high interest. If the market can be controlled as suggested I think much relief can be given. Of course I am not in favour of an inquiry by a committee. I think a conference may be held in which the matter may be discussed and means devised as to how possibly help can be rendered to the sufferers. In that way a committee can render some help, but immediate action is necessary. Within two or three months the aus paddy will grow and I think the cultivators will be much relieved of their distress if something is done immediately. With these remarks I support the resolution."

Resolutions.

The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq said :—

"My Lord, after all that has been said it is hardly necessary for me to take up the time of the Council by any lengthy remarks of mine, but having given notice of a similar resolution I feel that I ought to say a few words just to associate myself with what has fallen from my hon'ble friends as regards the necessity and the extreme urgency of devising some measures to afford relief to the people in the distressed areas. My Lord, I will content myself with making only a few brief remarks. It is quite conceivable that cultivators as a class, having very little resisting power, would fall a ready victim to famine or be subject to dire distress in case crops fail or for some reason or other. I do not know, but this is my information, that it is not merely the cultivators but also the poorer middle class people who have been very hard hit during the present distress. A little consideration and a rough calculation will give members of this Council an idea of the distress that has been prevailing amongst the middle class people of this Presidency. Having regard to the fact that it is not merely rice but also other necessaries of life that have gone up in price, it can be easily calculated that it requires at least Rs. 8 or Rs. 10 a month for an individual to keep body and soul together. Let us take the case of a family consisting of one man, his wife and two children. The figures works up to Rs. 40 a month in order that this family should live just from hand to mouth. Add to this the medical charges, the prices of cloth and other necessaries which are very high, and it would be quite clear that the earning member of the family must have an income of at least Rs. 50 a month in order to be able to get on somehow. Fifty rupees a month is an income which very few people in this Presidency can be said to possess. Therefore one can conceive of the distressful condition that these people have been reduced to with the high prices that is now raging not merely of rice but of other necessaries of life too. There have been authentic cases reported in which it is said that the heads of families feeling the distress and unable to provide sufficient means for their families have committed suicide. There are six such cases reported in the issue of the Sanjibani of the 26th June last over the signature of the President and the Secretary of the Ramkrishna Mission from the district of Bakarganj in a place called Bharakati about 14 miles from the district headquarters and from one or two villages round about and within a radius of three miles from the Brahmanbaria subdivision of the Tippera district. There can be no doubt that these cases are authentic cases and I have reasons to believe that these cases are not very rare. It must therefore be admitted on all hands that the situation is certainly a very grave one and calls for some immediate help in order that relief may be granted to the people. The only question to be considered is one of ways and means. My resolution suggests that exports should be controlled and that greater facility should be given to imports, and I also suggested that Government might take such other steps as may be thought proper. My hon'ble friend, the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, has suggested the formation of a committee. I did not myself think that a committee should be formed. I am rather inclined to think that something should be done immediately and that deliberations of committees only entail delay. But if a committee be formed for taking immediate steps I would not object to the formation of a committee in view of the fact that the deliberation of the committee might enable us to co-ordinate the different points of view. Before I sit down I wish to say just a few words by way of an appeal to the Hon'ble Member who is in charge of the department. There is a well-known Sanskrit proverb that Kings see with their ears. That is to say that Kings do not generally see things with their eyes but depend on the report of others. If those who are interested would see with their own eyes the distress which is prevailing, no speech would be necessary on the part of the non-official members to convince the authorities that something should be done immediately. Every day is precious. We do not know, but there may be hundreds dying or at the point of death even at the present moment. I was told the other day of the case of a Hindu widow who would not certainly go out of her house to beg for alms. She was suffering from various diseases brought up by insufficiency of food and she was actually without food for three days. At the end of that time she was given two seers of rice but there was no body to cook for her. Some kindly persons came to cook for her and gave her a little to eat. After taking a morsel or so she became unconscious and it was with great difficulty that she regained consciousness after a full day. This is what is happening, and although I know that this problem is of an extremely complicated character involving world problems and our relation with other countries, I cannot believe that the ingenuity of the British Government cannot find a solution however difficult it may be. If Your Excellency will pardon me I consider it something of a disgrace to the British administration that famine condition should be almost normal in a land which is otherwise so bountifully supplied by nature. We know that just a century ago rice used to sell at 8 maunds per rupee. Even during the time of the much maligned Serajudoulla rice used to sell at 6 maunds per rupee. Now 150 years later, rice is selling at the rate of Rs. 10 a maund. There is no doubt that the population has increased but along with that it must be remembered that many waste lands have been brought under cultivation. There can be no doubt that there are greater facilities for exports and imports too. But there must be some cause which is to be found out and which really accounts for this extraordinary rise in prices. The price has risen sixty times and it cannot be explained by saying that the population has increased. The problem is one which demands immediate solution and the most earnest consideration and I beg that the Hon'ble member will take this matter into immediate consideration and afford relief to the famine-strikon population."

The Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur said:—

"I am afraid I cannot contribute much to the discussion. But I may say at the outset that I do not agree with the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal

Resolutions.

Bahadur that Government should be pleased to appoint a committee to consider the situation. Committees would be of not much use at this moment. Government cannot do much at headquarters, it has got to depend on its District Officers, and I believe they are trying to do their best. After all we must remember that the local Government has not much power to deal with the situation. Questions of fiscal policy and of export and import and of currency have to be dealt with by the Imperial Government at Simla. All that this Government can do is to inform the Supreme Government that the situation is such as may lead to something dire if it is not remedied now and it can only suggest some measures to alleviate the distress by stopping, for instance, the export of food grains and of cloth and cotton. Some of us were born at a time when the theories of Cobden and of Bright had swayed the field and we were brought up in the economical theories of those days —economical theories which were preached to the world by John Stuart Mill —and I well remember that the Government of Bengal in 1865 failed in its duty by sticking to these theories. The people of certain parts of Orissa and Midnapore died like flies and I also remember that in the year 1884 the then. Lieutenant-Governor of the province, Sir George Campbell, warned the Supreme Government that unless the export of rice was stopped, the Bihar famine could not be stopped. Sir George Campbell was somewhat in advance of his time and the Viceroy of the day, Lord Northbrook, a thorough free trader, would not listen to the proposal. He took measures and succeeded in alleviating the famine to an extent that not a single person was allowed to die of starvation. But this he was able to do after an expenditure of public money to a very enormous extent. Stories are told that shiploads of rice used to come up the river Hooghly from Burma to Calcutta and shiploads of rice to go down the river Hooghly to foreign countries because of the theories of the Supreme Government that we should not interfere with free trade. I believe, My Lord, that the course of events in the world has led the people in England to revise their theories and we in this country, I mean the people of this country, who have always been conservative in their ideas have found at least in some cases support from the Government, and it was much to be wished that the Government should push its ideas for the interference of free trade in preventing export for some period of the necessaries of life in order to protect its own people. We have been told in the communiqué of the Government issued in the middle of June by the Supreme Government that the export of rice is being allowed to countries where there are Indians who require rice for their subsistence. But I was not aware of the fact, as was stated to-day by the Hon'ble Mr. Surendra Nath Ray, that for that reason rice is being exported to Egypt and Sweden. I can well imagine that there may be a dozen or so Indian Mahomedans in Egypt, but I was trying to find out whether there are any Indians in Sweden. I recollect, however, that Mr. Har Dyal who has abandoned India and who is now issuing pamphlets and letters from Stockholm, requires rice for his sustenance. But the Indian Government is under no obligation to export rice to Sweden for his health and comfort. There may be other reasons for sending rice to Sweden and if that country requires rice for commercial purposes such as the preparation of starch or the manufacture of spirits, I think these operations might be stopped for some time, and we might put some obstruction in its way. I do not think that our international relations will be disturbed if we stop the export of rice to Sweden. We might look with an indulgent eye if the Indian Government placed an embargo on the export of rice to Egypt.

Then, as regards export of rice to other countries, I think that it is presumptuous on my part to say—and I do not pretend to have studied the subject thoroughly—but supposing we say that we require rice for our own subsistence, we cannot spare it, would it be an outrageous thing for the people of the neighbouring countries to say that we look for that food for our own subsistence and we must have it even if you have to deny it for yourselves? I do not think we should be doing a very outrageous thing if we stopped the exp rt. We have not reached that condition of life which would make us obliged to undergo that amount of sacrifice and help our neighbouring countries. It may be that there are people of our kith and kin there, but they must look to the resources of the country where they have chosen to go.

Resolutions.

Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur.

As regards cloth I am sorry, My Lord, that I have not for the moment the figures, but they could be gathered from the last publication of the Government on the trade of India. I remember to have seen the figures, and I think the figures for 1917-18 showed that if we could only stop the export of cotton and cotton fabrics and if the port of Bombay were shut out against Japan, China and Africa, the situation would be eased in no time. Our relation with China and Japan is very friendly, but that is no reason—and I also know that Japan by her exports to this country during the time of war has helped us a great deal—why we should approach the point of midity by exporting cotton and cotton fabrics to these countries. Indian cotton goes to Japan for manufacturing purposes, comes back here and is sold in the Calcutta market. That is a state of things which should not be encouraged and a very large proportion of mill products of Bombay go to China and Japan. If that is stopped, all the mill products will come to Bengal and it will ease the situation to some extent."

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I beg to associate myself with the observations of the previous speakers. The rise of the price of rice, cloth and other necessaries of life is the subject of anxious thought by all who live in Bengal. I brought it to the notice of Your Excellency's Council and moved a resolution on the subject at a meeting of the Council held on the 19th February last, so I shall avoid repetition now. On that occasion Sir Henry Wheeler's reply was a lengthy one relating to the burning economical question of the day. My Lord, what is to be done now. Every body looks to Your Excellency's Government for help and intervention. At the present moment there is a cause of apprehension of actual scarcity, not to speak of famine if the prices of foodstuffs are allowed to increase so rapidly. What is the solution of the problem regarding the sufferings of the poor, specially the persons on small fixed income? Your Excellency's Government can find out the remedy if the responsible members of Your Excellency's Council are determined to take effective steps out of genuine sympathy for the people. It will be interesting to quote a few lines from the District Gazetteer of Hooghly published by the Government of Bengal. The table below will give sufficient indication of the rise in the prices of food grains, the prices being shown in seers per rupee :—

These figures show that during the last half century prices have been enhanced three-fold. If further proof be needed of the change which has taken place, it will be sufficient to mention that after the famine of 1866, in which the average price of rice for the year rose to 12·86 seers per rupee, the Collector reported that if the price of ordinary rice were to rise as high as 13 seers per rupee soon after the winter harvest, it should be considered as a warning of approaching famine; and in his opinion, Government relief operations would become necessary when the price of inferior rice rose beyond 12 seers a rupee. During 1906 and 1907, however the average price of common rice was less than 7 or 7½ seers per rupee without any relief measures being deemed necessary.

Such interesting account may be found in every District Gazetteer of Bengal. Now, rice of coarse quality is selling 5 to 6 seers per rupee in almost all the districts of Bengal.

From the Estimates of Area and Yield of the Principal Crops in India, published by the Director of Statistics to the Government of India, I find that in Bengal as well as India area under cultivation for rice and yield of rice have been increasing since 1914-15. It is an admitted fact that export is responsible for the shortage of food-grains in Bengal. This fact was proved by Sir George Campbell, the popular Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, when famine broke out in Bengal and Bihar in 1873 and 1874 and when average price of rice was 11·82—28·55 seers per rupee.

Immediate steps should be taken by Your Excellency's Government for establishing shops for the sale of rice and other food-grains in every village or group of villages under the supervision of President of the Panchayet, members of the District or Local Boards, Circle Officers, Deputy Collectors and the Collector of the district at a cheaper price. The District Magistrates and Subdivisional Officers should be authorised by Your Excellency's Government to take over at an early date all stocks in possession of dealers who are suspected of hoarding food-grains and selling them at a prohibitive price. My Lord, there are other suggestions which have been made to this Council. Every one who is present here in this Council will have the candour to admit that the situation is very acute. My submission is that there ought to be co-operation between the people and the officials of Government. The people ought to approach the officials and submit their schemes in order to give immediate effective steps to relieve the distress which is prevailing here.

My Lord, I submit that there ought to be concrete propositions in which we can deal with this very important question in issue before the Council. If the suggestions of non-official members of Council are accepted, by the Hon'ble Executing Member of Your Excellencys Council, I believe we can be of some use to the agriculturists and middle class people. When I was coming to the Council Chamber, I was beseeched by a large number of people to represent to Your Excellency that the situation is very grave in the mofussil. I am perfectly aware of the distress and I am sure Your Excellency's Government is also aware of the fact. The question is what practical effective steps should immediately be taken for the purpose of alleviating the distress. That being so, the question, as the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq has stated, can be solved by the British statesmanship and British ingenuity. My earnest appeal is that something ought to be done to relieve the present distress.

On various previous occasions, I represented to the Council about the scarcity of cloth. I wish I could give Your Excellency a vivid picture of the distress prevailing in the country. With these words, I beg to support the resolution."

Resolutions.

Mr. Cumming.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cumming said :—

"Your Excellency, it is no easy task to portray in proper perspective the lights and shades of this complicated problem ; and therefore I must crave the indulgence of the Council while I sketch at some length the main factors in the problem, and indicate the direction in which, and the extent to which, a solution is possible. There is, I am afraid, some ignorance, and if I may say so, also some prejudice on the subject. Almost all the Hon'ble Members who have spoken to-day have practically forgotten that the British Empire has been involved in a colossal war. It is a problem, because the rise in the price of foodstuffs and the necessaries of life generally has been the subject of serious solicitude on the part of the Provincial Governments in India and of the Imperial Government; and further it is complicated, because there are so many factors, some fairly obvious, some not so obvious, some almost intangible, which govern the problem.

At the outset, I should like to say that Government are far from insensible, as has been suggested in certain quarters—though the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur was anxious not to associate himself with the sentiment—to the serious effect which this great rise in the price of the main staple, namely, rice in this province has had on the poorer classes generally and on those of the middle classes on small fixed incomes. Indeed, I should like to take this opportunity of expressing, on behalf of the Government of Bengal, an appreciation of the patience and philosophy with which this serious invasion in the domestic economy of the people has been faced.

In the second place, I should like to premise that Government fully realise the importance which members of this Council assign to the necessity of appealing to Government to do everything possible to alleviate preventible suffering ; and to-day no fewer than four resolutions have been tabled for the purpose of the discussion of measures for that end. The remarks of my Hon'ble colleague, Sir Henry Wheeler, at the discussion in February last have already been repeated and I need not recapitulate them. Suffice it to say that after the discussion in February last in this Council there has undoubtedly been a further increase, both sudden and serious, which cannot but result in hardship all over the province. The mean provincial rate has become higher than at any time during the war. There was also a public discussion in the Calcutta Corporation, with which Hon'ble members are fully acquainted, and as the result of which the Bengal Government were requested to address the Government of India on the difficulties of the present situation as regards the price of rice and other foodstuffs and to suggest the need of taking measures whereby the existing prices might be reduced by such means as might be devised under the circumstances. Before, however, receipt of this resolution of the Corporation, the Government of Bengal had already taken action for the purpose of representing the position in this province and for the purpose of obtaining some amelioration by the reductions in exports and by the increase in imports, which by the way forms the subject matter of the fourth of these resolutions. The Government of India, I am glad to say, met the Bengal Government in this matter, as was publicly stated in a communiqué which was issued on the 14th June. It so happened that shortly before that, the Government of India had issued another communiqué regarding another subject, namely, the export of grains from India generally to foreign countries : and there was a discussion in the Press not only on these two communiqués but on the reply of the Bengal Government to the Corporation. Possibly there has been some misapprehension in the minds of the public as to the exact purport of these various announcements.

These four resolutions refer to rice and other necessaries of life and to cloth : but the most important element is the increase in the price of rice. It is the question of the day. I shall confine my remarks therefore to this subject. There is too great a tendency to consider the problem as a purely local problem. I shall explain, to the best of my ability, the various factors which govern the situation. There are no fewer than three main categories : first, universal, that is to say, world-wide factors ; secondly, all-India factors ; and thirdly, provincial or Bengal factors.

Resolutions.

Mr. Cumming.

First of all, we may consider universal factors. I fully agree with the Hon'ble Mover of the resolution that it is no consolation to tell the people who have to pay more for their food that there are such ; but it would be foolish to ignore them. It was emphasised by Sir Henry Wheeler in February last that increase in price was not solely a provincial matter, nor even an all-India question. This was also emphasised in reply to a question at the meeting of the 27th March 1919. It was then said that many factors were involved, including supplies, monsoon and labour conditions, freight and tonnage. Now these factors were obviously more than local and concerned the world generally. It requires more time than I have at my disposal to deal adequately with all possible world-wide causes ; but there are two which are obvious and outside the control of this Government. There is in the first place the amount of shipping available in the world ; and secondly, the existence of credit currency throughout the world. As regards the former, the tonnage of the British Empire is one-fifth less than it was at the outbreak of war ; while much of it is still absorbed in purposes connected with the war and foreign to the ordinary course of trade in which it would be otherwise engaged. As regards the latter, a leading professor of political economy has stated publicly that the cause of the general and rapid rise of prices is the immense creation of credit currency in all the principal countries of the world through the measures taken to finance the war, now happily at an end. It may be shortly stated that the paper currency of all the belligerent countries has been increased nearly six-fold, and has been principally employed to pay for articles of an unproductive nature. Here, in India, as calculated by the professor, the increase in the circulation of currency notes has been 135 per cent.; and the increase in the number of rupees in circulation has been 33 per cent. and if the two be taken together, the total circulation in India has increased by 53 per cent. India has been in a peculiar position during this great war. India became the cheapest source for many raw materials, while imports fell off for various obvious reasons, and the result was an enormous balance of trade in favour of India. In order to meet this enormous increase, recourse had to be had to a similar enormous expansion of paper currency. Here then we have in the inflation of currency a worldwide cause for the increase of prices, affecting the whole of India with the rest of the world. I place on the table a comparative statement showing the rise of prices of foodstuffs in all the important countries in the world.

Resolutions.

Mr. Cumming.

I am indebted for this to the courtesy of the Director of Statistics with the Government of India. This I leave to Hon'ble members to study for themselves. The rise in India is the least in the world with the exception of South Africa and Australasia, while the rise of prices of food in Great Britain has been nearly double that in India. These are two very significant facts to be deduced from these figures. It is not my province on the present occasion to deal with the suggestions that have been made to correct the situation, whether in the nature of export duties or alteration of the rate of exchange. All I wish to maintain before this Council is that there are very serious limitations to the power of the Local Government in dealing with causes acting outside its borders.

Turning now to the second category of factors, viz., the all-India factors, we find that they centre round the monsoon conditions of the last two or three years. It is known that there was an extensive and premature cessation of last monsoon in September last ; and the rice crop of India and Burma was consequently 34 per cent. less than that of the previous year, while in addition to that there was a failure of other food crops. We find that five districts in the United Provinces, four districts in the Bombay Presidency, two districts in the Central Provinces, one district in the Madras Presidency and one in Bengal are under regular famine relief; while in many other districts throughout India in which scarcity conditions prevail, assistance is being given of various kinds. In areas in which there is only one winter crop, no relief can be expected until next cold weather ; while in the other districts in which a spring or autumn crop is reaped, the alleviation will not be such as to bring about instant relief. Let us hope that through Providence there will be a good monsoon this year. In our own province, the prospects of the aus or autumn paddy crop are on the whole fair. There are however tracts in India in which, but for outside assistance from other provinces more fortunately situated, the people would starve; for it is not only a matter of giving the people money wherewithal to purchase food, but it is also necessary to provide food for them to purchase. We have on the western edge of Bengal, the province of Bihar and Orissa, in which the failure of the winter crop was very much more severe than in Bengal ; the crop was only half of the previous year ; and, unless the people of Bihar receive foodstuffs from without, their position will be critical. On the other side, we have Assam ; and the Assam Administration has recently proposed to make a working arrangement with this Government regarding the conditions under which supplies from Assam may enter Bengal. That province is also in a difficult situation, though its prices are lower than in Bengal ; and it is relevant to note, when the suggestion is offered, that Bengal should refuse to export to other provinces, that Assam too is apprehensive as to the quantities of paddy which Bengal is taking from it. Again, rice is not the only food-grain, and for other food-grains Bengal is largely dependent on outside, namely, from the up-country districts. If Bengal were to be permitted to adopt the policy of the absolute prohibition of export outside its limits, it is obvious that other provinces would speedily seek to retaliate. Suppose we stopped the export of rice to Bombay, Bombay might easily refuse to give us any cotton. What would Hon'ble Members then say ?

In November last year, an attempt was made to obtain an approximation of the extent to which the different provinces of India were deficit or surplus provinces. From that examination, one factor stood forth that, notwithstanding the bad harvest of 1918-19, Bengal and Burma would have to be considered as surplus provinces. Hon'ble Members of Council are aware that a Foodstuffs Commissioner for all-India was appointed in October last year. His control covers wheat, rice and grain. His representatives are the Directors of Civil Supplies in all the provinces. As stated in the recent communiqué of the Bengal Government the general principle which is being adopted is that supplies of rice are being directed from the provinces in which stocks are still available to those provinces in which, but for outside help, actual shortage of food is feared. This, therefore, must be remembered that the problem of food and of prices is an all-India problem which must be dealt with, if at all, by means of central control. It should not be overlooked that even as regards prices, generally speaking, Bengal is not so badly off as Bihar, the United Provinces, the Central Provinces or Bombay, that is to say, the price in the dearest district in Bengal is still less than that in the dearest district in any of these four provinces.

Resolutions.

Mr. Cumming.

Another consideration in connection with all-India factors is the amount of Indian foodstuffs exported out of the whole country. It is not true, as is alleged, that there has been a recent increase. On that point, the actual facts as recently stated by the Government of India—though the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray refuses to accept this statement—may be repeated, namely, that since December last all exports of food supplies are prohibited except under license, and then only in respect of shipment to certain countries with a considerable Indian population which in the past have depended on India as the nearest source of supply. I shall deal with the matter of exports in greater detail when discussing local, that is to say, Bengal factors, which I shall now proceed to do. Moreover, the absolute total shows a great decrease : in April 1919 the total export was one-fifth of that in April 1918.

In the case of Bengal, it should be re-emphasised that the world-wide and all-India factors still hold good ; but there are obviously other factors of local importance. The first is regarding the actual monsoon conditions of the last two years. In 1917, the monsoon was favourable and it resulted in one of the finest rice crops in Bengal on record. This has been of inestimable advantage in compensating for the failure of the following year. The cheap rice of 1917 was of great assistance to the poorer classes who live on their earnings ; but obviously it was of corresponding disadvantage to the agriculturists who received less money for their produce. Then followed 1918, when, as I have stated, Bengal participated in the precipitate failure of the monsoon. The final forecast of the rice crop of 1918-19 was 72 per cent. that is to say hardly three-fourths of the normal crop, and at the nearest approximation may be taken as 19 crores of maunds. In November 1918 orders were issued to ascertain by means of a census what was the stock of rice available in the province, including unhusked paddy which was converted into rice at the rate of 62½ per cent. That census gave Government some material ; but as it was the first of its kind, difficulties were encountered and some of the district estimates were patently incorrect. They showed for instance in one district that it had not enough for a week's consumption ; and, as that district is not yet starving, there was an obviously something wrong somewhere, either on the part of the dealers who furnished the information or in the subsequent collation of the figures. A further census was ordered at the end of May last to be taken on the 15th June. The figures are at present under scrutiny ; but as far as they have been examined they give reasonable grounds for holding that there is not yet a provincial shortage in Bengal. Now, it is not true, as has been asserted, that in Bengal in normal years there is a deficit. There is a considerable, though not a very great, surplus in normal years.

Further local factors are exports from and imports into the province. Now the Bengal Government have by means of a continuous close survey over all the relevant features of a constantly changing situation kept the Government of India regularly informed ; but have recognised that the Government of India were in a much better position to judge of the respective needs of all the provinces than the local Governments. When the time seemed ripe, a representation was made to the Government of India regarding the allotments for exports of rice from Bengal, both to other provinces in India and overseas and regarding the imports from Burma. As a result of this representation, the Government of India have reviewed the situation and have materially decreased the monthly allotment made for exports of rice by rail to other provinces. An allotment of Burma rice was made to Bengal viâ Calcutta, while arrangements were made for the import of rice from Akyab in Burma to Chittagong in Eastern Bengal for the use of Eastern Bengal and Assam. The general effect of the control of supplies has been the stabilising of prices; and, indeed, the Bengal Government have always realised that there was a better chance of stabilisation if there was a sufficient fluidity in the movement of stocks whether inside or outside the province. The advent of the monsoon, the census of stocks and the recent reductions in exports have tended to check the rise in prices. In this week's crop report, Hon'ble Members will find it stated that the average price of common rice is now showing a slight tendency to fall. At the same time, one must never lose sight of the fact that supplies alone are not the ultimate cause of the prices now prevailing, although obviously they are a factor of great importance.

Resolutions.

Mr. Cumming.

Before passing on from this head and dealing with other measures of relief within the province that have been either adopted or suggested, I should like to controvert certain allegations that have been made as to the prevailing factors. First of all, it has been alleged that the rice crop in Burma this year was a bumper one. This unfortunately is not true. Far from it being a bumper crop, the average outturn of the whole province was 88 per cent. of the normal, as against 95 per cent. in the previous year; and the surplus available for export was less than 2 million tons of clean rice. This is the surplus for which the greater part of India has been clamouring.

The next allegation is that there has been an improper diversion from Bengal of rice to foreign countries by sea. It is true that there has been an increase in export by sea to Madras since January last, but this has been to feed Indian fellow subjects in another province. As this was sea-export, it was not covered by the licenses issued regarding railway transport. These unlicensed exports by sea are however being brought under control. But, as regards exports to other countries overseas, the most important recipient is Ceylon, which usually obtains its rice from the southern districts of Madras; but at present that Presidency is not in a position to supply its own requirements, still less to meet those of others. Even in Ceylon, notwithstanding this assistance, the shortage of rice is creating an anxious situation. After that, the exports from Bengal are to colonies of Indians in Natal, Mauritius, the Red Sea and the West Indies; the volume of these exports has been carefully rationed; and the grand total in 1918-19 was less than half of what the normal annual export to such foreign countries was before the war. It is not true, as has been alleged, that Bengal is improperly diverting its foodstuffs for purposes other than human consumption. I mention this because there have been several assertions to the contrary, and indeed there has been a ridiculous rumour in the Mymensingh district that 6 crores of maunds of rice have been sent to Europe for the manufacture of alcohol.

A further allegation has been made that no Burma rice has been allowed to be consumed in Bengal. It is not quite clear what inference is sought to be drawn from this allegation. It is not unreasonable to imagine that the innuendo is that Bengal is being unfairly treated. Now, it is quite correct that there are imports of rice from Rangoon into Calcutta which are reserved for other provinces. These allotments have, however, been made after careful consideration. It is, however, incorrect to allege that no Burma rice has come into Bengal for purely Bengal consumption. On the contrary, there has been a steady increase in imports from Akyab into Chittagong. The total in February was double that of January; in April three-fold that of January and in May fourteen-fold that of January. The question of further imports into Chittagong from other ports in Burma is also under consideration.

Resolutions.

Mr. Cumming.

There are other allegations which have been made which, if I had time, I should be glad to refute; but let it suffice on the present occasion to deal with these three instances of inaccuracy.

Let us now consider, in view of these factors, universal, all-India and local, what Government should endeavour to do to maintain prices so far as these are governed by supply. It is the accepted duty of Government to protect the people within the limit of their capacity. In India, there is not only an acceptance of official control but a desire for the same. If that be conceded, then what policy should Government adopt? There are practically only two alternatives—one alternative is to allow one province to starve and another province to continue in tolerable comfort; and the other alternative is to make the best use of the food available for the greatest good of the greatest number. However some people may write or think about stopping all exports from Bengal, I do not believe that any person who is aware of the facts and has examined them with any sense of responsibility would hesitate for a moment between the two alternatives. It is the second alternative which the Government of Bengal have deliberately adopted, and the Bengal Government have, as far as possible, while safeguarding the interests of the province, been loyal to the policy of the Supreme Government.

There are however certain devices which have been suggested in addition to an equitable division of the supplies available. The one which is mentioned first of all by some advisers is the fixation of prices for the different kinds of rice. It sounds so easy, and yet it is so supremely difficult to enforce, unless the source of supply is also subject to control. Now, this is the case in the matter of Burma rice imported into Calcutta under license. The supply is subject to control and such rice can only be sold subject to certain maximum wholesale rates; otherwise, the importers will not be allowed to get ships to bring the rice here; and steps have also been taken to regularise the retail rates. In this manner, one of the proposals about the control of Burma rice made this morning has been met. On the other hand, the case of Bengal rice is entirely different; chiefly because it is really impracticable to control the source of supply. Indeed, I may say that, whatever success may have been achieved elsewhere in small areas with specific articles of food, both the Local Government and the Government of India are satisfied that the fixing of prices for all kinds of food stuffs in Bengal, even if resort were had to the rules under the Defence of India Act, is not practical politics.

Another device (and it is a measure of self-help which the Bengal Government welcome, just as the Bombay Government have done lately, and would gladly see extended up to the limit to which Government can obtain an allotment of Burma rice for Bengal) is one which has been adopted in other provinces, namely, that local bodies, such as District Boards and Municipalities, should obtain supplies of the cheaper Burma rice, and thereby cause grain to be sold in what are known as cheap grain shops. The Director of Civil Supplies has been in consultation with the District Officers regarding the requirements of different bodies. So far only a few local bodies have asked to be supplied with comparatively small amounts.

Furthermore, in the city of Calcutta, this method has been adopted by the Corporation; and six shops for the sale of Burma rice were opened on the 17th June. The daily sales have averaged the comparatively small total of 72 maunds; but it must be noted that all the shop expenses are borne by the merchants who forego all profit.

Resolutions.

Mr. Cumming.

The Darjeeling Planters have acted co-operatively and obtained, on behalf of their large immigrant coolie population, an allotment from the Director of Civil Supplies of Burma rice. The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin did not draw the attention of the Council to this fact. But, as regards the incident to which he did draw attention, it is a matter under the jurisdiction of the Bihar and Orissa Government which deals with the district of Purneah where this incident took place. The Collector of Bankura, where famine has been declared, procured an allotment for his district. It is urged that Burma rice should still be freely imported into Bengal. It is, however, a significant fact that, when there is, as there is at present, a considerable supply of Burma rice in Calcutta, no one in Bengal is prepared to take it up in any appreciable quantity because the demand is so weak. The reason why Bengal rice-eaters have an objection to consuming Burma rice is known better to the Indian members of this Council than to one who is not an Indian by race.

The Foodstuffs Commissioner, at the special request of this Government, has been endeavouring to meet a point which was raised this morning, namely, to prevent the artificial inflation of the price of Bengal rice through unnecessary competition amongst upcountry buyers from other provinces.

Then, as regards the question of freight from Rangoon, about which comments have been made in the Press, there have been already two reductions since the freight was first fixed, the last being an equivalent of 2 annas per maund on the cost price landed in Bengal; and indeed the Rangoon-Calcutta freights compare very favourably with the rates at present prevailing throughout the world.

Finally, in order to meet to some extent the increased cost of living, Government have increased the emoluments of the lower-paid among its own servants; both in the case of menials, and, as stated in a communiqué issued within the last few days, in the case of Government servants of the lower ranks.

These, then, are various forms of action which have been taken, or are being taken, to check the rise in the price of rice and to alleviate distress.

The present position appears to be that there is still a supply of rice in Bengal sufficient to carry on until the next harvest, even after giving reasonable support to the less favoured provinces. Moreover, the high prices are not altogether an unmixed evil; for some portion of the increase has been received by the agriculturists; and later reports show that the agriculturists are alive to this advantage in disposing of their stocks at their appreciated prices. That being so, I would ask the people not to give way to panic; but, on the other hand, it stands to reason that Government will not tolerate in special circumstances like the present anything like deliberate holding up of supplies for the purpose of cornering the market; and the officers of Government will not hesitate to take action if such instances are disclosed. Both in the city of Bombay and in certain districts of Bihar and Orissa, powers have been taken under Ordinance IX of 1914 to seize stocks.

I have left to the last the suggestion of the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur that a Committee of officials and non-officials be appointed to consider the remedial measures already taken or in contemplation by Government, and to devise what further steps, if any, should be taken to alleviate the present distress. I notice with surprise that only one Hon'ble Member wholeheartedly supported this motion. The Hon'ble mover no doubt thinks that his proposal would allay public feeling in the matter. I can say personally that I am always accessible to any member of the public in this matter and prepared to discuss matters and receive suggestions. But I venture to suggest to the Hon'ble Member that as long as the present organisation under the Foodstuffs Commissioner exists, it is not possible to act otherwise than through those officers who are his representatives in the provinces, namely, the Directors of Civil Supplies. That being so, I also suggest to the Members of the Council that there is little that a committee of the nature proposed could ascertain in the way of facts beyond the salient facts which I have endeavoured to describe. As regards policy, it is, as I have stated, a matter for the Imperial Government; but I also say deliberately that the local Director of Civil Supplies is, in his capacity as executant of that policy, at present in close touch with the importing and distributing agencies of the trade.

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

This, My Lord, is the attitude of Government. They are not insensible to the sufferings of their lieges, and appreciate the seriousness of the situation. They are not omnipotent, but they have taken and will continue to take such action as lies within the power of a provincial Government to deal with the situation, so many of the ingredients of which are entirely beyond their control. In the circumstances, Government are not prepared to accept the first resolution; but on the definite understanding that the action of Government is limited by the various extra-provincial factors which I have endeavoured to narrate and also by the execution of the policy of the Government of India the Local Government will accept the second, third and fourth resolutions.

My Lord, I have finished. I apologise for having taken so much time of this Council, but the fact that no fewer than four resolutions were the subject of reply is my excuse."

[The Council was at this stage adjourned for lunch.]

[The Council re-assembled after lunch.]

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"I am much obliged to the Hon'ble Member for his giving so much valuable information on the subject. That the subject is agitating the public mind is evidenced from the fact that a number of resolutions on the same question appear in the agenda paper and therefore the reply that has been given to us and the information that has been supplied to us will be very interesting to the public at large.

I will confine myself to the resolution which I have moved. My Lord, I do not know whether I have made myself perfectly clear. I recognise that Government are in their own way doing everything that they possibly could do under the circumstances, but there is an impression abroad and it is confirmed by the observations made here by some of the Members of the Council that more might be done in this direction and that the various suggestions which are made by the outside public from time to time should be more fully considered by Government. My object in moving for an advisory committee is not to hamper the Government or to restrict their action in any way, but as I said to establish a sort of common ground where the public might meet the Government and exchange their views on the subject. It will be purely an advisory committee and if the suggestion seems to be practicable I think the Government may very well consider whether it harmonises with the principle laid down by the Government of India and, if necessary, to address the Government of India on the subject for the modification of their instructions. It is with this view that my resolution has been moved. The Hon'ble Member has said that he is always accessible and that anybody may approach him and speak to him on the subject. We all know that the Government from the Governor downwards is accessible to the public, but that is not the point. What I want is that Government should discuss this subject with the representatives of the public. Discussion by an individual officer with an individual member of the public is quite a different thing. Various suggestions have been made by the various members of the Council, but I venture to think that it will shorten discussion if we have a sort of a committee appointed to discuss the whole matter with Government. Otherwise I am afraid that other suggestions will be made in other meetings of Council and the discussion will never cease, whereas if a committee is appointed the work will be much better done and the various suggestions could be considered. The Hon'ble Mr. Cumming has referred to several points to one or two of which I shall make a reference. It has been stated that we are better off here than the people in the other parts of the world and that we are importing rice from another province, namely, Burma. At a Corporation debate it was stated that the freight from Burma is still very high and it can conveniently be reduced. If this is done, rice will be sold at a much cheaper rate than it is sold now. Moreover it is not understood why Burma rice should be selling somewhere between Rs. 6-8 and Rs. 7 in Calcutta whereas it is selling at Rs. 5-11 in Bombay. There is another point in regard to this which I should like to mention and which has already been mentioned in Capital. At present the entire carrying business from Rangoon to India is done by the British India Steam Navigation Company. No other company is allowed to do the carrying except the Nippon Yussen Kaisha which is so allowed because it has connection with the British India Steam Navigation Company. This Company alone should not be allowed to make good war losses at the expense of the Indian poor. If other companies were allowed it would perhaps have the effect of lowering the frieght and with it the price of rice. I have been specially asked by a mercantile gentleman of Bombay to draw the attention of the Council to it. Something should be done in regard to it. I quite recognise the force of the point that if we stop exports the other provinces might also follow suit. That is not of course the policy which has hitherto been followed. When Madras wanted rice we gave them and when Bengal wanted rice Burma supplied. What I mean is this—why export rice to places where there are no Indian population and where it is not wanted for the purpose of food. Why send rice to Sweden where there is no colony of Indians? Why export rice to other places where it is used for the manufacture of alcohol, etc.? Government are in possession of more facts than we are, and it is for this purpose that we want an informal discussion in a committee. There is a growing volume of public opinion about the matter and that is why I have suggested the formation of an advisory committee, which is not, I may say, my own suggestion, but a suggestion made by a European member in the Corporation."

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

Resolution No. 15 was then put and lost.

The following three resolutions standing in the names of the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray, the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem and the Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq, respectively, were then put and agreed to :—

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that early steps be taken by the Government for the reduction of the high prices of rice and other necessary articles of food, and also of cloth, in Bengal."

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that in view of the fact that there is a scarcity of food grains in the Burdwan division and that the prices of foodstuffs and other necessary commodities of life have risen abnormally high, steps be taken for the relief of the distress of the people, particularly of the poorer classes in rural areas."

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that measures be taken at once by the Government to bring down the prices of rice and other necessaries of life to normal rates, either by controlling exports or facilitating imports, or by such other means as may appear to the Government to be fit and proper."

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 19.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray moved the following resolution :—

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the Government be pleased to take up the question of the improvement of the pay and prospects and terms and conditions of service of the Subordinate Civil (Executive) Service in Bengal as early as may be practicable."

He said :—

"I am certain nobody knows better than the Government of the good work efficiently done by the members of the Subordinate Civil Service inasmuch as these public servants work direct under what I may term the executive Government of the country. Formerly the members of this service were generally recruited from those who were not successful in securing a place among those who were successful in the competitive examination for the Provincial Executive Service. For some time past, however, the matter of recruitment for the service has quite changed and we now have the same sort of test for both the services, only those who are in a position to canvass hard can enter the Provincial Executive Services whereas those who are not in a position to do so have to rest satisfied with appointment in the Subordinate Civil Service. It not unfrequently happens that better qualified men are nominated by Government for the Subordinate Civil Service.

I need hardly say that in education, social position and other qualifications they are now not inferior to those who are fortunate enough to be nominated for the other service. Formerly the test before and after appointment was not the same. Now they have to undergo the same examination before and after appointment and have to perform almost the same work whether as Judicial or as Revenue officers. I know a sub-deputy collector as land acquisition deputy collector had to do the same work as a deputy collector on a pay of Rs. 700 or 800. I need hardly say that the distinction between the two services is at the present moment only as regards their pay and prospects. A sub-deputy collector reaches his first grade of Rs. 250 ordinarily in 15 or 16 years at least, that is, when he passes his 40th year and is considered note legible for promotion. The age limit bars the way to further promotion. Even when he is promoted to the Provincial Service his prospects do not generally appreciably improve, the pay of the 1st grade sub-deputy collectors being Rs. 250, the pay of the last grade of deputy collectors is Rs. 250. A first grade sub-deputy collector when he is appointed in the Provincial Service becomes a probationary deputy collector and is put at the bottom of the list of probationary officers. It takes a good long time for him to rise to the grade of Rs. 300. There are very few who can hope to rise to the grade of Rs. 400.

As a result of keeping the two services separate Government have been obliged to take recourse to certain anomalous procedure. Take for instance, a sub-deputy collector is liable to be dismissed even without any formal judicial or departmental enquiry. A sub-deputy collector is even not a gazetted officer. This fact affects a sub-deputy collector in regard to his travelling, halting and other allowances as well as his leave and pension. But he has all the same to perform all the duties of a gazetted officer.

I need hardly say and it is a well known fact that the pay of sub-deputy collectors is quite inadequate. A police inspector begins with a pay of Rs. 150, an excise inspector on Rs. 125. They get special rate of travelling allowance, whereas these hardworked officers of Government have to begin with a pay of Rs. 100.

Resolutions.

Maulvi Abul Kasem.

It is unnecessary for me to quote at length the large number of opinions given on this service by some of the distinguished members of the Indian Civil Service. The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson stated before the Public Services Commission : 'The class of men who enters the Subordinate Service differs very little from the Provincial Service recruits.' Sir William Duke said 'I admit the officers appointed in recent years have very often been of much the same class as those who entered the Provincial Service.'

The Public Services Commission did not consider the Subordinate Service as it was not within the scope of their enquiry. They however recommended that members 'of services recruited from the ordinary graduate class' should start on an initial pay of Rs. 250 which in 15 years would rise to Rs. 450 by triennial increments of Rs. 40 after which it would rise to Rs. 500 by a triennial increment of Rs. 50 beyond which there would be selection grades and this is the words of one of the members of the Commission 'should be regulated as the minimum which shall be granted'. In the Report on the Indian Constitutional Reforms we find the following recommendation :—

'Again a number of grades do not now receive provincial status although their officers are recruited on uniform qualifications for the whole province and may be liable for service in any part of the province. From this point of view, such classes as the naib tahsildar (the same as sub-deputy collectors), the sub-assistant surgeon, and the like, may be conveniently placed ad hoc in the provincial division.

I understand recently a representation has been submitted to Your Lordship's Government by some sub-deputy collectors. I need hardly say that the representation will be duly considered on its merits. For my part I think it is time that the Provincial Executive Service and the Subordinate Executive Service should be amalgamated. The Government should at least generously consider the position of those worthy officers whose claims are in no way inferior to the higher public servants. When they perform the same duties as those who enjoy higher emoluments it is but just, reasonable and proper that the Government should as regards pay and prospects treat them with the same even hand it has always distinguished the British Government in their treatment of those who serve the public cause with heart and soul."

The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem said :—

"My Lord, I am sorry that I cannot support the resolution which has just been moved by my friend the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray, not because I do not sympathise with the sub-deputy collectors who are a set of hard-worked officers ; but the reason why I oppose this resolution is that the time is not opportune to consider the question of the pay and prospects of the Subordinate Service individually as a class only, because great administrative changes are imminent and the question of the pay and prospects of the various services will be considered. There are other classes of public servants of the same category as the sub-deputy collectors, I mean the excise inspectors and other subordinate officers of Government. If any class of public servants require any amelioration in their condition, in my humble opinion it is the ministerial officers of the Collectors' and Magistrates' offices and of the District Courts in the mofussil, who are so ill paid that they find it extremely difficult to make their both ends meet. When the whole matter of public services will be considered as a general question, it is not fair to say that the question of the pay and prospects of sub-deputy collectors should be taken up separately. I agree however with the hon'ble mover that, as the sub-deputy collectors do the same class of work as deputy collectors, there should be only one class of officers, but as long as they are in the Subordinate Service their case should be taken up together with that of other services. In my humble opinion, however, the case of the ministerial officers should be taken up before the case of the Subordinate Service is taken up."

Resolutions.

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri said :—

"My Lord, I do not understand why this resolution is opposed by my friend, the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem. It is a very anomalous thing that, although these officers are made to do the same kind of work, there should be any distinction between the two services. The lowness of pay has a very demoralising effect upon the service. The sub-deputy collectors on Rs. 100 have to maintain the dignity of a hakim; and it can be easily imagined that it is an utter impossibility. In point of education, social status, and departmental examination, there is no distinction; but distinction is only in the pay and prospects. They begin on Rs. 100 and rise up to Rs. 250; and that is very inadequate in view of the fact that they are made to do the same kind of work as the deputy collectors who begin with an initial pay of Rs. 250. It is urged by my friend the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem, that the distinction should be abolished and that there should be the same scale of pay and the same prospects; but as long as they are in the Subordinate Service their case should not be considered separately. I fail to understand the sequence of their observation. But I heartily support the resolution and urge that the question should be taken up as early as possible. I may submit that before the Public Services Commission, several members of the Indian Civil Service urged that there should not be any distinction between the two services and that there should be the same kind of pay and prospects for the Subordinate and Provincial Services as a whole. That is a very reasonable view, and when the case of other services, or rather the case of persons for whom there is not so much urgency is considered, I do not see any reason why the case of these hard-working officers should not be taken up as early as possible. With these observations, I join in supporting this resolution."

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I beg to support this resolution. At the last Dacca session, the matter was the subject-matter of discussion; and I do not like to trouble the Council by repeating the arguments which I then advanced. In educational qualifications and in responsibility, the sub-deputy collectors are of the same status as the Deputy Collectors and I cannot persuade myself as to why there should be any difference between these two classes. My humble submission to the Council is that the Provincial Service and the Subordinate Services should be amalgamated into one."

The Hon'ble Mr. Kerr said :—

"My Lord, all that this resolution asks us to do is to take up, as early as may be practicable, the question of the improvement of the pay and prospects and terms and conditions of service of the Subordinate Civil Service. That Government is quite prepared to undertake to do; and, indeed, as I shall show, quite apart from this resolution, action of this kind will in any case be forced upon us at an early date. I should have been very glad this hot afternoon if I could sit down after merely undertaking to accept the resolution on behalf of Government, but in the course of the discussion to-day and in the representations which have been referred to in this discussion, certain claims have been put forward on behalf of the Subordinate Civil Service. I might call them extravagant claims; at any rate, they are claims which Government could not accept without qualification. It would only give rise to false hopes, if I passed these claims by without saying anything about them, and I will, therefore, give as briefly as posible, a history of the service and an account of the functions which it is called upon to perform.

Resolutions.

The Subordinate Civil Service was created in 1873 in order to perform revenue and executive work which had previously been done expensively and not always efficiently by temporary establishments. Its members were to be employed mainly on out-door duties in the interior of the districts as executive agents to help District and Subdivisional Officers in administering the various departments under their charge. It was laid down that they should only be vested sparingly with magisterial powers. In 1892, nearly 20 years later in Sir Charles Elliot's time, the position was reconsidered. It was found that, owing to force of circumstances and the exigencies of the administration, it had been necessary to vest these officers with minor magisterial powers, that is the powers of Magistrates of the second and third class, and it was decided that it was good policy to utilise these officers on magisterial work of this kind. It was decided that they should constitute a class similar in powers and responsibility to deputy collectors but inferior in dignity. Then, in 1902, when a reorganisation of the service took place, a further statement was made. It was said that in subdivisions sub-deputy collectors were wanted to relieve the Subdivisional Officers of treasury and office routine, petty cases and local enquiries. They had come to be regarded to a great extent as second officers in subdivisions, and their employment in a heavy subdivision did much to stave off the necessity of stationing there a second officer of the superior service. These remarks are still true to-day except for some slight development in the matter of magisterial powers which has taken place during the last 8 or 9 years. In 1911, Government decided to vest a limited number of sub-deputy collectors with first class powers, who from their standing and ability were likely to be promoted within two or three years to the rank of deputy collectors. In 1916, owing to the absence on war service of a number of the members of the Indian Civil Service and also of the Provincial Service, Government agreed to relax these restrictions temporarily, and vested a limited number of sub-deputy collectors with first class powers, who had exercised second class powers for some time and had shown themselves thoroughly fit for higher powers. This is a very brief and condensed account of the history of the service, but it serves to explain the nature of the duties on which Government decided to employ these officers and on which they are still employed. I have only to add that in the early days of the service, sub-deputy collectors like deputy collectors, were recruited mainly by competitive examination. In 1905, this examination was abolished, and the possession of an University degree was made an indispensable qualification for both services. Since 1892 sub-deputy collectors have had to pass the same departmental examination as the deputy collectors. It must, therefore, be admitted that the claim made to-day and elsewhere that these officers are very much of the same class, and are drawn from the same rank of society and possess the same educational qualifications as deputy collectors, has some force. The other claim, however, that these officers are employed on similar duties cannot be accepted without very considerable qualification. Even if it could, there is one general consideration which must not be overlooked. We have to look to the practical aspect of the case. It does not seem to me that the fact that we can get for the Subordinate Service officers of the same rank, of the same social standing and possessing the same educational qualifications as deputy collectors can be accepted as a conclusive argument for levelling up the lower service to the same standard of pay and prospects as the higher. It might equally well be argued that the pay of the superior service is unnecessarily high; and from the purely economic point of view of supply and demand, there is no doubt that such a view could be theoretically justified in this province. There are four main services in this province for which the graduate qualification is prescribed, namely, the Provincial Executive Service, the Provincial Police Service, the Excise Department and the Subordinate Civil Service ; of these, the Subordinate Civil Service, I need hardly say, is the least well-paid. For all these four services, there are about 30 to 40 posts to fill up every year ; and we have about 400 to 500 candidates asking for posts in these services. During the last four years it has been my business to go through the papers of those young men, and I have interviewed most of them personally ; I have no hesitation in saying that the great majority of them would be quite willing to take the Subordinate Service if they could get nothing better. They are in fact willing to take service in posts offering much worse prospects than even the Subordinate Service. Amongst the settlement kanungos, who are temporary employes, with no pensionary prospects, nearly half at present consist of graduates, and the proportion of graduates is rising. In the Subordinate Police Service during the last three years, on an average, more than 50 graduates have been appointed each year to posts as sub-inspectors of police. I quite realise that the economic consideration is not the only one which has to be taken into account. Government cannot afford to employ sweated labour in the public service, particularly in the higher ranks. But, at the same time, the economic consideration is an important one and cannot be disregarded. Facts being as they are, so long as we can get a plentiful supply of qualified candidates for posts as sub-deputy collectors on the existing terms, some regard must be paid to the ever increasing calls on the provincial finances in dealing with demands for increase of pay.

Resolutions.

Mr. Kerr.

I now turn to the old argument which has been used that the work of the Subordinate Service and the Provincial Service is practically identical, and in regard to this a few hard facts will be more useful than any general argument. At the present moment, our present cadre of sub-deputy collectors consists of 221 officers, excluding the probationers who were recruited the other day to fill posts as circle officers. Out of these 221 officers, there are 95 employed on general duty ; and of these 33 are employed at district headquarters and 62 at subdivisions. The 33 employed at headquarters include some 26 officers who are vested with first class magisterial powers under the orders issued in 1916, which I have already mentioned, and I admit that these officers do very much the same work as the ordinary deputy collectors at headquarters ; but the position with regard to the 62 officers in subdivisions is very different ; they are definitely in a position of subordination to the Subdivisional Officer who is usually a deputy collector or a young civilian ; the Subdivisional Officer disposes of all the important work leaving only minor cases for his sub-deputy collector. The sub-deputy collector is usually also employed on sub-treasury and routine work and performs minor and miscellaneous functions. Out of these 95 officers, 62 are therefore employed definitely on work which is of an inferior and less responsible nature than that of the ordinary deputy collector. Then, we have 46 officers employed on settlement work. It was my good fortune to serve in the Settlement Department myself for nearly 7 years, and I should be the last person to under-rate the value of the good work which sub-deputy collectors do in the Settlement Department. I learnt the elements of settlement work myself from a sub-deputy collector. At the same time, even in the Settlement Department, these sub-deputy collectors are not employed on superior posts of supervision and control which are held by deputy collectors and junior civilians. Then, again, there are the 22 sub-deputy collectors employed in Government and Wards Estates, and speaking generally they are employed in the smaller and less important estates while the more important and bigger estates are held by deputy collectors and other officers. Forty of the existing sub-deputy collectors are employed as circle officers ; these are new posts in which deputy collectors are never employed, and I do not expect they ever will be employed. In this connection, it is important to note that we have recently received sanction to recruit 234 more sub-deputy collectors who will eventually be employed as circle officers under the Village Self-Government Act which was passed in the Council the other day. I say, therefore, that in existing circumstances the number of sub-deputy collectors who are employed on work which could be described as in any way approaching in importance and responsibility to that of deputy collectors is very small, probably not more than 30 or 40 out of the existing cadre of sub-deputy collectors, and it will be a much smaller proportion when the 200 new circle officers' posts are added.

Resolutions.

Mr. Kerr.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Roy said a good deal about the disabilities of sub-deputy collectors. I admit that they are in the matter of pay not on the same footing as the deputy collectors, but I think the Hon'ble Member went beyond the mark in suggesting—and I think he did—that sub-deputy collectors are liable to be dismissed without enquiry; that is most emphatically not the case. A sub-deputy collector cannot be dismissed except under the orders of Government, and under the rules which apply to all officers a full enquiry must be made and charges framed and the officer afforded the fullest opportunity of explaining his case before any punishment can be inflicted on him. So far as that particular disability is concerned, I think the Council will agree that there is not very much in it.

As I have stated, on financial and practical grounds, I cannot hold out any hopes that the Provincial and Subordinate Services will be amalgamated but as I began by saying, Government are perfectly prepared to do what the resolution asks and to take into consideration the improvement of the pay and prospects of the Subordinate Service. The question of promotion from the Subordinate Service to the Provincial Service is already under the consideration of Government in connection with the resolution which we issued about the Provincial Service on the 25th March last. The replies to that resolution have come in and the case will shortly be submitted to Government. That is one matter which will be taken up almost immediately. The next point is that the increase in the cadre of sub-deputy collectors, owing to the creation of the new posts of circle officers, will necessitate an examination of the whole grading of the Subordinate Service; if we recruit a considerable number of these officers in the next 5 or 7 years there will be a hopeless block in promotion unless we alter the grading. Personally I am inclined to think that a time scale will be needed, but that is a matter which Government has not yet considered. A third point is a question, which has been kept pending for some time till after the end of the war and the report of the Public Services Commission regarding the adequacy of the existing cadre of the Provincial Service for the work it has been doing. During the war, the cadre of the Provincial Civil Service was quite inadequate, and the mere fact that so many sub-deputy collectors had to be vested with first class powers is a sufficient proof of that. Whether the cadre will be adequate when normal conditions are restored, is a matter on which I should hesitate to express an opinion at present. At any rate, the matter has got to be examined, and this examination may suggest some means of differentiating between the Provincial and Subordinate Services on more satisfactory lines than exist at present. Government are therefore prepared to take this question of the Subordinate Service into consideration; but I must warn the Council that it is impossible to promise any definite date at present. The case must wait until the case of the Provincial Service is decided, and the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem has pointed out some other difficulties which will also require consideration in this connection. It must therefore be clearly understood that Government reserve a free hand as to the changes which will be adopted and the time when they will be adopted. Subject to these remarks, Government are prepared to accept the resolution."

Resolutions.

Babu S. N. Ray ; Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray said :—

"My Lord, I have to say a few words because from the tenour of the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr's reply I find that Government are prepared to accept partially my resolution.

My friend, the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem has said that the time is not opportune for moving this resolution : but I think that this is exactly the time when I ought to bring forward this resolution, because the Government is now considering the question of improving the pay and prospects of the Judicial Service, the pay and prospects of the Police Service and of other services.

From the observations of the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr, it appears that he admits that the members of the Subordinate Service possess the same educational qualifications and are drawn from the same status of society. It has been said that recruitment to this service is regulated by the law of supply and demand. That is so. It has also been said in considering the pay and prospects of the members of the Subordinate Civil Service we must also take into consideration the economic aspect of the case which cannot be disregarded. But I think Government should also take into consideration the fact as mentioned by my Hon'ble friend, Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri, that the lowness of pay has a demoralising effect. If you give a man good pay of course he is sure to work with contentment and you will get very good work from him. But if a man be really a competent man and has got the same educational qualifications as the others he naturally aspires to have the same status in the service as his brother officers. Government should also take into consideration that the cost of living has increased immensely of late and that a gentleman who could well afford to live on Rs. 100 a month cannot now live on less than Rs. 150 a month at least. So it is time that Government should consider all these matters and the sooner the claims of the members of the Subordinate Civil Service are considered by Your Excellency's Government the better."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 20.

The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq moved the following resolution :—

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the Police Courts in Calcutta be located in one and the same building in some central part in the city."

He said :—

"My Lord, this is the second occasion on which I have ventured to bring forward this proposal for the location of the Police Courts in one central part and building in the city. On the last occasion I was assured by Mr. Lyon speaking on behalf of Government that this system of holding the Police Courts in different parts of the city was more or less of an experimental character and that Government must abide by the result of that experiment. Four years have elapsed since then and we do not find any indication on the part of Government to state the result of the experiment as to whether it has been successful or otherwise. So far as the public are concerned I can assure Your Excellency's Government that there is still the same feeling of dissatisfaction with the arrangement as it existed in 1913-14 when I first moved my resolution. My Lord, this practice of holding the Police Courts in some central part of the city is almost as old as the institution of Courts of Justice in this country. The system worked very well till, as far as I can make out, a move was made in the year 1845 to split up the jurisdiction of Police Magistrates in the city by dividing the area under the jurisdiction of the Magistrates but at the same time allowing the Magistrates to sit in one and the same building. Later on in the time of Mr. Weston an attempt was made to introduce a more centralised system, but this was condemned by the two Judges of the Calcutta High Court who were deputed to inspect the Police Courts and to report the measures to be taken in order to improve their efficiency. So far as the public can make out no action was taken on the report of the Judges of the Calcutta High Court till the year 1913 when the Lalbazar Police building was wanted by the Commissioner of Police for his purposes. It was then in January 1914 that the Police Court was split up into three Courts located in three different parts of the city—one at Jorabagan, one at Bankshall Street and the other at Kyd Street. It was not claimed at first that it was anything more than an experiment and it is necessary therefore to see in what way the system has worked. My submission is that the experiment has proved a failure. The first point that I put forward for the consideration of this Council is the enormous cost that has been incurred in carrying on the experiment. There have been recurring and non-recurring charges and amongst the non-recurring charges I might mention the additions and alterations that have been made to the various buildings, electric fittings, sanitary plumbing works, furniture and equipment for the new courts. As regards the recurring charges, there has also been considerable increase. The ministerial and menial staff have been largely increased; the police establishments attached to the Courts have been highly augmented; the Public Prosecutor and his staff has also been strengthened. The contingent expenses have increased enormously; the rates and taxes, hot weather charges, office expenses, telephonic charges, not to mention numerous other charges inseparable from the paraphernalia of a Court establishment have all increased to a considerable degree. I have not got the exact figures, but I think they would run upto several lakhs. The next point for consideration is—has all this expenditure been justified? Has it produced any benefit to the public? There is a sort of widespread notion that it is better to bring justice, if possible, nearer to the homes of the people as if by that means one could give the people any relief. Experience however has shown that with the splitting up of the Police Courts litigation has not decreased and I do not exaggerate matters that the partition of Police Courts has only led to an enourmous increase of litigation. In the first place the litigant public have had to face the fact that the pleaders have reasonably or unreasonably increased their fees. Formerly when all the Courts were located in one building of Lalbazar whenever a man had a business to be conducted in the Police Court he would select his pleader out of hundred and odd pleaders: the field of selection has now been considerably narrowed in each Court and naturally therefore the pleaders who have got to earn their income by doing a far less amount of work have raised their fees and the clients have to submit to their terms. Secondly, a pleader who ordinarily practises at Jorabagan charges an abnormally high fee if he has to go to Bankshall Street and vice versa. As regards the transaction of business I submit that a good deal of inconvenience is being caused by the existing system of the Police Courts. Whenever a Magistrate takes cognizance of a case he cannot transfer it to a subordinate Magistrate because he is not empowered by the Code to do so and he has got to submit the case to the Chief Presidency Magistrate of Bankshall Street. This entails a certain amount of delay. Several cases have to be kept back daily and adjourned on account of the prosecuting officers, witnesses, pleaders and others being engaged in another Court. This also causes a great deal of inconvenience. Therefore, my Lord, neither is the present arrangement convenient to the public nor does it accelerate the despatch of business.

Resolutions.

Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq.

Then the question is whether the present arrangement has had any good effect on the supervision of the Court by the Chief Presidency Magistrate. I submit that it has not. I still maintain that with the partition there has been an ineffective supervision of the subordinate Courts by the Chief Presidency Magistrate. Formerly the Chief Presidency Magistrate kept a daily watch on the files of the cases and exercised a certain amount of control over the Magistrates subordinate to him. Now he has practically lost touch with the Magistrates (stipendiary and honorary) in the Northern Division Court. A flying visit once a month or even less to the Northern Division Court is certainly not effective supervision. In the interests of efficiency it is highly desirable that the other Presidency Magistrates should be under the close administrative supervision of the Chief Presidency Magistrate at Bankshall Street.

Resolutions.

Maulvi Abul Kasem.

The next point, my Lord, which I submit for the consideration of this Council is this: that on account of the unequal distribution of work it happens that one Magistrate in Jorabagan, for instance, finds time hanging heavy on him while another has to work up to 5 to 6 P.M. And I myself have seen certain other Magistrates leave the Court at 3 in the afternoon. This is due to unequal distribution of work. All these prove my statement that the experiment has not proved successful, on the contrary it has proved a failure. Therefore, I think that Government should now redeem their pledge and there ought to be a reversal of the present system. As regards the distribution of work I shall quote the following observation which I have taken the liberty to collect from an unofficial report :—

'The Jorabagan Court is within a stone's throw from the First Division Port Police, yet all cases arising within its jurisdiction are tried at Bankshall Street. A dinghi manji arrested at Bichali Ghat, Bagh Bazar, is taken all the way to Bankshall Street although the Jorabagan Court is far nearer. All motor-car cases arising in any part of Calcutta are now heard in the Bankshall Street Court. What is the good of having a partition of the courts, if cases arising within the jurisdiction of one are tried in another.

In several matters (e.g., the Press Act, the Extradition Act and so forth) the Chief Presidency Magistrate exercises exclusive jurisdiction, and the people of the Northern Division have, in consequence, to go to the Jorabagan Court for one purpose and to Bankshall Street Court for another purpose. This double-court arrangement leads neither to the convenience of the public nor to a prompt despatch of business nor to the efficiency of the court.'

Therefore I submit that the time has come when the Police Courts should be located in one and the same building and that the present system be done away with.

With these words I commend the resolution for the acceptance of the House."

The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem said—

My Lord, it is my misfortune this time to oppose my Hon'ble friend Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq. He has ably advocated the cause which he has taken up, and those interested are very fortunate in having one of the ablest men in the province for their spokesman. But I am sorry that in spite of his eloquence I am still unconvinced that the facts justify his proposal. He says that the experiment has proved a failure and that a city like Calcutta, which has grown very much in recent years, all the Police Courts should be located in one and the same place. I believe that in other Presidency towns the Police Courts are located in different quarters and no complaint has been heard about that arrangement. And so far as I know I do not think there is much dissatisfaction in Calcutta either. But of course, there is dissatisfaction among the members of the legal profession practising in the Police Courts. It would be very convenient to them to have all the courts in one and the same building. My Hon'ble friend has said that owing to the pleaders being distributed between the two courts, the litigants have to pay higher fees. But so far as I know the race of pleaders is so prolific that the supply is always greater than the demand. Therefore that argument does not hold good. In such a case the result will be that a particular set of pleaders will get all the cases and the others will have to starve. My friend has also stated that a good deal of inconvenience is felt by the witnesses in going from one court to another. Why should they go from one court to another unless they are professional set of witnesses? It is not usual for a case to be partly tried at Jorabagan and partly at Bankshall Street. My Hon'ble friend has cited the case of a dinghi manjhi. But that sort of thing might be remedied and that remedy does not lie in the placing of all the Police Courts in one building. A good deal has been made out of the fact that there was only one court in those days. That was certainly the case. But my Hon'ble friend forgets that in those days there were only two stipendiary Magistrates and a limited number of Honorary Magistrates. But since then the work has grown up in geometrical proportion and there are now four stipendiary Magistrates and a large number of Honorary Magistrates. And certainly it is necessary therefore that the buildings should be separate. It has been said that litigants find it inconvenient and expensive to find lawyers of their choice. In the mofussil, too, lawyers from Calcutta are appointed to conduct cases by the parties. And if that argument holds good, then all the courts in the Presidency should be brought into one place. If the courts are brought into one place litigation will increase and the number of touts will increase also, and the people will be robbed not only by touts but by others as well. So far as I have been able to ascertain, the public do not desire it, but members of the legal profession practising in the Police Courts and specially those who are at the top of the profession. And they have found a very able advocate to plead their cause in the Council. With these words, my Lord, I oppose the resolution."

The Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan said :—

"My Lord, the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq has once more brought up the question of putting all the Police Courts in Calcutta in a central place and in one building. The resolution is not a new matter and has, if I may say so, an interesting history. In December 1915 the same Hon'ble Member moved a similar and almost identical resolution which was opposed by Government and the resolution was lost. As the members of this Council are aware, up to the end of 1913 the Calcutta Police Courts were located at Lalbazar. It had long been recognised that the accommodation at Lalbazar was both inadequate and inconvenient and after a good deal of discussion three courts were established and called the suburban, the central and the northern courts. When the Hon'ble Member moved his resolution in December, 1915, on behalf of Government it was stated by the Hon'ble Mr. Lyon that the Kyd Street Court was about to be abolished as there was not sufficient work for it at the time. This was given effect to from the 25th April, 1916. Since that time there have been two police courts—one located at Bankshall Street and the other at Jorabagan. At first the Chief and the Fourth Magistrates used to sit at Bankshall Street and the Second and Third Magistrates at Jorabagan, each court having in addition a number of Honorary Magistrates. In the beginning of 1918, however this arrangement was slightly altered and in the rules published under section 21 (1) of the Code of Criminal Procedure it was definitely laid down that the Chief and the Second Magistrates should ordinarily sit at the southern and northern courts respectively, the other Magistrates being assigned to these courts in such a manner as the Chief Presidency Magistrate may think fit. In actual practice at present the Chief and the Third Magistrates sit at Bankshall Street and the Second and the Fourth at Jorabagan. The arguments which the Hon'ble Maulvi put forward in favour of his resolution in 1915 were that the courts at Lalbazar were split up and located at different places to meet some urgent requirements of the police and the physical congestion was a secondary consideration—an argument which did not merit serious consideration at the time and does not do so at the present moment, for as everybody is sufficiently aware, the accommodation at Lalbazar was anything but satisfactory not only to the Magistrates but also to the pleaders, witnesses and parties and in fact to everybody concerned. Since then new buildings at Lalbazar have been put up for the use of the Calcutta Police. Here I may mention that it was not true that the Lalbazar building was abandoned for the police—purely for putting up new buildings, for the police but it was done so because the Bankshall building came back to us from the Government of India and we thought it economical to use it as a Police Court. So that side of the question should not be lost sight of. The second argument then put forward by the Hon'ble Maulvi has no longer any force as the Kyd Street Court has been abolished for over three years. The third argument then put forward by the Hon'ble Maulvi was that the courts being at a distance from one another, the Chief Presidency Magistrate could not exercise proper supervision—a charge which he has brought against Government again to-day. Literally this may be true, but it does not necessarily follow that for that reason the work of supervision has been slackened because it must be remembered that the Second Presidency Magistrate has been entrusted with a considerable amount of work which the Chief Presidency Magistrate used to do in the trial of cases and therefore the latter is able to devote more time to the supervision work. I shall, however in connection with this look into the question which the Hon'ble Maulvi has brought forward to-day about the division of labour or about the question that all cases have got to go to the Chief Presidency Magistrate who delegates his powers and distributes the cases. If of course any better arrangement can be made in regard to the disposal of such cases, I can assure the Hon'ble Member that that will be looked into. I find therefore that the Hon'ble Maulvi has more or less gone over his trodden ground of 1915. He asks very naturally that as Mr. Lyon in reply to his resolution said that this was going to be an experimental measure, for some indication as to the policy of Government regarding these courts. On this point I shall have to say something later on. Meanwhile of course he has also brought against us the charge and he has said that not only the non-recurring charges have been heavy but recurring charges have gone up. Well, I think it must be apparent to every member here that if we are to have more than one court there must be necessarily an increase both in the recurring and non-recurring charges. The arguments that litigants cannot have lawyers of their choice except at a higher cost regarding which the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem has spoken very strongly, all I can say is that this argument cannot possibly carry the same force to-day as it did in 1915, for in the first place the courts have been split up for more than five years. Then again it can be argued with a good deal of justification that as the number of pleaders and lawyers in Calcutta are by no means inadequate, it may reasonably be expected that a sufficient number of competant lawyers have now gathered round the southern courts if, in spite of this fact, litigants occasionally want to take lawyers from the Bankshall Street court and have to pay extra expenses, then, in the words of the Hon'ble Mover, they must pay for that luxury. I am afraid it cannot be helped, for I am sure such cases cannot be many and are rather more than counterbalanced by the fact that in a large number of cases the litigants are benefited by the disposal of their cases much nearer their homes—a thing which evidently however does not appeal to my friend the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq and sometimes perhaps even without the assistance of lawyers practising at the local court. Moreover I shall soon give the figures of the number of cases tried by those two courts from which I am firmly convinced that it would be by far the wisest course to leave things as they are at present, and I am sure that matters will completely adjust themselves in the course of a few years, for there cannot be the slightest doubt that the system in vogue is a considerable improvement on the old system of one central court. So far as the litigants are concerned, however, I am sure nobody will argue that it would be more convenient for the inhabitants of the northern portion of the city to come to Lalbazar or Bankshall or some such place instead of going to Jorabagan. The only strong argument therefore, in favour of centralisation of all the courts at one place is that it will foster the growth of a strong Bar, but, my Lord, I venture to think that the Bar of Calcutta is more than strong and that it does not need any such further strengthening if that were possible by the centralisation of the Police Courts in one building. Then, my Lord, the questions of buildings and building sites in Calcutta even for the Government is by no means an easy one. Already the Bankshall Street building has been condemned and the Government has got seriously to consider as to where the southern court can be temporarily located until a new building is completed. Perhaps my friend will bring forward this as an argument in favour of having one central court and may say that as the Government has to erect a new building why not huddle them all together. To this my reply would be that apart from the question whether such a course would be economical or not we have got to see the convenience of the litigants themselves and from the figures which I shall soon give it will be apparent that it would be a great injustice to the litigants if Government were again to decide upon a central building with all the courts concentrated in it. In 1915 it was stated on behalf of Government that the arrangements then in force were experimental. At that time it was fully proved that the northern court was a success, and from the figures which I have in my hand I can say that the southern court has also been success. Therefore, it seems to me that the time has perhaps come when on behalf of Government I should definitely state what the policy of Government is in this matter.

Resolutions.

Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan.

In the first place there is nothing to show that the present arrangement are not working satisfactorily. Apart from the consideration of accommodation and perhaps the convenience of certain members of the Bar, it is a distinct advantage to bring justice nearer the people, for if against this argument of mine it were adduced that more the courts the more the litigants as has been done this morning by the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq, my reply is that human nature being what it is, litigation will go on and will continue to exist whether there is one court or more. Now, my Lord, let me give some figures which will show that although the work of the northern court may not be equal to that of the southern court, there has been a steady growth of work in the southern court from 1915-17, though there was some falling off again last year, but the decrease in the northern area was perceptibly less than in the southern. The number of serious cases in the northern area was much higher than that in the southern area except in 1915. In short, the figures to my mind are a conclusive proof that the object in view in having a new court in the northern area has been attained and that the work done in that area has justified its existence. In the years 1917 and 1918, the total number of cases in the northern court was 37,934 and 32,561, respectively. The total number for that period in the southern court was 45,886 and 35,616. If, therefore, there is a reversion to the central system it would mean that the parties and witnesses in all these cases would have to make a journey to Bankshall Street instead of having their cases tried in their own neighbourhood. It would also involve backward and forward journeys for the police officers between the Jorabagan and the central court, thus meaning considerable inconvenience as well as waste of public money.

Then, again, from the financial aspect it would be extremely difficult to find a suitable site for a large Central Police Court, the cost of acquiring land for such a building being in itself enormous. But what I think is the most important of all to remember is that numerically the petty cases are really the most important, and the nearer to the homes of the parties these could be disposed of the better. And from this point of view quite an arguable case for greater decentralisation could be made out instead of the plea to return to the old system of centralisation for which to my mind there is no justification, either on the ground of convenience to the public or of economy of State funds.

Moreover, when two police districts were made for Calcutta—the north town and the south town—the division was so made that the jurisdiction of the Magistrates and of the executive police officers should coincide. From this point of view too, my Lord, there is no reason to disturb the present arrangement. Under all these circumstances, my Lord, I contend that the Government would not be justified in accepting the recommendation of the Hon'ble Mover of this resolution and I trust to the good sense of the Council to throw out the motion before us."

The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul Haq said :—

"My Lord, in view of the very full and exhaustive statement that has been made by the Hon'ble Member speaking on behalf of Government I would not have troubled this Council with any reply but for the fact that my friend, the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem, has made certain remarks which I cannot certainly pass without comment. He has sought to create a diversion this afternoon in favour of Government by offering opposition to two very popular resolutions simply, as I take it, for the sake of opposition itself. He has delivered two speeches ; the first of which is, I may say with the utmost respect, of a more or less incoherent character, and the second couched in the language of vehemence. The second speech exemplifies, to my mind, the danger of a layman trying to dabble with matters of which he has got a hazy and vague idea.

To begin with, he has mentioned that in Bombay there are Police Courts located in different parts of the city. May I ask him what parallel can be drawn from the conditions of Bombay to those existing in Calcutta when we do not know that the Police Courts of Bombay were located in one and the same building previously, but was followed by subsequent divisions and located in different parts of the city ; so that we may have some data for a comparison of the circumstances. As far as I know, the Bombay system can supply no data to judge whether the present system is better than that of having Police Courts in one and the same building in the city. Calcutta people can offer some opinion because they have been accustomed to two different conditions. My friend said that this resolution has been brought forward in the interests of the members of the legal profession. May I ask him what do the members of the legal profession lose if really the courts are split up into two or into 100 parts? The pleaders are put to some inconvenience by having to go from one court to another. Is he so simple as not to know that it is not the pleader but it is the client who has to pay for conveyance? I would like my friend's going to a pleader to engage him on professional business and taking him from his ordinary place to another place, asking him to pay his own gharry hire : I would like to know whether it is the pleader or my friend who has to pay.

Resolutions.

Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq.

Then, my Lord, he said that my statement about witnesses being engaged in one court but being required at another, cannot be accepted for the simple reason that the witnesses are not professional witnesses who can be required for examination at two different cases simultaneously. My friend does not know that there are two classes of witnesses; first I leave aside the professional witnesses, but amongst honest witnesses there are two classes: first, those who can depose as to facts and the other class called expert witnesses. There are, for instance, witnesses who are required to prove previous convictions, medical witnesses and so forth and they have got to appear in one case sometimes at Jorabagan and in another case at Bankshall Street: but this my friend does not know as he has no business with courts. My Lord, I say with the utmost respect because he does not belong to the class of witnesses, or as he has had not to appear as a witness or as complainant; he has not had the occasion to complain of or to infringe the law. Then, as regards pleaders raising their fees, a visit to Jorabagan or Bankshall Street will show whether they have or have not raised their fees. I have been told that, with the large influx of pleaders into courts every year and that great manufactory, the Calcutta University, turning out graduates in law every year, the supply is always going to outstrip the demand. Although hundreds and hundreds of the pleaders may be struggling for existence, those who have made their mark in the profession always dictate their own terms. There may be 200 enrolled, but those who have made their mark, i.e., those whose services are sought after will always charge high, sometimes fancy, fees, although there may be a hundred who may be struggling for existence in these courts. So, the mere fact that there is a large influx every year does not, as a matter of fact, go to reduce the fees which are exacted by pleaders. I do not mean pleaders who are of no consequence to the profession but those who have made their mark as pleaders.

As regards the convenience of the litigants, my own idea is that it is inconvenient to the litigants to have the courts located in different parts of the city; but if Government have made an enquiry and are satisfied that the present arrangement is to the convenience of the litigants, I have got absolutely nothing to say. But I feel convinced that the greater the number of courts the greater is the advantage to members of the profession to which I have the honour to belong. I would like to see courts spring up in every conceivable quarter of Calcutta so that the members of my profession may spread themselves out conveniently, because I know that as soon as a court is started the number of cases go up. The experience of the last five years show that the number of cases in the two courts is very much higher than what it was and the rate of increase is very high; but if, in spite of this, Government think that it is for the convenience of litigants that the courts should be situated in different parts of the city, I have got nothing to say.

As regards the financial aspects that it has been convenient to locate the courts in one big building my idea is that the Bankshall Street building which has been condemned as a very old building might be dismantled and out of the surplus which we get from the receipts of the Police Courts spread over a number of years a very big building might be erected: that is a matter entirely for the Government to consider. I do still hope that the time will come when the Government of its own motion will decide that a reversion to the old state of things is for the convenience of the public; and although I have doubts whether they will accept my proposal, I hope that all this discussion has not been in vain; and I have placed certain facts before the Government which, I hope, in future will be taken into consideration."

The motion was then put and lost.

Resolutions.

Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 21.

The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq also moved the following resolution :—

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the permission granted to the medical practitioners who failed in one or two subjects in the Final Licentiate Examination of the State Medical Faculty in November, 1916, to appear at the same examination to be held in November, 1919, be extended to all those who were permitted under the transitory provision to appear at the said examination previously."

He said :—

"This is the fourth occasion on which a proposal has been made for concessions to a certain class of medical practitioners and I am afraid the Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler might think that we are inducing him in a moment of weak good nature to concede certain privileges to which ordinarily these people are not entitled. On the last occasion he told us that the path of concessions is always of slippery character and once we start going down the path we do not know where we come to. But there are certain consideration which might weigh with the Hon'ble Member with regard to the particular class of medical practitioners, and for these reasons I have ventured to bring forward this resolution. On the last occasion a similar resolution was moved by my friend the Hon'ble Khan Sahib Aman Ali, but that resolution was of a much wider scope than the present one as in my resolution I am asking for this concession for those medical practitioners who have been granted permission previously but could not get through the examination either because they failed in one or two subjects or could not appear at the examination for failure of getting timely notice. My Lord, so far as the first class of medical practitioner is concerned those who failed to pass the examination by only a narrow margin of marks I submit that in their case I cannot say anything except on purely humanitarian grounds. It has been ascertained that they are mostly men who work in distant places, in tea gardens and other estates and whose employers have given them notice to leave their services unless they can produce a certificate of pass. The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler remarked on that occasion that it does not very much matter whether a medical practitioner gets a certificate or not because he can always practise as a private practitioner, and so long as he possesses a certificate it is enough to enable him to carry on the profession. It is well known, however, that a medical practitioner who possesses a certificate like the one for which we are contending for this class of practitioners always commands a much higher market value than the one who possess none and the latter want to improve their prospects by procuring this certificate. As regards the other class, that is, those who did not get timely notice, an enquiry will show that there were people who got notice very late and so late that they could not appear at the examination. Since one examination is going to be held it would be an act of mercy if they are allowed to appear at it. Let them take their chance : if they pass they get a certificate. and that is what they ask for but if they fail they have got themselves to blame. It is not a resolution for which I can say anything except the argumentum ad hominum, but I hope it is a case in which that mercy should be exercised. I believe, my Lord, there is a large volume of public opinion in favour of this resolution and I do not, therefore, wish to take more time of the Council. The matter has been discussed on three occasions already, and there is nothing new to say. All that I wish to say is that this resolution is of a simpler character than any of the resolutions that have been moved previously."

Resolutions.

Khan Sahib Aman Ali; Babu K. M. Chaudhuri; Sir Henry Wheeler.

The Hon'ble Khan Sahib Aman Ali said:—

"My Lord, in supporting this resolution, I will only say a few words because on the last occasion I spoke at some length on the necessity of having qualified doctors. It is an undeniable fact that this province is in urgent need of qualified doctors, and on account of want of doctors the people in every district are suffering from various diseases. If the proposal embodied in the resolution be accepted, it will in no way interfere with the prestige and finance of Government. It will be a favour to a large number of doctors who are not qualified under the law but who have studied medicine for five years at least. With these words, I beg to support the resolution."

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri said:—

"My Lord, I do not wish to take up much time of the Council in supporting this resolution. It seems to be a reasonable request and that request is that those who were permitted to appear at the previous examination but for some reason or other could not appear, might be given another opportunity of qualifying themselves. I do not see that there is any objection to this proposal, and I hope that the concession will be granted. With these few words, I beg to support the resolution."

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler said:—

"My Lord, like the last resolution that has been moved by the Hon'ble Member, this is a matter which on more than one previous occasion has occupied the attention of the Council. There is therefore not much new that can be said about it, and I will be as brief as possible in my remarks. These resolutions have centred round the examination of the State Medical Faculty of Bengal. That was an examination instituted in connection with the legislation undertaken in Bengal for the registration of medical degrees, and the advantage of passing the Faculty Examination was that it conferred a registrable degree. The examination was meant for people who had undergone a specified training; but in recognition, primarily, of the position of those who were already in practice, a transitory clause was enacted which for two years after the constitution of the Faculty enabled men to go up for the examination who had not gone through the prescribed course of tuition. That period elapsed at the examination of November 1916. The object of all the different resolutions which have been moved in this connection from time to time has been, in various ways, to enable men to go up for that examination or obtain a registrable qualification, who would not otherwise be entitled to do so. This is the fourth resolution of the kind which has come up.

"In January 1918, the Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri asked us to admit to the examination the Belgachia students of the year 1913 and those who failed for the first time in one or two subjects in the examination held in November 1916. Mr. Donald, on behalf of Government, opposed that motion; but the Council expressed an opinion in favour of it, and in consideration of that opinion, and also being desirous of meeting it to the extent which they thought legitimate, Government did allow the men who failed in one or two subjects at that examination, to go up—not only for one more examination as was originally asked for, but for four more examinations, and in fact there will still be an examination in November 1919 open to these men. Therefore, I would emphasise that we have already provided for the case of those who were originally permitted to appear but who failed in one or two subjects.

"The next occasion was September 1918, when we had the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray's resolution asking us to recognise the Belgachia

Resolutions.

Sir Henry Wheeler.

Institution as one which could confer registrable degrees. I explained then why we could not accept his proposal. but the Council said that we ought to do so. On further examination, however, we were confirmed in the view that there was no possible justification for such a course, and we were therefore unable to accede to the request.

"In January last, the Hon'ble Khan Sahib Aman Ali asked us to admit to the examination of May 1919 all passed students of non-recognised medical schools. I explained then why we could not do so, and that proposal was lost without a division.

"Now, we are asked to admit to the next examination to be held in November all those who were previously permitted to appear under the transitory provisions but for one reason or another have hitherto failed to pass. Such men would seem to be, firstly, those who, having obtained permission, for one reason or another omitted to appear; their number seems to be very small and I cannot see that they deserve much consideration. And secondly, those who, having appeared, failed to satisfy the examiners. But if they only failed in one or two subjects they can already go up again, so the resolution really presses the case only of those who failed in three or four subjects, it being remembered that the total number of subjects is only four, while under the ordinary regulations of the Faculty a man is not allowed to go up again if he has failed in three subjects or more. The number of men for whom we are asked to make this special concession seems to be 41 who failed in three subjects, and 49 who failed in four subjects, at the examination of November 1916, and we are asked to allow this special concession for men who after four chances have practically demonstrated that their knowledge of medical practice was of the slightest. I have been told by the examiners that some of the men who appeared had no more chance of passing any reasonable medical examination than a child in the street. That is what we are asked to do.

"I have previously explained what the object of our medical legislation was, and I do not want to re-traverse that ground. I would again emphasise that the discussions about it originated in 1908, and the two relevant Bills only passed into law in 1914 in Bengal, and in 1916 in the Imperial Council. Therefore everybody had ample notice of what the position was going to be. The object of our law is merely this—to give a definite status to men who have a definite qualification, and to prevent men who have not that qualification from assuming that status. It is further to the advantage of the medical profession in the province that the standard of the Faculty Examination should be maintained. If we, out of good nature, allow men to go up for the examination who have not passed through a reasonable course of medical training, we derogate from the value of the status enjoyed by all those who have passed the examination. I would again emphasise that the status conferred by medical degrees is one dependent upon a reasonable medical training, and not upon the mere passing of an examination, especially if that is to be achieved after the fourth or fifth effort and after an exhibition of almost entire ignorance of the subject.

Why then, when the object of our legislation seems to be so palpably justified, is it that we have these persistent attempts to get us to admit men who are not qualified under the rules and concessions that we have given? The Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Huq denies the charge, but I really cannot see that there is any more argument in favour of this course than that of weak good nature. When I spoke on the last occasion I went through in detail the concessions given under the transitory clause. I explained that we began with concessions; we extended them once, and we extended them again on the motion of the Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri, and we have now arrived at the utmost limit that we thought was justfiable. We are now asked to do more than the Council was asked to do in 1918 and which we eventually accepted, although we did not think it justifiable. In asking us to do this now the Council is not altogether logical; that is to say, in January 1918 we were asked to do something which we did do: in July 1919, for no particular reason whatever, we are asked to go a great deal further, and it is difficult to answer the query, when are we to arrive at finality in this matter? Suppose we accept this resolution and allow those who failed in three or four subjects to go up again—what is going to happen? Most of them will fail; it is almost certain that they will fail. And then we will be told that those poor men have not had much time to prepare for the examination, that if they are given a little more time to brush up their knowledge, they will pass; and that they should therefore be allowed to go up again in 1920. The whole policy becomes one of endless weak concession. I maintain that the legislation has been reasonable in its initiation, it has been interpreted in a reasonable way, and it has been marked by concessions which were, if anything, generous, and on these grounds, Sir, we are not prepared to make this further extension which is now asked for."

Resolutions.

Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq ; Mr. Irwin.

"My Lord, I have not got to add much to what I have already said because as I have said in moving this resolution that this question has been threshed out on three occasions It has been said that most of the students who appeared or were permitted to appear at the previous examinations failed practically in all the subjects. If there are any such I cannot contend that their case deserves much sympathy, but there is the case of others who were given permission but could not at all appear by reason of the fact that they lived at distant places and could not get timely notice. So far as they are concerned I have submitted already and I again respectfully submit that their case deserves some consideration. At any rate the second class medical practitioners can be differentiated from the first class. The Hon'ble Member has put a query that if this concession is granted where are we going to stop. I do not know if any undertaking on my part will be of any practical effect, but I can assure him that if this resolution is accepted I do not think that Government will be troubled with any request of this character in future—very likely this will be the last. On three occasions we were met with unqualified negative and on this the fourth occasion our proposal may be accepted on the condition that we shall not come again with a similar request to Government. Of course it will not be res judicata, and the new Council will not be bound by what is happening in this Council. We can give this undertaking if the Hon'ble Member accepts the resolution. I have already said that I have not got a very strong case, but I leave it to the Hon'ble Member's mercy. It is a question which touches their livelihood and on this consideration they should be allowed to take their chance. I submit that a case has been made out for the acceptance of the Council."

The motion was then put and lost.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 22.

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin moved the following resolution :—

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a Committee be appointed, consisting of two officials and two non-officials, with instructions to make a thorough inquiry into the conditions existing at the Victoria and Dow Hill Schools at Kurseong, and to recommend such steps (if any) as may be deemed advisable in order to place both the schools on a more satisfactory basis."

Resolutions.

Mr. Irwin.

He said :—

"My Lord, I am afraid this resolution will not arouse much interest as it does not personally affect the majority, nevertheless it is a serious one for a considerable community all over India.

It is a question, my Lord, which has occupied my attention for a long time past, as, according to reliable reports, the state of affairs in these two schools has steadily been going from bad to worse for some years, so much so that I consider it would be better to close them altogether unless a great improvement is effected ; at the same time I have been loath to worry Government unnecessarily and hoped that steps would have been taken to remedy matters.

At length hoping to draw the attention of the authorities to it with the least possible waste of time or undue emphasis, I asked a series of questions in this Council in April last.

As, however, the answers given to these questions were, in my opinion, unsatisfactory and as nothing was being done, as far as I could gather, to place the schools on a sounder footing, I felt constrained to take more decisive steps as indicated by the resolution I have quoted.

I may say at once that since giving notice of this resolution I have had a long discussion with the Acting Director of Public Instruction on the matter.

I gave him an outline of what I proposed to say at this meeting with the different items to which I wished to draw special attention, and I think I am correct in saying that he fully agreed with me that not only are the conditions existing at both schools unsatisfactory but that every item I mentioned required revision and reorganisation.

This admission has naturally simplified my task considerably and enabled me to curtail what I should have otherwise been constrained to say in support of my resolution, I shall therefore be as brief as I possibly can.

In the first place, I contend that both schools are and have been for years past, considerably understaffed, the consequence being that the teachers are overworked and the pupils do not receive the attention and tuition they and their parents have a right to expect ; moreover owing also to this fact, i.e., the paucity of teachers, the Head Master or Mistress, respectively, is obliged to undertake duties, which should be relegated to a subordinate, greatly to the detriment of his or her legitimate work.

Again I allege that the staffs of both schools are very considerably underpaid for the duties expected of them. Several of the teachers after giving more than twenty of the best years of their lives in the service are at present drawing miserably inadequate salaries and have proportionately miserable pensions to look forward to when superannuated. I strongly urge that both salaries and pensions should be enhanced without delay, and as regards pensions I think, my Lord, that this enhancement should be retrospective from the date of the commencement of the War, owing to the heavy extra expense entailed by it. This may be unusual, but the whole circumstances are unusual and it would be only ordinary justice.

Then again I consider the constant changes which have occurred in the headships of both schools during the last few years cannot fail to be prejudicial and point to something radically wrong with the supreme administration.

Also the custom of keeping teachers in an acting capacity indefinitely, sometimes for years, as has occurred in several instances, at both schools is utterly wrong and highly detrimental. Can it be expected that teachers under these circumstances can take the same interest in their duties, as if they were on the permanent staff?

Finally as regards the allowances for board to the teachers and the feeding of the pupils, I contend that the amounts sanctioned are at the present time wholly inadequate.

Resolutions.

Mr. Dunn.

Some years ago an epidemic of beri-beri broke out in the Victoria School and an inquiry was held by the Sanitary Commissioner of Bengal.

After a searching investigation he traced the attack to the mal-nutrition of the patients and insisted on an increase in the monthly allowance, which, after considerable references to various authorities and discussion, was at length sanctioned.

That was in pre-war days and, as every one knows since then prices for almost everything has increased by from 50 per cent. to 100 per cent. and at present there seems little prospect of any decrease, I regret to say, I understand it is a fact that this extra allowance demanded by the Sanitary Commissioner, sanctioned at that time and drawn ever since, has just lately been withdrawn. I think this needs no comment.

I consider that the whole organisation of the administration of these schools is thoroughly unsound.

These are the only two Government schools existing in the Province for European and Anglo-Indian children and they are administered by the Educational Department on precisely similar lines to that adopted for Indian schools. I think I may say without giving offence to anyone, that owing to the varied customs and conditions prevalent amongst the different races, similar organisations are unsuitable and totally different systems should be adopted for Anglo-Indian and Indian schools respectively.

The control of these two schools should in my opinion be vested in a body of Governors similar to that of the St. Paul's School at Darjeeling and the Head Master or Mistress respectively should be similar.

As regards the Victoria and Dow Hill Schools I contend that the heads (Master and Mistress respectively) are not endowed with sufficient authority to deal with their subordinates. The Master or Mistress, as the case may be, discovers grave breaches of duty or abuse of power, but has no authority to deal adequately with the offenders as would be the case in a similar school in the United Kingdom, but has to refer the matter to an Inspector with headquarters several hundred miles away, and by the time the offence is investigated, by lapse of time, it has been almost condoned and the Head Master's or Mistress's authority undermined and set at nought.

My Lord, I will not detain the Council longer. I trust I have said sufficient to justify my request for an inquiry and will therefore commend my resolution to the favourable consideration of Your Excellency's Government."

The Hon'ble Mr. Dunn said :—

"My Lord, the resolution which the Hon'ble Mr. Irwin has just put before us is one of great interest and importance. The schools to which he refers were founded some 20 years ago for the children of the subordinate officers in Government service—the children of the domiciled community. These schools are entirely run by Government and they are the only Government schools of their class in Bengal. For that reason alone, I think it is extremely desirable that we should be able to meet any criticism that may be raised in any discussion concerning their efficiency. Some weeks ago I had the opportunity of seeing both the institutions and I regret to say that in the main I must accept the detailed criticism which the Hon'ble Member has put before us. These schools are not as they should be. It is, I think, unnecessary for me to deal here in detail with the various points which the Hon'ble Member has raised. He has spoken of the understaffing of these institutions, the manner in which the Head Master and the Head Mistress are being overworked, the under-payment of the staff, the frequent changes on the staff, the meagre feeding allowances for the children and the inadequacy of accommodation in both the schools. These defects are almost entirely due to the fact that the Dow Hill and Victoria Schools have outgrown their original organization. They were founded, as I have already said, some 20 years ago. At that time they were schools of a very inferior grade—by that I mean inferior from the scholastic point of view. They have since developed into high schools of considerable importance, and I regret to say that they are still staffed by members of the Subordinate Educational Service—a service which does not admit of the adequate recruitment of Europeans for this peculiar kind of work. Now I feel it my duty to point out that the Education Department has for long been aware of the general position at Kurseong. I have gone into old papers and there are many documents dating from the year 1913. In 1913 the position was carefully described by the Hon'ble Mr. Hornell. In 1914 and 1915 the position was again described, the condition of affairs was carefully examined by the Hon'ble Mr. Lyon, and in the case of the Girls' School the institution was carefully inspected. In 1916 a lengthy and comprehensive report was submitted to the authorities on the general position of both the institutions. I need hardly point out that in the last few years the Education Department has scarcely been in a position to find money for any serious kind of reform and the recommendations made by the Hon'ble Mr. Hornell have been inevitably held up mainly for lack of funds. To remedy this state of affairs the Hon'ble Member suggests the formation of a committee consisting of two official and two non-official members. I would point out, however, that all such a committee can do is to re-examine facts which are already known and to put on record conditions which have been already described. Committees as a rule are very useful for much discussion and for the creation of more literature, but I can assure you, Sir, that literature connected with these two schools is already much too ponderous and extremely complicated. What we require is not a committee but action of a very definite and a very speedy character. I am glad to be able to report that up to date action of a certain kind has been taken. As a result of my own inspection held a few weeks ago in Kurseong I have been able to remind the administration of the reports already forwarded connected with these schools; and I am able to point out what are the greatest needs of these schools. The first and the greatest need is that the staff should be somewhat better paid and that the allowances sanctioned for the food supplies of children should be kept up to their original standard. As regards the first, proposals are already before the Financial Department and the Hon'ble Member, and I have reason to believe that these proposals will be sanctioned almost immediately. As regards the second—the food allowance—I am glad to be able to state to the Hon'ble Member that I have been able to establish these allowances on their original rates, and any further money required will receive very careful and very speedy consideration. As regards the next main step which must be taken, namely, the complete reorganisation of these institutions, this will involve nothing less than the abolition of the Subordinate Educational posts in the two schools and the creation of a number of posts on a graded and incremental pay. That question is under consideration and I hope in a few days all the necessary documents will be forwarded to the General Department. For these reasons I contend that no Committee of enquiry is necessary at this stage. All the facts are known: the lines on which we should proceed have not only been laid down, as I have already pointed out, but a certain amount of action on these lines has already been taken. I think therefore that the intention of the Hon'ble Member will be better realised if he leaves the matter now in the hands of the Education Department."

Resolutions.

Mr. Irwin.

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin said :—

"My Lord, I think the Hon'ble Member has made a slight mistake in saying that these schools were founded only 20 years ago. I believe I am right in saying that it is more than 30 years since they were founded.

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

With reference to the Committee asked for, the Hon'ble Member has said that these facts are already known ; from this I understand that they are also admitted. After hearing what the Acting Director of Public Instruction has said, I beg leave to withdraw my resolution as I have no wish to have it said that I have delayed reform or embarassed Government. At the same time I must say that it is with some reluctance that I ask this permission, as what I may almost call, the scandalous state of things to which I have drawn attention has been prevalent for a long time past and I sincerely trust that Government will expedite the proposed improvements as much as possible and further that what I have said with reference to the feeding of the pupils and the enhancement of the salaries and pensions of the teachers, with retrospective effect, will have the careful consideration of the authorities, having in view the considerable increase of prices of all the necessaries of life which has taken place in the last few years."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 23.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved the following resolution :—

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that in view of the Barabazar Improvement Schemes which are at present under consideration by the Calcutta Improvement Trust, a member of the Marwari community be appointed at an early date on the Board of Trustees for the improvement of Calcutta, and that the Marwari Association and the Marwari Chamber of Commerce be called upon to submit names of suitable persons for the consideration of the Government."

He said :—

"My Lord, the Calcutta Improvement Trust published their Barabazar scheme about two months ago. In Barabazar there is a large number of Marwari traders and there is a Marwari Chamber of Commerce, although like the Bengal Chamber of Commerce they have not the right to return a member either to the Corporation or to the Council or to the Improvement Trust. Government have kept the right of choosing members in their own hands for the protection of minorities. The Marwari community, taking the entire population of Calcutta, is in a minority, but having regard to the importance of the Barabazar improvement scheme and the Marwari interests affected thereby I think on the present occasion Government may assign one seat to the Marwari community. It may be said that Government have already filled up the four seats they had in their hands, but it is well known that when the exigencies of the situation require it, Government somehow or other manage to provide room. I think that having regard to the fact that Government have got at present four nominees on the Trust and have recently appointed as a member of the Trust an official who has at present no interest in the affairs of the Trust, Government might provide for one member for the time being to represent the Marwari community. It may be said that the Board has the power of co-opting members in connection with particular schemes ; but it is the practice to co-opt such members in the sub-committee and not on the Board. When objections are heard to any particular scheme members are co-opted from the localities concerned and some members of the Marwari community have no doubt been co-opted in connection with some schemes in the sub-committee. My Lord, it is not the sub-committee which is the final authority but it is the Board ; and the presence of a member of the Marwari community on the Board,

Resolutions.

Rai D. C. Ghose Bahadur, Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan.

when the report of the sub-committee will come up before that body, will no doubt be a great help to the Board. I think therefore that Government might see their way to accept my motion. The late Sir Edward Baker at one time in reply to an address presented by the Marwari Association said that when the interests of that community were affected, Government would no doubt nominate a member on the Improvement Trust. The time has now come when the Barabazar scheme will be considered by the Board and I submit that Government might see their way to appoint a member of the Marwari community on the Board."

The Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I rise to support the proposal put forward by my friend the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur. It is a very modest proposal; structural improvements are contemplated on a very large scale in the areas around Barabazar and as my friend has said a large proportion of that area is peopled by Marwaris. Formerly these people hailing mostly from Rajputana had not given much evidence of education in Western knowledge; and Government never thought at least of appointing a member of this community on such civic bodies as the Corporation and the Improvement Trust, but of late the Marwaris are rapidly making up this deficiency, and this deficiency is also supplemented by their energy and business habits in acquiring money. They are now a very prosperous community; and it is right that they should be taken notice of and not eschewed. I think, therefore, that some room might be made as suggested by my friend the Mover of this resolution. As I gather from the tenour of this speech, when the Improvement Trust will extend their operations, as is contemplated, over the Barabazar area, it will be time enough to put on the Trust a gentleman interested in that area and I think some room might be made by asking the holder of a seat recently appointed to retire for some time. That is what I gather my friend's meaning to be; but whatever course Government might be pleased to adopt I think there should be some recognition of the interests of the Marwari community in the Barabazar scheme.

The Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan said :—

"My Lord, I can very well sympathise with the desire of the Marwari community to have from among them a member on the Improvement Trust when the Barabazar scheme comes up. But I must confess, my Lord, that the arguments put forward by the Hon'ble Mover of this resolution or the Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur who has followed him, have not convinced me of the necessity of putting a Marwari gentleman on the Board. It has been said by the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur that it is a practice with Government that whenever any special measures come up experts are put in the Council. I do not know, my Lord, if in connection with the Barabazar scheme a Marwari gentleman of the locality interested in the scheme could be termed as an expert and for that purpose whether the mover of this resolution would be justified in asking the Government to remove one of the nominated members of the Trust in order to make room for a Marwari gentleman.

Then, my Lord, we have heard the Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur mentioning that the Marwari community is an influential body. I do not challenge this, but, my Lord, I thought yesterday when speaking on the motion for the withdrawal of the Municipal Bill both the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur and Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur were advocates against special electorates and this is a question more or less of pleading for a special community on the Trust. I frankly admit I am unable to follow such contradictory arguments. My Lord, whilst I do not wish in any way to belittle the importance of the vested interest that the Marwari community have in Calcutta what I do feel, however, is this :

Resolutions.

Rai R. C. Pal Bahadur.

that the Government would not be justified for the reasons given by the Rai Bahadur to remove a nominated member from the Trust in order to make room for a Marwari gentleman. Under section 4 of the Act it is laid down that the Board shall consist of 11 trustees, viz., a Chairman, the Chairman of the Corporation, three other members of the Corporation, a member of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce and four other persons ; and these four are those that are nominated by the Government. As I have already said there is no vacancy at present ; and according to the wording of the Act we cannot appoint 12 members. But when the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said that members could be co-opted only for sitting on the sub-committee, I think he must have overlooked section 19, which says that the Board may associate with themselves in such manner and for such period as may be prescribed by rules made under so and so any persons whose assistance they may desire in carrying out any of the provisions of the Act. So I think the best thing for him would be to get the Improvement Trust to appoint a Marwari gentleman to act as a co-opted member on the Board and not on the sub-committee so that the difficulty he apprehends could easily be got over. If, of course, on the other hand the Rai Bahadur feels so keenly for the Marwari community to be represented he might perhaps be sporting enough to make room by retiring as a member of the Corporation and to allow a Marwari gentleman to come in his place. But I do not think that the Government would be justified in removing one of the nominated members from the Improvement Trust. For all these reasons, I am unable to accept this resolution."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I am quite aware of the provision which has been referred to by the Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan. But the difficulty is that it is so difficult to persuade a masterful person like Mr. Bompas to co-opt a Marwari gentleman on the Board. If we could do that, there would not have been any necessity for moving this resolution.

Then, my Lord, the Hon'ble the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan used an unhappy expression "remove." I never meant that a Government nominee should be removed, but what I meant was that, as I know from experience in the Council, Government might, in view of the requirements of the situation, make some arrangements by which some room might be made for a member of the Marwari community. Quite recently there has been a member nominated by the Government. Government have got four nominations and they always look to the interests of the minority, that is the reason why the suggestion had been made.

As regards the graceful suggestion made by the Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur that if I am so keen for the representation of the Marwari community, I might retire in favour of a Marwari member. I do not know whether it is the voice of somebody behind the Hon'ble Member which prompted the suggestion. However that may be, I know that nothing would give some persons greater pleasure than to see me out of the Board. But I have this satisfaction that people want me to be there.

The motion was then put and lost.

Adjournment.

The Council was adjourned sine die.

REPORT ON FAMINE IN THE DISTRICT OF BANKURA FOR THE WEEK ENDING 19TH JULY 1919.

DURING the week the rainfall was general but scanty. More rain is wanted for transplantation on high land. Sixty-seven works were open during the week. The number of persons relieved on works was 3,917. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief was 21,130, viz., 16,054 on cash doles in 124 unions, 3,683 on paddy-husking advances, 853 weavers and 540 better class poor. The total number of persons relieved was 25,047. The decrease in the number of persons on relief works was due to the diversion of workers to agricultural operations, while the increase in numbers on gratuitous relief was due to the extension of relief to nine new unions. No further extension of gratuitous relief centres is expected. The number of persons relieved on private works was 650. Also four charitable societies relieved 1,527 other persons by rice doles. The physical condition of workers and public health are generally good. Sporadic cases of cholera are reported. Cloth is being distributed to destitutes. The relief measures are adequate. The price of common rice varies from 5⅝ to 5¼ seers per rupee. Burma rice is being sold by the District Board.

APPOINTMENT OF A COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER CERTAIN QUESTIONS CONNECTED WITH THE CONSTITUTION AND FUNCTIONS OF TEXT-BOOK COMMITTEES IN BENGAL.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Education Branch.

CALCUTTA, THE 29TH JULY 1919.

RESOLUTION—No. 1286Edn.

THE Governor in Council has decided to appoint a Committee consisting of the following gentlemen to advise Government on certain questions connected with the constitution and functions of text-book committees in Bengal :—

(1) Mr. T. O. D. Dunn, Secretary, Calcutta Text-book Committee (President).
(2) Mr. W. E. Griffith, Secretary, Dacca Text-book Committee.
(3) The Hon'ble Babu Brojendra Kishore Roy Chowdhury.
(4) The Hon'ble Dr. A. Suhrawardy.
(5) Babu G. C. Bose, Principal, Bangabasi College, Calcutta.
(6) Babu S. C. Bose, Head Master, Mitra Institution, Bhowanipur.
(7) Babu S. C. Sanyal, Secretary, Calcutta Historical Society.
(8) Babu Santosh Kumar Lahiri of Messrs. S. K. Lahiri & Co., Calcutta.
(9) Babu Bama Charan Auddy of Messrs. S. C. Auddy & Co., Calcutta.
(10) Babu Brojendra Mohan Dutt of the Students' Library, Dacca.
(11) Mr. J. W. Gunn, Assistant Director of Public Instruction, Bengal (Secretary).

2. The questions on which the Committee are asked to advise are as follows :—

(i) The constitution and functions of a Text-book Committee.
(ii) The determination of a definition of a satisfactory text-book for middle and primary schools.
(iii) The principles on which the Education Department should proceed to curtail the list of text-books for middle and primary schools and the possibility of preventing a list of excessive length in future.

ORDER.—Ordered that the resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, that copies with copies of the letter from the Government of India, Department of Education, No. 175, dated the 12th February 1919, be forwarded to the President and members of the Committee for information.

Ordered also that a copy be forwarded to the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, for information.

By order of the Governor in Council,

S. W. GOODE,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Forecast of the Summer Til Crop of Bengal, 1919-20.

(Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1916-17, the area under til in Bengal has represented about 4·8 per cent. of the total area under til in British India.)

Character of the season.—The scarcity of rain from the sowing time up till the middle of April proved very unfavourable to the crop throughout the province. As a consequence, the growth of the crop was retarded in most places. Considerable damage, due to drought, is reported from many districts, notably from Jessore, Burdwan, Hooghly, Howrah, Pabna and Noakhali. Good showers in the latter part of April somewhat improved the prospects. In the following two months, the rainfall, though on the whole defective, was generally helpful to the growth of the crop. On the whole the weather has not been generally favourable for the crop.

Acreage.—The total area sown with the crop this year is reported to be 167,300 acres as compared with 168,900 acres (revised) last year.

Outturn.—According to the estimates of district officers, the average outturn of the crop for the province works out at 76 per cent. of the normal this year against 70 per cent. last year. Taking the normal yield at $6\frac{1}{8}$ maunds per acre, the gross outturn for the province is estimated at 28,600 tons against 26,600 tons (revised) last year or an increase of about 7·5 per cent.

Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

CALCUTTA TRADE FLUCTUATIONS.

THE following tables are intended to show the trade by all routes, i.e., by rail, river, canal, road, and sea, of the Calcutta block* in certain selected articles during the months of April and May, 1919, as compared with the corresponding period of 1918 and 1917. The statistics have been compiled from returns furnished by the Collector of Customs, Calcutta, Railway Audit Offices, Steamer Companies, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, the Collectors of the 24-Parganas and Howrah, and the Assistant Engineer, Calcutta Canals.

General Summary.

Imports.—The imports of rice, including paddy†, into Calcutta by rail, river, canal, road, and sea (coastwise) during the months of April and May, 1919, amounted to 4,294,000 maunds, as against 2,317,000 maunds in the corresponding period of the preceding year,—an increase of 85 per cent. There was an increase (55 per cent) in the imports of coal and coke (17,679,000 maunds as against 11,388,000 maunds last year). The imports by rail, river, road, and sea (coastwise) of Indian cotton piecegoods showed an increase of 96 per cent, the total value amounting to Rs. 1,14,15,000 as against Rs. 58,07,000 in 1918. The quantity of indigo imported during the months of April and May, 1919, decreased from 3,000 maunds to 112 maunds. The imports of raw jute amounted to 398,000 bales as against 525,000 bales,—a decrease of 24 per cent. The importations of gunny bags also showed a decrease of 33 per cent (46 million bags as against 69 millions in the preceding year). The total imports of oilseeds (linseed and rape and mustard seed) increased by 60 per cent from 986,000 maunds to 1,580,000 maunds. The imports of sugar decreased by 10 per cent from 148,000 maunds to 133,000 maunds and those of tea by 5 per cent from 309,000 maunds to 292,000 maunds.

Exports.—The exports of cotton piecegoods, foreign, from Calcutta by all routes during the months of April and May, 1919, increased by 24 per cent (Rs. 5,46,70,000 as against Rs. 4,39,72,000 last year). The exports of gunny bags (including the exports by sea to foreign countries) decreased from 203 million bags to 182 million bags. The quantity of kerosene oil despatched from Calcutta and Budge-Budge by internal routes and by sea (coastwise) decreased from 801,000 maunds to 675,000 maunds, or by 16 per cent.

* The Calcutta block consists of the town of Calcutta with Howrah and Kidderpore Docks.

† One maund of paddy is equivalent to 25 seers of rice.

1. The Port Commissioners are prepared to place wagons when available at the disposal of merchants and others for conveyance of goods to and from such points on their Railway as they may notify from time to time, on condition that the counting in and out of wagons, loading and unloading will be done by the owners of the goods.

2. The Port Commissioners will not accept any liability for the non-supply of wagons.

3. A freight charge according to schedule, subject to a minimum charge of ten tons per wagon, is levied in the case of wagons hauled to or from places outside the Northern Section. If wagons requisitioned for are not used on the date for which they are requisitioned, a charge of Rs. 5 per wagon will be made provided such wagons are placed in position before 15-30 hours; if placed after that hour the charge will only become due if the wagons are not used by the intending party on the following day.

4. Demurrage will also be charged as under :—

The free time allowed for Port Commissioners' wagons supplied for loading or placed for unloading is 6 hours of daylight, subject to the proviso that stock placed between 12 and 14 hours is to be released or loaded by 18 hours on the same day. For wagons detained beyond the free time, a demurrage charge of Re. 1 per wagon per hour detained between 6 hours and 18 hours and annas 8 per hour detained between 18 hours and 6 hours will be levied.

Fractions of an hour below 30 minutes will be dropped, fractions 30 minutes and over will be taken as a full hour.

Sundays, Good Friday and X'mas day are considered dies-non.

5. Freight in all cases must be prepaid, except when specially arranged otherwise.

6. The Port Commissioners reserve to themselves the right of charging as per consignor's challan or selling weights, or of weighing each consignment as also of correcting any errors in charges, invoices, etc.

7. For further particulars application should be made to the officer-in-local charge.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

No. 2509.—The following despatch by His Excellency General Sir Charles Carmichael Monro, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., G.C.M.G., A.-D.-C., Commander-in-Chief in India, on the part played by India, including the Indian States, in the prosecution of the war, which appeared in the the London Gazette dated the 28th July 1919, is published for general information :—

Dated Delhi, the 19th March 1919.

From—GENERAL SIR CHARLES C. MONRO, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., G.C.M.G., A.-D.-C., Commander-in-Chief in India.

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Army Department.

IN continuation of my despatch dated 20th August 1918, I have the honour to submit the following brief review of the part played by India, including the Native States, in the prosecution of the war :—

INTRODUCTORY.

2. The strength of the Army in India at the outbreak of war was approximately 77,000 British and 159,000 Indian ranks, exclusive of 38,000 Volunteers and 35,000 Indian reservists. Judged by pre-war standards, these numbers are large; but, if the services rendered by India in the early stages of the war are to be assessed at their full value, it is important to emphasise that this force was in no sense a potential reserve to the armed forces of the British Empire. As the Government of India are aware, the primary functions of the pre-war Army in India were two-fold, namely, the maintenance of order within and on the borders of British India, and, secondly, the provision of a field army capable, should the necessity arise, of undertaking a campaign beyond the border for purposes of defence against external aggression. The Army in India was in no sense maintained for meeting external obligations of an Imperial character.

3. It is true that there have been many precedents for the employment of small contingents from India in support of Imperial interests in other parts of the world, but it has never been the policy to maintain troops in India in excess of those actually required for the protection of her own interests; and as the strength of the Army in India has hitherto been governed by these considerations alone, no appreciable contingent could be furnished for employment overseas without involving considerable risk. At the same time it was recognised that in the event of an emergency threatening the integrity of the Empire, the Government of India might be called upon to accept this risk with the object of adding to our strength at the decisive point: the Army was therefore organised and equipped, as far as was compatible with its main rôle, so as to be capable of affording ready co-operation in such direction as His Majesty's Government might indicate. Only a few days before the outbreak of war, the conclusion had been arrived at and communicated in a despatch to the Secretary of State that, provided conditions were normal in India and on her frontiers, the Army Council could usually rely on India to provide a force of two divisions and one cavalry brigade, and that, in circumstances of special urgency, it might be possible, though at some risk, to provide an additional division.

4. The outbreak of war occurred at an inconvenient juncture for, purposes of mobilisation and the despatch of forces overseas. A large proportion of the British troops were located in summer quarters in the hills, in many cases at long distances from the railway; the Indian troops were largely on leave; and a large number of British officers were at home on furlough, 530 of whom were detained on the outbreak of war for employment under the War Office. Moreover, the incidence of the monsoon season was a severe handicap to Indian troops, the bulk of whom had never before crossed the ocean. In spite of these difficulties no time was lost in mobilising the required forces and requisitioning the necessary sea transport.

5. The first request for troops received from His Majesty's Government was for two infantry divisions and one cavalry brigade for garrison duty in Egypt and the Soudan. The 3rd and 7th Divisions and 9th Cavalry Brigade were accordingly mobilised and made ready for despatch overseas; but, in informing the Secretary of State of these arrangements, it was urged that the relegation of these troops to garrison duty would be keenly felt by the men themselves, and that it was most desirable from every point of view that India should be represented on the European front. The destination of the contingent was accordingly changed to Marseilles. At the same time a request was received for a complete cavalry division, and subsequently for a second cavalry division, instead of the one cavalry brigade originally asked for; these were at once placed under orders, and the first convoy transporting the contingent to France sailed from Bombay on the 25th August, i.e., within three weeks of the declaration of war. The bulk of the force had disembarked at Marseilles before the end of September, and less than a month later were action in Flanders. The total strength of the original contingent despatched to France amounted approximately to 16,000 British and 28,500 Indian ranks.

6. A request was also received within the first few days of the war for the preparation of a mixed force, including six battalions, to deal with German East Africa, and for three additional battalions for the protection of Zanzibar and the Mombasa-Nairobi railway, the operation of the latter being controlled by the Colonial Office. The despatch of the former was somewhat delayed by shortage of shipping and the difficulty of providing naval escort,—(the German cruisers Emden and Konigsberg were at this period at large and the former had appeared off Madras on the night of the 22nd-23rd September)—but the force eventually arrived at Mombasa on the 31st October, and sailed for Tanga next day. One of the three battalions for British East Africa sailed on 19th August, and was in action at Tsavo on 6th September. With the arrival of the remaining two battalions the two forces were amalgamated under one command. The strength of these two contingents, which contained a large proportion of Imperial Service Troops, amounted approximately to 1,500 British and 10,250 Indian ranks.

7. In the meantime, the threatening attitude of Turkey had made it necessary to take steps for the protection of the Abadan pipe-line, and it was decided to dospatch a brigade of the 6th Division (which had been mobilised in anticipation of further demands) to demonstrate at the head of the Persian Gulf, without, however, taking hostile action. This brigade embarked on the 16th October, and arrived at Bahrein on the 23rd. With the declaration of war against Turkey a week later, the brigade was ordered to take Fao, and a second brigade was placed under orders to support it. The remainder of the 6th Division sailed for the Shatt-al-Arab on the 20th November. The strength of this advanced guard of the Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force amounted approximately to 4,500 British and 12,000 Indian ranks.

8. A further commitment was accepted by the Government ot India in despatching to Egypt, at the request of His Majesty's Government, a force of six infantry brigades (including one composed of Imperial Service troops) and one Imperial Service Cavalry Brigade. While en route to Suez one of .these infantry brigades took part in the action at Sheikh Saad on 10th November. These troops, numbering approximately 1,500 British and 27,250 Indian ranks, disembarked in Egypt during November and December. A small Indian contingent also co-operated with the Japanese in the attack on the German naval base at Tsing-tao in North China.

9. In addition to the organised forces despatched at France, East Africa, Mesopotamia and Egypt, 32 British Infantry battalions and 20 batteries of artillery, aggregating 35,500 British ranks, were sent independently to England to facilitate the expansion of the army at home, and were gradually replaced by 35 Territorial battalions and 29 Territorial field batteries. The small residue of the pre-war British regular garrison was concentrated in formations on the North-West Frontier, while the Territorial units underwent a course of intensive training. These latter fully proved their fighting value during the later stages of the war; but for the time being they had much to learn as regards warfare under the novel conditions of a country like India. Thus, by the close of 1914, India was maintaining four overseas forces amounting in the aggregate to over 100,000 men of all ranks. and had in addition exchanged 35,500 of her best British regular troops for an equivalent number of semi-trained Territorials with inferior armament and equipment. Moreover, the stock of rifles in India had been reduced to a very low figure by demands from the field and by the transfer to the War Office of a large number which were under manufacture in England. The number of mobile guns had similarly been reduced from 474 to 270, and necessitated the reorganization of batteries on a 4-gun basis.

10. This situation was rendered possible in a large measure by the absence of serious disorder on the frontiers. His late Majesty the Amir of Afghanistan maintained an attitude of strict neutrality, which was reflected in the attitude of the frontier tribes generally. Sporadic attempts to stir up fanatical feeling were, however, reported towards the close of 1914 from the Tochi Valley and the Mohmand country (involving the employment of a part of the 2nd Division); some minor punitive operations were also rendered necessary on the North-East Frontier to deal with some long-standing unrest among the Kachins. In spite of the entry of Turkey into the war occasioning grave concern among the Muhammadans of India, the internal situation remained calm, and though a few isolated signs of unrest manifested themselves in different parts of the country, these were for the most part traceable to German influence and propaganda, and were promptly dealt with. Viewed as a whole, the general situation within and on the borders of India appeared to justify the risk which had been taken in depleting the country of so important a part of its armed strength and in introducing so large an untrained element into the British garrison.

11. As the Government of India are aware, the outbreak of war had been the signal for a remarkable and spontaneous demonstration of enthusiasm throughout the country, accompanied by practical expressions of loyalty in the shape of offers of assistance of every kind. Ruling Chiefs placed their troops and treasure unreservedly at the disposal of the Government and a constant stream of gifts in money and kind flowed in from every section of the community. There was, in fact, a general rally of every grade of European and Indian society. The ladies of India found an outlet for their energies in the various associations which were formed for the relief of distress, the care of the sick and wounded, and the provision of comforts for the troops in the field. A number of Indian gentlemen came forward to offer their assistance in safeguarding the interests of the Indian soldier on service by enquiring into petitions received from the field, attending to the needs of his family, and in various other ways: and a number of others offered their services in the task of explaining the issues of the war to the more ignorant classes, steadying public opinion, and combating hostile intrigue and propaganda. These and various other activities, in which much unobtrusive but valuable service was rendered by individual workers, continued to develop in scope, volume and effect throughout the whole period of the war.

12. In many respects 1915 was the most critical period of the war as far as India was concerned. The outstanding feature of the year was the growing importance of the campaign in Mesopotamia, involving a steadily increasing demand for men and material at a time when the armed forces of the country had been reduced to a dangerously low level. The year was, in fact, one of strenuous endeavour to comply with demands which constantly threatened to outpace the ability of the country to meet them. During the year contingents from India were engaged in France and Belgium, in Egypt, in Gallipoli, in Mesopotamia, in South and East Persia, in East Africa, in the Cameroons, in the Aden Hinterland, in Somaliland and on the North-West and North-East Frontiers of India, besides garrisons at several colonial stations. The mere enumeration of these theatres will convey some idea of the complex nature of the problem which confronted those responsible for the provision of the necessary men and material.

13. The rapid expansion of the British Army at home made it possible towards the close of the year to release the Indian Army Corps from France. The Corps had helped to tide over an anxious period and had fought at Festubert, Neuvechapelle, Loos and the Second Battle of Ypres; but now that British troops were available to take their place, it was felt that they could be used to better advantage under more congenial climatic conditions. Their employment in a theatre nearer India would, moreover, effect an appreciable saving in sea transport and generally ease the administrative difficulties inseparable from the maintenance of a force so far from its base of supply. The Corps accordingly embarked in November and December for Mesopotamia. The two cavalry divisions were, however, retained in France.

14. From the small beginnings narrated in paragraph 7, the 1915 campaign in Mesopotamia assumed a character of the greatest importance to India, since its reaction was felt all over Persia and, indeed, throughout the East. Moreover, it was in this direction that India, by reason of her geographical position, could contribute most effectually. It is outside the scope of this brief review to trace the sequence of events which led up to the gradual development of the operations; these are already well known to the Government of India. Suffice it to say that early in the year urgent representations from His Majesty's Government led to the increase of the force from one division to the strength of two divisions and one cavalry brigade; one infantry brigade was obtained from Egypt, but the remainder of these additional troops were provided from India, and had reached Basrah by the end of March. In the autumn, two more brigades were sent from India, and towards the close of the year the leading units of the Indian Army Corps from France began to arrive in the country. The provision of these additional formations from the depleted garrison of India was a matter of grave concern, and was only made possible by the promise of His Majesty's Goverment to send a number of British Garrison Battalions from home for second line duty in India. By the close of the year the Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force had grown from the strength of a single division to over 50,000 fighting men.

15. It was soon apparent that the Expeditionary Force in German East Africa would continue to draw largely upon India for men and material. Some of the units which had suffered severely in the early stages of the campaign were withdrawn to India and replaced by fresh units, and four additional battalions were despatched during the year. But the chief burden imposed by the East African campaign at this period, and, indeed throughout the war, was the replacement of wastage rather than the provision of complete units; in certain cases demands were received for draft reinforcements amounting to over fifty per cent. of establishment before the unit had been three months in the country. The Government of India will appreciate the difficulty with which such demands were met at a time when the recruiting organization was still undeveloped, and when France, Gallipoli and Mesopotamia were making constant and heavy calls on the trained manhood of the country.

16. No additional troops, other than draft reinforcements, were sent to Egypt during the year. The force was, in reduced by the transfer of six battalions to Gallipoli, and two brigades to Mesopotamia, one of which was also employed for a few months to reinforce the garrison at Aden. Three battalions were also sent independently from Egypt to France.

17. In minor theatres, the year brought several lesser commitments. In theatres outside the Indian sphere small contingents were employed in the Cameroons and Somaliland; within the Indian sphere, the incursion of a Turkish force into the Aden Protectorate involved the organization of a small force for the protection of the Fortress; and in the Gulf of Oman, minor operations were rendered necessary at Musqat, Jask, and Chahbar. Early in the year German agents began to shew great activity in Persia, and missions under leadership of Neidermeyer and Seiler were despatched from Berlin vid Baghdad. To counteract the activities of these missions, which reached Persia in May, a cordon of troops was established, in conjunction with the Russians, in East Persia.

18. Throughout the year the situation on the North-West Frontier of India was somewhat unsettled as the result of hostile activities among the tribesmen, the Haji of Turangzai and the Hindustani Fanatics being particularly troublesome centres of intrigue. Operations became necessary in Baluchistan, the Tochi Valley, the Mohmand Border, Swat, Buner and the Black Mountain, on a scale which involved the employment of the whole of the 1st and part of the 2nd Divisions. Throughout the year, also, a coterie of disaffected Indians, acting as hostile agents and directing their operations from overseas, endeavoured with small success to sow disaffection among the troops and to create internal disorder. A disquieting feature was a wave of unrest in the Punjab; this, however, was firmly suppressed and has in no way tarnished the record of the Province as the most productive recruiting area in the country. Repeated efforts were made under German guidance to ship arms to India vid Batavia and Siam, but were frustrated by the vigilance of the police, not only in India itself, but at Shanghai, Singapore and Bangkok. In this and many other connections relating to India's military activities, I have always been able to rely on the civil, naval, and military authorities at Singapore, and particularly on Major-General D. H. Ridout, C.B., C.M.G., Commanding the Troops, for the most cordial co-operation and unceasing vigilance on our behalf. The mutiny at Singapore was an ugly incident which, though occurring outside India, had an unsettling effect. The year was thus one of anxiety both within and on the borders of India, more especially as the constant demand for reinforcements overseas reduced the proportion of internal security troops to what, according to pre-war standards, was dangerously below the safety level.

19. By the spring of 1915, the whole of the Territorial contingent from home had reached India; but the intervention of the hot weather makes training a slower process in India than elsewhere, and it was not till towards the close of the year that they could be regarded as in any sense a substitute for the troops they had replaced. Their steady improvdment was, however, a reassuring element in the situation. The Army also received a valuable acquisition of strength in the shape of six Nepalese battalions—increased nine months later to ten—which the Nepal Durbar generously placed at the disposal of the Government of India for the period of the war. But the backbone of the Army in India at the period was the small contingent of British and Indian Regular troops, who, though precluded from sharing in the honours won by their comrades overseas, played a no less efficient and important part in the attainment of the common end by guarding the frontiers of India with a vigilance and devotion to duty which enabled the training of the Territorial units to proceed without interruption and the Indian Army to expand in a measure never before contemplated. It is due to these units that I should mention them by name, and I therefore append a list of those which were retained in India throughout the whole period of the war:—

British—

21st (Empress of India's) Lancers.
M. Battery, R. H. A.

4th, 38th, 74th, 77th, 79th, 89th, 90th, 101st and 102nd Batteries, R. F. A.

1st Battalion, 86th Carnatic Infantry.
2nd Battalion, 1st King George's Own Gurkha Rifles.
No. 11 Company, 2nd Queen Victoria's Own Sappers and Miners.

20. Meanwhile, it was fully appreciated that the war would be a long and tedious one. It is important to emphasise here that whereas the pre-war policy of His Majesty's Government required of India that she should be prepared merely for a hill campaign beyond her frontiers, the general policy of the Empire on the outbreak of war dictated a concentration of effort towards the strengthening of our position in Europe and the North Sea. The energies of India had therefore been directed towards this common object, expenditure on subsidiary projects being reduced to the lowest possible limits; hence, the decision of His Majesty's Government to develop the campaign in Mesopotamia far beyond the limits orginally assigned to it presented a problem of great difficulty and involved a re-adjustment of the financial, commercial, manufacturing and military resources of India. It must be remembered also that at this period the resources of the United Kingdom were required almost exclusively to meet demands of the British forces in Europe, and the various Indian contingents enumerated in paragraph 12 were therefore dependent chiefly on India as their base of supply. The wide variety of climatic and other conditions under which these contingents were serving was in itself a source of extreme difficulty and taxed the resources of India to the utmost. In July 1915 the munition-making resources of the country were first co-ordinated by the Railway Board, which employed a special staff to supervise and develop the output. Much use was made in this way of the capacity of the railway workshops, in which considerable quantities of shell cases were manufactured, as well as a great variety of miscellaneous articles which could not be produced by the Ordnance and other Government factories.

21. Except in Mesopotamia, where the campaign continued to grow in scope and importance and called for a determined redoubling of effort, the year brought no outstanding developments as far as the Army in India was concerned. The Indian contingent in France, already reduced by the withdrawal of the Indian Army Corps at the end of 1915, was further reduced in June 1916 by the transfer of the Meerut Cavalry Brigade to Mesopotamia; but at the request of His Majesty's Government, India undertook two additional responsibilities in France with the object of conserving British manpower in that theatre, viz., the provision of a monthly draft of artillery drivers and the raising of a large number of labour corps for work behind the line. These latter, aggregating some 28,000 men, were formed with great rapidity by Local Governments. They represented a wide variety of race, creed and language, including numbers from the remotest confines of India, such for example as Kukis, Manipuries, Khasif and Garos from the borders of Assam, Chins from the hills of Burma, and Santalis and aboriginos from Chota Nagpur. The rapidity with which these men were enlisted and organized under specially selected officers who knew and understood them reflects the greatest credit on the Local Governments concerned. To provide reinforcements for Mesopotamia, the Indian contingent in Egypt was reduced to the strength of one cavalry and two infantry brigades, and the abandonment of the Dardanelles campaign also set free the Indian units in that theatre for the same purpose. In East Africa no important developments occurred, but the rate of wastage continued to rule high and was a constant source of anxiety.

22. Throughout the year, the chief responsibilities of India were centred in the Mesopotamian campaign. In addition to the 3rd (Lahore) and 7th (Meerut) Divisions, which reached Basrah early in the year, a reinforcement of five additional battalions was sent from India and three infantry brigades were mobilised in readiness to proceed if and when troops were received from England or Egypt to replace them. At the same time the 13th British Division in Egypt was placed under orders by the War Office to proceed to Mesopotamia. As the Government of India are aware, only a portion of these troops arrived in time to take part in the operations for the relief of Kut-el-Amrah. The loss of prestige associated with the failure of these operations was much less than might have been expected, a circumstance which can be attributed to the stubborn defence offered by the besieged garrison, and to the gallantry, self-sacrifice and endurance of the troops who had endeavoured to relieve them.

23. The fall of Kut was followed by a period of reorganisation preparatory to the resumption of operations by more deliberate methods. The force was reorganised into two Army Corps and a cavalry division, the latter being completed by the Meerut Cavalry Brigade, which sailed from France at the end of June. Immediate steps were taken to reconstitute the fourteen Indian battalions which had been lost in Kut; six of the were raised in Mesopotamia by means of drafts, and the remainder in India. Steps were also taken to relieve with fresh troops from India some of the units which had been continuously on service since the beginning of the war and which had suffered severely in the relief operations; three additional battalions were also sent from India for garrison duty on the Lines of Communication.

24. An important change also took place in the system under which the force was controlled and administered. It had been decided in February that the control of operations in Mesopotamia should be exercised by the War Office through the Commander-in-Chief in India, the chief provisions of this arrangement being:—

(a) that the Commander-in-Chief would receive his instructions with regard to military operations from the Chief of the Imperial General Staff under the authority of the Secretary of State for War in exactly the same manner as Commanders-in-Chief in other theatres;

(b) that India would remain the main base of the force which would continue to be administered by the Commander-in-Chief in India, such requirements of the force as India could not meet being supplied by the War Office from other parts of the Empire, subject to the general policy at the time being decided upon by the War Committee; and

(c) that the Chief of the Imperial General Staff and the Commander-in-Chief in India would correspond direct in regard to the requirements of the force in Mesopotamia, but all questions of principle or policy likely to affect the military or internal security of India or the political situation in Persia or the Gulf would continue to be referred by the Commander-in-Chief to His Excellency the Viceroy.

In July this control was extended also to the administration of the force i.e., that India continued to be its main base of supply, but that the Commander-in-Chief became responsible to the Army Council, instead of to the Government of India, for the provision of the necessary personnel, supplies and material.

25. In minor theatres within the Indian sphere, the chief event was the despatch of a mission to South Persia at the request of the then Persian Government with the object of restoring and maintaining order, and of creating the force known as the South Persia Rifles. In conjunction with the Russians a small force was also maintained throughout the year in East Persia, to frustrate the activities of hostile agents in the direction of Afganistan and India. At Aden, no events of importance occurred, though the Turkish column remained in the vicinity of the fortress.

26. In spite of the Arab revolt and the fall of Kut, both of which events might have been expected to produce an unsettling effect on the border tribesmen, the situation on the North-West Frontier of India gave less anxiety than in the previous year. A small column from the 4th Division suppressed without difficulty some local disturbance in Baluchistan and it became necessary in October to institute a strict blockade against the Mohmand tribes whose uncompromising attitude continued to be a source of annoyance. Elsewhere the frontier remained quiet. Though there was some recrudescence of anarchy in Bengal the internal situation also showed a general improvement.

27. The sixteen garrison battalions which arrived from home during the year brought a valuable acquisition of strength to the Army in India, for not only did they set free sufficient Territorial and Indian battalions to add a much needed division to the Field Army, but they greatly facilitated the task of reinforcing British units overseas. The territorial battalions had by this time acquired a high standard of efficiency, and though there had as yet been no occasion to employ them in operations on the Indian frontier, the seven battalions which had been sent to Mesopotamia soon proved their quality.

28. Great strides were made in India during the year in the development and co-ordination of military effort. The rapid expansion of the force in Mesopotamia had emphasised the difficulty of maintaining a modern army in a tropical country, devoid of supplies, with undeveloped means of communication, and with no proper port of entry. The energies of the Railway Board which still controlled the manufacturing war industries, were concentrated on the betterment of these conditions; and before the end of the year the port of Basrah had grown from an undeveloped riverside into an efficient base; Basrah and Nasariyeh had been linked up by metre-gauge, and Qurnah and Amarah by narrow gauge, track; and 24 miles of light railway had been constructed close to the fighting front. The large bulk of the river craft sent to Mesopotamia during the year was provided by India, and the whole of the railway material and personnel.

29. In October, a very considerable expansion was effected in our recruiting arrangements, which henceforward were organised on a territorial, instead of a class, basis and from the beginning yielded good results. For the first two years of the war recruitment had been conducted on pre-war lines, through the agency of Recruiting Officers appointed for each class, irrespective of the civil administrative divisions. Non-combatants were obtained by the Branch or Department concerned, with the result that each was in competition with others, and varied terms were prescribed, even for men of the same class similarly employed. In October 1916 the entire control of recruitment for all services was vested in the Adjutant-General and radical changes were introduced without delay. Henceforward all recruitment was conducted on a strictly territorial basis; the local recruiting staff was organised; and recruitment of all classes, both combatant, and non-combatant, was brought into close relation. The result was immediate. The strength of the Mesopotamia Expeditionary Force alone had risen to over 120,000, at the close of the year, and that of the Army in India to 79,000 British and 177,500 Indian ranks. The permanent wastage in Mesopotamia at this period was 2,300 a month, and in India, 3,500 a month; and it was calculated that a total monthly increase to the army of 11,750 fighting men and 8,250 followers was necessary in order to meet our various commitments overseas. The enlistment of labourers on a large scale was also inaugurated in 1916, especially for France and Mesopotamia, and was extended to a number of classes which had hitherto never been tapped for military purposes.

30. During 1917, the chief events of the year were still centred in Mesopotamia; elsewhere no important developments occurred as far as Indian Expeditionary Forces were concerned. In France, the non-combatant strength of the Indian contingent was increased by over 200 per cent by the despatch of the 54 Labour Corps from India referred to in paragraph 21. Notwithstanding the strange surroundings into which they were suddenly transported and the trying climatic conditions to which they were subjected. these men rendered a good account of themselves and some of the corps especially distinguished themselves under fire during the German offensive the following year.

31. The strength of the contingent in Egypt was increased by four Indian battalions during the year, three of which were raised locally by the despatch of drafts; and, at the request of His Majesty's Government, nine Territorial battalions were also sent to Egypt. East Africa continued to make heavy demands for draft reinforcements in proportion to the number of units employed, but an important advance was made during the year towards the successful conclusion of the campaign. Three Imperial Service Battalions, which had been serving in the country continuously for three years, were withdrawn to India to rest and refit. In addition to drafts, one cavalry regiment, one battery of mountain guns and three battalions were sent as complete units during the year.

32. In Mesopotamia, the series of operations which culminated in the capture of Baghdad completely transformed the military situation, and produced political effects of far-reaching importance. India's share in the achievement of this important success consisted in the provision of over three-quarters of the force employed, over three-quarters of the rivercraft, and the whole of the railway material and personnel, without which the operations would have been impossible. Of the 86 battalions included in the force at the date of the capture of Baghdad, India had contributed 73, and all but 2 of the 43 squadrons of cavalry.

33. Before the end of the year, a further important contribution had been made. The disintegration of Russia had impaired the fighting efficiency of the Russian troops, and, in the absence of any co-operation from that quarter, it became necessary to provide some substantial reinforcement for the Mesopotamia Expeditionary Force. Steps were accordingly taken to form two additional infantry divisions and one cavalry brigade. Certain of the technical units for these formations were obtained from home or by redistribution within the force, but the whole of the infantry and cavalry, and the personnel and horses for two brigades of field artillery were provided by India; in addition, one cavalry regiment and ten infantry battalions were sent to Mesopotamia as unallotted units. At the close of the year the force had reached its maximum strength of over 420,000, including followers.

34. Except on the North-West Frontier of India, no important events occurred in the minor theatres. An active defence was maintained af Aden throughout the year; and in South and East Persia several minor operations were undertaken against raiders, robber bands and gun-runners. In March the force at Bushire, which had hitherto been part of the Mesopotamia Expeditionary Force, passed, under the orders of His Majesty's Government, to the direct control of the Government of India. On the North-West Frontier of India, important and successful operations were undertaken against the Mahsuds in Waziristan, lasting from March to August; these operations, have been dealt with separateiy in my despatch dated 20th December 1917, involved the employment of part of the 2nd and 16th Divisions, as well as the troops of the Derajat and Bannu Brigades. In July the Mohmands came to terms, and the blockade was raised. Elsewhere activity on the frontier was confined to dealing with trans-border raids. The internal situation remained calm throughout the year.

35. Meanwhile, important strides were made in the provision of facilities for rapid training and in the expansion of the army. Five garrison battalions were received from home during the year, and 55 new battalions were raised in India, besides a large number of technical and administrative units. The receipt during the spring of 159,000 rifles greatly facilitated the training of these new troops. Other notable features were the increasing and successful enrolment of labour, both skilled and unskilled; the enlistment of companies of ex-sepoys for garrison duty in India; the rapid expansion of the Indian Army Reserve of Officers, the establishment of Followers'

Depôts; and the creation of Technical Training Schools, such, for example, as those for railway signallers, maring engine drivers, mechanical transport drivers, ice mechanics, clerks, etc., etc.

36. The experience of previous years led to some important developments, also, in the organization of our civil resources. The Indian Defence Force came into being early in the war year and by season of its wider constitution was able to replace and extend the duties hitherto partially performed by the Volunteer Force. In particular, it took a more effective share in the prosecution of the war by undertaking certain garrison duties in India with the object of releasing regular troops for service overseas. The Munitions Board was created in March as a temporay department of the Government of India, taking over the war work of the Railway Board and the Department of Commerce and Industry. Its chief functions were the co-ordination of demands for articles not manufactured or produced in India; the application of the manufacturing resources of India to war purposes; the collection and dissemination of industrial intelligence; and the disposal of Government indents and priority applications. Controllers of Munitions were also appointed in each of the chief provincial centres of India and steps taken to establish similar agencies in the principal Native States. Another important development of the year was the creation of the Central Recruiting Board, a combined civil and military organisation at the Headquarters of Government whose principal functions consisted in the guidance and control of the Provincial Boards established simultaneously in each in each Province and Administration. The required monthly and yearly quota of recruits were allotted by this body to the various Provinces on the basis of martial population and the needs of the Army, and in each Province the organisation was extended to each civil district, so that the rate of recruitment and the degree of exploitation in every part of India could be kept under constant supervision.

37. In their effect on India, the German offensive in France and the Turco-German attempt to move eastward across the Caspian were the outstanding features of the closing year of the war. Broadly speaking, their effect was twofold. In the first place, due to the defection of Russia, the move eastward opened up the prospect of the war spreading in the direction of the Indian frontier and introducing complications with Afghanistan—a danger which necessitated a further searching examination of our military position and a careful stocktaking of our resources, in order to enable us to meet the menace at as great a distance as possible from our frontier. In the second place, it involved a further and larger demand for men than had hitherto been contemplated, for not only did it become necessary to increase the Armies in India and overseas, but the extreme urgency of concentrating British manpower on the Western Front threw upon India the additional obligation of replacing the British soldier wherever he could be spared. This involved a general reshuffling of Indian units and formations, and the shifting of the centre of gravity, with the course of events, from Mesopotamia to Palestine.

38. As part of the general scheme for conserving British manpower, the two Indian Cavalry Divisions in France were broken up as such early in the year and transferred to Egypt. The bulk of the Labour Corps having also left France during the year on expiration of their contract, the Indian contingent in that theatre at the signing of the armistice had been reduced to about 12,500 fighting men,—mainly artillery drivers,—and 6,500 followers. This, however, represents only a small fraction of the numbers which had been sent to France during the course of the war, viz., 151,430 of all ranks and categories, British and Indian, excluding 42,430 British ranks who were sent independently to England early in the war.

39. In addition to the eleven Indian Cavalry Regiments received from France (which included the Jodhpur Imperial Service Lancers), the Egyptian Expeditionary Force was increased by the 7th (Meerut) and 3rd (Lahore) Divisions from Mesopotamia during the first half of the year. In addition to these two complete divisions, 22 battalions (including two Imperial Service units) were sent from India; and these, together with the eleven Indian battalions already in the force and six others which were formed in Mesopotamia and sent to Egypt separately, were used to convert the 10th, 53rd, 60th and 75th British Divisions to Indian establishment. A number of ancillary units, including four Mountain Batteries, were also sent from India, and six new Field Companies, Sappers and Miners, were raised locally from existing companies, the personnel so withdrawn being replaced by drafts from India. Administrative units also received proportionate reinforcements, especially in medical personnel and equipment. At the signing of the armistice, the Indian element in the force stood at nearly 103,000 fighting men and 15,000 followers. I do not need to remind the Government of India of the exploits of these troops, many of them young and untried, during the closing stages of the campaign; they have received full recognition in General Sir Edmund Allenby's despatch on the operations, and have been rewarded by an encouraging message of appreciation from His Majesty the King.

40. While the possibility of a Turkish attack in Mesopotamia grew less during the year, an additional responsibility was thrown on the Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force by the conclusion of the armistice, in December 1917, between revolutionary Russia and the Central Powers. For some time past the defection of Russia had removed any serious obstacle from the path of German penetration towards the Caspian; but the conclusion of the armistice and the consequent withdrawal of the last remnants of the Russian Army would have left an open road, not only into Persia, but through Persia and Trans-Caspia towards Afghanistan and India, had not counter-measures been promptly taken. The maintenence of our troops on the Caspian necessitated road construction and the provision of mechanical transport on a large scale in North-West Persia, involving large demands on India for mechanical transport drivers and road-making personnel and equipment. The extension of the railway system towards Khanikin was also a serious drain on India's resources In railway material.

41. During the year, 15 new battalions were raised in Mesopotamia by withdrawing a company from each of 60 battalions already serving with the force, the latter being brought up to establishment again by drafts of young soldiers from India. Six of these new battalions were sent to Egypt, the remainder to India. Three companies of Sappers and Miners were raised in the same way and personnel sent from India to convert two British Mountain Batteries to an all-Indian basis. At the close of the campaign, the Indian personel in Mesopotamia amounted to approximately 113,000 fighting men and 183,000 followers, the latter figure including 26 Labour and Porter Corps and a very large number of Railway and Inland Water Transport categories.

42. Another measure in connection with the release of British troops for service in France was the despatch of 12 Indian battalions from Mesopotamia to Salonika. These battalions left Basrah during September and October, and on arrival at Salonika were incorporated in the 22nd, 27th and and 28th British Divisions, some of which were subsequently employed in the Caucasus and on the Black Sea Coast. They were to have been replaced in Mesopotamia by 12 newly raised battalions from India, but only two of the latter had left India when the armistice with Turkey was signed. Two Agricultural Labour Corps and the personnel of four Indian General Hospitals were also sent to Salonika from India during the closing stages of the war. The strength of the Indian contingent in that theatre on the signing of the armistice with Germany was approximately 15,000 fighting men and 3,000 followers.

43. Early in the year the situation in East Afria was such that General Vandeventer was able to release the greater part of his force; and with the exception of 4,500 men of all ranks (mostly railway personnel), the whole of the Indian contingent had been withdrawn to India when the armistice was concluded. The campaign had been a long and trying one, and disease had throughout taken a heavier toll than the enemy's bullets, Although the strength of the Indian contingent had never reached 15,000 and casualties in action had been comparatively few, over three times that number were sent from India during the course of the campaign.

44. The cessation of hostilities found the situation at Aden unchanged, no increase or decrease having taken place in the size of the force employed; but, to enforce the terms of the armistice on the Red Sea littoral, an additional battalion had to be obtained from Egypt, bringing the strength of the force to about 7,500 fighting men. It is inevitable that an inactive campaign of this nature, carried out under trying conditions of climate and terrain, should involve considerable hardship on the troops employed; these hardships have been cheerfully borne, and resulted in no loss of efficiency or morale.

45. The continued hostility of the Khans of the Bushire Hinterland, combined with an unprovoked attack by the Kashgais upon Sir P. Sykes' mission at Shiraz, made deliberate operations in that theatre inevitable. This additional commitment, coming at a time when troops were sorely needed in other theatres and involving the employment of over 20,000 fighting men and followers and the laying down of 50 miles of light railway, was a serious embarrassment. The operations were still in progress when the armistice was signed and will form the subject of a separate despatch.

46. The withdrawal of the Russians made it necessary early in the year to recast the whole of the arrangements in East Persia for frustrating the activities of hostile emissaries in the direction of Afghanistan and India. The cordon of troops was accordingly extended as far northward as Meshed, where a military mission under Major-General W. Malleson, C.B., C.I.E., had previously been established. Later, with the object of preventing interference in North-East Persia by the Soviet forces in Turkestan, it was reorganised as a Field Force and extended to the Trans-Caspian railway at Askabad, where it came into touch with the detachment from the Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force located at Krasnovodsk. The troops provided from India for the East Persia Cordon amounted to about 4,000 fighting men, and included six squadrons of cavalry and 3¼ battalions of infantry. These operations are still in progress and will be dealt with in my next despatch on minor operations.

47. On the North-West Frontier of India, important operations (which I have already described in my despatch dated 13th September 1918) were undertaken in February, March and April, against the Marri tribes, and involved the employment of troops from the 2nd, 4th and 16th Divisions; on the North-East Frontier, also unrest among the Kukis necessitated minor operations which are still in progress. Elsewhere the frontier remained quiet throughout the year. The internal situation also gave no cause for anxiety.

48. In September, His Majesty's Government asked for the services of a British battalion from India to join the Allied Expeditionary Force assembling at Vladivostok. The 1-9th Battalion, Hampshire Regiment, was selected for this duty and sailed the following month. This was the first unit of the Territorial Brigade which arrived in 1916 to go overseas Of the units which formed thre three Territorial Divisions sent to India in 1914-15, all but nine battalions and nine field batteries had served or were still serving in overseas theatres. These units had been among the first to volunteer for general service in August 1914, and I fully appreciate their regret that circumstances have found no wider outlet for their enthusiam than is afforded by a long period of garrison duty in India. Nevertheless, this duty has been one of first rate importance. Coming to India only partially trained and wholly new to the customs and conditions of the East, these units applied themselves wholeheartedly to the task before them, and have proved themselves worthy representatives of the famous names they bear. Few opportunities of earning distinction have fallen to their lot, but the part they have played in the prosecution of the war is to be measured not merely by the record of their own achievements in India. but by the achievements of those regular units which they released for service overseas. This is the true measure of their service to the Empire. They will leave India with a reputation for soldierly qualities fully in accord with the highest tradations of the British Army. I append a list of these eighteen units :—

1091st, 1093rd, 1094th, 1096th, 1997th, 1098th, 1103rd, 1104th and 1107th Batteries, R. F. A.

1-4th Battalion, The Queen's (Royal West Surrey Regiment).

2-5th Battalion, Prince Albert's (Somerset Light Infantry).

2-4th Battalion, The Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry.

1-4th Battalion, The Border Regiment.

2-4th Battalion, The Border Regiment.

1-5th Battalion, The Hampshire Regiment.

1-4th Battalion, The Queen's Own (Royal West Kent Regiment).

1-10th Battalion, The Duke of Cambridge's Own (Middlesex Regiment).

2-4th Battalion, The Duke of Edinburgh's (Wiltshire Regiment).

49. In India, the year was one of exceptional activity. A conference was held at Delhi towards the end of April to consider what measures should be taken in response to the Prime Minister's appeal for a rallying of India's resources to the assistance of the Empire. As a result of resolutions passed at this conference, the offer was made to raise and train an additional 500,000 combatants within a year. No time was lost in translating this offer from words to deeds, and it is safe to say that the figure would have been reached without difficulty, had not the armistice intervened and made further recruitment unnecessary. Princes, Local Governments and people co-operated wholeheartedly with Provincial Recruiting Boards in obtaining the required number of men, and the rate of recruitment rose rapaidly throughout the year. The effect of local efforts was particularly conspicuous in the North-West Frontier Province, Punjab and United Provinces, which throughout the war have taken the lead in the provision of recruits. To stimulate the movement, a gratuity was granted to every man who completed the recruit's course, and, in addition, a war bonus, payable every six months, to every Indian officer and soldier. The monthly intake of combatant recruits rose from 16,000 in May to over 37,500 in September.

50. It would be impossible within the limits of this brief review to specify the various channels into which the military activities of the country were directed during the closing stages of the war; but I do not need to remind the Government of India that the enlistment of the men themselves was only one, and by no means the most complex, problem associated with so large an increase to the Indian Army. The housing, clothing, equipping, feeding, and training of these additional recruits each presented problems requiring most careful foresight and the closest attention to detail. It reflects great credit on the various departments concerned that the work was carried through without serious hitch or dislocation to the normal life of the country.

51. As regards the disposal of the 500,000 combatants, it was calculated that after providing for the normal draft requirements of the forces overseas and the replacement of wastage in India, the balance would provide for the raising of seven new divisions. At the request of the Army Council, however, it was decided to use them almost entirely for the replacement or dilution of British units in existing divisions overseas; and the only new Indian formations raised during the year were two mounted brigades and three infantry brigades, which were sanctioned in July as a temporary addition to the field army in India. The latter measure was taken in view of the altered strategical situation, as also was the complete mobilisation of the 1st and 4th Divisions, the 1st Cavalary Brigade, and the three Frontier Brigades in July. Steps were taken at the same time for a minute examination into the readiness of the Army in India to take the field; mobilisation procedure was overhauled; the condition of frontier roads improved; reserve stocks of foodstuffs accumulated; base supply establishments reorganised; and arsenals expanded. Steps were also taken in conjunction with Local Governments to register the available transport resources of the country.

52. In connection with the raising of new units, mention should be made of the formation of five battalions from the civil police of the Punjab, United Provinces and Bihar and Orissa,—a measure which proved an unqualified success and which was only made possible by the ready co-operation of the Local Governments concerned. Another new departure, undertaken with the concurrence of certain of the Ruling Chiefs, was the conversion of certain Imperial Service battalions into temporary regular units of the Indian Army; battalions were raised in this way in Patiala, Bharatpur, Jodhpur, Bikanir, Dholpur, and Kolhapur. In all, 85½ new battalions of infantry were raised during the year.

53. Concurrently with the increase of the army, the operations of the Indian Munitions Board continued to expand in all directions, increasing the output of its factories, stimulating local manufacture, and conserving to the best advantage the small residue of imported stocks which remained available in India after three and a half years of war. During the year the average monthly output of the Army Clothing Factories rose to three times the normal yearly output before the war, and in one month reached its maximum figure of two million garments. Over a million and a half pairs of boots were supplied against Army demands in the 12 months preceding the armistice. The output of the ordnance factories also showed a steady increase. With the object of setting free the plant of Government factories to meet immediate and specialised demands as they arose, the outside manufacture of war stores was encouraged as much as possible by instruction in methods of manufacture, and by the provision of raw material, patterns and specifications. The inauguration of extensive schemes of irrigation and agricultural development in Mesopotamia made heavy additional demands on India during the year; and the extension of the railway system in the same theatre continued to make serious in roads on available rolling stock and material. During the war, 1,855 miles of railway track, 229 locomotives and 5,989 vehicles have been sent out of the country. The programme of rivercraft construction allotted to India was completed before the armistice was signed, by which date 940 craft of various descriptions had been purchased, constructed or re-erected in India for service overseas, mostly in Mesopotamia. In this connection much assistance was rendered by the Indian Rivercraft Board, a voluntary organisation developed under the direction of the Railway Board, and which consisted of representatives of the principal engineering firms at Calcutta, with affiliated committees at Karachi, Bombay, and other ports. Improvements to the port of Basrah have continued uninterruptedly, and it has now been converted into a base capable of handling 180,000 tons of stores a month.

54. In the foregoing narrative I have endeavoured to convey some idea of the part played by India during the war, of the wide variety of obligations which were thrown upon her as the scope of the war developed, and of her endeavour to meet those obligations, often in circumstances of extreme difficulty. It may perhaps serve to illustrate her effort more graphically if I append a few figures showing the extent of her contribution in terms of men. On the outbreak of war, the combatant strength of the Indian Army, including reservists, was 194,000 Indian ranks; enlistments during the war for all branches of the service amounted to 791,000, making a total combatant contribution of 985,000. Of this number, 552,000 were sent overseas. As regards non-combatants, the pre-war strength was 45,000; an additional 427,000 were enrolled during the war; and 391,000 were sent overseas. The total contribution of Indian personnel has thus been 1,457,000, of whom 943,000 have served overseas. Casualties amounted to 106,594, which include 36,696 deaths from all causes. The number of animals sent overseas was 175,000. No department has been more closely connected with the war, or has rendered heartier co-operation, than the Railway Department. The great increase of military traffic produced by the war synchronised with a serious shortage of shipping, and this threw upon the Indian railways a volume of traffic, normally sea borne, which they were never designed to carry. Nevertheless, by the exercise of the utmost resource, foresight and initiative, serious dislocation to traffic has been successfully avoided, and even in circumstances of extreme difficulty railway administrations have freely surrendered personnel and material for service overseas. The resources of the Royal Indian Marine have similarly been taxed to the utmost. Not only has this service been responsible for the transportation overseas of nearly 950,000 men and 175,000 animals, but it has also been charged with a variety of other duties. Throughout the war, the work of the Royal Indian Marine has been accomplished with commendable efficiency and despatch.

55. In previous despatches I have expressed my gratitude, in the name of the Army in India, to the thousands of loyal and devoted workers who have contributed in various spheres of activity to the prosecution of the war; and now that the war has been brought to a successful conclusion, I cannot do more than reiterate that expression of my thanks. The various departments of the Government of India, the heads and members of Provincial Governments, the Ruling Chiefs, Railway Administrations, Chambers of Commerce, Port Trusts and Municipalities, the Mercantile Marine, the numerous associations for the relief of distress and the care of the sick and wounded,—work in which the ladies of India have played a leading part,—the great non-official and commercial communities, and a host of individual workers,—one and all have laboured with conspicuous devotion. Last and perhaps most important of all, I desire to express the great debt which the Empire owes to the troops themselves, British and Indian, combatant and non-combatant, who have contributed so largely, often with their lives, to the attainment of the common end. A list of those whose services have been of particular value and whose assistance and work I desire to bring specially to notice forms the subject of Appendix I of this despatch.

Notice.

THE Bengal and Madras Service Family Pension Fund which is provisionally managed and assisted by Government has for its object the provision of monthly pensions for the maintenance of the widows and children of subscribers and is open, with certain exceptions, to all active and pensioned members of the Uncovenanted Service of Government (except those serving under the Government of Bombay), and to Local Fund servants earning pensions from Government. Some of the special features of the Fund are—(1) that widowed daughters incapable of remarriage or children labouring under such mental or bodily infirmities as incapacitate them from earning their livelihood or preclude the possibility of marriage (in case of a daughter) are admitted to its benefits; and (2) that subscribers to the Widows' and Daughters' branches are entitled to a refund of 90 per cent. of the premia paid, should the nominees predecease them after five years of admission. The Fund is now of ten years' standing and has a balance of over three and-a-half lakhs with Government on four per cent. interest. For forms of applications and rules of the Fund apply to the Comptroller, India Treasuries, Imperial Secretariat Buildings, Calcutta.

REPORT ON FAMINE IN THE DISTRICT OF BANKURA FOR THE WEEK ENDING 26TH JULY 1919.

DURING the week the rainfall was general but scanty. More rain is urgently wanted for transplantation on high land. Sixty-six relief works were open during the week The number of persons relieved on works was 5,140. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief was 20,838, viz., 15,722 on cash doles in 128 unions, 3,683 on paddy-husking advances, 853 weavers and 580 better class poor. The total number of persons relieved was 25,978 The increase in the number of persons on relief works was due to partial cessation of the field operations. The number of persons relieved on private works was 797. The charitable societies also relieved 718 other persons by weekly doles and 1,650 persons by daily doles and cooked food. Theft of food-grains and petty dacoities attributable to distress increased slightly during the week. The physical condition of workers and public health are generally good. Sporadic cases of cholera and fever were reported. Cloth is being distributed to destitutes. The relief measures are adequate. The price of common rice was 5½ seers per rupee. Burma rice is being sold.

REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE SALT DEPARTMENT IN BENGAL DURING THE YEAR 1918-19.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 2220S R.—The 29th July 1919.—The following extracts from the Report of the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal, on the administration of the Salt Department in the Presidency of Bengal during the year 1918-19, are published for general information.

C. F. PAYNE,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 2158E., dated Calcutta, the 23rd June 1919.

From—S. C. MUKERJEE, ESQ., I.C.S., Commissioner of Excise and Salt, Bengal,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Dept.

I HAVE the honour to submit the following consolidated report on the administration of the Salt Department for the year 1918-19. The report deals with the preventive operations in the saliferous districts of the Presidency, which were under the control of the Commissioner of Excise and Salt, and with the importation and issues of salt under the control of the Customs authorities.

2. Charge of the Department.—Mr. A. N. Moberly, I.C.S., held charge from the 1st April to the 7th November 1918. and I was in charge for the rest of the year.

CHAPTER I.

General.

3. Credit system of payment of duty.—The Collector of Customs Calcutta, reports that securities to the extent of Rs. 72,83,000 were deposited during the year as compared with Rs. 54,84,200 in 1917-18. The amount of duty debited during the year under the system was Rs. 1,03,64.573 against Rs. 83,68,422 in the previous year. There were 55 depositors during the year, five of whom closed their accounts, leaving a balance of 50.

4. Salt golas at Sulkea and Chittagong.—During the year additions and alterations to gola No. 5 at Sulkea were taken in hand in order to convert it into a shed for housing and repairing salt tubs and trestles. Alterations to gangways and some improvements to a portion of the foreshore salt golas were completed. As regards the salt golas at Chittagong, the accommodation was fully taken up only once in the month of August 1918 ; on other occasions there was no difficulty about accommodation. In the course of the year a scheme was submitted to Government for the removal of the Sadar ghat golas to Moheshkhal at an estimated cost of Rs. 65.500. The proposal has recently been sanctioned by the Government of India and the work will be taken up as soon as the funds are allotted by the Public Works Department. The removal of the salt golas to the new site will remove to a great extent the difficulty at present experienced in quick despatch to ships and in wastages in transport.

5. Consumption of duty-free salt for commercial purposes.—The quantity of salt delivered free of duty for commercial purposes, or on which a drawback was subsequently allowed for the same reason, amounted to 7,880 maunds as compared with 12,300 maunds in 1917-18.

6. Manufacture of salt in Bengal.—As stated in paragraph 6 of last year's report, enquiries regarding the manufacture of salt on a commercial scale were continued in the current year. In order to encourage such manufacture in Bengal it was made permissible by the Government of India in the districts of 24-Parganas, Midnapore, Khulna, Bakarganj and Chittagong subject to the conditions of a license granted under the authority of Government of Bengal. A firm in Calcutta has received permission to manufacture salt in one of the districts named above and the construction of the salt factory is in progress, but it is reported that no salt will be manufactured during the current year.

CHAPTER II.

Stocks, Imports and clearances.

7. Accounts of stocks and issues.—The stocks, imports and clearances of salt in and from the ports of Calcutta and Chittagong for the years 1917-18 and 1918-19 are shown below :—

Stocks, imports, etc.	1917-18.	1918-19.
	Mds.	Mds.
Total of all stocks at the commencement of the year	11,86,461*	10,71,691
Total quantity imported during the year ...	85,50,142	1,01,50,730
Excess found in the golas	750	350
Quantity of duty-paid salt actually issued during the year	81,86,937*	94,10,928
Quantity which passed free of duty for the manufacture of glazed stoneware, etc. ...	12,300*	7,380
Quantity of non-duty-paid salt removed under bond to all inland warehouses ...	3,35,970	3,66,273
Quantity written off during the year for wastage or otherwise	70,155	1,25,596
Total ...	86,65,662*	99,10,177
Balance at the close of the year ...	10,71,691*	13,12,594

* Revised figures.

Both the import and clearance figures show considerable increase.

8. Imports.— * * * * * * * * * The total imports into Calcutta and Chittagong increased by 14·6 per cent. and 63·0 per cent., respectively. There was an increase in imports into Calcutta from the United Kingdom, Port Said and Bombay. The very large increase from Port Said was due mainly to the fact that shipping was more readily available from that port. The decrease from Spain was due to want of tonnage and that from Aden to the salt works of the Indo-Aden Company being out of commission for a time owing to trouble with their boilers. There were no imports into Chittagong from the United Kingdom except table-salt. The imports from Aden fell by 71,528 maunds and those from Port Said increased by 7,81,212 maunds. There were no imports into that port from Spain.

Out of the total importation of 89,67,125 maunds into the port of Calcutta, 72,75,686 maunds or 81 per cent. were bonded in the Sulkea golas during the year as against a percentage of 86 in the previous year. The percentage was smaller owing to larger clearances from board ship during the year.

9. Sales of imported salt from shipboard and bond.— * *

In Calcutta the sales direct from shipboard show an increase of 67·4 per cent. and those from bond by 4·3 per cent. In Chittagong the sales direct from shipboard and bond increased by 51·7 per cent. and 44·0 per cent., respectively. There was an increase of 14·2 per cent. in the total sales of imported salt. All the vessels carrying salt to Calcutta were steamers.

10. Transactions in the golas.—The total transactions at the golas in Calcutta and Chittagong for the past five years are given below :—

Year.	Calcutta.	Chittagong.
	Mds.	Mds.
1914-15	1,58,60,486	15,95,103
1915-16	1,55,57,771	17,35,807
1916-17	1,45,87,255	15,24,260
1917-18	1,36,05,327	13,64,536
1918-19	1,42,66,818	20,70,799

12. Inland bonded warehouses.—There were 10 private bonded warehouses in this Presidency against 11 in the previous year, viz., 2 at Narainganj (Dacca), 1 at Bhairab Bazar (Mymensingh), 1 at Madaripur (Faridpur), 4 at Jhalakati (Bakarganj), and 2 at Chandpur (Tippera). Two of the four golas at Jhalakati were closed during the year. The quantity of salt despatched to these 10 inland warehouses from shipboard and golas in the ports of Calcutta and Chittagong was 3,47,073 maunds, as compared with 3,77,070 maunds in 1917-18, showing a decrease by 7·9 per cent. There was an increase of 300 maunds or 1·6 per cent. in the quantity of salt despatched to the bonded warehouse at Ajniriganj in Assam, the quantity despatched in the year being 19,200 maunds against 18,900 maunds in the previous year.

* * * * * *

Consumption and Prices.

15. Consumption.—The total quantity of salt which passed into consumption in this Presidency during the year 1918-19 was 76,51,968 maunds. This is exclusive of 29,82,037 maunds, the net export by rail, road or river, but inclusive of 568 maunds educed from saltpetre, and 7,380 maunds issued free of duty for commercial purposes.

16. Prices of salt in Bengal generally.— * * * * * * * * * * * There was a decrease of 8 annas 6 pies in the average as compared with the previous year. It is reported that owing to larger supplies prices have been steadily falling and were much below the maximum prices fixed by Government. The average wholesale price per 100 maunds of Liverpool salt was Rs. 186-13-4 against Rs. 273-6-4 in the previous year.

* * * * * * * The maximum prices at which salt may be sold for delivery at the Sulkea and Chittagong salt golas are now fixed at the following rates per 100 maunds :—

	Ex-golas.
	Sulkea.	Chittagong.
	Rs.	Rs.
Liverpool	188	198
Spanish	183	193
Port Said	180	190
Massowah	180	190
Aden Fine	180	190
Indo-Aden	179	189

At the same time the maximum retail price of salt was fixed at 1 anna 6 pies per seer in all places in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions and 1 anna 9 pies per seer in all places in the Dacca, Chittagong and Rajshahi Divisions except the Chittagong Hill Tracts, where the maximum retail price is fixed at 2 annas per seer, and the Sadar, Kalimpong and Kurseong subdivisions of the district of Darjeeling, where the maximum retail price is fixed at 2 annas and 3 pies per seer.

* * * * * * *

CHAPTER V.

Financial Results.

19. Receipts and charges.— * * *

* * * The receipts show an increase by Rs. 2,64,423 or 2·4 per cent. and the charges by Rs. 28,523 or 9·2 per cent. The net revenue was Rs. 1,08,41,264, which was larger than that of the previous year by Rs. 2,35,900 or 2·2 per cent. The increase in the receipts occurred mainly under head "Import Duty on Salt." The charges do not include any share of cost of the Customs Preventive Service, which is largely employed in safeguarding the salt revenue. * * * * *

* * * * * * *

CHAPTER VI.

Miscellaneous.

20. Saltpetre refineries and Soda factories.—As in the preceding year, there were three licensed saltpetre refineries at Maniktola, Sulkea and Kakurgachi, respectively. No license was issued in 1918-19 for the manufacture of sulphate of soda.

The quantity of refined saltpetre produced during the year was 11,701 maunds against 16,989 maunds in the previous year. The Collector of Excise, Calcutta, reports that the decrease was partly due to the bad management of the Sulkea refinery by the proprietors and partly to less demand for saltpetre. The quantity of salt educed in the process of refinement of saltpetre was 547 maunds as compared with 942 maunds in 1917-18, and the quantity of sitta (impure salt) left in the course of refinement, was 78 maunds against 191 maunds in the previous year. Five hundred and sixty-eight maunds of educed salt were sold during the year as compared with 696 maunds in 1917-18, the duty realized being Rs. 710 as compared with Rs. 870 in the previous year. The license fees realized from the saltpetre refineries amounted to Rs. 150 as in the previous year.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First Forecast of the Sugarcane Crop of Bengal, 1919-20.

(Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1916-17, the area under sugarcane in Bengal has represented some 9·2 per cent. of the total area under sugarcane in British India.)

Character of the Season.—Owing to insufficient rainfall and consequent lack of soil-moisture the weather was not generally favourable at the time of planting. Subsequently, since the latter part of April, however, moderate rainfall has greatly helped the growth of the plants and the present outlook is hopeful.

Area Planted.—The total area planted with sugarcane for the province is reported to be 221,100 acres this year, against 217,600 acres in the corresponding forecast of last year.

ROBERT S. FINLOW,
Offg. Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
24-Parganas	8,000*	4,100	5,000	Beginning of April. Normal.	The increase in area was due to good outturn and to high price of sugar obtained last year. The weather has been favourable.
Nadia	7,900	5,800	6,100	End of January. Normal.	The increase in area was due to high price of gur. The weather has been favourable.
Murshidabad ...	3,600	3,100	2,800	December to April. Normal.	The decrease in area was due to want of rain at the time of planting. At the beginning the weather was not favourable for want of rain which has affected the growth of the crop. Subsequently it has been favourable and the present condition of the crop is good.
Jessore	3,900	2,600	3,100	February and March. Normal.	The increase in area was due to high price of sugar. The weather has been favourable. The crop is thriving well.
Khulna	1,500	1,100	1,000	February. Normal ...	The decrease in area as compared with last year was due to want of rain at the time of planting. The weather has been favourable for the growth of the crop.
Burdwan	25,800	19,000	17,100	April to May. Normal	The decrease in area was due to unfavourable weather and to want of moisture in the soil. The weather was not favourable at the beginning, but subsequently it has been favourable.

STAMPED EIGHT ANNAS.

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT made this the 8th day of August one thousand nine hundred and nineteen BETWEEN THE BENGAL IRON AND STEEL COMPANY, LIMITED, a Company (registered under the English Companies Acts) and having its registered office in London with a branch office at No. 6-7, Clive Street, Calcutta (hereinafter called "the Company") of the one part and the SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL (hereinafter called "the Secretary of State") of the other part. WHEREAS for the purpose of the extension of the Company's works and the construction of a Railway Siding in mouza Kendua near Barakar, in the district of Burdwan, Bengal. the Company has applied to the Government of Bengal for the acquisition under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, of the piece or parcel of land containing 123·40 acres or thereabouts situate in the mouza Kendua aforesaid and more particularly described in the schedule hereto and delineated in the plan* hereunto annexed. AND WHEREAS the said Government of Bengal being satisfied by an enquiry held under section 40 of the said Act that the proposed acquisition is needed for the aforesaid purpose and that the said work is likely to prove useful to the public has consented to acquire on behalf of the Company the piece or parcel of land hereinbefore described. AND WHEREAS the said Government of Bengal has required the Company under the provisions of section 41 of the abovementioned Act to enter into the Agreement with the Secretary of State hereinafter contained. NOW THIS INDENTURE WITNESSETH that IT IS HEREBY AGREED AND DECLARED as follows:—

1. On demand the Company shall and will pay to the said Government of Bengal all and every compensation in respect of the said land tendered paid or awarded or to be tendered paid or awarded by the Collector under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, or by the Court to which a reference under Part III of the said Act may be made or by the Court or Courts to which an appeal from the award of the said Court may be preferred and all costs charges and expenses of the proceedings in the aforesaid Courts or otherwise incidental to the proposed acquisition or payable in respect thereof under the provisions of the said Act.

2. On demand made by the said Collector the obligations of the Company under the last preceding clause not being thereby limited the Company shall and will deposit with the said Collector such sum or sums of money as in his discretion the said Collector may in anticipation estimate to be necessary for the purposes mentioned in the last preceding clause.

3. On payment by the Company of all demands under the foregoing first clause or in the discretion of the said Government of Bengal (on deposit by the Company of all estimated amounts as provided in the second clause) but not before possession shall have been taken under the provisions of the abovementioned Act the Secretary of State shall make over possession of the said land to the Company and shall execute and do all such acts and deeds as may be necessary and proper for effectually vesting the same in the Company.

4. The said land shall be held by the Company for the purposes of such extension of works and railway siding as are hereinbefore mentioned and without the sanction in writing of the said Government of Bengal first had and obtained for no other purpose whatsoever.

5. The said extension of factory works and construction of Railway Siding shall be completed (and fully equipped in all respects ready for use) within four years from the date on which possession of the said land shall have been given to the Company.

6. Should the said extension of works not be completed (and fully equipped in all respects ready for use) within the period stated in the last preceding clause or within such further period as in its discretion may be prescribed or allowed by the said Government of Bengal which the said Government hereby undertake to grant up to a limit of twenty-four months on satisfactory proof by the Company that such extended period is required or should the said land at any time thereafter cease for a period of twenty-four consecutive months to be held and used or cease to be required for the purpose or purposes provided for in the foregoing fourth clause then and in any such case the said Government may summarily re-enter upon and take possession of the said land and thereupon the interest of the Company in the said land shall absolutely cease and determine.

7. On taking such possession the said Government may sell or otherwise deal with the said land as it may think proper. Should the said Government sell the said land the said Government after deducting the expenses incurred in connection with the said taking to possession and with such sale shall pay the proceeds to the Company. Should the said Government on taking possession decide not to sell the land it shall repay to the Company all sums received from the Company in respect of all and every compensation as provided in the foregoing first clause (less the statutory allowance of fifteen per cent.) but will not repay any sums paid and received on account of costs charges and expenses.

8. Should any dispute or difference arise touching or concerning the subject matter of this Agreement or any covenant clause or thing herein contained the same shall be referred to the said Government of Bengal and the opinion and decision of the said Government upon such dispute or difference shall be final and conclusive and binding on the parties hereto.

The Schedule above referred to.

RESOLUTION—No. 291T.-B.

THE Governor in Council has had under consideration the question of providing a chamber of a size and dignity commensurate with the requirements of the Legislative Council of Bengal, as it will be constituted after the proposed reforms come into operation. While the present Chamber in Government House, Calcutta, has the advantage of a central situation, it is obviously too small for a Council consisting of one hundred members or more; and it is not practicable or convenient to make structural changes in the existing building so as to house a Council of the number contemplated.

It is therefore requisite to prepare plans for a new Council Chamber, primâ facie, such a building should satisfy the following conditions :—

(i) it should be large enough to provide for a Council Chamber and all the accessories demanded for the convenience of members, including office accommodation, library, committee-rooms, restaurant and so on ;

(ii) it should be worthy not only of its use for the Legislative Council, but of the headquarters of the Government of Bengal ;

(iii) it should be so placed that there will be room for expansion ;

(iv) and it should be centrally situated so as to be easily accessible to all who will have occasion to use it.

Before proceeding to design a building of the nature required, His Excellency in Council is opinion that the public should have an opportunity of expressing an opinion in the matter of the site which would be most convenient and appropriate. The Governor in Council has therefore resolved to appoint a Committee representative, as far as possible, of all shades of public opinion in Calcutta, to advise Government in regard to the most suitable site. The members of the Committee will be as follows :—

President—The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., Vice-President, Legislative Council.

1. The Hon'ble Sir Frank Carter, C.I.E., C.B.E.
2. The Chairman, Corporation of Calcutta.
3. The Chairman, Calcutta Improvement Trust.
4. Babu Ramdeo Chokani.
5. The Commissioner of Police, Calcutta.
6. The Hon'ble Mr. W. E. Crum, C.B.E.
7. Rai Hari Ram Goenka Bahadur, C.I.E.
8. The Hon'ble Moulvi A. K. Fazlul-Haq.
9. Mr. C. F. Hooper.
10. The Hon'ble Raja Hrishi Kesh Laha, C.I.E.
11. The Hon'ble Sir Rajendra Nath Mookerjee, K.C.I.E.
12. The Hon'ble Mr. A. R. Murray, C.B.E.
13. The Hon'ble Mr. W. H. Phelps.

NOTIFICATION.

MEDICAL.

Simla, the 1st August, 1919.

No. 350.—In accordance with the orders received from the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for India, sanctioning an increase in the pay of officers of the Indian Medical Service in civil employment, the pay of the various appointments concerned will, when they are held by officers of that service, be fixed at the rates shown in the accompanying statement with effect from the 1st December 1918.

2. Exchange compensation allowance, when admissible, is payable in addition to the rates referred to above.

3. The present classification of Civil and Agency Surgeons as "1st class" and "2nd class" is abolished with effect from the 1st December 1918.

4. The object of the revision is to attract to the service European candidates with the highest professional qualifications, and the question whether Indian candidates entering permanent service after 1st December 1918, shall be eligible for these increased rates of pay, and, if so, to what extent and under what conditions, has been reserved for further consideration. All Indian officers already in permanent service on 1st December 1918, will be eligible for the rates of pay now sanctioned.

Appointments.	Lieutenant-Colonel specially selected for increased pay.	Lieutenant-Colonel after 25 years' service.	Lieutenant-Colonel.	Major after 8 years' service as Major.	Major.	Captain after 10 total years' service.	Captain after 7 years' service.	Captain after 5 total years' service.	Captain.	Lieutenant.	—

TRADING BY FOREIGNERS.

Simla, the 2nd August 1919.

No. 5705.—In pursuance of section 3 of the Indian Companies (Foreign Interests) Act, 1918 (XX of 1918), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to declare the Anglo-Burma Rice Company, Limited, to be a Company with restrictive provisions within the meaning of the said Act and the following clauses of the Articles of Association of the said Company to be restrictive provisions:—

Article 3.—In order to prevent foreign control of the Company the following provisions shall apply (namely):—

(a) The Company shall not be entitled to issue share warrants to bearer.

(1) in the case of an application made by, or transfer to, an individual, a declaration by the applicant or transferee stating whether he is or is not a British subject, and whether he had or has not ever taken an oath of allegiance or otherwise become a citizen or subject of any, and, if so, what enemy or foreign Sovereign or State; and, if a British subject, whether he is a natural born British subject, or a British subject by naturalisation or otherwise, and, if naturalised, whether he remains for any purpose in the allegiance of any, and, if so, what, enemy or foreign Sovereign or State;

(2) in the case of an application made by, or transfer to, a corporation, a declaration made on behalf of the corporation by the secretary or other officer authorised in that behalf stating whether the corporation is an enemy or foreign corporation or a corporation under enemy or foreign control, and

(3) in each of the said cases a declaration made as aforesaid stating whether there is or is not any arrangement under which the applicant or transferee will hold the shares or any of the shares, if allotted or transferred to such applicant or transferee in trust for or on behalf of or in any way directly or indirectly under the control or directions of any enemy or foreigner or enemy or foreign State, or enemy or foreign corporation, or any corporation under enemy or foreign control, and if any such arrangement exists, the nature thereof; and in any case the Directors may, before making any allotment or passing any transfer, require such further evidence as in their absolute discretion they think necessary in support of any such declaration.

(c) No share shall, without the previous consent in writing of the Local Government, be held by any enemy or enemy corporation or corporation under enemy control or by any member in trust for, or on behalf of, or in any way, directly or indirectly, at the disposal or under the control or direction of any enemy or enemy State or enemy corporation or corporation under enemy control.

(d) The Directors shall not, without the previous consent in writing of the Local Government, allot any shares or register any transfer of shares which it may appear from the declaration to be made under paragraph (b) would upon such allotment or transfer be held in contravention of paragraph (c).

(e) In the event of its being proved to the satisfaction of the Director (1) that any share is at any time held in contravention of the provisions of paragraph (c), or (2) that the declaration to be made under paragraph (b) is untrue as regards any of the shares to which such declaration relates such shares shall in case (1) and may in case (2) be forfeited by resolution of the Directors, which shall be final and conclusive and not subject to question by any person on any ground whatever, and upon such resolution being passed the holder of such shares shall cease to have any interest therein or claim against the Company in respect thereof or for the payment of any sums paid up thereon.

(f) The Directors shall not without the consent of the Local Government allot any shares or register any transfer of shares, the allotment or registration of which would cause more than forty per cent. of the total of the issued share capital or more than twenty-five per cent. of the voting power for the time being of the Company to be held by foreigners and/or foreign corporations, or corporations under foreign control, and/or by any person who as shown by the declaration to be made under clause (b) holds shares in trust for or on behalf of or in any way directly or indirectly under the control or directions of any foreigner, foreign State, foreign corporation or corporation under foreign control, or under any such arrangement as is referred to in paragraph (b) (3) and may also decline to register any transfer of shares to any person who, even though such person be a British subject, may by resolution of the Directors (which shall be final and conclusive and not subject to any question by any person on any ground whatever) be declared to be an undesirable person to admit to membership, on the ground that such person is, in the opinion of the Directors, subject to the influence of any enemy State, body, person or corporation, or corporation under enemy control.

(g) If at any time, by reason of the holder of any shares in the Company ceasing to be a British subject, or dying, or coming under any arrangement under which he holds any share in trust for or on behalf of or in any way directly or indirectly under the control or directions of, or becoming in the opinion of the Local Government subject to the influence of, any foreign State, body, person or corporation, or corporation under foreign control, or for any other reason, more than forty per cent. of the issued share capital or more than twenty-five per cent. of the voting power for the time being of the Company is, without the consent of the Local Government, held by or under the control of any foreigners, foreign State, and/or foreign corporation or corporation under foreign control, the Directors may at any time and shall at the request of the Local Government serve on the holder of the shares in question, a notice in writing, requiring such holder to retire from the Company, and upon such notice being given, the shares shall not confer any vote until they have been transferred.

(h) If, within thirty days from the date of the service of such notice on such holder (hereinafter referred to as the "retiring member") there have not been duly lodged for registration transfers to individuals being British subjects approved by the Directors as desirable persons to admit to membership of all shares in the Company held by the retiring member, executed both by the retiring member and the transferees, the retiring member shall be bound at any time within three calendar months from the expiration of such thirty days, when called upon by the Directors by notice in writing so to do, to sell and transfer all the shares in the Company for the time being held by him to any person selected by the Directors to purchase the same (hereinafter called the "proposed transferee") at the price hereinafter mentioned.

(i) The price shall be such price as may be agreed upon between the retiring member and the proposed transferee, or in default of agreement shall be the average of the middle market prices of the shares of the Company of the class to be transferred, quoted on the London Stock Exchange during the calendar month last ending before the date when the notice to sell was served (such average price to be certified by the Company's brokers for the time being), and should there be no such quotation, shall be such price as may be certified by the Company's auditors for the time being, as being the fair value of the shares to be transferred.

(j) The notice calling upon any retiring member to sell and transfer any shares in the Company pursuant to the last preceding paragraphs, shall state the name and address of the proposed transferee, and shall fix a time and place for the completion of the transfer, and should the retiring member make default in transferring the shares to the proposed transferee at the time and place so named, otherwise than by reason of default by the proposed transferee in payment of the purchase price therefor, the Company may receive the purchase price, and shall thereupon cause the name of the proposed transferee to be entered in the Register of members as the holder of the shares, and shall hold the purchase price in trust for the retiring member. The receipt of the Company for the purchase price shall be a good discharge to the proposed transferee, and he shall not be bound to see to the application thereof, and after the name of the proposed transferee has been entered in the Register in purported exercise of the aforesaid powers, the validity of the proceedings shall not be questioned by any person or in any manner whatsoever.

(k) In the event of any shareholder ceasing to be a British subject, or coming without the consent of the Local Government, under any arrangement under which he holds any share in trust for or on behalf of or in any way directly or indirectly under the control or directions of any foreign State, body, person or corporation or corporation under foreign control, he shall within thirty days disclose the fact to the Directors, and failure to make such disclosure within such period shall render the shares liable to forfeiture in the manner provided by paragraph (e) hereof, provided that no such right of forfeiture under this article shall be exercised by the Directors without the consent of the Local Government.

(l) No enemy shall be qualified to be a Director or alternate Director, and not less than three-fourths of the Board, including the Chairman thereof, shall at all times be British subjects resident in British India.

(m) The office of a Director shall be vacated—

(1) if he ceases to be a British subject, or ceases to reside in British India, and by reason of his so doing there ceases to be a three-fourths majority of the Board who are British subjects resident in British India;

(2) if he be called upon in writing by at least three-fourths of all the other Directors for the time being to resign office on the ground that he is, in their opinion, subject to the influence of an enemy State, body, person or corporation, or a corporation under enemy control, and for that reason is not a desirable person to hold office as a Director, and so that the opinion of a three-fourths majority of such other Directors so expressed shall not be subject to question or control by any person or on any ground whatsoever.

(n) In these provisions :—

the expression "director" includes any member of any local board or committee of management or other like body;

the expression "enemy" means a citizen or subject of any State which was on the 1st January 1917 at war with His Majesty the King;

the expression "enemy corporation" means any corporation incorporated in and subject to the laws of any enemy State;

the expression "corporation under enemy control" means :—

(a) a corporation of which the majority of the directors, or persons occupying the position of directors, by whatever name called are enemies;

(b) a corporation, members of which, holding shares or stock conferring a majority of the votes, are enemies or enemy corporation, or persons who hold such shares or stock directly or indirectly on behalf, or under the control or directions of enemies, an enemy State, or enemy corporations;

(c) a corporation which is by any other means, whether of a like or of different character, in fact under the control of enemies, an enemy State or enemy corporations;

(d) a corporation, the executive whereof is a corporation within (a), (b) or (c);

the expression "foreign" means every person other than an enemy as hereinbefore defined, who is not a British subject;

the expression "foreign corporation" means any corporation (other than a corporation incorporated in or under the laws of any enemy State) which is not incorporated in and under the laws of and has not its principal place of business in some part of the British Empire;

the expression "corporation under foreign control" means—

(a) a corporation of which the majority of directors or persons occupying the position of directors by whatever name called are foreigners;

(b) a corporation, members of which holding shares or stock conferring a majority of the votes are foreigners or foreign corporations or persons who hold such shares or stock directly or indirectly on behalf or under the control or directions of foreigners, a foreign State or foreign corporations;

(c) a corporation which is by any other means, whether of a like or of different character in fact under the control of foreigners, a foreign State or foreign corporation;

(d) a corporation whereof the executive is a corporation within (a), (b) or (c);

the expression "shares" shall include any securities issued by the Company which carry any power of voting with respect to the management of the Company, and the expression "shareholder" shall have a corresponding meaning; any resolution purporting to give any power of voting by reason of which the limit of voting power imposed by paragraph (f) would be exceeded shall be null and void.

* * * * * * *

Article 27.—(k) Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained the Directors may refuse to register any transfer of a share (1) where the Company has a lien on the share; or (2) where the Directors are not of the opinion that it is desirable to admit the proposed transferee to Membership. But the foregoing section (2) of this paragraph shall not apply to a transfer made pursuant to paragraph (b) of this clause except in the case of a transfer by a Company to a Director thereof who is not already a member, and the provisions of this clause are subject to the provisions of these Articles for preventing foreign control of the Company.

Article 28.—The executors or administrators of a deceased sole holder of a share shall be the only persons recognised by the Company as having any title to the share. In the case of a share registered in the names of two or more holders, the survivors or survivor, or the executors or administrators of the last survivor, shall be the only persons recognised by the Company as having any title to the share. The provisions of this clause are subject to the provisions of these Articles for preventing foreign control of the Company.

Article 29.—Any person becoming entitled to a share in consequence of the death or bankruptcy of a member shall, upon such evidence of his title being produced as may from time to time be required by the Directors, have the right, either to be registered as a member in respect of the share, or, instead of being registered himself, to make such transfer of the share as the deceased or bankrupt member could have made; but the provisions of these Articles as to the transfer and sale of shares and as to refusal to register and suspending registration of transfers shall apply in the same manner as in the case of a transfer of the share by the deceased or bankrupt member before the death or bankruptcy. The provisions of this clause are subject to the provisions of these Articles for preventing foreign control of the Company.

* * * * * * * *

Article 92.—The office of a Director should also be vacated in accordance with the provisions of these Articles for preventing foreign control of the Company.

Article 93 (g).—The provisions of this clause are subject to the provisions of these Articles for preventing foreign control of the Company.

Article 94 (c).—The provisions of this clause are subject to the provisions of these Articles for preventing foreign control of the Company.

Article 97 (d).—The provisions of this clause are subject to the provisions of these Articles for preventing foreign control of the Company.

LICENCE.

The 2nd August 1919.

No. 5715.—WHEREAS by paragraph 5 of the Trading with the Enemy Proclamation No. 2, dated the 9th day of September 1914, trade and financial or commercial transactions between British subjects and persons or bodies of persons resident in the territories of the German Empire or in the dual Monarchy of Austria-Hungary or in the respective Colonies and dependencies thereof in this licence or in the said Proclamation referred to as "enemy country" are prohibited; and

WHEREAS by paragraph 8 of the said proclamation it is provided that nothing in the Proclamation shall be taken to prohibit anything which may be expressly permitted by licence whether such licence be granted to individuals or be announced as applying to persons; and

WHEREAS by paragraph 3 of Proclamation, dated the 8th October 1914, power to grant such licences on behalf of the Crown may be exercised in India by the Governor-General;

Now, therefore, I, Frederic John Napier Thesiger, Baron Chelmsford, hereby authorise all persons and bodies of persons residing, being, or carrying on business in British India to trade and have commercial and financial transactions with persons or bodies of persons resident or carrying on business in Germany and German-Austria;

Provided always that any licence which may be necessary in respect of any transaction under any prohibition of export or prohibition of import for the time being in force in British India is first obtained;

Provided also that nothing in this licence shall be taken as permitting the payment or delivery to persons resident or carrying on business within the said territory of the following monies and classes of property:—

(a) any sum payable to or paid for an enemy by way of dividend, interest or share of profits;

(b) any sum which has been paid into any account with a Bank or to any other person in trust for an enemy;

(c) interest on securities issued by or on behalf of Government or the Government of any of His Majesty's Dominions or any foreign Government or by or on behalf of any corporation or any municipal or other authority whether within or without British India;

(d) securities which have become repayable on maturity or by being drawn for payment or otherwise;

(e) any money or property which is or but for the war would have been payable to an enemy in respect of any transaction entered into before the outbreak of war.

The trading licences published with the Notifications of the Government of India in the Department of Commerce and Industry Nos. 2028, 3561 and 4434, dated 26th April, 31st May and 28th June 1919 respectively, are hereby cancelled.

PART IB.

Orders by the Governor of Bengal in Council.

MUNICIPAL AND LOCAL.

NOTIFICATIONS.

No 3121L.S.-G.—The 8th August 1919.—The following draft of rules which, in exercise of the powers conferred by clauses (i) and (t) of section 138 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 (Bengal Act III of 1885), the Governor in Council intends to make, in supersession of the rules contained in notification No. 2009T.M., dated the 9th November 1901 (published at pages 217-273 of Part IB of the Calcutta Gazette of the 4th December 1901), as subsequently amended, is published for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

2. The draft will be taken into consideration on or after the 13th October 1919, and any objection or suggestion received by the undersigned through district officers before that date will be duly considered.

DRAFT ACCOUNT RULES FOR UNION COMMITTEES.

Budget Estimate.

1. The Union Committee shall submit annually to the District Board for sanction and incorporation in its estimates, on or before such date as the District Board may appoint, an estimate in Form No. 1 of the probable receipts and expenditure of the Committee for the ensuing Bengali year, with an account of its actual receipts and expenditure for the past year.

Cash-book.

2. All receipts and payments of a Union Committee not having an account with the local treasury or sub-treasury shall be recorded in a cash-book in Form No. 2 on the same day that the money is received or paid, and, in the case of Union Committees having an account with the local treasury or sub-treasury, all receipts shall be recorded in a cash-book in Form No. 3 and promptly remitted to such treasury or sub-treasury, and payments shall be entered in the cash-book as soon as cheques are signed. The amount of cheques received from the District Board in payment of contributions from the District Fund shall be entered in the cash-book after encashment, but if the Union Committee has an account at the treasury or sub-treasury, the cheques shall be credited to the Union Committee by per contra debit to the District Fund and shall be included in the cash-book when the credits appear in the pass-book.

[NOTE.—The balance standing at the credit of the Union Fund shall either remain in the custody of the Chairman or be deposited in the name of the Union Committee in the Savings Bank of the nearest Post Office ; or in the case of Union Committees at headquarters of subdivisions, the Chairman may open an account in the local treasury or sub-treasury to which he shall credit the receipts of the Union Fund. In the last named case a pass-book shall be supplied to the Chairman, the Treasury Officer being directed to pass cheques issued by the Chairman.]

Assessment and Collection of Taxes.

3. For any tax imposed under section 118C of the Act, the following accounts shall be kept :—

A—Assessment register (Form No. 4).

B—Collection register (Form No. 5).

C—Books of receipt with counterfoils (Form No. 6).

D—Daily collection book (Form No. 7).

The assessment register shall be signed by all the members of the Union Committee present at the meeting at which the assessments are determined. The demand column shall be totalled to ascertain the total demand. Columns 1 and 3 of the collection register shall be filled in at the beginning of the year and column 2 as soon as the current year's assessments are determined.

4. The collecting member shall realize the taxes as they fall due by granting receipts in Form No. 6 and enter the amount at once with necessary details in the daily collection book, Form No. 7. The register of collections and the counterfoils of receipts shall be taken to the Chairman, with the collections, on the first day of every month and also on any day when the collecting member has Rs. 10 or more in hand, and shall be produced at any other time when the Chairman may so order. The collections shall be made over to the Chairman for credit to the Union Fund and his receipt taken in the daily collection book. From this book the collections shall be posted the next day into the collection register. The amount shall be entered in the column for the quarter in which, and not that for which, it is realized.

Rent of Pounds.

5. A register in Form No. 8 shall be maintained for watching recoveries of pound rents and accounting for them.

6. The lessees of pounds shall be required, at least 15 days before the period of the lease begins, to place his signature in column 9 against his name and to pay in advance one quarter of a year's rent.

7. The register shall be opened by bringing forward all arrears due from lessees whose leases have terminated and have not been renewed. The entries shall be filled in from the previous year's account and made serially, one below the other, in column 6 grouped according to the year for which the arrears are due. In the case of such expired leases columns 7 to 9 need not be filled in. The demands for current leases and the dates on which payments on account of them are due shall be entered in columns 7 and 8 respectively. Every entry in columns 6 and 7 shall be verified by the Chairman, who shall put his initials with date in column 10 against each entry.

8. All realizations and their dates shall be entered in columns 11 and 12 respectively and all sums so realised shall be credited direct to "pound receipts" in column 3 of the cash-book. The entries in column 11 shall be compared by the Chairman with the cash-book and he shall place his initials in column 15.

9. Pound rents shall be paid in cash to the Union Committee direct, and for every such payment a receipt in Form No. 9, duly signed by the Chairman, shall be granted to the lessee.

10. When a lease is cancelled for any reason and the pound re-sold or abolished, the demands up to date shall be worked out and compared with the collections up to date.

11 The remissions shall be sanctioned by the Union Committee at a meeting.

Payment of claims.

12. Every bill or other claim for payment from the Union Fund shall show full details of the charges, shall be signed by the persons to whom the money is actually due and shall, except in the case of advances paid under rule 13, bear a certificate that the work billed for has actually been completed. At the time of making payment in cash or of issuing a cheque, the Chairman of the Committee shall take a receipt, stamped, if necessary, from the payee, and endorse the bill with the words "paid Rs. only (Rupees) $\frac{\text{in cash}}{\text{by cheque No.}}$", the amounts being written in words as well as in figures. The endorsement shall be dated and signed by the Chairman and shall bear the number of the voucher as in the cash-book. Payments to illiterate persons shall be attested by a competent witness in addition to the paying officer.

Advances.

[NOTE.—Union Committee works may be carried out either by a contractor under the supervision of a member of the Union Committee or an officer of the District Board, or directly by a member of the Union Committee, provided that such member does not directly or indirectly participate in the profits of the work or is not concerned or does not participate in any contract connected with the work]

13. If any work is to be carried out by a member of a Union Committee or by a contractor under the supervision of a member of a Union Committee, advances may be paid, with the sanction of the Union Committee, either to such member or to the contractor. The person to whom an advance is paid shall keep proper accounts of the amount advanced, and shall submit an account duly supported by vouchers to the Union Committee within three months from the date of the advance. No fresh advances shall be paid until the previous advance is adjusted.

14. As soon as an advance is paid under rule 13 the Chairman shall enter it, as a payment, under the head "advances," on the payment side of the cash-book (Form No. 3 or 2 according as the Union Committee has an account with the local Treasury or not) and make the necessary entries in the payment side (columns 1, 2, 3 and 12 in Form No. 2, or 1, 2, 3 and 13 in Form No. 3, as the case may be). The payment orders shall be used as vouchers and numbered serially and the serial numbers entered in the payment side (column 3). The advance shall also be entered in columns 1 to 5 on the debit side of the Advance Register (Form No. 10), and for each person to whom advances are given a separate account shall be opened in the Register. Advances paid to the same person for more than one work shall be entered as separate entries both in the cash-book and in the Advance Register. When advances are recovered either in cash or by work bills, necessary entries shall be made in columns 1 to 5 on the credit side of the Advance Register. If the advance is recovered in cash, it shall be entered as "advance recovered" on the receipt side of the cash-book (Form No. 2 or 3). If however, the recovery is made by work-bill, the amount shall, in the first instance, be posted in the Adjustment Register (Form No. 11), not only in column 4, as a credit, but also under the appropriate head on the payment side (columns 6 to 10). The totals of the Adjustment Register for the month shall be posted under the appropriate heads of the cash book.

Quarterly Accounts.

15. As soon as possible after the close of each quarter on a day to be fixed by the District Board, the quarterly account of the Union Committee shall be closed and a consolidated account, showing the total receipts and payments during the period under the several heads of accounts with opening and closing balances, shall be prepared in a form similar to the cash-book, but omitting the first two columns of the receipt side and the first three of the payment side in case of Form No. 2, and columns 1, 2, 10 and 11 of the receipt side and columns 1 to 4 of the payment side in case of Form No. 3. This shall be account submitted the same day it is closed to the District Board direct after actual counting of the closing balance or comparison with the Treasury or Savings Bank pass-book. The vouchers should be forwarded with the account.

Abstract of Annual Expenditure.

16. An abstract of annual expenditure together with a statement of the charges for establishment (if any), shall be published by posting up a copy signed by the members of the Union Committee at the office of the Union Committee or in any neighbouring hât which is generally frequented by the villagers belonging to the Union.

17. The abstract of annual expenditure shall be prepared in Form No. 12 and published not later than one month after the close of the year to which it relates.

Audit of Accounts.

18. (1) The District Board shall check the accounts and vouchers of Union Committees before they are incorporated in the cash-book and accounts of the District Board. The vouchers should be checked and returned to the Union Committee within three days.

(2) At least once a year a complete audit of the Union Committee's account shall be carried out within the Union by the audit officer or such other officer as may be deputed by the Chairman of the District Board.

(3) The registers and accounts of the Union Committee shall also be produced when required for audit by the local auditors; but unless the audit is made within the union no member of the Union Committee shall be required to attend.

Register of Lands and public rights of way.

19. A proper record of all lands, including roads, lands on roadsides, sites of buildings, tanks, etc., in the possession of the Union Committee either as owner or controller shall be kept in Form No. 13. If any plot of land shown in the register is sold or otherwise transferred from the possession of the Union Committee, the entry for it shall be struck off and the facts in connection with the transfer or sale stated in the column for remarks under the initials of the Chairman. The register shall be annually examined by the Chairman and attested with his signature and date.

All public rights of way, by land or water, should be entered in this register. If a path over which the public has a right of way has not been formally acquired by the Government or a local authority, an entry shall be made in columns 7, 11 and 12. In every case the numbers of the plots in the most recent settlement or other authoritative maps shall be entered in column 12. Care should be taken to include all plots covered by the land to which the entry relates Jessore.

No. 3156M.—The 9th August 1919—The Commissioners of the Kotechandpur Municipality, in the district of Jessore, recommended—

(a) that a local area which is contiguous to that Municipality, and the boundaries of which are hereinafter described, should be included within the said Municipality, and

(b) that the northern boundary of the Municipality should be revised so as to remove certain anomalies in its description.

The Governor in Council is accordingly pleased, in exercise of the powers conferred by clause (c) of section 9 of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884 (Bengal Act III of 1884), to declare his intention to give effect to the said recommendations (a) and (b).

2. The boundaries of the area to be included within the Municipality are as follows :—

North and West—A line joining a point on the eastern bank of the Baor at a distance of 694 feet on the south from the trijunction point of Baluhar, Bhawanipur, and the Baor to a point on the western side of the Baor at a distance of 559 feet from its southern extremity and thence Ramchandrapur.

South and East—Bhawanipur situated in ward No. II of the Municipality.

3. The boundaries of the Kotechandpur Municipality after the inclusion and removal of the anomalies on the northern boundary will be as follows :—

North—Baluhar, Parla, thence a line joining the meeting of the Suti road with the southern boundary of Parla to the trijunction point of Rudrapur, Bazebamandaha and Kotechandpur, thence along the northern boundary of Bazebamandaha to the trijunction point of Bazebamandaha, Bara Bamandaha and Rudrapur (2nd portion of Kotechandpur), thence to the trijunction point of Rudrapur, Barabamandaha and Balarampur and thence Balarampur and part of Jagadispur.

East—Elangi, Rangiarpota and Jagadispur.

South—Jagannathpur and thence the junction of the Baramasiya khal with the Bhairab river accross to the right bank of the Bhairab river and along with the right bank northwards, eastwards and southwards to the boundary of Pashpatila and thence by Pashpatila and Balabaria.

West—Baluhar, Jalkar Baor of Ramchandrapur from the trijunction point of Baluhar, Bhawanipur and Jalkar Baor up to 694 feet on the eastern bank of the Baor and thence across to a point on the western side of the Jalkar Baor at a distance of 559 feet from its southern extremity and thence along the western side of the Baor, Kagmari and Bazrapur.

4. Any rate-payer of the said Municipality or any inhabitant of the said local area who objects to the proposed revision should submit his objection in writing through the District Magistrate and the Divisional Commissioner to the undersigned before the 25th September 1919.

CALCUTTA, the 8th August 1919.

CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY.

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule 12 of the revised rules for the recruitment of the Provincial Civil Service, the Syndicate of the Calcutta University will proceed to nominate four graduates of high character and of great academical distinction, who are natives of Bengal or have definitely settled in it. From amongst these or from amongst graduates previously nominated by the Syndicate and who have not passed the age of 25 years, the Governor in Council will, after enquiry, select two persons to be Probationary Deputy Magistrates.

The indispensable qualifications for a candidate for appointment by recruitment are (1) that he is a natural-born subject of His Majesty or of a Native State, (2) that he will not be under 20 or over 25 years of age on the 31st of December 1919, (3) that he is of good character, (4) that he is a graduate, and (5) that he is of sound health, good physique and active habits, and free from organic defect or bodily infirmity.

Applications for nomination by the Syndicate are hereby invited from graduates of the University of Calcutta, who have passed the B. A. or B. Sc. Examination with Honours, or the M. A. or M. Sc. Examination or any other higher examination in the Faculties of Arts, Science or Law. Such applications are to reach the University on or before the 31st August 1919.

Each application must contain information on the following points and must be accompanied by certificates mentioned below:—

(1) Name of candidate and address in full.
(2) Father's name, profession or occupation, and address in full.
(3) Religion and caste or race.
(4) Date of birth, day and month to be given.
(5) The date of passing the Entrance or Matriculation Examination and the candidate's subsequent academical career.
(6) Educational qualifications and places of education during the preceding four years with dates. Certificates of moral character from the Principal and Professors of the Institution in which the candidate last studied for not less than one year to be submitted. A certificate showing that the candidate possesses a thorough knowledge of Bengali and has passed some recognised examination in the subject should also be submitted.
(7) A medical certificate showing that the candidate is of sound health, good physique and active habits and that he is free from any organic defect or bodily infirmity.

J. C. GHOSH, Registrar.

SENATE HOUSE, the 5th August 1919.

NOTICE.

THE Senate will proceed in the month of August 1920, to the election of a Tagore Professor of Law for a term of one year, to commence on the 1st of August 1921.

The salary of the Professorship is Rs. 9,000 per annum, and the Professor will be expected to deliver a course of not less than twelve lectures on one of the following subjects:—

(i) The History of Hindu Law in the Vedic Age and in Post Vedic times down to the Institutes of Manu.
(ii) A Critical, Historical and Comparative Survey of the System of Administration of Justice in Muslim Law.
(iii) Modern Theories of Jurisprudence.

The salary of the Professor will be paid in twelve equal monthly instalments, the first instalment to be paid on the first day of the month following that in which the first lecture is delivered.

Candidates for the Professorship are requested to forward their applications to the Registrar on or before the 1st May 1920, stating on which of the abovenamed three subjects they are prepared to lecture. Each candidate will forward with his application one hundred copies of a brief Synopsis of his proposed lectures; and, if he so pleases, the same number of copies of his Introductory Lecture.

The Professor will, not later than the month of August following his election, forward to the Registrar a complete copy (manuscript or type-written) of the lectures which he proposes to deliver. The copy will be forthwith referred to a Committee of the Faculty of Law, consisting of not more than three members to be chosen by the Faculty, who will examine the same, and, before the expiry of two months from the date of the submission of the copy by the Professor to the Registrar, report to the Faculty whether the work is complete and ready for the press. If, upon such report, the Faculty are satisfied that the work is complete, the Professor will commence to deliver his lectures within three months from the date of the resolution of the Faculty and shall complete the delivery thereof in another three months. The copy of the lectures delivered will remain in the custody of the Registrar and shall be sent to press as soon as practicable after delivery thereof.

If the Professor fails to submit the copy of the lectures, or if the copy submitted be found, on examination, to be incomplete and not ready for the press, the matter will be referred to the Faculty of Law, upon whose recommendation the Senate may either extend the time or cancel the appointment.

J. C. GHOSH, Registrar.

SENATE HOUSE, the 6th August 1919.

NOTIFICATION.

TEST EXAMINATION OF PRIVATE CANDIDATES FOR MATRICULATION EXAMINATION, 1920.

A Test Examination of private students, who have not attended any school, recognised or unrecognised, for at least one year previous to the ensuing examination, will be held at the office of the Inspector of Schools, Presidency Division, Calcutta, from Monday, the 1st December 1919. Such candidates only as reside in any of the districts of the Presidency Division, including Calcutta, will be admitted to the examination. The term "private student" includes schoolmasters.

2. Private candidates are students who have not attended any school for at least one year previous to the Matriculation Examination. They should produce proof that they have not attended any school for such period. They should also produce certificates of conduct and progress in studies from the authorities of the last school where they read and also a certificate from other reliable authorities regarding conduct and progress in studies after leaving school. The transfer certificates granted to them by the authorities of the schools in which they studied last or the Registrar's receipt for the fee paid in the case of those candidates who previously appeared at the Entrance or the Matriculation Examination must be submitted in original along with the application for permission to appear at the Test Examination. A statement of the antecedents of the candidate should accompany his application. He should state whether he read in any unrecognised school, and if so, in what school and in what year. A student who failed to pass the annual examination for promotion to the first class at the end of the year 1918 and then left school will, in no circumstances, be allowed to appear at the Matriculation Examination of 1920.

3. Bonâ-fide teachers employed in any of the schools in the Presidency Division may be admitted to the examination; they must produce certificates of service and character from their employers or from the Deputy Inspector of Schools of the district concerned.

4. No one shall be admitted to the Matriculation Examination unless he completes the age of sixteen years on the first day of the month in which the Matriculation Examination is held.

5. Each candidate should submit to the Inspector of Schools, Presidency Division, and not to the undersigned personally, not later than the 1st

November 1919, his application for admission to the Test Examination, with the following particulars :—

(1) age, (2) residence, (3) father's name, (4) whether he appeared at any previous Entrance or Matriculation Examination, (5) second language besides English, (6) vernacular language, and (7) which two of the following optional subjects he has taken up :—

(a) Additional Mathematics.
(b) Additional paper in the classical language.
(c) History.
(d) Geography.
(e) Elementary Mechanics.

6. The admission-fee for the examination is Rs. 6 for each candidate, and is to be remitted with the application on or before the prescribed date, after which a fine of Rs. 2 is to be imposed for each week's delay. In no circumstances will the admission-fee be refunded.

7. No private student will be admitted to the Test Examination unless he is satisfactorily identified.

8. Candidates who are sent up by this office must appear at the Calcutta Examination centre.

9. Those who reside at a distance from Calcutta may, with special permission, present themselves at the Test Examination held by the headmaster of the nearest zilla or Government high school within the Presidency Division on condition that they appear at the centre selected by the candidates from that institution. The headmasters of such schools are hereby authorized to sign the applications, which must afterwards be countersigned by the undersigned. The fees and fines paid by these candidates as per paragraph 6 above should be utilized in meeting the cost of the examination.

10. The date of the Matriculation Examination in 1920 will be notified hereafter.

11. Applications and fees for admission to the examination must reach the office of the Registrar on or before the date to be fixed by the University.

Intermediate and B. A. Examinations in 1920.

Deputy Inspectors, Sub-Inspectors and bonâ-fide teachers of English schools in the Presidency Division, who have been employed as such for at least three years preceding the examination, will be admitted to the above examinations on production of certificates of character and length of service (with dates) from their employers. Laboratory assistants and demonstrators and librarians of affiliated colleges will be treated as teachers. Their applications must reach this office on or before the 4th December 1919.

1. In accordance with section 9, Chapter XV, of the revised Regulations dealing with the registration of University students, all candidates who intend to appear at any of the ensuing examinations of the University of Calcutta otherwise than as students of affiliated institutions, and who have applied for or have obtained the special permission of the Senate for the purpose, are required to apply to the Registrar of the Calcutta University for the registration of their names as University students. No person will be deemed a "University student" unless and until his name has been duly registered, and none but "University students will be eligible for admission to any University examination other than the Matriculation. A registration fee of Rs. 2 must accompany every application.

2. Candidates for the B.A. Examination must send to the Inspector of Schools, Presidency Division, and not to the undersigned personally, their F.A., I.A., or I.Sc. certificates, and candidates for the Intermediate Examination their Entrance or Matriculation certificates, together with a letter, in original, from the Senate of the Calcutta University, permitting them to appear at the examination.

3. Candidates should carefully read the printed form of application and supply all the information required by the University, including the Registrar's receipt in the case of those schoolmasters who were admitted to a previous examination of the same class.

4. The dates of the Intermediate and B. A. Examinations in 1920 will be notified hereafter.

5. Applications, with the countersignature of the undersigned and fees for admission to the above examinations, must reach the office of the Registrar on or before the dates to be fixed by the University, and must be sent to that office by the candidates direct.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

Published in FOUR SERIES, viz.,

CALCUTTA, MADRAS, BOMBAY AND ALLAHABAD.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor-General in Council, are printed in monthly Parts, which are issued, as soon as possible, after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

The Reports comprise four Series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court.

The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt : and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

Persons desiring to subscribe for or purchase the Reports should apply to—the Officer in Charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt, Calcutta, or the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras, or the Superintendent, Government Central Press, Bombay, or the Curator of Government Books, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, Allahabad.

REPORT ON FAMINE IN THE DISTRICT OF BANKURA FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 2ND AUGUST 1919.

DURING the week the rainfall was general and sufficient. Agricultural prospects are good. Sixty-two relief works were open during the week. The number of persons relieved on works was 6,346. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief was 20,445, viz., 15,297 on cash doles in 128 unions, 3,683 on paddy-husking advances, 885 weavers and 580 better class poor. The total number of persons relieved was 26,791. The increase in the number of persons on relief works was due to a partial cessation of field operations. The number of persons relieved on private works was 600. The charitable societies relieved 631 persons on weekly doles and 1,450 on daily doles and by cooked food. The position in regard to crime was unchanged. The physical condition of workers and public health are generally good. Sporadic cases of influenza are reported. Cloth is being distributed to destitutes. The relief measures are adequate. The price of common rice varies from 5 to 5½ seers per rupee. Burma rice is being sold.

RESOLUTION REGARDING PEACE CELEBRATIONS.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

POLITICAL DEPARTMENT.

Political Branch.

DACCA, THE 11TH AUGUST 1919.

RESOLUTION—No. 2028P.D.

IN view of the announcement made by the Government of India that the main peace celebrations will be held in India in the cold weather, the Governor in Council has decided to appoint a small Committee to consider the form which the celebrations should take in Calcutta and to organise suitable arrangements. The leading Calcutta Associations which were consulted in the matter have nominated their representatives and the Governor in Council is now pleased to appoint the following gentlemen to be members of the Committee :—

(1) Major E. D. Raymond, D.S.O., Deputy Assistant Adjutant and Quartermaster-General, representing the General Officer Commanding the Presidency Brigade.
(2) The Hon'ble Mr. W. E. Crum, O.B.E., representing the Bengal Chamber of Commerce.
(3) The Master of the Calcutta Trades Association.
(4) Maharaja Sir Pradyot Kumar Tagore Bahadur, KT., representing the British Indian Association.
(5) The Hon'ble Maharaja Sir Manindra Chandra Nandi, K.C.I.E., representing the Bengal Landholders' Association.
(6) Mr. G. H. C. Ariff. representing the Indian Muslim Association.
(7) Khan Bahadur Maulvi Abdus Salam, representing the Central National Muhammadan Association.
(8) The Hon'ble Raja Reshee Case Law, C.I.E., representing the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce.
(9) Babu Keshoram Poddar, representing the Marwari Association.
(10) Dr. S. K. Mullick, M.D., C.B.E., representing the Calcutta Corporation.
(11) Mr. N. C. Sircar, representing the Indian Association.
(12) The Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta.
(13) The Commissioner of Police, Calcutta.
(14) The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.
(15) The Collector of Calcutta.

3. The Chairman of the Calcutta Corporation will convene a preliminary meeting of the Committee at an early date for the purpose of electing a President and executive officers and arranging the general lines of action. The Committee are authorised to co-opt any additional members whose services would be useful, and it is open to them to act either as a whole or through sub-committees. It is the desire of Government to give the Committee a free hand in every respect in organising celebrations worthy of Calcutta, but the Governor in Council will be glad to give all the assistance in his power.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Chairman of the Calcutta Corporation for information and necessary action.

Ordered also that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to each member of the Committee for information and guidance.

Ordered also that a copy be published in the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

By order of the Governor in Council,

J. H. KERR,
Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIRE BRIGADE ACT, I OF 1893.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 311zM.—The 8th August 1919.—The following is published for general information, under section 41 of the Licensed Warehouse and Fire Brigade Act, 1893 (Bengal Act 1 of 1893).

S. W. GOODE,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. $\frac{93M.}{1-8}$, dated Chinsura, the 14th July 1919.

Memo. by—J. N. GUPTA, ESQ., M.B.E., I.C.S., Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

COPY, with copies of the enclosures submitted to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department, Municipal Branch.

No. $\frac{1287G.}{XXIV-17}$, dated Howrah, the 2nd July 1919.

Memo. by—The Magistrate of Howrah.

COPY with the copies of the enclosures forwarded to the Commissioner of the Burdwan Division for information.

No. 778G., dated Howrah, the 20th June 1919.

From—THE HON'BLE BABU MAHENDRA NATH RAY, M.A., B.L., C.I.E., Chairman of the Howrah Municipality,

To—The Magistrate of Howrah.

I HAVE the honour to submit herewith the statements showing the warehouses licensed under the Fire Brigade Act, I of 1893, and receipts and disbursements on account of the same for the year 1918-19.

The collection of fees works out to be 90 per cent. of the current demand and 55 per cent. of the arrear demand, as against 98 per cent. of the current demand and 53 per cent. of the arrear demand reported for the year 1917-18.

The demand for the year 1918-19 amounts to Rs. 20,739 and the collection amounts to Rs 18,753, as against the demand of Rs 18,301 and the collection of Rs. 17,895 for the year 1917-18.

This two-fold increase in the demand and collection as aforesaid necessitated no revision of the scale of fees levied under section 10 of the Act.

The direction contained in the first proviso to section 10 of the Act was followed.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First Forecast of the Cotton Crops of Bengal, 1919-20.

(Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1916-17, the area under the cotton crops in Bengal has represented some 0·3 per cent. of the total area under cotton in India.)

THERE are two crops—early and late. The "early" crop is chiefly grown in the Chittagong Hill Tracts and in the State of Hill Tippera and to a small extent in other districts. The "late" crop is grown in Bankura and Midnapore.

Character of the Season.—Owing to insufficient rain at sowing time, the weather was not generally favourable. Subsequent rainfall, however, being generally moderate has improved the prospects of the crop and the present condition, on the whole, is reported to be good.

Area Sown.—The area sown with early cotton is reported to be 70,272 acres this year, against 70,097 acres reported in the corresponding forecast of last year.

Of the late crop, 303 acres are reported to have been sown up to date against 700 acres in the corresponding forecast of last year.

Offg. Director of Agriculture, Bengal.
